REBELLION CRUMBLES.

Gen. Orozco on His Last Legs.

Mexican Insurrection Seems to Be Dying Slowly of Atrophy.

Wherefore the Hatred of the American Citizens and the Consuls.

De la Barra, Washington Believes, Will be Madero's Successor.

BY SUMNER CURTIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Mexican situation has suffered another relapse. President Taft and the State Department were deeply concerned today over the latest reports from rebel territory south of the border, particularly those relating to Gen. Orozco's attitude toward Americans. It was admitted that conditions appear to be very bad, but this did not signify that the policy with respect to intervention has undergone a change as a result of recent developments. The President still feels that his only duty is to enforce the neutrality laws, and that intervention on the part of the United States will not be necessary.

As an offset to the telegraphic reports regarding the rebel attitude toward Americans, and especially American consular officials, the administration received word today from a person who is believed to be intimately acquainted with the whole Mexican situation, that Gen. Orozco is on his last legs. There is a suspicion that the peevishness exhibited by the rebel chieftain in his treatment of citizens and representatives of this country may be due in some measure to the fact that things are not looking the brightest for his success.

From the same source the administration heard the opinion that Madero will survive the present rebellion and finally establish himself in the good graces of his people and carry out his policies. This statement, however, disagrees with information that has come from other quarters. Both sides, as is well known, have been sending emissaries to Washington and New York to win sympathy for the respective parties, and some of the members of the administration do not take the optimistic view that Madero is destined to remain at the head of the Mexican government.

Madero, according to some who are professedly his friends and well-wishers, is an eighteenth century idealist, not at all fitted by temperament and force of character to deal with affairs as is demanded. Much of the talk that has reached here is that events are likely to work around to the selection of Senor de la Barra, who formerly was Ambassador to the United States, as Chief Executive. There are reasons to suppose that strong influences are working to this end and it is understood here that the support given to Orozco in Chihuahua—especially financial support—has been for the purpose of bringing De la Barra to the Presidency.

Naturally, this is not likely to please Gen. Orozco, who, in the light of all that goes to make revolutions in Latin-American countries, undoubtedly wants to be the head of the government. It would cause no surprise here, however, if De la Barra eventually was placed in the President's chair. Those who desire this—or many of them—heartily sympathize with Madero, but do not believe he is the man who can maintain the peace that is essential to the restoration of commercial prosperity in Mexico.

NO RECOGNITION OF THE REBELS.

Breaks Through.

DIKES ARE CRUMBLING

Vast Area Flooded in Louisiana.

Mississippi River Roaring Through Breach Thousand Feet Wide.

Stricken District Inhabited by Hundred Thousand, Who Require Aid.

President Is Appealed to for Relief by Congressman Ransdell.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VICKSBURG (Miss.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The worst flood in the history of North Louisiana is rushing through the Salem levee crevasse and ruination to property and loss of cattle is reported from everywhere. So far no human life has been lost, but many people are reported on house-tops and on the levees, awaiting assistance.

The United States government boat Arthur Hider will leave here at midnight, on board of which Congressman Joseph E. Ransdell, of North Louisiana, and Capt. E. C. Tellinger will take a relief party. The flood has so far rushed through North Louisiana to a point near Henderson Landing, twenty-odd miles from where the break occurred, and practically all of the Tensas Basin will be flooded.

John M. Parker was in the city today and stated that all of his fine stock had been killed when the first break occurred Friday night. There were 1000 head of fine cattle, hogs and mules, and they had been penned right behind the levee, where it was deemed to be safe.

BREACH IS ENORMOUS.

Maj. J. A. Woodruff, corps of engineers of the third district, arrived there this afternoon from the crevasse and reported it 300 yards wide and rapidly caving on both sides. He says that thousands of people are homeless and stricken by the floods. The refugees are arriving here in small boats, and the steamer Alice Miller is expected in tonight with a large number of people from the neighborhood of the crevasse. The levee which broke was twenty-two feet high and was considered to be in perfectly safe condition.

Upon his arrival here today on a special train from New Orleans, Congressman Ransdell, after a long distance phone conversation with President McClellan, wired the following message to President Taft:

ASKS PRESIDENT FOR AID.

"VICKSBURG (Miss.) April 13.—To President Taft, White House, Washington: Disastrous breaks occurred yesterday in the levee south of Arkansas City, Ark., and also about fourteen miles south of Lake Providence, Louisiana. These breaks will effect the greater portion of Desha and Chicot counties, Ark., East Carroll, Madison, Tensas, and Concordia parishes, Louisiana and also six other parishes in the Tensas Basin levee district of Louisiana.

"Population of this flooded district is considerably over 100,000, more than three-quarters of whom are negroes, who will be penniless and suffering within a short time unless relief is given. The whites will do everything in their power, but owing to the stoppage of trains and limited means, with their heavy losses occurring to them in live stock and grain, very heavy losses, they will be unable to give the necessary assistance.

"Secretary McClellan of the fifth Louisiana levee district wired the Secretary of War this morning asking for immediate aid for twenty or twenty-five thousand people. I confirm this telegram, although I think that this estimate is too small. In my judgment there will be thirty thousand who must have food and shelter, or who will suffer within a few days. So far I have not heard of any loss of life. I believe it is imperative that the War Department have a representative and base of supplies in this city to act promptly in distributing food and relief. I understand that the representative at Memphis has been wired too, and doubtless will act promptly, but that city is too far off for quick action. Sincerely hope you will do everything possible and immediately.

[Signed] "JOS. E. RANSDELL."

FATHER OF WATERS TAKING ITS TIME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GREENVILLE (Miss.) April 13.—The Mississippi is taking its tithe in Southern Arkansas and Northern Louisiana today. The flood is pouring through two gaps in the levees—at Panther Forest, Ark., and near Roosevelt, La., over fertile flatlands in the Louisiana-Arkansas delta. Before nightfall it is estimated a thousand square miles in East Carrol and Madison parishes, Louisiana, and Chicot and Desha counties, Arkansas, will be flooded. In the meantime the river

BEDLAM REIGNS IN WHEAT PIT.

PANIC STARTS WHEN PRICES TAKE UPWARD SHOOT.

Traders All But Tear Clothing from Each Other in Frantic Efforts to Get in Game—Figures Advance Ten Cents a Bushel on Crop of July.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Panic prevailed in the wheat pit at the Chicago Board of Trade today, the bedlam caused by startling advances in price being the greatest that the traders have known since the "Green bull" period. Everyone rushed to the buying side and all in the trade were deluged with orders that many of them could not possibly be executed. During the first hour of trading May wheat soared from $1.06 to $1.10. July wheat went to 1.06 1-8 and September reached $1.05.

Traders frantically yelled and all but tore the clothes off each other's backs in their desperate efforts to get into the game. At times the confusion was so extreme that prices varied as much as 1 cent per bushel in different parts of the pit. The cause of the scare is the daily receipt of the bad crop reports from nearly every county in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana.

The market had been advancing all through the week and the situation was admitted to be so panicky that there was a great rush to buy. Commission firms received many orders to purchase from customers in sections whose crop news is bad and the character of the messages made it appear as if it were a crop calamity. Last Monday, July wheat sold at 96¼ cents, and September at 95⅞ cents. This advance of nearly 10 cents per bushel in new crop months is entirely based on the damage report over the big wheat States east of the Mississippi River, chiefly Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Late Friday a large delegation of country millers reached Chicago. Some of them went at once to big cash wheat owners here and placed orders for milling wheat, claiming that the crop in the home territory was entirely gone. Nearly all visiting millers conceded that the situation is one not witnessed before in a lifetime. Conservative millers and grain handlers from a hundred different counties covering the soft wheat States east of the rivers, put themselves on record as predicting no more than a return of seed put in the ground last fall.

The fact that flattering reports came from many sections ten days ago is explained by the fact that no warm weather at that time had developed an inability of the plant to grow because the roots were dead.

PLEADS GUILTY TO BURGLARY.

STOCKTON, April 13.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Henry Lang, a boilermaker, charged with burglary, this morning pleaded guilty before Judge C. W. Norton, and was sentenced to serve two years at San Quentin Prison. Lang comes of a good family and as it was his first offense, the District Attorney recommended leniency.

GREAT DAMAGE WROUGHT BY CYCLONES IN THE EAST.

Missouri Towns Reported to Have Been Destroyed by Terrific Blasts from April Skies—Furious Winds in Denver and Other Parts of Colorado Play Havoc With Wires.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BONNE TERRE (Mo.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Between 10 and 11 o'clock tonight, Delassus, in the South End of St. Francois county, was visited by a cyclone and the town was completely destroyed.

The Iron Mountain freight house was blown away and the passenger depot was badly damaged.

Very heavy rainfall followed the storm, washing out the St. Louis, Iron Mountain Railroad tracks for some distance, tying up the traffic on the Belmont branch of that road until the track can be cleared and repaired. A number of persons were injured by falling timbers, but the number of fatalities has not been learned.

All wires are down in the path of the storm which moved northward from Delassus in the direction of Farmington, the county seat of St. Francois county and it is feared great damage has been done at that point.

Farmington is cut off from all wire communication since the cyclone leveled the lines, completely stopping both telegraph and telephone service.

One year ago today, a tornado visited Valles Mines and Flat River in St. Francois county. Flat River is ten miles north of Delassus and eight miles west of Farmington.

NEGRO CEMETERY IS DESTROYED BY RIVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) April 13.—Reports of drownings in Leatherwood, Floyd county, in the Kentucky river flood, were disproved today by the discovery that the bodies recovered from the river had been washed out of a negro cemetery.

Some were caught by log men several miles from the cemetery which virtually has been swept away.

MACON COUNTY IN PATH OF STORM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BROOKFIELD (Mo.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All communication is cut off from New Cambria, twenty miles east of this place, because of a cyclone that visited that part of Macon county late this afternoon.

In the first few minutes of the storm reports over the wire stated that the Burlington railroad depot was torn down, the principal hotel unroofed, a bank building damaged and several private houses blown down.

No fatalities were reported, but it is not known how much damage was done, because both telephone and telegraph wires were torn down.

A locomotive with linemen to repair the telegraph wires was dispatched from here.

At Bucklin, ten miles west of New Cambria, a cloudburst flooded the streets with six inches of rain in a very short space of time, but no damage is reported.

Railroad men just arrived from New Cambria say the storm was more widespread than at first reported, two churches being destroyed. Dr. Gray was badly injured when his horse took fright at the ruins and ran away.

MORGAN NEARLY MOBBED.

Financier Forced to Fight Through Crowd That Thought He Had Bought Stolen "Mona Lisa."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FLORENCE (Italy) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] J. Pierpont Morgan was forced to fight his way out of Florence tonight. The American financier and his sister, Mrs. Mary Lyman Burnsat, were mobbed by hundreds of angry Florentines at the railway station when they sought to leave, and not until Mr. Morgan had forced a passage through the crowd by striking about him with his heavy cane, were they able to get to their train. The street crowd believed that a picture bought here by Morgan might be the famous "Mona Lisa," stolen from the Paris Louvre some time ago.

For several days secret service men have been dogging Morgan, prompted by newspaper articles which declared that the American was bargaining with secret emissaries for the famous "La Joconde." The Florence papers had printed bitter attacks upon "Rich Americans who make art mercenary." The volatile Florentines, aroused by these attacks, determined that if the famous painting was in Florence it should not be taken away by Morgan.

Senator La Follette Says Former President Unloads Burden of His Own Delinquency on Taft.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PENDLETON (Or.) April 13.—In his speech tonight Mr. La Follette declared that Roosevelt had ignored his own pledge of tariff revision as the national election approached, unloading the whole burden on President Taft. "In the light of Roosevelt's present appearance as a candidate opposing Taft," said Mr. La Follette, "I am almost inclined to believe that it was purposely done to embarrass Taft later."

"At no time since our fathers achieved independence," he asserted, "has there been a power that would put to the supreme test the courage, the persistency and the spirit of self-sacrifice stronger than that which now assails our liberties. No government is free when its industrial and commercial enterprises are in bondage."

STATE IS DIVIDED.

Taft and Roosevelt Split Delegation.

Pennsylvania Primaries Show Result of Bitter Republican Fight.

Third-Termer Will Control State Convention and Get Delegates-at-Large.

Wilson Makes a Clean Sweep Gathering Entire Sixty-four Votes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sunday, April 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Latest returns from the State primaries held yesterday for the election of delegates to the Republican and Democratic national and the State conventions, indicate that Taft and Roosevelt will divide the sixty-four delegates about evenly and that Gov. Woodrow Wilson swept the State, gathering in the entire sixty-four delegates.

Indications were further that the Roosevelt men had won a majority of the delegates to the State convention, which means that the twelve delegates-at-large to be chosen by the State convention will be for Roosevelt. It would appear, therefore, from reports received at 1 o'clock this morning that Mr. Roosevelt will have a majority of the State's seventy-six delegates, apparently thirty-two of the sixty-four district delegates and the twelve at large, making forty-four in all. These figures may be materially changed, but at the present time they appear to be as near accurate as they can be.

RIVAL CLAIMS.

The Roosevelt men are making claims of a victory almost equal to that in Illinois last Tuesday. The Taft managers say that the early reports are very incomplete and that the President made a much better run than is indicated, and further that he will have a majority of the delegates. They were, however, not in high spirits, and it was evident that they were worried that the complete returns would show a large majority for Roosevelt. Such a development would, naturally, be discouraging to the managers of the Republican party.

At half past 12 o'clock this morning the managers at the Roosevelt headquarters stated that their information was that there had been another Roosevelt victory. They asserted that Roosevelt had carried all of the State with the exception of part of Philadelphia, and they added further that the President would have but eight of the sixty-four delegates. They stated further that of the 374 delegates to the State convention Roosevelt would have at least 300.

IN PHILADELPHIA.

Managers of the Taft movement declared that the President had carried at least three of the Philadelphia districts. It was expected that a statement would be issued by the Taft managers who were in telephone communication with various sections of the State.

The Philadelphia Inquirer made the declaration early this morning that with the exception of Lancaster county, the State looked bad for the President. In Philadelphia the President, from the best information possible, made a splendid run in at least four of the districts. There are six districts in the city, and four of them, it is said, are certain to be for Taft. In two of them, it is said, he ran three to one ahead of Roosevelt. Two of the Philadelphia districts are in doubt, but it is probable Roosevelt has secured the delegates.

Some of the best-informed observers of the situation this morning say that the sixty-four delegates will be about evenly divided. Others, with no interest in the situation one way or another, assert that Roosevelt will have at least forty of the sixty-four delegates, and will have complete control of the State convention, which, with the twelve delegates-at-large, would bring his total in the State to fifty-two.

FROM OUTLYING SECTIONS.

Reports from outlying sections caused grave disquietude in the camps of the Taft managers. They had expected that several of the districts embracing the anthracite regions and some of the industrial centers would elect Roosevelt delegates, but they did not believe there would be anything approaching a Roosevelt "clean-up" of the Illinois variety.

In Allegheny county (Pittsburgh) Roosevelt delegates were elected in the four districts. This, however, had been expected. A strong anti-Taft campaign had been carried on in that section of the State and the Taft men had practically conceded the districts to Roosevelt.

In some of the agricultural and mining districts Roosevelt ran three to one ahead of the President. In the Tenth District, which takes in Scranton and all of Lackawanna county, a strictly mining and manufacturing center, Roosevelt ran three to one ahead. In Luzerne county he

JAMES J. HILL IS TO RETIRE.

Empire Builder Will Leave Great Northern Board.

His Place as Chairman Will Be Taken by His Son.

Last of Railroad Kings Is Feeling Long Strain.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to reports emanating today from what are regarded as reliable sources, James J. Hill, "empire builder" and last of the "railroad kings" of America, will retire May 1 as chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railway.

His place as chairman of the board, will, it is understood, be taken by his son, Louis W. Hill, at present president of the Great Northern line.

Carl R. Gray, president of the Hill lines in Oregon, will succeed Louis W. Hill, it is said, as president of the Great Northern.

STRAIN KEENLY FELT.

James J. Hill passed through Chicago Friday on his way to St. Paul, and at that time gave no intimation to railroad officials with whom he conferred that he intended to retire.

It has been known for a long time, however, that Mr. Hill has keenly felt in later years the strain placed on him as head of the Great Northern properties, and has been inclined to relinquish his arduous duties as soon as suitable arrangements could be made.

His son, Louis W. Hill, would, in the opinion of many railroad officials, be a capable successor.

When asked regarding the report today, James J. Hill refused to confirm or deny the rumor.

"I have no answer to make," said Mr. Hill. When pressed for a further statement, Mr. Hill added: "They can start all of the rumors of this kind they like. I have no time to run them down."

Several weeks ago it was said that Louis W. Hill would relinquish the office of president of the Great Northern and that Mr. Gray probably would be his successor. The younger Hill denied soon afterward that he was contemplating a withdrawal from active railroad work.

There were a number of railroad officials who construed the denial at the time as meaning that, while the younger Hill would not retire from active railroad work, he would give up his duties as president of the Great Northern line.

WILL KEEP UP INTEREST.

It is understood that if the elder Hill retires he will continue to take an active interest in the properties he has built up as a member of the board of directors.

The recent decision of the United States steel corporation to relinquish its lease on the Hill ore properties in the Northwest also opens a field for conjecture concerning Mr. Hill's future activities.

James J., or "Jim" Hill, as he is known to every railroad official in the country, is regarded as one of the greatest railroad builders and railroad officials of all time. He long has been conceded to be a master of every detail, not only of the management of railroads themselves, but of almost every conceivable angle of industry and agriculture by the fostering of which a railroad thrives.

MURDER STILL MYSTIFIES.

Police Unable to Account for Death of Manufacturer Whose Body Was Found in Massachusetts.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LYNN (Mass.) April 13.—The murderer of George E. Marsh, the wealthy soap manufacturer, whose body, containing four bullets, was found yesterday on the West Lynn marsh, remained a mystery today. Considerable attention was given the story told by Amos E. Porter, crossing tender at the West Lynn station of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad.

Porter said that he saw a touring car come down the boulevard yesterday morning, stop near the place where the body was found, and, after remaining there a few minutes, continued on its way.

Some faith also was placed by police officials in the story told them by Harold E. Cummings, a young neighbor of the murdered man, who said he saw Mr. Marsh about 6 o'clock Thursday night, riding in a buggy with a woman.

BODY LIES IN STATE.

Funeral of the Late Gen. Grant Will Wait Until Arrival of His Daughter From Russia.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 13.—The body of Maj.-Gen. Frederick Dent Grant will lie for ten days in the chapel of Cornelius the Centurion in Governor's Island, where, for the last few years Gen. Grant had made his headquarters as commander of the department of the east. It was planned to remove the body there today. The funeral will be delayed ten or twelve days until the arrival of the Princess Cantacuzene-Speransky from Russia. In the meantime the body will lie in State under military guard.

It was announced that Gen. Grant would be buried in West Point. Military funeral services will be held here and by the grave.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

After May 1 The Times Business Office, Advertising and Subscription Departments and Information Bureau will be located at 617-619 South Spring street, one block south of the present quarters.

The removal will be accomplished without interruption to business and, we trust, without inconvenience to our patrons.

REBELLION CRUMBLES.

pathy or recognition. Interference by the rebels with official mail of United States Consuls, and the summary execution of Thomas Fountain, an American gunner, in defiance of a protest from this country, have caused a feeling of aggravation.

Though the United States is practically powerless at present to compel more courtesy from the rebels, it is felt that a heavy reckoning is awaiting some of the insurrecto leaders.

It is the official view in Washington that if the rebels, made desperate by their failure to obtain supplies necessary to a successful campaign, are trying to force intervention in Mexico, their deliberate intentions are doomed to failure.

As notice has been served on Americans to keep out of harm's way in Mexico, it is argued that the administration cannot be held accountable for evil results following a disregard of President Taft's warning.

Military leaders in Mexico, Federal or rebel, who, in violation of international rules of war, deliberately bring about the execution of a prisoner of war, are considered guilty of murder under international law. If a rebel leader, having caused the death of an American, comes within the jurisdiction of the United States he is certain to be arrested and turned over to the Mexican government with the expectation that he would be tried on the charge of murder.

The rebels seem to have confined their efforts recently to harassing railroad trains, killing officials and delaying traffic. They held up a train on the Tehuantepec Railroad near Santa Lucretia yesterday and demanded arms, and below Juchitan, on the Pan-American Railroad, traffic again was interrupted.

Zachariah Farmer, the United States railroad engineer, was not shot by rebels, but was killed in a train wreck at Irapuato, Guanajuato, according to official reports. A broken rail caused the wreck.

Federal troops, who have been pursuing the rebels, who wrecked the train running between Marfi and Silao, also in Guanajuato, which resulted in the death of the United States conductor and injury to others, have captured several suspects.

CHIHUAHUA (Mex.) April 13.—So far as Gen. Orozco is concerned, his declination to recognize United States Consul Marion Letcher in the latter's official capacity is a closed incident.

The incident is rerarded here as very significant. Probably it has caused more uneasiness than any other single incident of the rebellion.

Gen. Antonio Rojas was placed on trial before a military court-martial today. Rojas is charged with disobedience of orders. He was ordered to proceed with his column against Ojinaga, but declined. He was arrested at the time and 200 of his men were disarmed.

FEDERALS EQUIPPED WITH MACHINE GUNS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CANANEA (Sonora Mex.) April 13.—Four carloads of Yaqui and Pima Indians passed through Cananea on their way to the extreme northeast portion of Sonora, where they will be used in driving out scattered bands of rebels who have recently crossed into Sonora from Chihuahua. At present it is stated 650 Federals are in the same territory, and that more will be sent in.

A Mexican officer stated today that he understood it was the plan of the Federals to enter Chihuahua from the north, after all the rebels had been driven out, and that the government troops would attack the rebels from both north and south at about the same time. He also predicted that Juarez would be reoccupied by the Federals in the near future, "without firing a shot."

Montenegro, the rurale deserter, who left Naco about six weeks ago with a considerable following and made several raids throughout this vicinity, winding up with an engagement with the Federals at El Tigre, was found dead today in a canyon, just east of Yzabel. By his side was a dead Federal soldier, fully equipped with gun and ammunition. Montenegro was supposed to have received severe injuries in a fight February 21, since which time he had not been seen. His horse galloped into Yzabel a week ago, covered with blood stains.

Two machine guns and 15,000 rounds of ammunition were received today from the Federal base at Torin. This makes six machine guns now here, ready for service.

THE TELLING WORK OF ONE AMERICAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—Tracy Richardson, a Kansas City boy, though shot through the lungs by Federal bullets at the battle of Jimenez, won the day for the rebel forces under Gen. Orozco when he climbed back into the saddle of his machine gun and swept the government trenches. Under the cover of the fire, the insurrecto cavalry charged, routing the enemy.

This information was conveyed to friends here today in a letter from a friend of Richardson, who witnessed the battle at Jimenez a few weeks ago. The writer praises the young American greatly for his brave work in holding the main position in the battle. His action, the friend continues, won for him the title of "the hero of Jimenez."

The letter says, in part:

"Richardson was in the saddle of his gun. The enemy had swept the plain below him and Orozco's forces were retiring. Richardson aimed his gun for 1000 yards. It swept the trench. Many Federals fell before they located his position. Then a hail of lead shot about the young American. Calmly he continued firing with unerring aim.

"His gun, firing 499 shots a minute, toppled the trenchmen like tenpins until the way seemed clear for Orozco's charge. Just then the bugle sounded the advance. Richardson was hurled from his seat, blood spurting from his breast and back. He pulled himself to his feet and saw that Orozco's cavalry, started on the charge, would be swept by the Federals. Sprawling back into his seat, stopping the flow of blood from his wounds the best he could, he resumed firing.

"The cavalry continued the charge under cover of the gun and routed the Federals. While the Federals were being pursued the young American was lying unconscious beside his gun.

"Later Richardson's comrades found him crawling through the mesquite toward their camp."

Richardson recovered from his wound and then notified his mother at Lamar, Mo., of his experience. The young man is the son of the late A. R. Richardson, formerly a contractor of Kansas City. He has served in three campaigns—first with Estrada in Nicaragua, then with Christmas in Honduras, and in the present uprising in Mexico. He is but 23 years old. He ran away from home when 15 years old.

PASSENGERS ROBBED, A WOMAN BEATEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, April 13.—Passengers who were on the train which was attacked by bandits Thursday when the conductor, T. G. Kane, an American, was killed, report that a Canadian and his wife were robbed of 400 pesos. The woman was beaten on the soles of the feet to force her to give up some jewels hidden in her clothing. It is reported she was badly injured.

Conductor Kane was shot through the head because he declined to produce the cash.

Thomas Fountain of Las Cruces, N. M., the captain of a Federal gun under Gen. Villa, who was captured and shot by rebels of Gen. Salazar's command in Parral, was not a citizen of the United States, according to the El Imparcial. Fountain, the paper says, it has learned on reliable authority, was born in Texas, but some years ago in Parral became a naturalized Mexican.

YEAR IN PRISON FOR REYISTAS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Nine Mexicans, members of the Reyista Junta organized here in December to take Juarez for the cause of Gen. Bernardo Reyes, were sentenced to one year and one day in Ft. Leavenworth by Federal Judge Walter T. Burns, after the men had been found guilty of conspiracy to set on foot a military expedition against Mexico.

Included in the list is Fernando Palamores, a Los Angeles Socialist, and friend of John Kenneth Turner, who wrote "Barbarous Mexico." Palamores says he is of Indian and American parentage in California. He is a red flag Socialist of the most rabid type. When Dist.-Atty. Boynton was delivering his address to the jury Palamores called him a "dog" from the prisoners' box.

R. A. Dorame was also sentenced. He calls California his home and says he is a member of one of the California Indian tribes. Dr. Rafael Molina, the head of the junta, a prominent physician of Juarez, was also sentenced. Reyes himself was indicted, but the indictment was destroyed by order of the court.

FEDERALS ABANDON SINALOA CAPITAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Culiacan, capital of the State of Sinaloa, which for some time has been without a Governor and where roving bands have been committing numerous depredations, has been abandoned by the Federal forces numbering about 400 men and is now awaiting occupancy by the rebels, said to number over a thousand. An authorized agent of the people of Culiacan will meet the rebel leader, Quintero, who has left Guamuchil for Bamoa and will extend him an invitation to enter the city. Rebel forces are still outside Culiacan, according to advices received here, fearing to enter believing the Federals left the barracks mined. The motive of the invitation of the citizens to Quintero to enter is protection.

Grave fears that the Yaquis in Sonora are mobilizing for a tribal revolt and may attack Hermosillo, the capital of the State, and Guaymas, the principal seaport, are entertained by the people of Sonora, according to passengers arriving here from Mexico today. The Federal forces in Sonora are composed principally of Yaquis and Indians from other tribes in Mexico and it is feared that should an outbreak occur the Indians will mutiny and either seize the cities and towns in which they are stationed or else, join their tribesmen in the hills preparatory to a foray. Mexican consular officials here state there are 2000 Federal troops, including the Indians, in Sonora.

Numerous American women and children, members of the families of officials and employes of the Sinaloa Sugar Refining Company were taken from Navolota to Mazatlan on a special train today, according to advices received by Nelson Rhoads, Jr., president of the company, who is in Tucson. There are still many Americans in towns in Sinaloa where there are large investments of American capital and the movement of those from Navolota to Mazatlan is to give them better protection from bandits who in many instances are operating without an organized head.

LOS ANGELES MAN KILLED.

American Engineer Victim of Railroad Wreck in Mexico and Body Is Coming Here for Burial.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

IRAPUTO (Mex.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Zack T. Farmer, the American engineer who was killed when his train plunged into an arroyo, the bridge over which had been burned by a rebel scouting party from Gen. Orozco's forces, came to Mexico from Los Angeles, Cal., and his body will be taken to that city for burial. J. B. Rogers, a prominent Mason in Mexico, arrived here from Aguas Calientes to take charge of the body and will take it to El Paso by way of San Antonio. Farmer was a member of the Masonic order. His wife was telegraphed the news of her husband's fate and she is now in El Paso awaiting the body.

The bridge burned by the rebels is on the line between Silao and Guanajuato. There was nothing to indicate that the timbers had been undermined by fire and Farmer's engine broke through the first span. He was killed instantly. His fireman escaped with a few bruises and minor injuries.

Farmer has a son and daughter in Los Angeles. His mother and sister live in Moberly, Mo.

STATE IS DIVIDED.

ran two to one ahead and in the district embracing Berks and Lehigh counties he ran three to one ahead.

In the Ninth and Twentieth districts Roosevelt tickets polled a very large vote also. From Harrisburg came the report that the Ninth and Twentieth districts were surely for Roosevelt and that indications there was that there was no doubt that control of the State convention would be in the hands of the Roosevelt men.

LANDSLIDE SUGGESTIONS.

Suggestions of another Roosevelt landslide came from many sections of the State, after 1 o'clock this morning, but the returns were too incomplete to determine whether they were justified or not. The jubilation of the managers of the Roosevelt campaign would indicate that they were pretty certain of victory. The Taft managers are not at all chipper, but they have by no means conceded that the President has lost half of the delegates elected yesterday.

Some of the counties which went for the President are Monroe, York, Washington and Carbon. Some of those from which final reports show a Roosevelt victory are Wayne, Columbia, Delaware, Northampton, Huntington and Mifflin. It is said that it will be Sunday afternoon before the returns are in in sufficient numbers to determine the actual result of the elections.

Dividing the delegation evenly, thirty-two for each Roosevelt and Taft, it would bring the total number of delegates for Taft at the present time to 366 and the number for Roosevelt to 148.

It is not the actual loss of the delegates, however, which the Taft managers would lament; rather it is the moral effect of the victory on the Roosevelt candidacy, following so closely as it does, his victory in Illinois.

PARTY LEADERS ARE STUNNED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Of the sixty-four delegates elected in the thirty-two districts, fully fifty are pledged to vote for Roosevelt. Added to this is the probability that the Republican State convention, which will choose twelve delegates-at-large to the national convention, will be controlled by the anti-Taft element, insuring at least sixty-two delegates for Roosevelt from this State.

The Republican organization leaders are stunned by the overwhelming defeat of the Taft candidates and have nothing to say regarding the result. United States Senator Penrose, the recognized leader of the Republican organization, and the leading Taft boomer in this State, left the city early in the afternoon and boarded his yacht at Atlantic City, where he is safe from interviewers.

The Roosevelt campaign managers are claiming more than the sixty-two delegates the returns so far give them.

With the exception of one or two districts in the State, Woodrow Wilson will have a solid delegation from Pennsylvania to the Democratic National Convention.

In this city Taft got seven of the twelve national delegates. Reuben O. Moon, who has been a leader on the Republican side of Congress for several seasons, was defeated decisively for renomination. His successful opponent is George W. Edmonds, Republican Keystone candidate.

Congressman Michael Donohoe, Democrat, accomplished the remarkable feat of winning the Republican as well as the Democratic and Keystone nominations in the Fifth Philadelphia District. This district is largely peopled by workingmen.

Returns received up to 2 o'clock indicate that the Roosevelt delegates in Allegheny county, including Pittsburgh, to the Chicago convention, had been elected with the possible exception of one, State Highway Commissioner Bigelow leading his opponent.

John Dalzell appears to have been renominated for Congress in the Thirtieth District by a small margin, but the renomination of Dr. A. J. Barchfeld in the Thirty-second is in doubt.

United States Sends About as Many Home-Seekers to the Dominion as England Herself.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAFO, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Statistics compiled by the Western Passenger Association disclose that 2,128,459 persons have immigrated to Canada from Great Britain, Continental Europe and the United States since January 1, 1897. Immigrants from Great Britain numbered 820,590 from Continental Europe, 566,834, and from the United States, 734,035.

The statement of the association discloses that alien immigrants to the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, numbered 162,983, less than the preceeding year. During the same period 518,215 aliens left the United States for Europe.

The net gain in popualtion was 512,085, as compared with 817,319 for the year 1910, 543,843, for 1909.

UNIONS ARE EMBROILED.

Tempestuous Scenes at Stockton, Where Fourteen Locals Bolt Order of President P. H. McCarthy.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The meeting last night of the local labor unions, which have a combined membership of more than 1000 men, was one of the most tumultuous in the history of the organization. Apropos of a recent petition to the Superior Court by a union-labor faction seeking an injunction restraining President Joseph Stewart from exercising the duties of his office, a communication was read last night from P. H. McCarthy, president of the State Building Trades Council, declaring the charter of the local council revoked.

Talks on Teeth

When the Teeth Begin to Go

When the teeth begin to go, one by one, the man or woman who is losing them becomes terribly anxious, and with reason.

Nature demands a full complement of teeth so that the food may be chewed and ground up in the mouth before it passes down into the stomach.

If there is a hole in the line, here and there, there is apt to be some food that goes down whole.

Then begins the so-called "stomach trouble," and everybody knows what follows that complaint.

OUR REX METHOD OF ALVEOLAR TEETH, AS PERFECTED BY DR. RANKINE

supplying missing teeth without plates or so-called bridge work, is a godsend to those whose teeth are going and gone. Given two or more teeth in either jaw we can restore all the rest.

I do not claim man is superior to nature, but I do claim the teeth you made for me are better and more serviceable than those furnished me by nature. J. G. RICKELS, San Fernando, Cal.

The new teeth will be as substantial as the old, and, if anything, more serviceable, because they will be sound and perfect, and solid as though they grew in the mouth.

The fitting and placing of these Alveolar teeth is a painless process and calls for no cutting or boring. Don't regard it as something to be dreaded—an operation. It is nothing of that kind.

One thing you should do—and without delay—is to let us look your teeth over. Every day you put it off makes it just that much harder for you. Teeth go fast, and once gone they are gone forever.

You don't want to have to wear a plate, do you?

If you have had the misfortune to lose all of your teeth, we can supply you with plates that will be serviceable and comfortable.

OUR CHARGES ARE REASONABLE

We do not ask fancy prices for our work. Just a fair fee—a reasonable one—just what anyone will gladly and willingly pay for high-grade work such as we invariably execute. Remember that you can always consult us free of charge regarding your teeth troubles, and there is no obligation incurred on your part in so doing.

Arizona House Defeats Bill to Give it Prestige.

Pure Food Measure After California Model.

A New Barrier to the Lobbyist Erected.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX, April 12.—The House today killed the union labor bill providing that the union label should be placed on all State printing. A similar measure is pending in the Senate.

The Senate spent nearly the entire day in committee of the whole, considering amendments to the bill creating a commission to revise the code.

A pure food law, drafted after that in effect in California, and contemplating the equipment and maintenance of a laboratory, was offered in the Senate by Senator Wessell, of Yuma.

A still more drastic anti-lobbying bill than that already in effect, was introduced by Senator Wood, of Prescott. It defines lobbying as "an attempt to influence the vote of a Legislator," except it be in a public hearing or in a brief filed with the proper committee, and provided a penalty of $100 to $10,000 fine, or imprisonment from one to five years for violation. Under the terms of the bill anyone having business with the Legislature must either address the committee in a public hearing, or else file a brief, which is to be made public.

Several Senators today stated they believed night sessions would be necessary, in view of the fact that the session is now half over and but a very few measures have been passed.

Washington Posses Catching Up With the Desperado Who Has Four Notches in His Gun Stock.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ABERDEEN (Wash.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The posse hunting John Tornow, the slayer of the Bauer twins and Deputy Sheriffs Colin McKenzie and A. V. Elmer, is reported to have stumbled across the hunted man's camp fires. The fugitive himself has been seen by hunters who have joined the posse to continue the hunt.

One member of the hunting party, while looking into a gully, saw a man whom he thought was a member of his own party. He called to him. The man turned for an instant, showed his face, then ran. It was Tornow. The posse is in a wild district in the upper Wynooche Valley, where Elmer and McKenzie were killed. The men are friends of McKenzie and Elmer and went out to avenge their deaths and to win the rewards for Tornow, which aggregate $5000.

DEATH PENALTY IMPOSED.

Negro About to Be Sentenced to Hang Asks Permission to Entertain Court With "Coon" Songs.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN RAFAEL (Cal.) April 13.—When Edward Delhantie was sentenced to death today, he asked to be allowed to entertain the court and spectators with some "coon songs." Delhantie is a giant negro convict who killed William Kaufman, another convict, in San Quentin prison yard last February.

Delhantie has been a star performer in the vaudeville entertainments in the prison and while in jail here awaiting his trial he passed the hours singing negro melodies in a rich baritone voice. He is regarded as a dangerous convict and his feet and hands were chained when he arose today to receive sentence.

"Your honor," he said, before the judge began the words which would send him to the gallows, "I think that if certain testimony had been introduced I could have shown that I was not in my right mind. Kaufman goaded me until I was insane. But I have no ill will and if your honor pleases before you pronounce sentence, I would like to entertain the ladies and gentlemen present with some of the latest coon songs."

"The procedure of the court would not allow this," said the judge. "You are sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead."

The date of Delhantie's execution, which will be in Folsom prison, has not yet been set. His attorney, George P. Harlan, said he would appeal to the Supreme Court for a rehearing for his client on the ground of insanity.

FAIR SITE WORK STARTS.

DREDGE BEGINS A BIG FILL.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—The actual work on the site of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915 was begun today by the dredge which is to fill in the partly submerged Harbor View site. President C. C. Moore who, with other officials of the exposition committee, visited the dredge in a launch, pulled the levers which started the machinery. One million cubic yards of mud and sand will be sucked from the bottom of the bay by the dredge and forced through half a mile of twenty-two-inch pipe to make the fill. The work will take five months.

NEBRASKA LOOKS FOR LARGE VOTE.

COMING PRIMARY COVERS ALL PARTIES AND OFFICES.

Presidential Preference Binding Regardless of Bias of Delegates Chosen—Voter Who Covers Whole Ballot Must Make Seventy Crosses on Blanket Sheet.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unless all signs fail the Nebraska primary election to be held next Friday will bring out a record vote. The ballot, which is a blanket affair, not only provides for the nomination of every officer, State, district and county, to be voted for this fall, but also selects delegates of all parties to the national conventions and permits of an expression on Presidential preference. That preference is accepted as binding on the delegates chosen, regardless of their personal bias. Thus it will be possible for W. J. Bryan to be elected a delegate-at-large to the Baltimore convention and at the same time pledge him to support for the Presidential nomination Gov. Harmon, to whom he is bitterly opposed. Of course such an outcome is improbable, and in Mr. Bryan's case he has already announced that if such a result happens he will resign his commission.

A real task confronts the voter who conscientiously attempts to do his full duty when he prepares his ballot. There can be no single marking under a party emblem for the man who votes "straight," and it is estimated if the voter goes through the ballot from top to bottom he will be required to make not less than seventy crosses.

There are three candidates on each of the leading tickets—President Taft, Col. Roosevelt and Senator La Follette, on the Republican side, and Gov. Wilson, Speaker Clark and Gov. Harmon on the Democratic. Each trio is composed of two nominal so-called progressives and one conservative. The only contention against this alignment is made by some of the followers of Senator La Follette, who refuse to accept Mr. Roosevelt as in his class, and by some of the Woodrow Wilson Democrats, who say that Champ Clark's support is too closely aligned with that of Gov. Harmon to be called genuinely progressive.

Home Treatment for Sallow, Wrinkled Skin

A. C. F. asks: "What should I do for my sallow complexion, and how can I get rid of my wrinkles?"

Sallowness is best removed by removing the skin itself. This is effectually accomplished by the use of ordinary mercolized wax, which causes the offensive outer skin gradually to peel off, in fine particles scarcely noticeable to the naked eye. Within a week or so you will have an enviable complexion, the new skin exhibiting a healthful, youthful tint incomparable with artificial coloring. Get an ounce of this wax at your drug store, apply at night like cold cream, only don't rub it in. Wash it off in the morning with warm water.

For your wrinkles try a solution of saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Bathe your face in this every morning for awhile. The result will surprise you.

TO IMPROVE OUTER HARBOR

Works Offers Amendment to Appropriation Bill.

Over a Quarter Million Is Needed at Once.

Engineers Agreed That the Work Is Necessary.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Works today introduced an amendment to the rivers and harbors bill in accordance with the recommendation made by the board of engineers after getting the report of Col. McKinstry and Lieut. Col. Langfitt. In the report Col. Langfitt says "that the board believes local conditions have so changed since the date of its former report as to warrant the United States in providing the channels now proposed by the district officer, provided the cost is not excessive."

Senator Works's amendment is as follows:

"To appropriate $327,250 for the improvement of the Los Angeles Outer Harbor in accordance with the plans of the Board of Engineers for rivers and harbors, as shown by the report of the Board of the date of April 11, 1912, on plans and estimates $100,000 to be available on July 1, 1912, and the balance as may be needed to carry out the work."

Col. McKinstry reports that the dredging required would cost about $327,250. This would connect the thirty-five-foot contour in the bay with the thirty-five-foot channel to be dredged by the City of Los Angeles and the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company at their terminals in the outer harbor. It is recommended that this appropriation be made at once.

SPIRITED CONTEST EXPECTED AT D. A. R. CONGRESS.

Delegates Arriving in Washington Externally Serene But Feelings of Uneasiness Manifest—Campaign for Next Year's Congress and Election Already On.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With external gaiety but with an atmosphere of trouble ahead, the delegates who have arrived to attend the opening of the annual congress of the national society D.A.R., next Monday, met tonight at the Continental Memorial Hall at an entertainment arranged by Mrs. Matthew T. Scott of Bloomington, Ill., president-general of the national society.

Notwithstanding this is an off year, the elections concerning only a number of vice-presidents-egneral, the campaigning looking to the next congress is on at full tilt. The congress next year will be an important one, as it will see the end of the long struggle for supremacy waged by Mrs. Donald McLean and her successor, Mrs. Scott, and the followers of Mrs. William Cummings Story of New York.

Mrs. Story has the support of the so-called "anti-administration party," and quiet but effective work is being carried forward by them. They expect to win in 1913.

As for the administration forces, the field is open for candidates, Mrs. Scott having served her second term and renounced any further aspiration for leadership. Four candidates are in the race, one from the West and two from the East, with Mrs. John Miller Horton of New York as the most active.

Wealthy and popular in her own State where she has held important offices, Mrs. Horton is regarded as a formidable candidate.

Much interest centers on the reappearance of Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, former president-general of the national society, and wife of the former Vice-President of the United States. Mrs. Fairbanks is in Washington for the first time since her retirement from the official circle.

FISH TRUST ALLEGED.

COMPLAINT FROM OAKLAND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At the request of the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland Senator Perkins is starting an investigation of the alleged fish trust in San Francisco Bay. It is alleged that prices of fish have been forced so high that the poor can no longer enjoy sea food. Dealers charge from 15 and 20 cents per pound, it is said, and sell their surplus to a glue factory at one-fourth of a cent per pound, or throw it into the bay to prevent the market prices from being affected. In May, 1910, eight men who were indicted as members of the fish trust pleaded guilty and were fined $250 each.

NAVAL OFFICERS CHANGE.

THEIR COMMANDS SWITCHED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) April 13.—Following the conclusion of the spring drills of the fleet, some changes among the high ranking officers have been announced by the Navy Department. Rear Admiral Thomas B. Howard is relieved of command of the Third Division of the Atlantic fleet by Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, who surrenders command of the Fifth Division, which has been turned into a reserve division under a captain's command. Rear Admiral Chauncey Thomas is given the usual advance notice of his approaching retirement, April 27. He has already turned over the command of the Pacific Coast fleet to Rear Admiral Southerland. Capt. Charles H. Harlowe of the armored cruiser California, flagship of the Pacific fleet, has been placed on the retired list on his own application, after thirty years' service.

CANAL BARRACKS NEEDED.

BUILDINGS ARE INADEQUATE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) April 13.—Out of all the buildings the French Canal Company had on the Isthmus of Panama, the United States army has found suitable quarters for only one regiment of infantry. As this is only a fraction of the military force which is to constitute the permanent garrison after the canal is opened for business, the War Department is strongly urging Congress to make an immediate appropriation of $3,500,000 for the erection of permanent barracks and officers' quarters. There must be buildings to house three regiments of infantry, one squadron of cavalry, one battalion of mountain artillery, and twelve companies of coast artillery. It was found that it would cost $300,000 per regiment to put the old buildings in shape.

NATIONAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN KANSAS CITY.

Object Is Promotion of Highway from Atlantic to Pacific, Taking in Every City of Importance and Rehabilitating Many of the Old Cross-Country Trails.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Everything is in readiness for the National Old Trail Convention, which is to open in this city on Wednesday. It will last two days.

The object of this gathering, which is to be held under the auspices of the Missouri Old Trails Road Association, is to start a propaganda for the construction of a national highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific to be constructed along old and historic trails, traversing Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, and other States, to the Pacific Ocean.

Governors of States concerned have appointed delegates and the meeting promises to be one of much interest. Walter Williams of Columbia, president of the Trails Association, arranged for the gathering.

The highway would follow the general course of the old Cumberland Pike, the Ohio State road, the Boon's Lick road, the Santa Fe Trail and the Sunset Trail to the Pacific Ocean.

Thomas W. Wilby of the Department of Good Roads at Washington, has logged a circuitous route across the continent that will include almost every city of importance from New York to San Francisco.

Starting at New York, the highway will go westward, passing through Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Wheeling, Columbus, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, St. Louis, Kansas City, Emporia, La Junta, Albuquerque, Phoenix, on to Los Angeles and San Francisco. From there, a northern route will be taken through Sacramento, Salt Lake City, Omaha, Des Moines, Davenport, Chicago, South Bend, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, Rochester, Utica and back to New York City.

The States will be represented at the meeting by delegates appointed according to the following basis of representation:

From State-wide Old Trails Road Association, fifteen delegates; district associations, five delegates; county commissioners, or similar county bodies having supervisory control of road building, three delegates; mayors of incorporated cities and towns, two delegates; other associations interested in road-building, five delegates; State highway commissioners and commissions, Governors of States on the old trails road, twenty delegates.

FRUIT GROWERS UNITE.

Consolidation of Northwestern Exchange at Portland With Other Northwestern States Is Effected.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Consolidation of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange with the representatives of fruit growers in various parts of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana to establish a mutual agency for selling the products of the Northwest was effected in Portland today.

The exchange amended its bylaws to provide for mutualization, elected growers' representatives to its board, created an advisory council, the members of which will be elected by the various fruit growers' unions of the Pacific Northwest, and arranged to establish an office in Spokane in addition to the headquarters now maintained in Portland.

IN HYSTERICS AT MEETING.

Woman Head of Boys' Outing Farm Association Weeps When She Hears Charges Against Her.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSÉ, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the prosecution missing, the public hearing by the directors of the San Francisco Boys' Outing Farm Association of charges made by Mrs. A. J. McCarthy, Mrs. I. C. Merriman of Palo Alto, and others against Mrs. Bertha Marguerite Rice, head of the Outing Farm Association, lacked many of the sensational features expected by the large crowd which attended.

Mrs. Rice was present and had an attack of hysterics, weeping copiously when a letter from Mrs. Merriman and Mrs. McCarthy, in which the charges were plainly reiterated, were read.

The explained that they had no power to summon witnesses, from a half-dozen counties necessary to prove their charges against Mrs. Rice and intimated that the board of directors was not doing its full duty in asking that charges against the board's employee be proven by them, as the board, the letter says, is responsible for the conduct of the farm at Saratoga by Mrs. Rice.

The letter was read at a largely attended meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Hall this afternoon.

Brown, chairman of several committees of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, sailed today on board the Mauretania, carrying with him the promise of several of the steamship companies to grant reduced rates for European visitors and exhibits for the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Neahr Company, paper bag manufacturers, was robbed on Armour avenue today of a satchel containing $1970 belonging to his employers, by a well-dressed man, who pointed a revolver at him. In that time he has accumulated $50,000 worth of stocks, while last year he held only $10,000 worth. His cash has decreased from $3720 to $840, and his debts are listed as $6500. The total value of the President's property is given as $51,940.

STUDENTS HURT IN DISTILLERY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEORIA (Ill.) April 13.—Twenty-five masculine and feminine students of Bradley Polytechnic Institute were injured today when the second floor of the big Woollner distillery, which they were inspecting, gave way under the weight of seventy-five members of the party. The accident occurred while the young persons were standing around a big fermenting vat, the workings of which were being explained by the superintendent of the plant. It is not believed that fatalities will result. The accident came without warning. Closely grouped about a big vat stood the seventy-five persons when suddenly there was a crash and roar and the whole party was precipitated to the ground. Workingmen of the plant worked rapidly in removing the injured from the wreckage. Those most seriously injured were placed in rows on the prairie, where they remained until the ambulances arrived.

DIEMONDS IN TOE OF SHOE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 13.—David J. Winder, a North Side cobbler, found diamonds valued at $5000 in the toe of a shoe he was about to repair last night. While looking for a ticket to identify the shoe, the owner's maid rushed into the shop and, showing much excitement, inquired for the shoes. They belonged to a wealthy woman in Sheridan road, as did the diamonds. Both shoes and diamonds were returned. As the maid attempted to thrust a $1 bill into the hands of the cobbler, it was waved aside by the shoemaker, with the comment: "I'll be satisfied with being honest."

OMAHA FIRE SPECTACULAR.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) April 13.—The fire which early this morning swept away one of the principal blocks in the retail section of the city, caused a loss of probably $350,000. Two of the largest banks of the city at one time were threatened. The fire was the most spectacular seen in the city for years. At one time, when a large stock of fireworks began to explode, it nearly caused a street panic among the thousands of spectators.

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful, for both denote health—vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states or health yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of red blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe three-grain hyponuciane tablets which are said to invariably increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best physicians and apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.

MUST BOLSTER THEIR COURAGE.

Roosevelt Leaders Are Reduced to Extremity.

Their Method of Tabulating Delegates Ridiculous.

Go So Far As to Claim Delegates Not Yet Named.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The utter inaccuracy of the table of delegates being put out from Roosevelt national headquarters in Washington has been [illegible] from its inception on the political side against Roosevelt, his managers being put to extremes to show progress in his behalf. The "contested" delegate column was never even thought of by the Roosevelt managers until it became apparent that Mr. Roosevelt's column "instructed" delegates was so meager as to be ridiculous in its proportions, hence the "contested" delegate list.

When it came to the "uninstructed" delegate list it made no difference whether or not the "uninstructed" delegates had gone on record publicly or in signed letters as for Mr. Taft, they were claimed for Mr. Roosevelt.

Next in the line of "progress" came the procession putting delegates actually instructed for Mr. Taft in some other column. No uniform rule has been followed in this particular. It merely depends upon what particular Roosevelt manager is on the job when a new list is made up.

In the list put out this week the Roosevelt managers have gone so far as to list delegates which have, not yet been elected by any convention whatever. On April 8 a convention was held in Louisiana which elected six delegates to the Chicago convention, including two from one Congressional district, all instructed for Taft. The Roosevelt managers are today claiming that twenty delegates have been elected in Louisiana all "uninstructed."

SHOWS UP JOHNSON AGAIN.

La Follette's Manager Declares Governor Is All Wrong About Senator Not Being a National Candidate.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—Ray W. Ryder, chairman of the La Follette California Campaign Committee, said today:

"In his address to the women of the California Civic League yesterday, Gov. Johnson took pains to declare that Senator La Follette was 'in no sense a national candidate.'

"This assumption has no ground in fact. La Follette has been and is a national candidate. The fact that he has not made an active personal campaign in several of the Eastern States is due to two causes.

"First, the desertion, and, in some cases, the betrayal of his candidacy by those who had pledged their support to La Follette, left him in such a position that he was unable, after placing implicit confidence in their promises, to cover, personally the territory where he might have reasonably expected to develop strength. Second, he is handicapped by lack of funds.

"The fact that La Follette is a poor man is a special element of strength in his campaign. All his fights have been made on a basis of appeal to the justice and reason of the people rather than by hiring political Hessians. La Follette is one of the plain people with whom and for whom he fights."

MEASURE FOR MEASURE.

Democrat to Call Republicans to Order in Chicago and a Republican the Democrats.

CHICAGO, April 13.—County Judge Owens appointed today a Democratic member of the City Election Commission to preside as temporary chairman over the Cook county Republican convention and a Republican member to preside over the Democratic convention. Both conventions will be held here next Monday.

In the Democratic party, particularly, there is prospect of dissension as there are numerous contests pending between the Hearst-Harrison precinct committeemen and those who are classed with the Roger C. Sullivan forces.

The commissioners and their aides will retire from the convention as soon as the permanent organization is effected.

DIRIGIBLE TAKES FALL.

Fourteen Passengers Get Severe Shaking When Balloon Plunges Two Hundred Feet to the Earth.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SCHWETZINGEN (Germany) April 13.—The fourteen passengers carried by the Schuette-Lanz dirigible balloon, on its first flight this year, had a narrow escape from death, today, near here. When the dirigible, with the inventor, Prof. Schuette, acting as pilot, had reached an altitude of a few hundred feet, the vertical steering gear jammed and the airship plunged at full speed to the earth, where it buried its bows and the forward gondola in the ground.

The six inmates of this gondola, together with Prof. Schuette and a mechanician, were thrown out with great violence, but nobody beside the mechanic, whose breast was crushed, suffered serious injury.

The dirigible, with the remaining passengers, then rose again rapidly. The water ballast containers had been smashed and the airship was blown helplessly across the Rhine, but a descent was eventually effected without further mishap.

POLITICAL BRIEFS.

To Nominate La Follette.

MADISON (Wis.) April 13.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] United States Senator Gronna of North Dakota is regarded as the man who will present Senator La Follette's name for the presidency in the Chicago convention. It is said the La Follette managers have decided that some western man should nominate La Follette.

Mrs. Nancy W. Holt, Eighty-six Years Old,

Who came in yesterday from Glendale for the express purpose of registering so that she could cast her first vote for President. She is a Democrat, but says she will vote for President Taft if Wilson is defeated in the convention.

Both Parties.

ILLINOIS DELEGATES TO BE NAMED THIS WEEK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Illinois delegates to the national convention will be elected during next week. Each party will name fifty-eight delegates, two from each of the twenty-five Congressional districts and eight at large.

The Republican district delegates will be named in Congressional conventions on Wednesday. In districts controlled by Roosevelt men the delegates will be instructed flatly for Roosevelt, in accordance with the preferential primary vote. In districts carried by Roosevelt, but with Taft leaders in control of the party machinery, the delegates may go uninstructed, but with the understanding that the primary vote is binding. The Fifth District, the only district in the State carried by Taft, will instruct for the President.

The Democrats will hold no Congressional conventions, but will name all the Presidential delegates in the State convention in Peoria on Friday. In the State convention two Presidential delegates will be named from each district and eight will be selected at large.

The eight Republican delegates-at-large will be named in the Republican State convention Friday in Springfield. If the Roosevelt leaders are in control of the convention they will instruct them for Roosevelt. If the political leaders friendly to Mr. Taft have their way, the delegates will go uninstructed, but practically pledged to Roosevelt.

The Democratic delegates will be instructed for Champ Clark. Every district in the State was carried by the Speaker over Woodrow Wilson in the preferential primary vote, and accordingly all the fifty-eight delegates will go to Clark. It is probable that the instructions will be phrased in such a way as to leave the delegates free to go to another candidate after the first ballot in case of a deadlock.

Both State conventions are expected to be full of excitement. Fights are likely to develop in both parties.

Gov. Deneen will be in control of the Republican convention, but his friends, some of whom are with Roosevelt and others with Taft, are expected to start a row among themselves over the naming of the delegates-at-large. Gov. Deneen, up to date, has taken no hand in the Presidential campaign.

The Roosevelt men will insist that no one, no matter how prominent in the party, shall be made a delegate-at-large unless his sympathies, as well as his vote, are with Roosevelt. This would mean that Representative Joseph G. Cannon, who in former years has been a delegate-at-large, would be denied this honor at this convention. Representative William B. McKinley, the national Taft manager, also will be ineligible under the Roosevelt rule.

Result.

TAFT VICTORY IN DELAWARE.

ROOSEVELT HARDLY GETS A "LOOK IN" THERE.

Of the Hundred and Sixty Delegates to the State Convention Selected by Primary Maybe Five or So Will Do the Bidding of the Colonel.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WILMINGTON (Del.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The result of the Republican primary election in this State today for the election of delegates to the State convention next Tuesday and the election of county committee members, is a victory for Taft, although the Delaware delegation will go to the national convention uninstructed.

In Newcastle county there were only two contests and the entire delegation in this and the Kent county delegation are unanimously for Taft.

Out of the 160 delegates of the State convention it is not expected that the Roosevelt strength will exceed five. These were elected in Sussex county, where the insurgent Republicans have been hard at work.

Although the Roosevelt faction elected few delegates it scored one victory in Sussex, for the most significant result of the primaries aside from the overwhelming Taft victory was the defeat of Secretary of State Charles S. Richards, of the organization, for member of the county committee, by former Representative Charles L. Moore, of the Roosevelt supporters. The Roosevelt successes were in Georgetown where the delegates were named and in Baltimore Hundred, where two out of five were chosen.

Four out of the six delegates from this State to the national convention have been decided upon. They will be United States Senators Dupont and Richardson, Congressman Heald and Gov. Pennewill. The other two have not been decided upon. Owing to the lack of contests, there was little interest in the primaries in Kent and Sussex counties. The State convention will elect a new State committee and this will likewise be a Taft body

FURIOUS WINDS IN COLORADO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Furious winds wrought great havoc in Denver and throughout the State today. Telegraph and telephone wires are down, rail traffic has been interrupted, thousands of window lights are shattered, scores of frame dwellings and outhouses have been wrecked and hundreds of thousands of dollars will be required to repair the damage.

A dozen fires were reported in Denver before noon. Fire is raging fiercely in the Mitchell coal mine at Downer.

A remarkable feature of the storm is the fact that only one serious accident was reported. Hubert Washwood, his wife and five children were hurt when the roof of their home collapsed.

DE LARA OUT OF JAIL AGAIN.

Los Angeles Socialist, Always "Agin Government," Arrested As Vagrant.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Guiterrez de Lara, the Los Angeles Socialist, has been released from jail here so that he might get a new bow tie and a clean shave and go to Indianapolis to attend the National Socialist Congress. De Lara arrived from Mexico where he has been preaching his propaganda of equal rights. He was in jail here for vagrancy. His wife, who lives in Los Angeles, will arrive Sunday and will accompany him to Indianapolis where he will act as delegate from the Socialists of Mexico. Indianapolis is the former home of Mrs. de Lara. He fought with Madero against Diaz, but is against the government again.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good gentle cleansing, too.

THOUSANDS OF VOTERS HERE.

County Registration Swells the Great Register.

Ten Thousand Affix Names on the Last Day.

Woman of Eighty-Six Eager for Ballot.

Approximately 225,000 men and women are enrolled as voters in Los Angeles city and county and are qualified to vote for their party choice in the Presidential primaries on May 14.

Yesterday was the last day to register, and there was a grand rush of voters, both men and women, to get on the rolls, in order to qualify in the naming of the Presidential candidates.

It is estimated that more than 10,000 new registrations were recorded yesterday, swelling the total of those who have enrolled since January 1, 1912, to about 185,000. Old registrations from the city election of voters who stated their party affiliation bring the grand total up to about 225,000.

At 12 o'clock last night the books of the registration office showed that 173,799 have registered to date. Of these, 115,230 are city voters, and 58,569 county voters. Of the total number registered 95,520 are men and 78,279 are women. There are 52,026 women voters in the city and 63,168 men. In the county there are 32,352 men voters and 26,217 women. Later returns will swell these totals.

The registration office in the Hall of Records was kept open until midnight and a score of registration deputies were on hand to attend to the late comers.

SEVERAL DAYS TO COUNT.

Chief Registration Deputy Thomas McAleer stated late last night that it would be several days before the exact total figures were compiled. He has more than 500 registration deputies in the field and only a handful of this number turned in yesterday's registration blanks.

The busiest scene of registration was at the main entrance of the City Hall. Here there were two groups of clerks busy on each side of the entrance and two more inside the hallway. During the rush hours as man yas 100 men and women stood in line waiting their turn to enroll. Several hundred registration deputies located in booths and at various street corners kept open until late at night registering those persons who waited until the last minute.

Deputies brought in 1334 new registrations yesterday. Most of these blanks were filled out Friday.

Registration officials estimate that of the approximate grand total of 225,000 qualified voters that 187,500 are registered as Republicans and 37,500 as Democrats. The Socialists and Prohibitionists have no Presidential primary candidates to vote for on May 14.

There will be 455 precincts at the coming primary election instead of 235, as at previous elections. The number of officials at each booth will be five, instead of eight as at regular elections. The result will be that the cost of holding the election will be greater than in the past.

WOMAN VOTER EIGHTY-SIX.

Among the thousands who registered yesterday was Mrs. Nancy W. Holt, 86 years of age.

The sweet-faced, gray-haired lady came from her home in Glendale for the express purpose of registering, and says she will cast her first vote for Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Holt is a strong admirer of President Taft and his policies, and says she will gladly vote for him if has paused in its assaults on the east banks and the holdings of the dikes on the Mississippi side have brightened. At Greenville and as far south as Vicksburg the water is falling.

The breaks last night are regarded as the most serious since the flood began. The territory which will be inundated is populous. Arkansas City and Lake Village, Ark., and Lake Providence, Tallulah and Delhi, La., and other important towns are in its path.

While the damage will be heavy it is not believed the loss of life will be large. When the levees collapsed courirs were sent from every point rached by teephone to warn those living in remote sections and special trains went from Vicksburg, Greenville and New Orleans to take aboard refugees.

All the steamboats available in the Vicksburg and Greenville harbors were dispatched to points along the river to take off those who held to the levee and small craft began an exploration of the territory flooded. Preparations have been made in Vicksburg and Greenville to care for the refugees.

Weather conditions were not favorable to the levees. Rain is reported in several points. Natchez reports all levees holding as far south as Bayou Sara, La.

The largest rescuing party left aboard the steamer Alice B. Miller with skiffs and a barge, but advices from the steamer Falls City later were that the Miller had been forced to tie up twenty miles south of Salem. The Falls City, which arrived in Vicksburg today, passed the Salem break early last night. Thomas Morrissey, the owner, said:

"I wanted to stop and help the flood sufferers, but it would have been fatal to my passengers to have tried it. The roar of the crevasse could be heard for miles."

The flood already covers a section visible for twenty miles South of the break as far as Tallabina, La.

THOUSANDS WILL BE RENDERED HOMELESS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) April 13.—Great property damage has been wrought in Northern Louisiana as the result of the breaking last night of the West levee of the Mississippi near Alsatia. Fears art entertained that many lives were lost.

It is estimated that 800 square miles now are flooded, with prospects that twice that amount of territory will be inundated by night. Thousands of families will be made homeless.

PEOPLE ARE CAUGHT WHOLLY UNPREPARED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MONROE (La.) April 13.—It is feared there has been loss of life where the Mississippi's floods swept through Northwest Louisiana. The breaks in the dike came so unexpectedly that thousands of persons were caught almost unprepared.

Roosevelt, Lynchville, Hesper, Enola, Omega, Tallabena, Mansford and Mason are flooded.

South of Tallulah, La., a dozen or more towns will be flooded within twenty-four hours.

NEW CAMBRIA IS STORM SWEPT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. JOSEPH (Mo.) April 13.—The Burlington Railroad offices in this city report that New Cambria, Mo., was swept by a cyclone late this afternoon The Burlington depot is reported demolished. All wires are down and details are lacking.

A long distance telephone message from Brookfield, ten miles from New Cambria, corroborates the report of a tornado. Beyond that place the wires are down. A special engine has been sent to New Cambria from Brookfield to ascertain the extent of the damage.

The dispatcher's office in Brooklyn says a number of houses were blown down.

New Cambria has a population of 400.

AN OLD FASHIONED BARBECUE AT SAN JACINTO

The San Jacinto Board of Trade has plans for an Old Fashioned Barbecue that bids fair to outdo anything of its kind ever given in this part of the country. It is to be given in celebration of the Great Water Discovery made recently, together with the present and future prosperity of their most beautiful little valley. San Jacinto fatted steers and pigs, for which this section is famous, will be served, as a pleasant reminder and notice to the whole country around that San Jacinto is happy. It was always good, but now it is literally running over with possibilities, in all branches of ranching, fruit growing, cattle and hog raising, in fact it goes right down the line heading the list in almost every particular.

"It is beautiful, and its future is assured," says Nat Goodwin, the great actor, as he gobbles a thousand acres and plans for a mansion.

It's true we are off in a little corner by ourselves, but it's a cosy corner, and the best corner on earth for a man to get a start. We have had no land agents to boom and raise prices, making it especially attractive at this time. It's equally good for the rich and retired, because of its health giving climate, and beautiful surroundings, elegant trout fishing, and all kinds of small and large game close by.

Be sociable, come over and see us, you won't regret it, and we guarantee you won't forget it. Few minutes from Riverside by auto or Santa Fe, fine roads all the way. Come any time. If you want a snap you can't come too soon.

Look for another notice in this paper tomorrow. Send postal for photographs and further particulars. San Jacinto Board of Trade, San Jacinto, Cal.

FIANCEE DISAPPEARS ON EVE OF HER MARRIAGE.

Mysterious Warning and Coming of Two Strange Men Cause Sweetheart to Believe Girl is Being Taken Away Against Her Will. Seeks Aid of Officers.

Friends of Miss Ossie Condit, a young girl residing at Portland, Or., and who has been passing the winter in this city at No. 331 South Flower street, reported to the police yesterday that she had disappeared in mysterious circumstances almost on the eve of her marriage to Arno R. Buchwald, a broker, having offices at No. 502 South Main street.

Buchwald was completely unstrung last night by the news of his fiancee's disappearance and he appealed to The Times to help him trace the missing girl.

A letter was received by Buchwald yesterday announcing that the girl had been kidnaped by two strange men, at the behest of an older sister, and that the party was speeding northward in order to circumvent her matrimonial intentions.

In his statement Buchwald asserts that he saw the young woman last Thursday afternoon, at which time she was almost frantic with apprehension on account of an intimation that she had received from her sister that something was about to happen to her.

Both women subsequently were traced to a Southern Pacific train, bound for San Francisco. Two men, said to be in the employ of the older woman, were reported to have accompanied the party.

Last night Buchwald received another communication from his fiancee, declaring that she was about to be taken to a town called Orland and begging him to do something in her behalf.

"I am convinced that Ossie has fallen into evil hands," he declared. "I had been told that her sister had arranged an alliance with a Portland business man, but I did not believe that she would interest herself to the extent of taking the girl away."

A government officer who declined to give his name, admitted that he had been called into the case to ascertain if there was any element of white slavery connected with the disappearance of the girl, but declared that he could say nothing until the case had been fully investigated.

The local detectives declined to interfere on the ground that the girl is 19 years old, and at present outside the jurisdiction of the department.

TWENTY-FIVE FLY FROM BONDAGE.

DETENTION HOME OFFICIALS UNABLE TO CLIP WINGS.

Attention of Juvenile Court Committee to Be Called to Inadquate Methods of Keeping Boys and Girls in Confinement—Police Investigating Circumstances.

Members of the police department interested in juvenile work were placed in possession of information last night showing that twenty-five youthful prisoners had escaped from the new Detention Home, Eastlake avenue and Alhambra road, since the opening of the institution, nine days ago, and steps will be taken at once to call the attention of the Court Juvenile Committee to the conditions as they are alleged to exist.

Of the twenty-five who managed to elude the vigilance of the attendants, only ten have been recaptured, and the police have been asked to assist in searching for the fifteen fugitives whose whereabouts are unknown.

The new home was completed and opened for the reception of youthful offenders on April 4, when all the youngsters were transferred from the old home on North Main street.

About 7:30 o'clock that night, during the temporary absence of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Ebby, superintendent and matron, respectively, five boys managed to depart without leaving a clue as to their destination. The absentees on this occasion were Van Robinson, Harley Colburn, Harold Wilson, Meredith Rowe and William Schilling. Two days later Ray Jacobs took French leave and has not been heard of since.

Wilson, Robinson and Rowe subsequently were captured, but just before noon on April 7 the trio succeeded in getting away once more.

At 4:30 o'clock on the morning of April 9 Loyal Ballard and Leslie Johnson took leave of the institution and four hours later, Albert Jeough breathed the air of freedom without asking the permission of those in charge.

Yesterday two girls known as Elsie Palmgreen and Fern Middleton, tired of the monotony of the place, just before daylight walked away without encountering hindrance. A boy also is reported to have escaped during the noon hour.

Upon receiving this information Leo Marden, police probation officer, made an investigation and learned that young men had been in the habit of calling at the institution during the hours of darkness, aided by some of the older inmates.

Officer Marden also discovered that the locks on the doors were arranged to prevent any person from entering without a key, but could be opened from within by the simple turning of a knob. It was found that the windows could be opened from the inside and that some of the visitors had been invited to crawl through the windows after the household had retired for the night.

Several young men were caught in the act of entering the Detention Home on Friday night, but were frightened away by the sudden appearance of Mrs. J. W. Libbey, the assistant matron.

The probation officers were informed of the escapes by some of the inmates who were left behind and a report was made to Chief Sebastian last night. Until satisfactory arrangements are made to insure the safety of juvenile prisoners, it is probable that no more young girls will be sent to the institution.

Meanwhile both officers and attendants at the home are compelled to work day and night in an effort to trace the fugitives who have departed without due process of law.

WAS THE MILK THE CAUSE?

Mysterious Death of Infant Being Investigated on Presumption of Unnatural Causes.

Apparently enjoying the best of health, Maxine Gilbert, the 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gilbert of No. 108 South Figueroa street, died suddenly at the family home, yesterday afternoon, under circumstances that caused the Coroner's office to order an investigation.

A few minutes previos to her death the child was given a bottle of milk, and there was nothing to indicate that the baby was not in her usual normal condition.

Before anyone connected with the household suspected that anything was wrong, the child was seized with convulsions and expired almost immediately. Both the father and mother were prostrated and asked that an inquiry be made to determine the true cause of death.

Friends of the family believe that the milk may have contained some fatal foreign substance, and an official analysis will be made.

VINTAGE WINE GETTING SCARCE

New York Hotel Man Scouring Europe for Champagne.

Is Buying Up Every Bottle That He Can Locate.

Says American Taste for Liquor Is Improving.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James B. Regan, proprietor of the Knickerbocker Hotel, New York, has spent some time in the wine district since his arrival on the Mauretania, buying up vintage champagne. He said the United States possessed more vintage champagne than any other country in the world. The general conditions of the champagne market in England, according to Regan, are deplorable. Some of the best brands cannot be procured and prices are the highest ever known.

The wine cards of the leading hotels and restaurants show a paucity of the well known brands of 1898 and 1900. Regan says he compared the cards with those of six years ago, and the bad condition was obvious. In addition to the fact that there has been no good crop since 1906 there was no great abundance in 1911. If the crop of 1912 does not prove to be plentiful, Regan said, the supply of vintage in the market will be reduced to an unprecedented minimum.

The wine dealers, Regan declared, are endeavoring on account of the scarcity to induce the public to abstain from the vintage wines and a trying to induce the people to drink the ordinary kinds.

The American taste in regard to champagne, Regan said, had improved remarkably in ten years. A decade ago an American simply ordered a bottle of champagne. Nowadays he is the most discriminating man in the world. He knows all the brands and orders heavy and light vintage according to the character of dinner. It is no exaggeration, according to the hotel man, to say that ninety per cent. of the patrons of the best New York hotels ordered vintage champagne.

ESCAPES ON BICYCLE.

A purse-snatcher availed himself of the services of a bicycle in escaping, yesterday, after he had robbed Mrs. A. Field, a widow living at No. 214 North Eastlake avenue. Mrs. Field was standing in front of her home when suddenly a young man mounted on a wheel stopped a few feet away and then without warning grabbed her purse containing $10.20. Before the victim could recover from her surprise the thief jumped on the wheel and dashed away. Later in the day Detectives Williamson and Allen of the East Side Station arrested Eddie Crist of No. 421 North Avenue Twenty-one, on the charge of being the guilty person. The prisoner subsequently was identified and an investigation showed that he had been arrested not less than a dozen times and was under probation at the time Mrs. Field was robbed.

TAFT FRIENDS CONTROL IOWA.

They Will Organize the State Convention.

The Resolutions Will Indorse the Administration.

Cummins Losing Caste in His Own Bailiwick.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Republican contest for the control of Iowa is closed, and Mr. Taft will have over 760 votes in the first test of strength in the State convention, enough to control.

Supporters of the national administration predominate in six of the eleven Congressional districts, so it is assured they will control by the committees of the convention on permanent organization, resolutions and credentials. With the votes on the floor to sustain the committees' action, it is certain that the administration of Taft will be supported. The indorsement resolution will receive the votes of many more than the regular Taft delegates, for there are many insurgents imbued with a party loyalty that will make them stand by its head.

There was present one thing in the pre-convention campaign that did much to swing the control from the Cummins forces to Taft, and that was the absolute refusal of the Cummins machine in the Seventh District to permit the district convention to incorporate one word of praise in its resolutions for the national administration.

A RIOTOUS CONVENTION.

DOCTOR CALLED TO ATTEND THE CHAIRMAN.

Roosevelt Men in Gallatin, Mo., Attack the Presiding Officer in Their Mad Rush to Wring from Taft Delegates an Indorsement for the Oyster Bay Man.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALLATIN (Mo.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The convention held here today to elect delegates to the Republican State convention was turned into a riot by certain dissatisfied members of the party.

An hour before the convention was called to order, the organization, led by Col. Boyd Dudley, were marshaled into the Courthouse. When the convention had been called to order by County Chairman Page and a permanent chairman and secretary were elected, the Dudley organization moved forward and attempted to drown out the remarks of the chair. Two of Dudley's men made an assault upon Chairman Pike and unmercifully beat and kicked him. Pike was taken to his home and a physician was called.

The prosecutin attorney and Sheriff were called in to restore order.

The convention then resumed its business and eight delegates were elected to the State convntion. Resolutions were adopted condemning Col. Dudley, the Roosevelt State leader, for splitting the party. President Taft was warmly indorsed.

After the Taft convention adjourned, the Dudley machine held a rump convention and elected delegates to the State convention. They previously held a convention for the same purpose on April 9 and elected the same delegates.

Complaints were filed against members of the Dudley machine and three of them, Fred Pierce, Wallace Powell and John Hamilton, were charged with assault and warrants for their arrest issued.

After the convention the police were required to restore order on the streets.

MADAM! IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS."

Waste-clogged bowels, torpid liver and decaying food in stomach cause the sick headache, gas, backache, sallowness, biliousness and indigestion.

All women get bilious, headachy and constipated — simply because they don't exercise enough. They don't eat coarse food, or enough fruit and green vegetables. Those are nature's ways of keeping the liver and thirty feet of bowels active; but very few women employ them. The next best way is delightful, fruity Syrup of Figs.

Nearly all ills of women can be overcome with Syrup of Figs alone. There is no need to have sick headache, backache, dizziness, stomach sour and full of gases, bilious spells, sallowness, coated tongue, bad breath, bad complexion, nervousness and depression. The surest and safest remedy is one or two teaspoonfuls of delicious Syrup of Figs. Try this tonight — you'll feel splendid in the morning when the sour bile, clogged up waste and poisonous matter have been gently, but thoroughly moved on and out of your system, without nausea, griping or weakness. Your head will be clear, complexion rosy, breath sweet, stomach regulated; no more constipation, gases, pains and aches.

It is simply a matter of keeping your stomach, liver and bowels clean and regular. Then you will always be well—always look and feel your best.

But get the genuine—the old reliable. Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrups sometimes substituted to fool you. The true, genuine, bears the name California Fig Syrup Company; look for this on the label.

TAFT AND CLARK LEAD ALL OTHER CANDIDATES.

The President Has a Lead of Three to One for Nomination in Chicago—Gov. Wilson Still Seems to Be Quite Popular Among Rank and File of Democrats Though Machine Politicians Are Against Him.

NEW YORK, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Speaker Champ Clark leading with 97 more delegates than his nearest rival, Gov. Wilson, and rapidly forging ahead.

Gov. Wilson, still a great popular favorite and leading in many States, but just at present making no gains and gathering no delegates.

Gov. Harmon running third.

That describes the present situation exclusive of Pennsylvania, in the great battle for the Democratic Presidential nomination, as indicated by the impartial country-wide canvass being conducted by the New York Herald.

On the Republican side President Taft has continued to gather in delegates. He now has 334, or a lead of 218 on his nearest competitor, Theodore Roosevelt. During the week just ended Mr. Roosevelt captured 73 delegates as against 57 garnered in by the Taft manager.

CLARK'S POSITION.

There can be no doubt that Speaker Clark's position in the spectacular Democratic race has, during the last week, been made more advantageous than that of any of his rivals. Reports from tht Herald's correspondents, all of whom are cautioned to be absolutely impartial and fair to all the candidates, show that he has gained in many States, among them Iowa, Massachusetts, Texas, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland. His sweep of the Illinois primaries—the feature and sensation of the week—sent his stock booming and indications are that it will continue to go up for a time at least. Persons who but a short time ago did not regard the Speaker as a formidable contender, have changed their opinions since the Illinois primary. Mr. Clark now has 131 delegates, 58 having been added to his column by the Illinois victory.

WILSON POPULAR.

At the same time, although there are many indications that the Wilson boom has touched its highest mark, Gov. Wilson, according to the reports, has a strong hold on the rank and file of the Democrats and it would still appear that he is the popular favorite. In many States, according to reports he far outranks all others as a popular candidate. He has the disadvantage of having all the machine Democrats working against him. In several States, all the other candidates, recognizing him as far in the lead, have pooled interests to head him off. In some sections it appears they have been successful. At first the solid opposition of the machines proved an asset in drawing support to the Wilson standard. But since the organization leaders have drawn together and put their "systems" to work, there have been indications of a Wilson slump in a few regions. The organizations are neither enthusiastically for Speaker Clark, nor actively opposed to him.

The Speaker's friends declare he is certain to land the nomination. The Wilson managers assert that within a week, after conventions have been held in the Wilson country, the Wilson column of delegates will be greatly swelled. In his own State Gov. Wilson is still having trouble, but appears to have slightly the better of it. The organization in New Jersey is using all its powerful esources and influences to defeat him and it will require all the popularity displayed by him in his previous contests to carry off a victory. Delegates are elected by primaries in his State and the Wilson managers believe their candidate's personal strength will win a victory for him. It is a straight out-and-out fight there between Gov. Harmon and Gov. Wilson. Speaker Clark, out of courtesy to Gov. Wilson, did not let his name go on the primary ballot.

SIZE OF THE CONVENTION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It has been discovered here that the original list of the total number of delegates to the Chicago convention was in error in not giving two more votes to New Mexico than was allowed. The total representation in the Chicago convention will be 1078 and 540 will be necessary for a choice.

Anaheim.

FANATICAL MURDERER TELLS OF HIS CRIME.

ANAHEIM, April 13.—That F. A. Montee, president of the Golden State Water Company, a wealthy rancher of East Anaheim, and his wife, Katherine Montee, came to their death from injuries inflicted by George Biggs, a neighbor, aged 62 years, with murderous intent, was the verdict of the Coroner's jury which heard the evidence in the double murder inquiry before Coroner Winbigler at Anaheim this morning.

Stoically facing the consequences of his confession, Biggs went on the stand, admitted the crimes and stated that he was willing to "take his medicine." Biggs said that Friday morning, when Montee yelled at him to stop digging ditches in the community road, "he knew it was going to happen and that he might as well have done with it."

Knowing that he was going to have to fight his neighbor over that strip of roadway, Biggs stated that he went to his house and got his gun that he might be fixed for it.

The testimony of Robert Leahmann, the fourteen-year-old boy who was the only witness of the killing, brought out the fact that about fifteen minutes before the murder, while Montee was loading his wagon with potatoes, when Montee ordered Biggs to quit digging up the road, Biggs told him to "go to hell," to which Montee replied, "We will both go together."

When Montee drove down the road he had a long stick about one inch thick at the butt end, which the boy testified he used to whip the horses. Biggs came up within about ten feet of the wagon, and the quarrel about the road was renewed. Biggs said "My rights are right here, and where my rights are I will stand or fall." Montee replied that he had gone too far.

At this point the story of the boy and the prisoner differed, Biggs claiming that Montee struck him with the stick before he shot Montee, while the boy stated that Montee reached for the whip after he shot. The boy jumped out of the wagon, and he thinks Montee jumped or tripped over to the ground, where a struggle ensued.

The murderer insisted on the officers bringinng his shirt and overalls, which were covered with the blood of his victim, before the Coroner to prove that there had been a struggle and that Montee had him on the ground.

He stated that he did not intend to kill the woman, but that he thought she had a gun and was coming to the aid of her husband. He struck her with the shovel after he had chopped Montee with the same weapon.

Dr. H. A. Johnstone described the wounds inflicted. The woman had a bruise on her shoulder and forearm and three gashes in the back of her head, indicating that three or more blows were struck, one penetrating the back of the brain. She lived about fifteen minutes.

Montee had one cut which entered the brain through the forehead, which Dr. Johnstone believed was made with an ax. Four of the victim's teeth were knocked out, his nose and jaw broken, and one bullet from a 38 cartridge, the caliber of Biggs's pistol, entered the chest on the right side and ranged upwards. The bullet, pistol, shovel and ax were in evidence, and identified.

A. K. Pettit, who discovered the bodies, stated that he had gone to Biggs's place that day to plow up the twenty-foot half of the roadway which was a part of the Biggs place. He also said that some time ago he had plowed up a part of the road on the Montee side. Biggs had said that Montee should drive on his own land, and that he was "going to stand pat on that."

THOUSANDS OF VOTERS.

Wilson is not the Democratic standard bearer.

She stood in line at Sixth and Spring streets in the afternoon awaiting her turn. She joked and talked with men and women in the line, and several chivalrous civic patriots stood aside and lost their places to give her a chance.

She wrote her name and address without the use of glasses, and when Deputy County Clerk Clark asked her with what party she is affliated she quickly replied: "I am a Democrat and my father voted for Jefferson."

"I like Wilson and Taft better than any of the other men running for President," she said. "My father was a Democrat and I guess that's one reason I am a Democrat, although I really do think Mr. Wilson is a very good man and would make a great President. Taft is a fine man and if Wilson loses I intend to cast my first vote for Taft. I don't like Roosevelt at all. He is too noisy and mixes up in other people's business when he hasn't any right to. Roosevelt said Taft was a great man a few months ago, and now he is calling him names because he wants to be President again.

"I never voted before and don't believe in women voting, but now that we have the ballot, why, I'm going to make use of it. I like Taft because he believes in arbitration and peace."

he first annual Southern Califor- inter-denominational Sunday- ool track meet is now an event the past and will long be remem- ed as the most successful meet its kind ever staged in these parts. was run under the auspices of the A. U. under the personal manage- nt of T. P. Rothwell. There were boys of all ages entered, and, at is more, they all competed in events.

t was a great day for everybody o loves clean athletic sport. Every h school and college in the South s represented as well as all the in- mediate and practically all the mmar schools. The contestants ged in size from three feet six to feet three. The competition in ry division was keen, and a spirit friendly rivalry was manifested rywhere.

The meet was started promptly on e and the events were run off with precision of a clock. The open- g event was the unlimited high mp which looked more like an in- rcollegiate championship than a nday-school event. Watkins and arl, U.S.C., star jumpers wearing e colors of the Hollywood M. E., ok first and second honors in the ize winners' class. Weller of Im- anuel won the novice high with a ap of 5 feet 8 inches. Hicks of l Monte took the bronze medal away om Arthur Lee of Immanuel after ey tied for third place at 5 feet inches.

EXCITING SPIRIT.

The hundred-yard dash had the ap- earance of the recent all Southern alifornia meet except that the un- eatable Jackson was in the North win ng honors of greater importance. hnson of Pasadena, Threlkeld of s Angeles and Newby of Pasadena ok all the honors in the prize win- ers' class. Fullaway of Immanuel rprised them all by winning first the novice unlimited hundred and st in the broad jump. Immanuel ptured all three places in the broad ith Weller second and Gillett third. Fred Haney of the university rried as usual, in the 100. This ung wonder seems to be unbeatable t his weight; he also secured a ronze medal in the broad and high mp.

Floyd Gillett of Immanuel won the undred-yard dash in the 115-pound ass with such ease that one would ave thought he was just trotting own the track for a warming up. ease, in this class, however, got the by winning The Times Camp

McClaren of Atherton and Hart- man of the University M.E. were the stars of the eighty-five-pound class, Hartman being a member of the win- ning relay and first-place man in the high jump, while McClaren was first in the broad and the fifty.

Nice of the Third Presbyterian was the star in the 100-pound class. He got The Times Camp trip by winning the broad jump and getting second in the sixty-yard dash.

The Immanuel team that won the unday-school unlimited champion- hip cup was composed of Earle Wel- ler, Merle Fullaway, Floyd Gillett, orace Gillett, Gerald Craig, Paul McWilliams, C. H. Berger and Arthur Lee.

The University Methodist boys took e trophy for the school scoring the ost points in all four classes. Im- manuel took second honors for the otal score of all divisions.

Atherton Baptist Church secured hird place in the meet. Four gold medals were won by boys of this Sun- day-school. Francis McClaren took first in the eighty-five-pound broad jump and first in the fifty-yard dash, with a third in the high jump. He proved to be one of the largest point winners of the day, and as an all- round athlete is one of the comers in the younger class.

Young Francis also won the broad jump in the 115-pound class, with a f 14ft. 7in. This proved to be the sensational feats of the oon, as McClaren showed re- able form. He has been in g for the past two weeks, and id strict attention to form, both rting and in the takeoff.

rge Swease sprung a surprise weights when he took first in the shot put. He is a slight entered in the 115-pound class, nd in spite of the competition, which proved keen, Swease won by several inches with a heave that places him in a class as one of the promising young athletes. They each won four day trips to The Times Camp for scoring the highest number of points in their respective divisions.

Atherton Baptist Church was rep- resented by a team which consisted of five boys, trained by Bert Smith, their teacher. They are, besides Mc- Claren and Swease, Gail Needham, Robert Carlton and Clayton Grant. This quintette of youths should be heard from again this year, as they are careful trainers and are ready to work hard to win.

This team, by winning four gold medals yesterday in a meet in which many trained athletes competed, and taking third place, earned special honors. The boys were up against several seasoned athletes and figured for the first time in a meet. They were nervous, but finally settled down to business and made a great showing. Results:

STANFORD IN FRONT.

OAKLAND, April 13.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] A heavy Stanford eight won as it pleased today from a light University of Washington crew, and fairly ran away from an exhausted California eight in the only three-cornered race the three universities have ever held.

The winner's time was 16m. 10s., for three miles with Washington two boat-lengths behind and California five lengths behind Washington. Dave Hardy, the California stroke, crumpled up with rower's cramps as his shell turned the finish, but quickly recovered. Stanford finished powerfully, rowing between thirty-six and thirty-eight to the minute, and opening up her lead. She took clear water at the starter's gun and was never headed.

The crews finished in the order of their start. Rowing thirty-eight, to Washington's thirty-seven, Stanford forged ahead, until at the half mile she had a length, and at two miles two lengths. With victory secure, Partridge dropped his stroke to thirty-six. In the last mile Washington spurted, but Stanford, responding, kept her lead, and in the home stretch was increasing it, still rowing thirty-six and thirty-seven. California trailed in the rear.

FREE TO THE RUPTURED

I HAVE A NEW HOME TREATMENT THAT ANYONE CAN USE WITHOUT OPERATION, PAIN, DANGER, OR LOSS OF TIME.

WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD

If you are ruptured, I presume you have tried various trusses, plasters, supports, etc., without getting any real benefit. You are still seeking a genuine method of cure. The more skeptical you are, the more urgently I seek your investigation of what I can do for you. Let me send you, at once, postpaid, my brochure with information about the Rice Method. I want you to be able to truly say it is worth many times its weight in gold. Read further: you must not make a mistake by overlooking the Method that has cured a multitude of men, women and children after all other means had failed.

SINGLE RUPTURE

trusses usually exert excessive pressure. The rupture will gradually but surely enlarge; in time another one will come on the opposite side and you will have twice the suffering, twice the danger, and double the expense. Do not neglect it; delays are dangerous.

DOUBLE RUPTURE

requires a different pressure on each side. This you cannot secure from usual trusses and they mean added suffering, further complications, and increased danger. My method has cured double rupture with ease and certainty in many cases where hope of relief had been almost abandoned. Mail me the free coupon at once. Remember, my offer is FREE.

NAVEL RUPTURE

is especially dangerous. The fat over the muscle is so thick that trusses cannot hold, the rupture increases in size, becomes irreducible, or strangulates quickly. Navel ruptures larger than a grown person's head are not uncommon. My Method is aimed to meet every requirement of a perfect cure for such cases.

IN RUPTURES FOLLOWING ABDOMINAL OPERATIONS

most trusses are not only useless but positively dangerous. Supporters rarely give support where most needed and there is constant danger that the muscles will tear apart the entire length of incision, and a frightful condition result. Mine is a safe and painless home curative method and you should write for it at once before serious complications develop.

IRREDUCIBLE RUPTURES

indicate a critically dangerous condition. Trusses of the usual kind should never be used. The bowel remains out, a constant menace to health, safety, and life itself. There is grave danger of strangulation, the protrusion gradually enlarges until life is hardly worth the living. My free offer ought to be accepted by you today.

ELDERLY PEOPLE

need a cure most of all. It will add years to their length of life and surround their declining days with the peaceful enjoyment to which they are entitled. Nothing may contribute more to this than to mail the free coupon and at once know the blessings of freedom from chafing trusses, rupture suffering, and that ever-present horror of strangulation. No one is too old or infirm to accept this opportunity. Accept my Free Offer.

RUPTURED CHILDREN

are often weak and sickly, lacking in growth and proper development, due entirely to rupture. Don't delay accepting my free offer just because your child has not yet experienced any of these ill effects, for if you do you are certain to learn from bitter experience that rupture neglect is especially dangerous to children. Do not go to bed another night until you mail the free coupon below and know that relief is on the way for your little one so pitifully afflicted.

WRITE TO-DAY

No matter how many doctors have told you that your case was irreducible and incurable. I especially want to send it free to those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of trusses, treatments and operations have failed. I want to show everyone at my own expense, how my Method is purposed to end rupture suffering and truss-wearing for all time.

This means better health, increased physical ability and longer life. My free offer is too important to neglect a single day. Send no money. Simply mail coupon below with such further particulars as you can give. I want to surprise and delight you.

RIOT FOLLOWS CITY ELECTION.

Beaten Candidate for Chief of Police Is Shot.

Present Chief and All His Force Are in Jail.

Texas Rangers Are Keeping Peace in Brownsville.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bitter political rivalry resulted in a street riot here late last night in which Andres Urell, defeated candidate for chief of police, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded.

After the shooting Chief of Police J. O. Crixwell and six policemen were arrested and placed in the City Jail. They have been denied bail. This represents nearly the total of the Brownsville police force so the Mayor swore in several deputies today.

The shooting caused intense factional feeling to break out afresh and a crowd gathered at the jail today, but there was no attempt at violence, although threats were heard. Six State rangers have been detailed to the scene under Capt. Fox to preserve order.

The defeated municipal ticket alleges that illegal tactics were used by their rivals to put themselves in office. Crixwell declaims any responsibility for the shooting and says he was looking on with a view of interference if violence were attempted. It is thought the prisoners will be transferred to some other county for safe-keeping.

WIFE HELD AS ACCESSORY.

Woman Whose Husband Had Received Life Sentence for Murder Is Charged With Guilty Knowledge.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WEAVERVILLE (Cal.) April 13.—Mrs. Edward Hewitt, wife of one of the three youths who were sentenced today to life imprisonment for the murder of Peter Roberts, was arrested today and held without bail on a charge of having prepared the masks used by the murderers and of having had guilty knowledge of the crime both before and after it was committed.

Edward Hewitt, Thomas Duncan and Steven Duncan, who killed Roberts in the Mad River country, near here, February 2, were sentenced today by Judge Bartlett. Hewitt will be sent to Folsom prison and the Duncans to San Quentin.

The judge talked with Hewitt for twenty-five minutes before pronouncing sentence, holding up to him the horror of his crime. Thomas Duncan, who is 20 years old, and Stephen, who is 16, were told that with good John Nelson, a fourth youth acconduct they might hope for parole. cused of complicity in the crime, will be placed on trial April 29.

CITY TAKES MENAGERIE.

New York Attaches Barnum and Bailey Circus Under Claim of Woman Rider, Who Was Injured.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 13.—New York City is officially in possession today of the entire menagerie of Barnum and Bailey's circus. An attachment on all the animals, from monkeys to elephants, was served by Sheriff Harburger in a suit for $25,000 damages brought by a woman bareback rider, who claims to have sustained a broken arm in Cleveland through carelessness of the management.

A score of deputies accompanied the sheriff to Madison Square Garden. When the sheriff found that it would cost the city $2500 a day to feed and care for the animals, he agreed to permit the circus managers to exhibit the animals if the city be relieved of this cost. In the meantime the circus managers set out to procure a bondsman for $50,000 to insure their attendance at the trial.

HIS DREAM SHATTERED.

Fugitive Toronto Banker Tells of a Wheat Reaper the Patent on Which Is Delayed by Arrest.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 13.—A cherished dream of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, former president of the Farmers' National Bank of Toronto, Ont., arrested here Tuesday for alleged irregularities amounting to $300,000 in connection with the failure of the bank two years ago, was disclosed today in a statement the prisoner made to the police.

"I left Toronto a year after the failure of the bank to devote my entire time to perfecting a new style of wheat reaper which I had in mind for a long time," said Nesbitt.

"I expected this invention would give me a new start in life and bring sufficient money for me to return to Toronto and live with my former friends. I have worked on this invention ever since, but my work is not completed.

"Now my plans are changed. I will fight extradition. That is all there is for me to do under the circumstances.

"Why didn't people say something about forgeries before I left Toronto? I was there a year after the bank closed, but not a word about these charges was uttered by anyone.

"When I came to Chicago I changed my name and cloaked my identity, not because I was afraid, but so I could continue working on my invention. I am innocent of any wrongdoing and the people of Canada know it."

In substantiation of Nesbitt's story of diligent work and a studious life, many tomes of books on medicine and science were found in the room on the South Side, where he lived.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

Phosphorus Matches Taboo.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The President has signed the bill to tax white phosphorus matches. It is claimed the law will in effect prohibit their manufacture. The matches have been denounced in Congressional hearings as harmful to laborers engaged in their manufacture.

Relief for the Settlers.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Smith of Arizona introduced a bill today providing for an extension of time for the payment of their land by settlers on the Salt River reclamation lands, and to extend the same privileges to those on the Yuma project.

COMMON GARDEN SAGE RESTORES GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh faded hair, when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days; and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Special Agent, Sun Drug Company.

GRAND JUROR AS WITNESS.

Testifies Foreman Sought to Indict Accused Ft. Worth Divine to Destroy His Influence.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FT. WORTH Tex.) April 13.—Lawyers for the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, the Baptist minister on trial accused of perjury, attempted to show today that Clarence Ousley, a foreman of the grand jury, that indicted Norris, was prejudiced. The defense swore a member of the grand jury, who testified that Ousley, who is editor of the Ft. Worth Record, said to the jury:

"I don't believe we have evidence enough to indict him. If we indict him it will destroy his influence in the State."

Norris was indicted, accused of having himself written the letters that threatened his life.

ORIGINAL PLAY IS A HIT.

LOS GATOS (Cal.) April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Last evening an audience, whose numbers tested the capacity of the Los Gatos Operahouse, witnessed the first performance of an original play, "The Title Hunter," by Miss Marian Engle, a talented pupil of the local High School. Miss Engle is only 16. The play was cleverly conceived and the different characters were well enacted. Two or three of the amateurs would not have been out of place among professionals. The stage settings were suitably arranged. The first scene represented a Japanese tea garden on a Burlingame estate, with female attendants in native costume. At the conclusion of the evening's performance there was an enthusiastic demonstration for the young author, whose modesty, however, did not allow her to appear before the curtain, and friends found she had sought a hiding place in the dressing-room.

LOWERS RATE ON MOHAIR.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The Interstate Commerce Commission held today that there was no substantial reason why mohair should be required to pay a higher freight rate than wool. No order of the commission was issued but it was suggested that railroads readjust their rates on mohair in conformity with freight rates on wool which were materially reduced in an order issued yesterday.

APRIL'S SHOOTING STARS.

An Unusually Favorable Opportunity for Their Observance This Year, Because of New Moon.

[Memphis Commercial Appeal:] This is the month when there occurs the bright shower of shooting stars known as the Lyrids, this name being given to them because they are seen to dart outward in all directions from the constellation of Lyra, or the Harp. This beautiful constellation, with its very brilliant, blue star Vega, may be seen just rising in the northeast in the early evenings of April, while throughout the latter half of the night it is high in the heavens. In observing the star shower, it is therefore best to select a late hour of the evening, even deferring the observation until after midnight, if possible.

The greatest number of shooting stars will be seen on the evenings of April 20, 21 and 22, and this year we have an unusually favorable opportunity for observing them, since the moon on these dates is nearly new. If, late in the evening, the observer will turn to the constellation Lyra, he will see every few minutes a bluish, very swiftly-moving shooting star dart outward and move in any direction across the sky, while it may be that at times two or three shooting stars will suddenly appear at once. The shower will continue all through the three nights and during the days as well, though when the sun is shining we can, of course, not see the stars.

The stars of this or of any shower are a great stream of meteoric particles moving about our sun, through which the earth plows once each year. Each swiftly moving particle as it collides with our earth is burnt up by the friction of its motion through our protecting air and the burning particle is what we see as a shooting star. That all the stars of any shower appear to move outward from one little area in the sky is merely the effect of perspective; the area is the vanishing point of the parallel paths in which the particles move. The present shower is the remains of the first comet of 1861.

Fighting the Right Plague

Kill the Catarrh Germs and the White Plague Problem Is More Than Half Solved.

Consumption is caused by germs; so is Catarrh.

People who have catarrh are liable to become victims of dread consumption.

The reason is very simple. Germs of consumption, no matter how vicious, can make little headway when the membrane of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes is in a healthy condition.

When, however, the membrane is raw, sore and inflamed because of catarrh and the ravages of devilish catarrh microbes, the germs of consumption can easily and quickly find a home to their liking and thus begins thousands of cases of consumption. It starts with a cough and ends in a coffin.

Get rid of catarrh, if you have it, and you can get rid of it if you will breathe HYOMEI, a soothing healing antiseptic air that reaches the nose and throat and goes clear into the air cells of the lungs, where it destroys catarrh germs and cures catarrh.

Sprays, douches, snuffs, ointments and stomach dosing won't cure catarrh. You've got to get where the germs are before you can kill them, and HYOMEI gets there while all other treatments fail.

Delays only invite needless danger; get a HYOMEI outfit today at any good drug store for $1.00. If you already own a HYOMEI inhaler, you can get a bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

MAY ABOLISH MAYOR'S TITLE.

Pasadena Being Worked by the Socialistic Germ.

Commission Form of Government Has Its Advocates.

Oppose Annexation as Condition for Securing Water.

(Office of The Times, 52 S. Fair Oaks avenue.)

PASADENA, April 14.—When the City Council next Tuesday calls a special election for May 24, it will not be for the purpose of voting upon the terms of liquor regulation, alone. The question of whether Pasadena shall do away with a Mayor and City Council and take on the commission form of government will probably have a place on the ballot.

The City Charter Revision Commission met yesterday afternoon at the office of City Attorney Carr and concluded that inasmuch as the election is to be called, and no additional expense will be incurred through submitting other questions to the voters at the same time, it will recommend to the Council that this proposed change in form of municipal government be one of them. This recommendation will be made next Tuesday, and, according to a statement of Mayor Thum last night, there is little chance that it will not be acceptable.

"I think," he said, "that the Charter Revision Commission will submit something that will be suitable, without a doubt."

The plan the commissioners have in mind is to so arrange the matter that if the commission government is chosen at the election, it will become operative upon the expiration of Mayor Thum's term of office, next May. This, they figure, will allow of ample time for the matter to be acted upon by the State Legislature, and for the making of all local arrangements incident to the change.

In place of a Mayor and Council, they would vest all the functions that now appertain to these offices in three commissioners. These commissioners would be elected by the people. In their estimation, the fact that the commission form of government has been adopted, and is now in operation, in 210 cities of the United States, is ample reason why Pasadena should have it. They believe that this city is especially suited to such a form of government.

The subject, of course, is not a new one, but until yesterday, there was thought to be little likelihood of the question coming to a head here until next fall, or later.

Mayor Thum said last night:

"From experience I have had while Mayor of the city I believe that the commission form of government is a thing for Pasadena to try. There will still be a Mayor, to all practical purposes, for one member of the commission, if the plan is carried out, will give a greater amount of his time to official duties than the others; and I believe that it would be better for the man, and better for the city. I believe it would be better than the government we now have."

The Mayor declares that he will not be a candidate for one of the offices if the system is adopted and a commission elected.

OPPOSE ANNEXATION.

In a communication sent to the Public Service Commission of Los Angeles yesterday the Pasadena Board of Water Commissioners ask upon what terms, other than annexation with that city, Owens River water may be had. Five reasons are given why this city is unalterably opposed to annexation.

First, Pasadena desires to control its own liquor regulation, and were there no other reasons at all, it is declared, this one alone would be sufficient.

Secondly, that Pasadena has no way of telling what the political situation in Los Angeles will be in the future, and annexation might prove detrimental to either side.

Thirdly, that the local street department can meet the demands of the city's highway improvement better than could the Los Angeles municipal government.

Fourthly, that nothing should be undertaken at this time that would tend to place in jeopardy the Pasadena electric light plant.

Fifthly, that a political body of moderate size can institute advanced steps that a larger organization, like Los Angeles, could not succeed with.

The letter reads in part:

"For these and other similar reasons Pasadena does not desire annexation with a larger city; and if a portion of the Owens River water and power cannot be disposed of without your board retaining control thereof, the citizens of this city would like a proposition from you giving the conditions under which you would advise the citizens of Los Angeles to dispose of some of it. These conditions, however, should not require Pasadena to give up any part of her self-government. For Pasadena to become a member of a public utilities federation, of which the city of Los Angeles would be the principal factor, appeals to us personally, and, we believe, to a majority of the people of this city. These utilities might include water, electricity, trunk sewer lines, and such other activities as can be better managed in common.

"Pasadena, however, is desirous of carrying her own burdens, even though at considerable disadvantage. To raise by taxation the funds necessary for the annual discharge of the city's business is especially difficult for Pasadena. All of the large utility corporations, and all of the wholesale houses and manufactories, large department stores, large retail stores and theaters with which Pasadenans do business are located in Los Angeles, and these institutions pay their taxes there. If Pasadena were located farther away from Los Angeles, and had her own institutions of these classes, we could, without giving so much serious attention to our finances, pay for additional water; and if it were not for the surrounding populous territory, Los Angeles would not have so much taxable property as she now has, and you might have more difficulty in carrying out your great undertakings.

"This is all stated thus plainly in order to show why Pasadena takes the liberty of asking you to give it your lowest price without at the same time offering to be annexed merely for the purpose of making negotiations easy."

APPOINTMENT IS MADE.

James H. Howard of No. 1126 Davison street yesterday was appointed Deputy City Attorney by Mayor Thum. The City Council has confirmed the appointment.

At a recent session of the Council City Attorney Carr stated that the work of the office has become so great that it was impossible for himself and Assistant City Attorney Munger to attend to it; hence the new deputy.

CITY BRIEFS.

Appraisers of the property that is needed by the city for the proposed widening of Union street, between Marengo and Worcester avenues, yesterday placed its value at $40,000. The street is now thirty feet wide and the proposition is to make it forty feet wide.

There was a rush of voters yesterday to take advantage of the last day to register for the Presidential primaries, May 14.

Dr. Thomas McClary, a noted Irish orator, will speak at a meeting to be held at the Pasadena Young Men's Christian Association building this afternoon.

The State of Maine Association of Pasadena will meet at Odd Fellows' Hall next Tuesday night.

A company of amateur actors and actresses are rehearsing for the "Shugun," which will soon be presented in the city under the auspices of the Emergency League.

Hundreds of Angelenos and many residents of the city, and pupils of the public schools yesterday climbed Mt. Wilson and Mt. Lowe to see the snow.

The programme for today's band concert follows: March, "Belle of Chicago" (Sousa;) Hungarian Fantasie (Tobani;) cornet solo by William E. Bates; selection from "The Mikado" (Sullivan;) overture, "Masaniello" (Auber;) "Traeumerei" (Schumann;) "Celebrated Menuet" (Boccherini;) "Melodies of 1862" (Calvin.)

WILL SURPASS FORMER SHOW.

Anniversary Day at Monrovia Promises to Be One of the Most Successful Shows in Town's History.

MONROVIA, April 13.—As plans for anniversary day celebration, May 17 assume ordered form through the enthusiastic co-operation of the several committees it becomes apparent that this year's festival will surpass all predecessors. Year by year the day has taken unto itself distinctive character as local fete and its observance this spring will fix it permanently as the holiday par excellence when Monrovia entertains.

All arrangements for the occasion are being made by the Merchants' Association, which organization bears the greater part of the expense. Heretofore only one day, May 17, has been given over to merry making. This year, however, it has been decided to begin the celebration on Thursday, May 16 and continue for three days, closing Saturday evening with a grand ball.

Temporary control of an extensive frontage on Myrtle avenue between White Oak and Olive avenues has been obtained for a street fair and a contract closed yesterday with the California Carnival Association for twenty-two attractions. Many of the shows are novelties staged for the first time this season and all under the direct control of local committees insuring their freedom from objectionable features.

The original plan of a floral parade led by the May Queen on May 17, will be adhered to and on that day business places will be closed. On Thursday and Saturday business will be conducted as usual and in the larger shows, merchants have arranged for display booths. Some of the most attractive and costly features of the carnival are the free out-door shows paid for by the Merchants' Association.

One point fully determined upon by the arrangement committee is that plans for the entertainment of the several thousand guests expected shall be carefully and definitely worked out and as conscientiously executed.

AZUSA NOTES.

AZUSA, April 13.—After an illness of only a few days, Evelyn, the 12-year-old daughter of T. J. Sutton, died on Thursday morning at 3:30 o'clock. The funeral services were held yesterday morning at 9:30 in the Christian Church, the pastor, Rev. James B. McIntire, officiating. The interment was at Oakdale Cemetery.

For the first time in twenty-three years death has entered the family of Matthew Matney of Irwindale, taking from him the wife, who had been his companion for nearly half a century. Mary Burton was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1846, was married to Matthew Matney in 1863, came to this valley in 1888, and has resided here continuously ever since. She was the mother of fourteen children. Six sons and six daughters survive her. There with their children, thirty-one in number, all live in Los Angeles county, several of them in Azusa. Last Christmas Day the family had a reunion at the home of C. O. Ream of this place, the whole forty-five being present. It was the last time that the deceased saw all her children and grandchildren together. The large number of people who gathered at the funeral of this pioneer settler testifies to the high esteem in which she was held.

Miss Helen Gould, passing through Azusa by automobile, made a detour, which took her to the mouth of the San Gabriel Canyon. There she alighted for a scramble over the boulders, and to gather the wild flowers which the recent rains have brought out in great profusion. Her interest was not confined to nature, but—seeing the camp of the county chaingang that is working on the new canyon road—she walked over to it. She was met by Capt. Gilles, who recognized her, but who courteously allowed her to believe that she was as unknown as she evidently desired to be. Miss Gould manifested the greatest interest in the prisoners, and asked many questions regarding them. She wanted to know what they do, how they are cared for, and whether or not they received any pay. She was much disappointed that neither Capt. Gilles nor any of the guards with whom she talked could tell her the names of the flowers that she had gathered. Some of her party went up the canyon, but Miss Gould continued her trip eastward.

INJURIES WILL PROVE FATAL.

Aged Nebraskan Will Succumb to Injuries Received.

Railroad Inspection Causes Various Rumors to Arise.

Los Angeles Woman Wins Over Corporation.

LONG BEACH, April 13.—John C. McGowan, the aged Nebraskan, struck yesterday by a Salt Lake train, will probably die from his injuries. Last night he lapsed into a semi-conscious condition and a closer examination of his injuries revealed a fracture of the skull, with a depression deep enough to hold the end of a person's thumb. In addition hemorrhages indicate internal injuries, the kidneys being affected.

The victim is 71 years of age and this makes his condition almost hopeless, according to the attending physicians. Eyewitnesses of the accident say that when McGowan's attention was finally attracted to the approaching train he turned the wrong way and stepped directly toward the train and was struck by the cylinder head of the locomotive. In addition to his other injuries the victim's right leg seems to be partially paralyzed.

RUMORS RISE.

The presence in the city this week of high officials of the Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific roads and their inspection of the lines of both companies has given rise to the old rumor that the local Southern Pacific tracks are to be merged with the Pacific Electric and electricized.

According to the rumors, the S. P. ticket office is to be transferred to the P. E. depot and nothing but baggage and freight will be hauled over the Southern Pacific, passengers being routed over the Pacific Electric. The fact that after May 1, tickets of the Southern Pacific are to be honored by the P. E. lends additional color to the rumor. The two roads connect with a switch at Alamitos and Broadway and only poles and wires would be needed to transform the railroad line into an electric line, giving the P. E. another main line track from Long Beach to Los Angeles and to Pasadena.

A woman said to be Mrs. Mabel Whithorn of Los Angeles came down to Long Beach yesterday to look after her property on East Fourth street and surprised employees of a public service corporation busily digging holes in front of her home for poles. They refused to obey her demand to cease work, whereupon Mrs. Whithorn, who was well dressed and wore a hat trimmed in ostrich plumes calmly plumped herself in one of the holes and a passer-by accepted an offer of $2 to occupy the other hole. Both declined all offers or requests to vacate and the workmen finally abandoned their efforts on orders from the pole chief. Mrs. Whithorn and her assistant then filled up the holes and warned the corporation not to dig them out again. Today the workmen placed their poles but dug the holes on the ends of the lot, leaving a clear view for the house.

Seventy teachers of science and mathematics from all parts of Southern California attended the meeting of the Southern California Science and Mathematics Association. They met at the Polytechnic auditorium and were welcomed by Superintendent Graham. A feature of the morning programme was an address on "The Aqueduct," by a representative of Engineer Mulholland, who was unable to be present himself. The remainder of the morning and afternoon sessions were devoted to papers on the different branches of work. After luncheon and an inspection of the Polytechnic building the teachers finished their programme and then went on a boat ride about the bay as the guests of the Chamber of Commerce, visiting also the sloop Dohran of the marine biological department of U.S.C.

The Same Roosevelt.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] Roosevelt is plainly the same old Roosevelt, making the familiar appeal to ignorance, envy and malice; directing the finger of suspicion at every man whose fortune or income may be regarded as "too large" by the played-outs, the deadbeats and the deadbrokes.

Deep down in his heart every man of any property, whether it be of "malefactorish," or merely "penal" dimensions, knows that this is the same Roosevelt who cajoled the late E. H. Harriman before election and beat him with a club after election.

What's the use of pretending? Roosevelt is the same old Truepenny. He doesn't even try to hide it.

GLENDALE PRESBYTERIANS TO DEDICATE NEW CHURCH

GLENDALE, April 13.—The greatest event in the history of the Glendale Presbyterian Church will occur tomorrow when the dedication of the church will take place. For several years the members of this church have anticipated and worked for the edifice which will be formally opened tomorrow. The dedication will take place with the church practically all paid for, more than $5000 having been raised during the past week. The church, which has a seating capacity of nearly 300, is located at the corner of Fourth and Cedar streets. It was erected at a cost of nearly $20,000, the work being done under the personal supervision of Elias Ayers, a member of the congregation. Paul V. Tuttle, a local architect, designed the structure, which is in keeping with the modern mission types of this day. Besides a large auditorium, class-rooms, pastor's study and lobbies, on the main floor, the basement has been fitted up with a modern kitchen and a banquet-room.

Tomorrow will be known as "Dedication Day" in this church. In the morning at 9:45 o'clock Sunday-school will be held, and at the morning preaching service, at 11 o'clock, John Willis Baer, president of Occidental College, will give an address. The dedicatory sermon will be delivered at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when W. B. Gantz, D.D., pastor of Highland Park Presbyterian Church, will preach. At 7:45 o'clock in the evening a union service will be held in this church, when Dr. R. A. Torrey of the Bible institute of Los Angeles, will preach. At each of these services there will be special music.

Monday evening Rev. W. E. Edmunds will be formally installed as pastor of the church, Rev. Cyrus B. Hatch, pastor of the Tropico Presbyterian Church, having been appointed moderator. Dr. L. C. Kerkes of the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church, will deliver the sermon. Dr. Pritchard of the Central Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles, will give the charge to the people. Dr. Young, State clerk of Los Angeles Presbytery, will give the charge to the pastor.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Preparations are being made for the erection of the large tent at the corner of Fourth street and Louise, in which the three-weeks' series of evangelistical services will be held, the first meeting taking place next Thursday evening. Evangelist C. R. Haudenschield will be in charge of the series, assisted by the musical director, Prof. H. A. Farrar, who will lead a large chorus choir. A preliminary service will be held in the tent Wednesday evening when Rev. W. E. Edmunds will be the speaker and Mr. Farrar will lead the music. These meetings will be held under the auspices of the combined churches of this valley, including Tropico, Glendale, West Glendale and Casa Verdugo.

Monday night the Glendale Lighting Department will open bids for supplying about $25,000 worth of material for the extension of the house lighting of the Glendale lighting system, this extension being made in the territory known as West Glendale, which was annexed to this city recently. The material will begin to arrive in about two weeks and work will start immediately upon its arrival. Within the next few days the city of Glendale will purchase the lines and plant of the Glendale Light and Power Company lying to the west and north of the city, in the sections recently taken into the city. This purchase will be made at the expense of about $10,000.

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Sixth-street school will be held in the schoolhouse next Friday afternoon. The address of the day will be made by Mrs. C. C. Noble, who returned Wednesday from the national convention of the Congress of Mothers held in St. Louis. The Fourth-street Grammar school Parent-Teachers' Association will hold its regular meeting in the school building next Thursday afternoon. The annual election of officers will take place at this time.

Gen. Pryce, who was arrested some time ago for taking part in the Mexican revolution under President Diaz's term of office, and Capt. Dalton, who also fought in the revolution, have been employed during the past week by the Kalem Motion Picture Company, located at this place. They acted in a number of pictures taken in Sycamore Canyon early this week.

IN GALA ATTIRE FOR THE MASONS

San Diego Polishes Up for the Fraternal Throng.

Fifty Commanderies Will Be Represented at Meeting.

Members of Vagrant Gang Are Losing Courage.

SAN DIEGO, April 13.—San Diego is in gala attire as a greeting to the delegates to the Masonic grand bodies, the Grand Council, Royal and Select Masters, the Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons and the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, which will be in session all of next week, beginning Sunday. D street at night is to be a blaze of light from festoons of electric bulbs. Fifth street is to be the same. At Second and D streets is a huge passion cross in colored lights, representing the Masonic emblem. At Fifth and D streets is to be a Maltese cross in colored lights. Business blocks are draped in Knight Templar colors.

The first delegation to arrive will be the grand officers of the three bodies who are expected to morrow. Aside from the business sessions of the organizations the week will be filled in with entertainment of balls, receptions, exhibition drills, parades and excursions. California Commandery No. 1 of San Francisco, which is to be escort to the Grand Commandery at the conclave will travel southward in a special train. In the parade of the commanderies members of this commandery will ride black horses. The local committee has scoured the country for enough steeds of qualifications to supply the mounts.

Delegates to the grand council will arrive Sunday evening and it is anticipated that at the opening session Monday morning more than 100 delegates will be present. The grand chapter convenes Tuesday morning and will be in session two days. At least [illegible] delegates are expected. The grand commandery convenes Thursday. More than fifty commanderies will be represented. From Los Angeles a large delegation is expected. The commanderies, drill team and band, in charge of Gen. Robert Wan[illegible], chief of staff to the grand captain-general, and Col. F. G. Teed, who will command the third division. The following from Los Angeles have reserved accommodations at the U. S. Grant Hotel: Gen. and Mrs. Wan[illegible], Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Youngworth, A. J. [illegible] Jr., J. A. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Rowley, Col. F. G. Teed, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. C. Spruance, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Krohn, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. [illegible], Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. George H. LOSES COURAGE.

One by one the I. W. W.'s who, two months ago, were brave enough to defy police authority and the laws of State, fall in line with acknowledgment that they were wrong. S. T. Johnson, who at first was one of the most rabid of all law defiers, this morning acknowledged his error and pleaded guilty. On recommendation of Dist.-Atty. H. S. Utley, Judge [illegible] of Superior Court, granted him probation.

Johnson told the District Attorney and court that he had seen the light; that he is now convinced the I. W. W. movement will not be tolerated and that the disturbances the organization has caused has set it back for ten years.

Johnson was formerly employed by the city and says he has worked for the [illegible] Lumber Company. When the instigators of the I. W. W. movement to disregard the law by holding street meetings prohibited by ordinance called for volunteers Johnson was one of the first to mount a soap box and defy the police. While in jail he was the leader of several [illegible] outbreaks necessitating use of the hose. Within the last few days he became penitent and asked for mercy. His release from jail leaves twenty-six of the alleged conspirators to be tried in Superior Court.

FOR AUTO CLUB.

The Chamber of Commerce and the local association of automobile owners have arranged to entertain the members of the Automobile Club of Southern California, their wives and families, while in this city, Monday and Tuesday at Hotel del Coronado and Lakeside.

Fred W. Jackson, director of the association for San Diego county, this morning received information from Secretary E. C. Geary that 563 persons in automobiles will leave the club's headquarters in Los Angeles at 6 o'clock Monday morning, coming by way of Anaheim, Santa Ana, San Juan Capistrano and Oceanside to Del Mar, where luncheon will be served at 2 o'clock at the Stratford Inn. At Del Mar the automobilists will be met by members of the Chamber of Commerce and a delegation of the automobile dealers, who will escort the party to San Diego and to Coronado. Manager Wills of Hotel del Coronado, has reserved rooms for the entire party and Monday night will give a ball in honor of the visitors. Tuesday morning the tourists will rendezvous at the San Diego State normal school, from where the start to Lakeside will be made at 10:30 o'clock. Manager [illegible] has arranged for outdoor games of tennis, golf, and baseball. A big barbecue will be served. Members of the Chamber of Commerce will participate. In the afternoon a drive from Lakeside to [illegible] dam will be made and after a short stop there the party will return to Hotel del Coronado, where another ball will be given in their honor. The return to Los Angeles will be made Wednesday.

The purpose of the trip to San Diego is to acquaint a large part of the membership of the Southern California Automobile Association with the delights of motoring in this county. While the recent heavy rains have somewhat damaged the roads the county Supervisors today put men to work dragging and filling in all mudholes on the Coast road and on the road to Lakeside.

CUTS RABBIT RANGES.

Increasing Call for Tillable Soil Results in Extensions of Clearings in Country About Auld.

AULD, April 13.—The increasing call for tillable land is resulting hereabout this season in a material extension of cleared acres and a corresponding diminution of the acres heretofore devoted chiefly to pasturage, but which produced little beside buck brush and jackrabbits, neither of which is noted as a yielder of revenue. Charles and Henry Auld are clearing fifty acres a half-mile westerly from the postoffice. This will be summer-fallowed, that is, plowed before the dampness from this spring's rains is lost, and allowed to lie till seeding time next winter, thereby conserving the moisture. The land will be seeded with the intention of harvesting a grain crop next year. A lot of land on the William Newport south ranch is being likewise cleared of brush. Mr. Newport is planning to plant a good many olive trees. Similar clearings to a smaller degree are being made on the John Harvey and W. R. Greenwood ranches.

More than half a normal crop is the prediction for grain on summer-fallowed land about here. Early-seeded wheat on such land is much streaked. Owing to the heavy soil, it did not come up on the lower and wetter patches. Late-seeded wheat generally shows an even or nearly even stand, but its growth is not nearly so far advanced as that of wheat which was sown early and did come up.

The rainfall, as shown by readings at the Greenwood ranch, has, since the first of March, amounted to 9.90 inches. The ground is so thoroughly saturated that most of the recent precipitation has run off.

John Harvey shot a young wildcat in his park, yesterday. The brute measured an inch over four feet and weighed thirteen pounds.

ELSINORE.

ELSINORE, April 13.—The splendid rains of this spring amount to 9.03 inches, according to the Wilhite rain gauge. There has been cold weather, with much snow on the mountains across the lake. Many swallows, which evidently came north too early, have perished, and hundreds of them are bunched in the holes in the cliffs along the lake shore.

The Knights of Pythias are planning to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Lake Elsinore Lodge No. 140, Monday afternoon. There will be a parade, boat races to which the public is invited at 1 p.m., and a 6 o'clock banquet, and later a dance for the lodge members and guests. The K. P. Hall has been decorated and renovated and is pronounced to be the finest lodge hall in the city at present. A number of young, new blood has been identified with it the past year or two and it has come well to the front.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church scored a big success with their Easter sale and cafeteria supper.

The automobile road up Flagstaff Hill is being widened to make it safe for general use, and it promises, when completed to be one of the finest points from which to view the most beautiful scenic panorama of natural loveliness in the Southwest. Lake, mountains, hills of every tint of coloring, thrifty ranches and the pretty little town, spread in endless variety of colorings. From the summit all of the snow-capped mountains, including Old Baldy, Palomar and the San Bernardino and San Jacinto ranges are visible. This hill has for years been the Mecca of pilgrims who climbed its roads and trails.

FULLERTON NOTES.

FULLERTON, April 13.—Seventy-five or more members of the I.W.W. passed through here about 6 o'clock this evening, presumably en route to San Diego, intending to walk most of the way. This afternoon twelve more arrived here and went on to Anaheim. They were a rather seedy-looking lot.

The Taft Club, at its meeting last night, effected a permanent organization by electing G. W. Sherwood president and W. J. Wickersheim vice-president.

ALASKA A WINTER RESORT.

Peculiar Weather that Makes Possible Changes of Tourist Travel in the Future.

[Washington Post:] "Gov. Clark of Alaska was not wrong when he made the prediction that our northernmost Territory is liable to become a popular winter resort," remarked M. E. Sullivan of Juneau, at the Willard. "When I left Alaska, several weeks ago, the weather was as balmy as the finest spring day in Washington. Straw hats and linen dusters were being worn, despite the fact that other sections of the United States were experiencing the most severe winter of the last twenty years. Whether this condition existing in Alaska at the present time is due to a sudden change in the course of the Japan currents I am not able to say. I notice the hydrographic office in Washington denies that any such thing has taken place. They may be all right in their contention, but I do know that we have had some very strange weather in Alaska within the last month or so. Whether our Territory is to become a rival of Florida as a winter resort I do not pretend to say, but we certainly have had no use for overcoats up there recently.

"Alaska will show this year a greater production of riches than at any time since the country was opened," added Mr. Sullivan. "Notwithstanding the obstacles that have been placed in the way of development, the spirit of progress is among the people, and even if we have no help, Alaska is bound to go ahead. Our people would like to have the support of the government, and I have no doubt that it will come in due time, but just at this time it would be more appreciated than in the future."

GROVES SELL FOR BIG PAICES.

Riverside Properties in Demand at Fancy Figures.

Many Knights Templar Will Visit San Diego.

RIVERSIDE, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William H. H. Sewell of Boston, former Congressman from Minnesota, has sold to John T. Bennison of Los Angeles a thirty-eight-acre Valencia grove on Orange Heights, Corona, for $75,000 cash. The deal was closed through the agencies of T. P. Cartwright & Company, of Los Angeles and Robert Lee Bettner of Riverside. The sale is the result of a three-months quest of Mr. Bennison for a retired home.

Alexander Taylor of Los Angeles has sold to David Miller, a Los Angeles capitalist, 320 acres in the El Sobrante rancho, between Riverside and Corona, for a consideration of $75,000. This is a portion of the tract owned until recently by the English sydicate of which Sir Herbert Moulton, Sir Buckley Praed, (Bart,) and other English noblemen belonged.

SUIT IS UNUSUAL.

William H. Moore of Los Angeles is plaintiff in an action unlike any ever tried in Riverside county. He filed a suit today as trustee in bankruptcy for J. A. Gray, bankrupt, against J. M. Westerfield. In this action he seeks to recover three sums aggregating $1653, from Westerfield because the latter made a notorial acknowledgement when the parties making oath to the affidavit were not present.

When Moore was appointed trustee for the Los Angeles Board of Trade in the Gray bankruptcy proceedings he found among Gray's effects a foreclosed trust deed executed to Gray by Frank Bliss and Bellie Bliss. The property was located in Beaumont and is claimed to be worth $2800. Bliss and his wife begun ejectment proceedings against Moore soon after he was appointed trustee and won their case on the showing that neither personally appeared before Westerfield when as notary public he acknowleged their signatures to the trust deed on March 16, 1907.

Moore now sues the notary, Westerfield, for $587, for the detention of the property, for $1000 for the original note given by the Bliss's to Gray and for $66 for costs in the suit of Bliss vs. Moore.

Westerfield conducts a bank at Banning. Attorneys for Moore in the suit filed today are Flint, Gray & Barker of Los Angeles.

Frank Bauwaraerts, held in the County Jail for the murder of Mrs. Harriet Guyot and Miss Julia Francois in the Chuckawalla Mountains, last month, will not be tried on May 25, as scheduled. The case was continued today until that date, when it will again be set for trial by Judge Densmore.

Public Administrator Polkinghorn was today appointed administrator in the estate of Mrs. Guyot. This action was taken in order to prevent Bauwaraerts getting the $117 belonging to the woman that he had in his possession when arrested.

Acting on the advice of his attorneys, Richard L. North and A. H. Winder, the Belgian refuses to see anybody except his jailor, and attorneys. North and Winger recently went out to the desert to make a personal examination of the country where the crime was committed, and to interview neighbors of the company of Belgian miners. They claim to have unearthed some important evidence.

LAND BIG NURSERY.

The plans of Tetley, Merriam & Childs to increase their citrus nursery holdings are revealed in the purchase by Frank A. Tetley of 63½ acres in the Vista Grande tract, two miles northeast of Highgrove, on the Redlands road. The land is unimproved, with the exception of pumping plant and pipe system over the entire acreage. The latter development was made by the seller, A. D. Bell, who receives $15,000 for the tract.

BUSINESS EXPANDS.

The growth of the city is indicated somewhat in the March report of the municipal lighting plant, which shows a gain in revenue over the same month last year of 10 per cent. The number of consumers has increased from 3270 to 3600, and the number of sixteen-candle-power lamps in use from 58,139 to 64,197. These respective increases are also 10 per cent. The net earnings of the plant for March amounted to $4485, while the value of the plant is estimated at $325,240, as against $282,296, a year ago.

KNIGHTS IN PARADE.

Riverside Commandery, Knights Templar, will be represented by thirty Nnights and their ladies, at San Diego, on the occasion of the Grand Commandery, next week. A special train has been secured for the trip, and this will also accommodate the Knights from San Bernardino and Redlands. Riverside Commandery will march in the second division, which will be headed by Golden Gate Commandery of San Francisco, in the grand parade scheduled for Thursday.

DRAMATIZED ARITHMETIC.

Young Tots Taught to Dance Through the Elements of Mathematics, and Conduct Real Shop.

[Atlantic Monthly:] There are sounds of revelry proceeding from the infant school. We must see what is afoot. The tiny tots are learning the elements of arithmetic, but there is no blackboard or chalk about. They themselves have papers, with a large number printed thereon, pinned on their breasts.

"Now, take partners for the dance!" says the teacher. "What number makes the right pair of partners?"

"Ten," answer the tinies.

Then at once 9 walks up to 1 and says: "Will you dance with me?" and leads his partner to the top of the room. Eight chooses 2, and 7 chooses 3, and so on until all are paired, each one picking out the number which, added to his or her own, will make up ten. If they are correct, they dance; but should they make an error they stand out. This is a great indignity and seldom occurs, we observe. The dance is a sort of glorified country dance, of the style of Sir Roger de Coverley.

But listen! A bell rings! Let us pop into the classroom from whence the sound comes. What do we see? A shop, a real shop, with a bell on the door to announce the advent of customers, with little girls behind the counter (a desk, with a yard measure pinned thereon) with a cashier presiding over a cash-box of cardboard coins; with real printed billheads, (kindly provided by a renowned soap manufacturer,) with rolls of ribbon (paperhanger's trimmings from the wall paper,) with customers buying and receiving correct measurements and change. The teacher watches to see that there are no mistakes; but it is a real game. The children are not reciting a prepared dialogue. They talk spontaneously, as children do when they play out of school.

Courtship of Anthony Dare and Marjorie Dee

In the parlor, which is Mother's pride,
With furnishings of a style well-tried
In ancestor's home over the sea,
Does Anthony court fair Marjorie Dee.

The second Tableau in the series will be shown in the two large Center Windows for one week, beginning Today. The romance grows apace! Make a point to see this interesting feature.

M'BURNEY'S

Kidney, Bladder and Rheumatism Medicine ONE DOSE RELIEVES

RHEUMATISM.

I do not believe there is a rheumatic pain that my medicine will not relieve in 20 minutes. I want every person who suffers with Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica and all those who have sharp, shooting pains in any part of the body, all those who have lame or weak backs, or stiff joint, to get a bottle of this almost infallible remedy.

GRAVEL.

MR. W. F. McBURNEY—Dear Sir: A friend recommended McBurney's Kidney and Bladder Cure. I took two-thirds of a bottle, when I passed two gravels. The first one was one and one-half inches long, and as large as a lead pencil; the other is about the size of a large white bean. I am now perfectly cured.

JOHN LOPEZ, Azusa, Cal.

DROPSY.

I suffered with dropsy for some time. My feet and limbs were swollen. My hands were swollen so bad that I could not shut them. One dose of McBurney's Kidney and Bladder Cure relieved me, and two-thirds of a bottle cured me.

MRS. BISBEE, South Pasadena, Cal.

CATARRH.

G. W. Gray, 1010 Thirty-fourth Avenue, Los Angeles, and formerly receiving agent Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad at Chicago, had Bright's Disease. One bottle of McBurney's Kidney and Bladder Cure, taken with McBurney's Liver Regulator and Blood Purifier cured him.

I take all the risk, and assume all the responsibility. You have only to call at my office and find out for yourself. If you cannot call at my office you can buy the regular size from any druggist for $1.50, or send 25 cents stamps for a five days' treatment to W. F. McBURNEY, 125½ S. Spring st., room 3, Los Angeles, Cal. Established 27 years.

People Ask What Is the Drink Habit?

Dr. Neal Has Demonstrated That Drink Habit Is Not a Disease, But a Poisoning of the System With Alcohol.

A man poisoned with alcohol cannot master his appetite for liquor because the craving for alcoholic stimulants has become so much stronger than the will-power. He jeopardizes his business or risks the loss of his position; his family may need money he earns, but the insatiable craving for liquor drives him to spend it in a way which injures both himself and his dependent ones. His actions may drive wife and children from home, but he cannot master his appetite for liquor, no matter how hard he tries. He may want to quit, but cannot of his own accord.

Three days' treatment, without hypodermic injections, at the Neal Institute, 945 South Olive street, Los Angeles, Cal., and all craving and necessity for drink is gone and he is once more master of himself—a new, free man. For full information call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, or write or phone G. U. Neal, Manager, for Dr. Neal's free book.

True Specialists

Drs. Shores have spent many years in the study and treatment of Catarrh, Asthma, Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases of Men, Women and Children. They have treated thousands, an experience rarely ever granted any specialists, and have gleaned therefrom information that is invaluable to sick people. They would not attempt to treat Scarlet Fever or Diphtheria at any price, not because they don't know how, but because they have not given it the thought and constant study that other doctors have, and, in short, it is not in their line of specialties. Every moment is given to studying CATARRH, CONSUMPTION, CHRONIC, NERVOUS and PRIVATE DISEASES. There is where they excel and there is where they can serve you better than most anyone else. PROMINENT SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH

THE HEAD AND THROAT.

This form of catarrh is most common—resulting from neglected colds—quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.

Is your head stopped up?
Does your nose discharge?
Is your nose sore and tender?
Is there pain in front of the head?
Do you hawk to clear the throat?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Do you sleep with your mouth open?

You can be easily cured now. Don't let it run into complications.

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES.

When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated, it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and after a while attacks the lungs.

Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel like you were growing weaker?

Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs.

OF THE EARS.

Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tubes into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness.

Is your hearing failing?
Do your ears discharge?
Do they ring?
Is the wax drying in your ears?
Do you hear better on some days?
Does a cold make your head worse?

Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed.

OF THE STOMACH.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucous which drops down from the head and throat at night.

Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Are you constipated?
Do you bloat after eating?
Is there constant bad taste?

Now is the time to be permanently cured. Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year. Consultation Free.

The Five Year Guarantee

We were first to guarantee an electric Flatiron—true, 'twas for six months only—but soon we followed with a new model and a two-year guarantee.

NOW

the Heating Element in our 1912 Model "H" Hotpoint Iron is Guaranteed Five Years

Hotpoint

Exchange Offer

If you have an Electric Flatiron, made by the PACIFIC ELECTRIC HEATING COMPANY—no matter how old it is—no matter what its condition is—no matter if the guarantee expired long ago—no matter if it's just so much junk, if you have the bottom you can exchange it for an improved 1912 Model Hotpoint, with the heating element guaranteed for 5 years—on these terms—

Take the old iron to your Electric Light Company, or to any of the dealers named below, and it will be accepted as two-fifths payment for an improved Hotpoint Electric iron—which sells for $5.00.

In other words—your old iron and $3.00 will entitle you to the $5.00 Improved Model Hotpoint Electric Iron—the handsomest, the most efficient and greatest labor-saving iron made.

The Old Was Good—The New Is Better

Vast improvements have been made in Hotpoint Electric Irons in the last few years.

While the old Hotpoint Iron was the best in its day—compared with the 1912 Model it is a clumsy affair and unhandsome.

The Improved Hotpoint Iron is a beauty in appearance and is the most efficient iron made today.

It's more economical, too—consumes less electric current.

The Hot Point

In ironing damp clothes the point of an iron becomes cool—which is a disadvantage—so we made our iron with a heating element that would keep the point hot—hence the name Hotpoint.

The Cool Handle

Every woman who has ever ironed knows the comfort value of a cool handle—no burning the hands—no holder to bother with.

The Hotpoint Iron has an asbestos pad inside the iron, which positively deflects the heat from the handle toward the sole of the iron, where it is needed.

The Attached Stand

Think of the continual wear and tear on a woman's strength and nerves when she has to lift an iron from the stove to the stand and from the stand to the board—hundreds of times a day.

No lifting with a Hotpoint Iron—the stand is attached—just turn the iron up on end—no lifting—no trouble—fine!

Ask the woman who knows!

Southern California Edison Co., Pacific Light & Power Co., Los Angeles Gas & Electric Corporation will make the exchange for any of their own customers, or any of these dealers will make the exchange for you.

FINANCIAL NEWS SUMMARY.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury building, Los Angeles.]

After an irregular opening the market displayed a rather steady undertone during session. Majority of traders were disposed to wait results of Pennsylvania primaries as an indication of future trend of political events before committing themselves to a greater extent, and in addition the strength in the agricultural commodity markets coupled with wheat crop advices, which were far from encouraging and the conflicting reports with regard to labor situation, were all factors which tended to hold in check the interest committed to the side of the advancing prices. The Bank Statement was rather good. The market near close bore the appearance of being somewhat oversold. It should be borne in mind in connection with the reports relative to damage to winter wheat that planting of other cereals such as oats, will in great part be reflected by a good tonnage for the railroads.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS

Firmness characterized the market generally. Changes in quotations were few and immaterial. In the market for fruits, bananas were the feature of the day's trade. A sharp rise in quotations was shown with Central American offerings going to 4½ cents per pound. Several months ago the market was glutted, due to most of the stock being unloaded along the Pacific seaboard, as the severe cold weather in the East kept the stock from finding an outlet there. Now that spring has arrived most of the Central American bananas are finding their way in on the eastern markets and the local market has but little stock on hand. It is not expected that prices will go higher, as the market at its best is not generally over 4½ cents.

Arrivals of strawberries were liberal, but the quality of most of the offerings were such that top prices were hard to obtain. Some shipments were made to northern points, but they were not heavy. The best berries sold at 13 cents per basket.

There was a good demand for oranges, but buyers would not pay an advance. Other citrus fruits showed no change. Apples continued steady, with the demand for Pippins and Bellefleurs.

In the market for green vegetables no material changes were shown. Receipts were about in keeping with the demand and this had the effect of upholding prevailing quotations. Asparagus and celery were the best sellers. The former ranged from 5 to 10 cents per pound, according to quality. Celery was in more liberal receipt, but dealers had no trouble in disposing of their holdings at round figures.

No change was shown in the egg market. There was a falling off in receipts, due to recent rains, and this caused former quotations to be upheld. Case-counts moved well at 22¼ cents. Sales were small, being confined to one and two-case lots. Receipts were 645 cases.

The butter market was quotably unchanged. There was a strong undercurrent of strength shown and quoted prices were firmly held, notwithstanding that receipts were liberal. Advices from the North served to keep the market in good shape, as San Francisco is shipping considerable stock to Oregon points. Arrivals were 39,719 pounds.

Cheese was firm and unchanged. There was a good demand for northern fresh and domestic Swiss at quoted figures. Arrivals were 2802 pounds.

The potato market closed weak. It is expected that further declines along this line will be shown next week, owing to the topheavy condition of the market. Highland stock was best in call, owing to the low quotations on this stock. Local White Rose stock was placed back to 3.00 and 3.25 per hundred weight, owing to a heavy demand for this variety. Receipts were 601 sacks.

There were no arrivals of onions, and large dealers contended that the recent advance was unwarranted, but the supply is said to be very limited.

No sweet potatoes or beans were reported in. The markets on these commodities were firm.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE.

Union Is the Most Active Oil Stock Traded in on the Local Market. Light Business.

The closing day of the week on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange was not a record-maker in the way of transactions. Union Oil was the most active stock, and this issue is pressing the par value price very hard. The stock closed at 99.75, which was the highest price at which it sold during the morning session of the exchange. There were no sales of Mexican Petroleum common, but the closing bid price was 59.50.

California Midway sold at 12½ cents a share, National Pacific at 27⅞ cents, and Union Provident at 99.25. There was little doing in the mining list and no changes of note in the bank list.

DAMAGE REPORTS PRODUCE RUSH.

WHEAT PRICE IS BOOSTED AND FIRM FORCED TO SUSPEND.

Fifty Million Bushels Said to Be Affected in Field—Fluctuations Become Violent, But Close Is Strong—Other Grains and Staples Join in Ascent.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 13.—A wild rush to buy wheat boosted the price 4¼ cents higher today. One firm suspended. The remarkable advance was due to increased alarm about crop damage said to affect 50,000,000 bushels. Although violent fluctuations intervened, the close was strong at prices running from 1 @1⅛ cents to 3⅞@4 cents above last night. All other leading staples joined in the upturn. Net gains were corn 1 to 1¼ cents, oats a shade to ½@⅝ cents and provisions 7½ to 15 cents.

Confusion in the wheat pit reached such a point that at one time quotations varied as widely as a full cent between sales made at the same instant by traders almost within arm's length. Nearly every county in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana sent messages telling of injury or complete destruction in thousands of acres. Margin were reported to have been called heavily on shorts.

The advance tempted a great deal of profit-taking, wiping out at intervals nearly all the gain but the fever to purchase remained unabated. Between the opening and the finish, May deliveries sold from $1.06½ to $1.10 and wound up at $1.09¾, a rise of 3⅞@4 cents over the night before. July netted an even gain of 2 cents.

Corn narrowly missed hitting 80 cents a bushel for May. The only sellers were owners who wished to realize on their investments. May corn ranged from 78¾ to 79¾, and closed steady 1 cent net higher at 79⅝. Cash grades were firm. No. 2 yellow 80½@81.

Shorts, heretofore stubborn, acknowledged defeat in the oats crowd and covered in lively fashion. Upper and lower limits touched for July were 55½ and 55 cents, with the last transactions ½@⅝ net higher at 55¼@½.

Provisions were caught in the upward whirl in the prices of grain and hogs. At the last gong the advance for packinghouse products averaged 10 cents above the cost to buyers twenty-four hours before.

THE COPPER INDUSTRY.

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

The best possible test of the legitimacy of the copper metal market is the fact that notwithstanding England has been in the throes of an industrial crisis, and that labor troubles have been rampant in both Germany and France to a lesser degree than in England, prices have steadily advanced backed up by a large consumptive demand from both this country and abroad. Europe has been a substantial buyer of copper in the face of her labor troubles, recognizing the necessity for the maintenance of stocks which have been steadily decreasing in that country for sometime.

Statistically copper is in a stronger position than even in 1907, when copper sold at 26 cents, for in that year we were at the end of a boom, which had lasted several years, while a the present time we are almost on the fourth year of a business depression in this country, which, notwithstanding it is a Presidential year, gives evidence of a distinct revival of business, and there is very good prospect of this country having to meet forthcoming large copper demand for railroad electrification, with no surplus stocks of copper.

With copper at 16 cents there has been a renewal of speculation in stock of the Santa Fe Gold and Copper Mining Company. This company has 250,000 shares, par $10. It owns 2400 acres of mineral lands and 46,000 acres of miscellaneous lands in Santa Fe county, New Mexico. It has been a spasmodic producer for years, but only on a high metal market. Its mines are located sixteen miles from the Atchison Railroad, which fact has added so materially to costs. Efforts are being made to get the Atchison to build a branch to the property.

It has a small smelter of 125 tons capacity, which it will shortly blow in. The last time the property was in operation was with 26 cent copper in 1907, when it produced about 1,500,000 pounds of copper.

J. H. Susmann, associated with Adolph Lewisohn, is president. It is claimed that the company can produce 3,000,000 pounds of copper per annum at an 11-cent cost. It has reserves of several hundred thousand tons of 2½ per cent. ore and the company's treasury is possessed of about $150,000.

In 1907 the stock sold at 7½, and it has sold as low as $1.00 this year; now selling around 2¾.

Barring the low price received for its product, 1911 was easily the best year ever experienced by Old Dominion; $3.00 per share earned on the stock of the holding company (of Maine) with copper at 12.39 cents per pound, and with United Globe just beginning to be a substantial contributor, shows the company to be in very strong position.

For two successive years costs have been reduced more than a cent per pound, last year's figure of 9.15 cents being the lowest ever recorded. Reduction in 1910 was due largely to a high grade of ore treated, but in 1911 very nearly as large a decrease was made when treating ore that was not substantially higher in copper content.

The following table shows how Old Dominion's costs have come down in recent years in face of a very much reduced output:

Year.	Smelter pro. (pounds)	Old Dom. (pounds)	Cost per lb.
1911	28,698,305	19,196,181	9.15
1910	28,018,900	17,712,755	10.16
1909	34,802,875	25,417,712	11.26
1908	38,176,696	30,308,223	11.55

Increase in copper content of ore mined during 1910 and 1911 shows how the property has improved at depth, as illustrated by the following table (per cent. copper per ton ore mined:)

	1911	1910	1909	1908	1907	1906
Smelt. ore	7.75	7.85	6.71	7.66	5.29	4.1
Concentrat. ore	3.5	3.49	2.9	2.38	2.16	1.65
Average	5.84	5.7	4.8	5.15	3.66	2.84

The management took advantage of satisfactory conditions to make very heavy charges to depreciation—$1,277,000 for Old Dominion and $642,940 for United Globe, a total of $2,039,940. In the case of Old Dominion of New Jersey this made a reduction of $1,271,764 in the profit and loss surplus, or from $2,050,124 to $778,360; and from $854,254 to $420,497 in United Globe.

Financial condition of the combined properties was better at the close of the year than ever before, net working capital being just $1,000,000. This figure has been somewhat improved since by the advance in copper.

United Globe's enhancing value to Old Dominion of Maine (the holding company whose shares are listed on the Boston Stock Exchange,) is shown by increase in earnings from $77,000 in 1910 to $226,311 in 1911. Earnings for past four years of the two operating companies with resultant share earnings for Old Dominion of Maine have been as follows:

	O. D of N. J.	United Globe	Total	Per share
1911	$621,964	$226,311	$848,275	$2.90
1910	455,281	77,001	532,582	1.80
1909	444,952	80,040	524,992	1.80
1908	509,860	*73,968	435,829	1.50

*Deficit.

Old Dominion stockholders have reason to congratulate themselves on the splendid condition of their property—due to intelligent management and to increasing ore values at depth.

The annual report of Utah Consolidated for the year ended December 31, 1911, is an interesting document. As contrasted with the three years preceding, it shows a considerable surplus of earnings over dividends paid, net profits being $438,000 and dividends paid $150,000. In fact, the company did so well as contrasted with 1910 and 1909, that it charged off $96,340 for expenditures on plant, while $40,000 additional was carried to a "general reserve" fund.

The operating profits for the year amounted to $1.46 per share, against 21 cents in 1910, 51 cents in 1909, and $1.08 in 1908.

The feature of the operating account is the saving effected through the shipment of ores to the International Smelting and Refining Company, as contrasted with the smelting charges formerly demanded by the American Smelting and Refining Company. The smelting expenses, including transportation of ore, in 1911 amounted to $485,171, as compared with $606,507 in 1910. This reduction of $121,000 accrues of course directly to the benefit of net profits.

The disappointing and very significant feature of the report is the still further reduction in the quantity and quality of the ore reserves. A year ago there was declared to be in sight 281,000 tons of ore, averaging 2.44 per cent. copper, .05 ounces of gold and .63 ounces of silver. The ore now in sight has been reduced to 239,650 tons of copper ore, averaging 2.24 per cent. copper, .051 ounces of gold and .603 ounces of silver. To the latter tonnage, however, there is to be added 25,785 tons of lead ore, running from 6.8 per cent. to 15.44 per cent. lead, and containing small gold, silver and copper values.

President Channing admits that the copper developments—15,799 feet of openings having been made—of the year were disappointing, but says that exploration in search of new ore bodies will be continued.

Unless the development work of the current year is more satisfactory than for the year just closed the end of Utah Consolidated as a copper property would seem to be in sight, as, of course, it will take only a comparatively short time to work up the copper ore now declared to be in sight.

NEW YORK, April 13. — Further advances now will probably not have behind them the strong spot situation as has characterized the the market heretofore, the advance having been sufficient to check the demand to some extent, and spinners are now in position to wait further crop developments. Without the demand, and with the market's technical position weakened by contracts having passed into weaker hands, a week or so of good weather would influence prices to a lower level under weight of liquidation.

Old English Inns.

[London Chronicle:] The Popes' Head at Norwich, which the licensing authorities have decided to refer for compensation, claims to be the oldest public house in England. There are, however, other claimants, such as the Saracens' Head, Newark; the Old Green Man, Erdington; the Seven Finedon, which last, they say, was used as an inn in 1042. The Fighting Cocks Inn, St. Albans, goes one better, and claims to be the oldest inhabited house in England. F. W. Hackwood describes it as "a curious structure, of octagonal shape, of early Saxon origin, having been built as a boathouse to the monastery founded at St. Albans by King Offa about Stars, Withy-grove, Manchester, and the Bell, 795."

MMAD DOG SEASON COMING.

City Veterinarian Has Long Chase After Cur Afflicted With Dumb Rabies But It Escapes Capture.

Dr. R. T. Whittlesey, City Veterinarian, had a chase after a mongrel black-and-white cur that he discovered yesterday morning on Central avenue, suffering from dumb rabies. He and his assistant and a policeman chased it all around the section between Seventh and Pico streets, and Central avenue and Main street, but it finally escaped by hiding, it is supposed, under a building. In the course of its run it bit a dozen other dogs, though it is not thought seriously enough to inoculate all of them. Dr. Whittlesey says there is no power to kill the dogs that have been bitten nor to even shut them up in the pounds, and he is strong in the belief that a dog-muzzling ordinance should be passed without delay, and in sixty or ninety days all danger will be over for another year. The dog in question is not afflicted with the vicious type of rabies and will not bite unless it is molested.

SEEK NEW LAW FOR CHILDREN.

NEED ASSISTANCE TO OBTAIN BETTER SCHOOLING.

Legislature to Be Petitioned for Relief So That Private Purses May Not Be Called Upon for Public Beneficence—Adequate Scholarship Fund Suggested.

The State Legislature at its next session will be asked to furnish a scholarship fund for the indigent children whom the law compels to attend school, according to Ernest Lickley, Supervisor of Compulsory Education in this city.

"Such a bill came before the last Legislature, was passed by both Houses, but was vetoed by the Governor," said Lickley last night. "We hope that the bill, being a humane and logical one, will meet with a better fate when it is next presented.

"At present the law compels our officers to take the children to school whether they are clothed and fed or not. To remedy this our Parent-Teacher Associations and women's clubs have been furnishing a scholarship fund of $3 a week to these children, but the number is increasing with the growth of the city and the burden has been found a rather trying one for those generous individuals who have been, these several years, paying money from their private purses to help carry out a public law. It has been found necessary to split the $3 per week into two scholarships of $1.50 per week, and this amount is inadequate.

"We hope the law, therefore, will pass, but meanwhile these children must be provided for, and to E. E. Hitchcock, Assistant Supervisor of Compulsory Education, and Mrs. C. L. Michod, No. 58 Victoria Park, has been relegated the task of collecting money for this purpose.

"Another defect in our law is illustrated by the following incident. The other day a woman came to my office with her 14-year-old boy, asking that he get a permit to work from 3:30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon—after school hours. I was compelled under the law to deny this, though he was a strong able-bodied boy who might far better have been at work than on the streets, especially as his mother was a widow with five younger children, all of whom she must support and send to school.

"Under our present law, unless both parents are dead or incapacitated for work, no child under 15 years old is permitted to work and great is the hardship worked thereby. An endeavor will be made at the next Legislature to modify this law, so that children will be allowed to assist in supporting their families when it is necessary."

LONG TO MAKE UP MIND.

Local Woman Decides to Seek Divorce After Twenty-seven Years—Husband Says It's Incompatibility.

There is a woman in this city who took twenty-seven years to make up her mind.

She is Mrs. Wilhelmina Elizabeth Visscher, wife of Dr. Louis George Visscher. She filed suit for divorce yesterday.

Dr. Visscher, who has an office in the Laughlin Building, said yesterday that he and his wife separated about nine years ago and that the reason they agreed to disagree was that they were incompatible in temperament.

His son stated that his father and mother virtually separated twenty-seven years ago. Mrs. Visscher has been living at the Kendis Apartments, but for the past month has been visiting friends in San Francisco.

"I suppose she thinks that a complete legal separation is better than the way we are living now," the doctor said.

"No, no I am not going to marry again, and I haven't heard that my wife intends to," he laughed.

He lives at No. 908 West Eighteenth street.

WILL BUILD ELECTRIC LINE.

Tulare Men Take Up an Old Project and Promise to Put It Through in Record Time.

TULARE, April 13.—David Oliver, Jr., and H. W. Coffin, both of San Francisco, who have been engaged in the railroad business in this and other Coast States for the past twenty-five years, are in this city and have announced that they are preparing to take up the construction of the Porterville-Tulare Eelectric railroad, which has been under discussion for the past half a dozen years.

Oliver states that he has made an exhaustive investigation of the country through which it is proposed to build the line and that the territory is one which will support a railway.

Surveyors are to take the field within a week and Oliver will attend personally to securing the rights of way. He states that neither he nor his associates have any connection, however remote, with any existing railroad corporation nor are they connected with any of the proposed electric enterprises which are said to be planning to include this district in their operations.

Oliver and his associates will ask for the co-operation of the commercial organizations to assist in securing the necessary rights of way.

Ethel Montgomery, the girl wife of Carl Montgomery, the younger son of P. J. S. Montgomery, the millionaire realty operator of this city, has been granted a decree of absolute divorce by Judge Wallace. The news became public today in spite of determined efforts upon the part of both families to keep the divorce secret for the present.

The divorce has been a sensation in fashionable circles of the county, considerable surprise being manifested that the suit by Mrs. Montgomery went uncontested.

Anniversary of the Handkerchief.

[Winnipeg Post:] A curious anniversary which fell on the second of last month has passed unobserved. It is the anniversary of the introduction of the pocket-handkerchief in the form we know it. In early time and well up to the period of the French Revolution the handkerchief was of various shapes, each country having its own style.

One day at the Trianon, Marie Antoinette remarked that it would be an improvement if handkerchiefs were made square. Louis XVI. adopted the suggestion and on January, 1785, issued the following decree: "The length of handkerchiefs manufactured in this kingdom shall henceforth be equal to the breadth." The revolutionists disturbed everything that savored of royalty, yet they did not interfere with this decree.

William Tuller of Chicaco, one of the largest diamond brokers in the West, is at the Hayward. Tuller declares California offers a better winter retreat than either France or Italy and he has been in both countries.

Frederick Bottman, a wealthy real estate operator of Chicago and owner of the Ashland restaurant in that city, left Los Angeles yesterday for San Diego and Lower California. Bottman plans a trip into Mexico before returning home.

L. F. Gates, a capitalist of Detroit, Mich., is at the Van Nuys. Gates is seeking an investment in California and says Los Angeles offers the best opportunities both to the man with money and the man who is trying to seek a safe investment for a moderate sum.

Attorney Charles T. Coffin, one of the wealthiest lawyers of Indiana, who is registered at the Alexandria, declares Los Angeles is the ideal spot for a home. "I have been all over California and have traveled in many States of the union, but Southern California appears to be the ideal spot for a man to make his home," he said. "Besides, it is one of the greatest business cities for its size that I have ever been in."

It is stated that Mr. Mader will immediately commence the erection of a concrete garage, 75 by 75 feet in size, on lots recently purchased.

BURBANK.

BURBANK, April 13.—The Burbank Sunday school of the Christian Church under the supervision of Dewey L. Nickerson the superintendent has been conducting a contest which has just closed. The school was organized into two camps called the "Reds" and "Blues." The object was to secure a greater attendance and the losing side was to banquet the winners. The "Reds" won the contest and the attendance at the school was increased from fifty to 250 in a very few weeks. The "Blues" are getting ready for the banquet which is to eclipse anything ever seen in Burbank in the way of a banquet. The contest while in progress created a deal of enthusiasm and other Sunday-schools took up the spirit engendered and increased attendance is reported in all the schools. Politics ordinarily of great interest has been entirely eclipsed by the religious movement.

SECURITY OBTAINABLE

In the

Business Center

People seeking investment in the way of mortgage loans are often at a loss to know just where to place their money to obtain the maximum of safety and at the same time a good rate of interest. Of course the best security is in the business center in any city and especially so in this city, where the expansion is so rapid; but loans on centrally located business property usually call for such large sums that the investor with $500, $1000 or even $10,000 has been practically debarred from obtaining this character of security. Recently, however, a way has been opened up whereby one may place money at interest secured by first mortgage on great business blocks right in the heart of the business district, in amounts even as low as $500, and from that up to almost any amount, at a good rate of interest. This way is by making a trust deed from the owner to some one of the great trust companies to secure a bond issue of the required amount. The trust company holding the property in trust for the bond owners until they are fully paid.

A recently incorporated company known as the Building Owners Company, composed of Benjamin F. Pearson of the Edison Electric; W. E. McVay of the German American Savings Bank; Milo Baker, a local capitalist; George R. Whitcomb and Harold F. Whitcomb of the Whitcomb Company, long and favorably known in the real estate business in this city, will soon offer such bonds for sale and the building shown in the illustration on this page to be built opposite Central Park, on the south side of West Sixth street, will be the security behind the bonds. The Whitcomb Company, with offices in the Consolidated Realty Building, will act as fiscal agents for the company.

POLITICAL TIPS.

The seven Governors—Bass of New Hampshire, Glasscock of West Virginia, Osborn of Michigan, Hadley of Missouri, Aldrich of Nebraska, Carey of Wyoming, Stubbs of Kansas—whose invitation to seek a third term openly was accepted by Mr. Roosevelt as "the voice of the people," are having very poor success in keeping their promises to the gentleman from Oyster Bay.

Bass finds himself helpless in his own State. Glasscock is facing certain defeat in his. Osborn has been practically deposed from party leadership. Hadley's deposition is proceeding. Aldrich is finding it impossible to hold Nebraska against Taft and La Follette. Carey has little hope of carrying his own State and is hedging on his personal support. Stubbs is having lots of trouble.

Representative Longworth has so much respect for his father-in-law that he some time since announced that he was in a neutral position. In other words he favored Taft. On the other hand, his wife, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt-Longworth, is openly in favor of Mr. Taft and not only told her father he ought not to be a candidate, but did everything she could to dissuade him. Mrs. Longworth has quite a mind of her own, and is as fearless in expressing her opinions as is her father.

Rear-Admiral Cowles, brother-in-law of Col. Roosevelt, is out boldly for the nomination of President Taft.

President Taft never pretended to be a politician, and his recent recommendation to Congress that the first-class postoffices be made civil service positions has attracted considerable attention from the politicians of the country. Action upon his recommendation will deprive the occupant of the White House of practical all control over the party machine in Federal elections. President Taft asks no Senator or Representative in Congress to give up more than he does.

Senator Bourne of Oregon is remaining in Washington and making no personal campaign for his re-election. In a letter to the New York Times he gives his reasons for this course. After enumerating what he has done for the State of Oregon, he says: "By reason of the work thus outlined, I have more than repaid my obligation to the people of Oregon, and they now owe me more than I owe them; that in view of my record and my position in the fight for popular government my defeat for renomination would be heralded through the country as a victory for the opponents of popular government. I therefore insist that the people of Oregon, rather than myself, are now on trial, and it is up to them to demonstrate by their votes whether they are intelligent enough to recognize and appreciateive enough to commend faithful service."

Mark Twain held Theodore Roosevelt in an abhorrence that practically blinded him to the good in the colonel and his career. "Our people," Mark once wrote, "have adored this showy charlatan as perhaps no impostor of his breed has been adored since the golden calf."

Charles H. Crisp, parlimentary clerk of the House and son of former Speaker Crisp of Georgia, has announced himself a candidate for Congress from Third Congress District of Georgia, a new district created under the recent apportionment. Representative Dudley M. Hughes now represents the old Third District.

In the recent municipal election at Virogua, Wis., both candidates were named August Smith, one being a merchant and the other principal of the High School. The merchant, who for purposes of identification, was recorded as August Smith the Elder, was chosen Mayor by by 161 majority.

Gov. Wilson says his campaign is again bankrupt, this being the fourth time. "Our campaign is one depending on friends and their brains," he says. He has been spending some time in Washington conferring with his political managers, Senators and members of the House.

J. Ham Lewis of Chicago, Democratic candidate for United States Senator from Illinois, may be liable to prosecution for failure to comply with th Federal election publicity bill which requires that a statement of campaign expenses be filed at least ten days before the date of the primary election. The penalty is a fine of $1000 or imprisonment for one year, or both.

Senator Cullom's statement of campaign expenditures gave $101 spent for cigars and $11.50 for apples. His friends contributed $3260 for the purposes of the campaign.

Warren G. Harding, a delegate from Ohio, who is a close friend of President Taft and a speaker of ability, has been selected to deliver the Taft nominating speech in the Chicago convention in June.

The Taft committee working for the delegates-at-large in Wisconsin reported total expenditures of $842, of which $649.85 was received from E. L. Philipp of Milwaukee. W. D. Hoard, candidate for delegate-at-large reported an expenditure of $40 contributed to the Jefferson county Taft committee. E. L. Philipp's own disbursements as a candidate for delegate-at-large were $930.60.

Former Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota says if Champ Clark is nominated by the Democrats and President Taft by the Republicans, it will mean a clean, open campaign. The same would be true if either Gov. Harmon or Oscar Underwood was named at Baltimore.

Albert B. Kerr, a New York lawyer, and son of the late James B. Kerr of Pennsylvania, says he is a Democrat and believes this to be a Democratic year. "We shall take much pleasure in victory if it be over Col. Roosevelt. I do not belong to the 'interests' nor to 'big business,' so that my opposition to Mr. Roosevelt may be accounted for in some other way," said Kerr.

Henry Watterson makes the statement of the New York World that Woodrow Wilson is still the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination the occasion for a wholesale denunciation of Wilson as the weakest candidate in the field. He offers in the Courier-Journal to gamble a dinner "that at no time in the balloting of the Baltimore convention will the Governor of New Jersey attain a plurality or even approach the two-thirds necessary to a choice." He describes the claims made by the Wilson literary bureau as "fairy tales the most preposterous."

Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana whose name will be presented to the Democratic National Convention as Indiana's choice for the Presidential nomination, says his "happiness does not depend upon political success. If it is foreordained that I am to be cleaned out, I will have no complaint." He nevertheless believes that if there is a deadlock in the convention the delegates might eventually turn to Indiana for a candidate.

Coincidence?

SUDDEN DEATHS IN BATHROOMS.

TWO ROBUST MEN FOUND DEAD; CAUSES MYSTERIOUS.

Both Expire at About the Same Time and in Similiar Circumstances—Heart Disease Believed to Be Responsible in One Instance and Asphyxiation in the Other.

By a strange coincidence two powerfully-built and apparently healthy men, living within five blocks of one another, were found dead in their bathrooms almost at the same hour last night, and the Coroner's office was called upon to make an investigaton n each case.

The first death reported to the police was that of A. Supple, a fruit packer, who was found dead in a bathroom at the home of Roy Sowers, No. 525 Ruth street. There was nothing in the room to indicate asphyxiation, and the surgeons at the Receiving Hospital were unable to diagnose the case without resorting to an autopsy.

Supple went to the house about 5:30 o'clock, and announced intention of taking a bath as he desiren to change his clothing before attending the theater in the evening.

When the man failed to emerge from the room after a reasonable time had elapsed, Sowers opened the door and found his friend lying face downward on the floor. A small stream of blood was flowing from the nose, seemingly produced by a fall, and it was decided to send him to the hospital in hopes that he might be revived.

As there was no gas connection in the room the police theory is that death resulted from heart disease.

A few minutes later George Santich, a dishwasher living at the home of Mrs. Nettie Bocina, No. 714 Wall street, was found in similar circumstances in the bathroom of the house and died before medical aid could be summoned.

Dr. E. L. Battelle was called but declared his inability to resusitate the man owing to the failure of the heart to respond to stimulants. As there was an instantaneous gas heater in the bathroom it is believed that Santich was suffocated by lack of oxygen.

Both bodies were taken to the Pierce morgue to await the action of the Coroner.

ROMANCE OF ERMINE.

Natural Color Is a Reddish Brown, But Changes to the Purest White and Becomes a Royal Prerogative.

[London Globe:] The fame of the ermine as a creature "patronized by royalty" dates back to the reign of King Edward III, who made it a punishable offense for any person except those of royal birth to wear the fur of this handsome little animal. This tyrannous restriction has been long rescinded.

The metamorphosis of the ermine from dull reddish brown to purest white is among the greatest wonders of nature. According to Bell, the change is effected "not by the loss of the summer coat and a substitution of a new one for the winter, but by the actual change of color in the hair." This remarkable process has a parallel in the change of plumage as exemplified in the ptarmigan, but in the case of that bird the change of pigment only instead of entire plumage takes place in the spring and not in the autumn. The ermine and the ptarmigan, then, though resembling one another in this change of dress, actually take on their winter coats in opposite fashion, yet in each case a white winter dress is adopted. It is further worthy of note that as in the ermine the tail remains always black, so in the ptarmigan certain feathers of the tail are permanently of the same color, no matter what the season of the year may be.

TOO MANY FIRES IN LOS ANGELES; NOW FOR A WAY TO STOP THEM!

Increase of Over One Hundred Per Cent. in Past Year Makes Action Necessary, and the Mayor Designates Thursday as "Prevention Day"—Clean up for Safety's Sake.

THERE are too many fires in Los Angeles and measures are to be taken to improve conditions and reduce the losses. Fire Chief Eley, a veteran who knows what he is talking about, says half the fires could be prevented. Why not do it?

The local manager of the Pacific Board of Fire Underwriters states that persons carrying insurance could save a lot of money by reason of lower rates if they would take necessary precautions to make their buildings safer—could help their neighbors as well as themselves. Who doesn't want to save?

Mayor Alexander issued a proclamation yesterday urging all citizens of Los Angeles to set aside next Thursday, the 18th inst., as "Fire Prevention Day," when all premises should be carefully inspected and any dangerous and inflammable material cleaned up. "The great Fiesta and Shrine festivities will be held here during the second week in May," says the proclamation. "During that time we will have thousands of visitors from all over the world. This city should look its very prettiest at that time. To this end I wish to urge the people of this city to make April 18th a great clean-up day. All owners of vacant lots should see that their lots are in presentable condition. I would like to have the school children take an interest in this matter and each one devote some time to the cleaning up of the city."

The City Council has been asked by the Federated Improvement Association also to designate Thursday as "Fire Prevention Day," and it is expected that favorable action will be taken Tuesday on this request. The movement is indorsed by various organizations.

The idea is that on "Prevention Day" householders and merchants shall arrange for greater safety, and men who understand the subject shall lecture at the various social centers and school buildings on means of averting fires. It is to be a day of education as regards the safety of life and property.

Twenty-two States of the Union have an annual Fire Prevention Day, with a few exceptions, October 9, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire. In California the 18th inst. has been fixed by the Governor's recent proclamation, because it is the anniversary of the San Francisco fire. The Pacific Board of Fire Underwriters and the Editorial Association of Southern California urged this.

Fire Chief Eley shows in a paper just prepared for the Fire Underwriters that over one-half the fires in this city are due to carelessness—such as storing combustible material in business houses without regard to surroundings, taking long chances on gasoline, oil and gas in stoves or otherwise, and trifling with danger generally.

It is agreed all around that the city needs a cleaning up for fire prevention, and if the Council takes the step that is understood to be practically decided upon there should be fewer blazes and lighter losses after next Thursday. There's an opportunity to do a lot of good.

During the fiscal year ended July 1 last, the fire losses in Los Angeles reached a total of $1,138,992. The year before the total loss was but $276,985. The second highest year in fire losses was in 1906, when the total reached $682,735. The increase the past fiscal year over the year before was 200 per cent., but 100 per cent. of this was due to the destruction of the Times Building, dynamited and burned October 1, 1910, by labor-union conspirators. The ordinary increase, therefore, is 100 per cent.—in itself an astounding jump.

These figures have attracted attention and a call for remedial steps is the result.

TEACH THE CAUSES.

It is the aim of the backers of Fire Prevention Day to educate the people to a realization of the causes of fires. They will be urged not to store goods near electric wires; not to leave matches where children or mice can get them, and to observe certain hard and fast rules for the handling of gasoline, oil and gas stoves and lamps. "Efficiency" is the slogan of those who seek to end carelessness in causing fires.

At the last meeting of the Federated Improvement Association a resolution was unanimously adopted urging the City Council to set next Thursday as Fire Prevention Day. The association also asked the Council to appoint a fire marshal to investigate the causes and study the prevention of fires, and to report to the Council. Chief Eley, however, is the fire marshal, and one of his official duties is to investigate the causes of fires. The members of the Council could see no necessity of another fire marshal, else action for Prevention Day would have been taken earlier, several of them stated yesterday. Joseph Mesmer, speaking for the Federated Improvement Association, said last night that this part of the association's request will be stricken out at once, and following the change the Council will in all probability designate the day as petitioned, though it is already fixed by the Mayor in line with the State proclamation.

WHAT'S NEEDED.

"The modern cry of business and private life, 'efficiency,' seems not to have been sounded in the case of fire prevention," said Fire Chief Eley yesterday. "It is strange that so many persons will go to such great pains to save five cents at their offices or on their tables when they are so utterly careless as to conditions which invite disastrous fire losses in their homes or business houses.

"I may say that over half of the fires in Los Angeles are preventable, therefore the result of carelessness or heedlessness of the ordinary rules of fire prevention. Boxes and rubbish around business houses, lack of fire stops in walls, children and matches and mice and matches, the careless use of gasoline and oil in houses, keep the department busy and double the losses.

"Defective chimneys and flues, cigar and cigarette stubs, bad electric wiring, and the placing of inflammable material on these wires, can be prevented, also. There is no good reason for the enormous fire losses here recently. But it is difficult to impress upon the minds of the people the necessity of preventing fires caused by these things.

"We have tried to prevent merchants from storing old drygoods boxes in the rear of their stores, but they tell us these boxes are merchandise and are kept as such. They do not realize the fire risks.

Manager Waldron of District C, Pacific Board of Fire Underwriters, says thousands of dollars are unnecessarily spent by property owners and renters in this city on insurance rates which they could themselves make lower. If proper precautions were taken in hundreds of cases the rates would be reduced, both in the case of the man who observes the rules of fire prevention, and his neighbors.

The Fire Underwriters attribute fires to open flame and chemical action. The latter cause is little understood and results in many costly fires, but the department responds to many more open-flame alarms than others.

GOOD, PLAIN RULES.

Manager Waldron gives the following rules for fire prevention:

(1) Keep your premises clean.

(2) Use care in extinguishing matches, cigar and cigarette stubs before throwing them away.

(3) Use care in the wiring of houses for electricity; see that the electric bulbs are away from the walls.

(4) Burn or remove all oily rags and paper.

(5) Use care in filling gasoline stoves and in keeping them away from walls and properly protected from flooring.

(6) Do not store combustible and inflammable materials near electric light wiring, stoves or lamps.

The underwriters make it plain that the ordinary garden hose is not sufficient for carrying water for use in fires. Standpipes and hose of at least one-and-one-half-inch diameter should be installed in houses. Chemical fire extinguishers are also valuable. Extinguishers must be kept charged. The ordinary extinguisher is in perfect condition for but two years.

"Of course," said Waldron, "in cities the most important item in the prevention of losses is a good fire department. That we have in Los Angeles. Next comes an efficient fire-alarm system. In each mercantile house there should be an automatic sprinkler system. These sprinklers, which spray water when the temperature reaches 160 deg., should be placed every seven feet each way in the ceiling.

MODEL AND HAZARD.

According to the fire underwriters the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance building, Sixth and Olive streets, is a model fire risk, perhaps the best in the city, and builders should pattern after this structure. The Pacific Mutual is finished throughout in steel and stone, with metal trim inside and metal furniture. Model air spaces and exits make it the best risk.

Among the greatest fire hazards, one which is a source of anxiety to the fire department, is the Phillips block, Spring and Franklin streets, says Chief Eley. He declares it the poorest large structure in the city in this respect. Fire experts are of the opinion that once this building were afire the walls would collapse and there would be little hope of saving it. The ordinances now prevent the erection of buildings of this character.

AS THE MAYOR SEES IT.

"Great fire loss means high insurance rates," said Mayor Alexander. "High insurance rates are a burden upon the people. The reduction of fire loss should mean the reduction of fire insurance rates. Most fires are caused by carelessness, and the fire loss can be very materially reduced by care in the handling and storage of inflammable materials.

"The establishment of an annual Fire Prevention Day is a splendid idea. Few people realize the enormous annual fire loss in the United States. If a realization of this loss

One of the worst.

Fire Chief Ely and a Good and a Poor Risk.

The local manager of the Pacific Board of Fire Underwriters pronounces the building at the top, the Pacific Mutual Life, as perhaps the most nearly perfect in safety from fire, and the Fire Chief pronounces the other building, the Phillips block, one of the most dangerous. The Chief, who was snapped while directing his forces at a recent blaze, says over half the fires in Los Angeles are preventable.

County Clerk and Auditor's Offices Under Fire.

Grand Jury to Look Into the Charges of Extravagance.

Do Political Favorites Hold Too Many Fat Jobs?

Charges of extravagance in the registration department of County Clerk Lelande may be the subject of grand jury investigation. These charges were first made to the Finance Committee of the grand jury, and later to Deputy District Attorney Hanna, who acts as legal adviser for the Supervisors and county officers. Mr. Lelande stated yesterday that he would welcome the fullest investigation of his office and declared that allegations that he was allowing his deputies to work for any particular political faction or party were utterly false. Deputy Clerk McAleer, who has charge of the registration department, stated that he had not heard of any investigation and that nothing had been said to him on the subject.

It is virtually admitted, however, that there is to be a general investigation of the county officers by the present grand jury, in order to substantiate or lay at rest rumors that the Auditor's and other officers are filled with incompetent deputies who obtained their positions through political favoritism and that the services of some of the deputies are being utilized in compiling a card index system for the benefit of a certain organization.

A quiet investigation is presumably in progress under the direction of Dist. Atty. Fredericks and it is believed that two of his deputies, Hanna and Hill, are devoting their time to digging into the charges. No one in the District Attorney's office yesterday, would comment upon the situation, or venture an opinion as to the need of a grand jury probe.

The card index system instituted by the County Clerk is said to be an admirable method of furnishing the voters' political affiliations and that it may be turned over to a certain faction at the time of the Presidential preference primary. Lelande positively denied this allegation. He states that the card index system is in vogue in the modern county offices almost everywhere and that the work had no reference to being an aid to any particular party organization.

Apparently the most serious charge made by some of the interested voters is that the County Clerk misspent the appropriation allowed for registration work, thus making it necessary for the Supervisors to let out some of the printing work at extra expense and to have volunteers help out the regular force. Those in charge are inclined to blame the State legislators from this county, who did not get a sufficient allowance to provide for the registration of the vastly increased population of the county. They argue that the growth of Los Angeles county and the addition of the women's vote should have been taken into consideration.

In connection with the inquiry into some of the methods in vogue in the County Clerk's office, it is said that County Auditor Lewis is also under fire for the alleged employment of political favorites, entailing a greater burden upon the taxpayers in supporting a larger force of employees than otherwise would be needed.

Just now there are few criminal matters to bring to the attention of the grand jury and it is thought that following the close of the registration and the checking up of expenditures will be an opportune time to look into the reports of extravagance and political favoritism.

WITH THEIR COMPLIMENTS.

Members of Southwest Museum Wire Congratulations to Gen. Chaffee Upon Seventieth Birthday.

DEAF MUTES TO GIVE DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT.

Los Angeles Lodge, National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, Will Endeavor to Raise Fund to Send Delegates to Columbus Convention.

One of the most unique dramatic entertainments ever given in Los Angeles will be that of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, at Gamut Club Theater on Wednesday evening. The cast will be entirely of deaf mutes and all the parts will be given in the sign language, but for the benefit of people who do not understand the signs, an interpreter will repeat the lines. The Los Angeles division of the society has a membership of twenty-five, having been organized a little more than two years. It pays sick, accident and death benefits, and this entertainment is for replenishing the funds of the lodge, in order that two delegates may be sent to the convention of the society, which will be held in Columbus, O., in July.

They will present "The Old Newhampshire Home," on Wednesday night, with the following cast: Farmer Winthrop, a rugged New Hampshire farmer, Frank Eden Ellis; Edward van Dusen, a polished villain, secretly married to Mabel, Leon Arthur Fisk; Oliver Stanhope, a young blacksmith, in love with Mabel, Arthur Watson Nolen; Zeb Watkins, a country boy "up to snuff" and not a bit green, Ziba Loreman Osmun; Micky Mullins, a traveling tinker, Edmund Milton Price; Moses Gazinski, a Hebrew glazier, Milton Marcus Miller; Rawlings, in league with Van Dusen, Simon Himmelschein; Mabel Winthrop, Farmer Winthrop's daughter, Miss Ella Frances Duffy; Tilly, her maiden aunt, Mrs. Jeanette Dailey Price; Mrs. Winthrop, the farmer's wife, Mrs. Frank Eden Ellis; Muffins, a young lady with a mind of her own and not afraid to speak it, Miss Ella Rienhaldena Roy.

The playlet may be better understood by those who witness it, by reading the following summary: Mabel Winthrop, a farmer's daughter, has secretly married Edward van Dusen, an Englishman, and a scoundrel. She has left him, but her parents, not knowing of the marriage or his character, have invited him to the farm. He wants Mabel's aid in a theft, but she refuses. He then involves in it Oliver Stanhope, whom Mabel has learned to love, and Oliver is accused of the crime. Mabel's secret marriage is disclosed, and her angry father drives her out of the house. Muffins, her adopted sister, goes with her, and in New York saves Mabel from Van Dusen and his accomplices. Aided by Micky Mullins and Moses, who prove to be detectives, Muffins foils Van Dusen and Rawlings, clears Oliver, and restores to Mabel her father's arms. Van Dusen confesses the marriage was a mock ceremony only, and Mabel and Oliver are free to marry.

UNIONITE BOSS STIRS STRIFE.

TVEITMOE TO AROUSE BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL.

At Meeting Tonight Local Shackled Carpenters Will Be Urged to Refuse Working With Independent Employees Upon Threats of Striking and Holding Up Contractors.

O. A. Tveitmoe, secretary-treasurer of the State Building Trades Council, and under Federal indictment upon a charge of conspiracy, will harrangue the local members of the Carpenters' Union tonight at Labor Temple. He comes in response to a hurry call from some of the local bosses who are alarmed at the apathy of the unionite builders and allied trades. Not only has the attendance at the recent meetings fallen woefully off, but many of the members are in arrears for dues.

The pay of every walking delegate is threatened curtailment unless the laborite carpenters are willing to fill the now empty treasury.

Tveitmoe is also anxious to get some contributions to his personal defense fund. Before long he will have to stand trial in the local Federal Court and also at Indianapolis. He has four lawyers and their retainers and incidental expenses have to be met. The San Francisco laborite boss expects heavy contributions from Los Angeles, especially in the local union of the building trades.

The San Francisco laborites are anxious to have the Los Angeles union workingmen declare a strike May 1, unless the contractors will change to the closed shop, but most of the local men realize the futility of trying this.

They know it would mean that they would have to give up work upon an empty treasury and practically starve for months while the thousands of independent carpenters got their jobs.

Besides Tveitmoe, Stanley B. Wilson and Alexander Irvine will speak at tonight's meeting. Both are advocating a fight for the so-called "free speech" movement, which means committing violence and uttering treasonable sentiments upon the public streets of Pacific Coast cities.

FATTENS ON COUNTY FARE.

McManigal Likes the Sheriff's Board But Pines for More Exercise and Freedom From Restraint.

Looking as fat as the proverbial stuffed pig, Ortie E. McManigal visited the District Attorney's office yesterday, in charge of Detective McLaren of the Burns agency. The chief witness against the McNamaras and instrumental in getting the evidence in the government cases against the Structural Ironworkers officers, will remain here in the County Jail for some time yet. He will be a witness at the trial to be held in Indianapolis next October, and also at the trial here of Tveitmoe and others. This date has not been fixed.

McManigal says he enjoys the bill-of-fare given him at the County Jail and praised the Sheriff's care of the prisoners. "But it gets monotonous at times," he said, "and I am getting so fat that I need boxing lessons or physical culture."

QUIET REIGNS ALONG BORDER.

INVESTIGATING PARTY PRICKS UPRISING BUBBLE.

Special Agent of the Mexican Secretary of the Interior Says False Reports Have Been Circulated as to Conditions—Hoboes Make Most Trouble.

Theodore Frezieres, special agent of the Secretary of the Interior of Mexico, and several attaches of the secret service department of the United States government, who several days ago went to San Diego and other points along the boundary to look into the question of violations of the neutrality laws, have returned. It is expected they will again visit the border early this week, and pursue their investigations at points they were not able to reach on the first trip.

One fact was demonstrated by the visit. Much misleading information has been peddled out to officials here and elsewhere, in regard to conditions at various points in the troubled districts. Special Agent Frezieres said:

"Many disquieting stories about an alleged uprising along the Mexican line had been brought to my attention, and it was largely on account of some of these reports that I was sent to Los Angeles to look into matters more closely than the task had been accomplished by the Mexican Consul, Francisco Martinez Baca. This information was brought to me, and others, by an employee of the Madero government, Juan Manelilas, and we found on investigation that the rumors were largely untrue. In cases where trouble existed, the facts were so distorted that the information he furnished was worthless.

"It was a part of my business to examine into some of the reports furnished by this man, and the result is that he is no longer in the employ of the Madero government. The American and Mexican governments are working together harmoniously along the border, and the people with whom we came in contact are firm friends of Madero and believe he will bring order out of the troubled conditions down there.

"There has been much misrepresentation as to just what is being done along the border. We found at San Diego that the authorities have the I.W.W.s in subjection, and that the situation is well in hand. I was informed that the jail in that city contained eighty of the I.W.W. crowd."

The report of the officers who went to San Diego and as far south as El Cajon with Frezieres, to investigate conditions for the benefit of United States Dist.-Atty. McMormick, made their reports to that official yesterday. The information will be supplemented by what may be secured on another trip within a few days.

The reports were about the same as those furnished by the representative of the Madero government. The Federal authorities in San Diego and elsewhere were cautioned to keep an eye on the turbulent ones, and to make immediate arrests if there was any violation of the neutrality laws. So far, the most of the trouble has been occasioned by tramps and other undesirables who have made war on the city ordinances, and they have been so successful that the jails are crowded.

NOT ALL OUR FAULT.

Delegates to the Architectural League's Pacific convention said that the Coast can teach the East many things about art in the construction. While this is fortunate, our people are not entirely to blame. In the first place the mellow art of the mission style of construction fell like a mantle upon our shoulders, and in the second place, Southern California has a sort of non-eroding climate which admits of great building latitude and delicacy.

INSOMNIA.

A New Jersey man who has not slept for thirty years complained yesterday of weariness. Chesterton speaks of the hideous clarity of insomnia. The man who cannot sleep is to be pitied above all others. Sleep is the great healer. It restores body and mind. In it men digest their experiences without taking thought. By it they pay the interest on life's principal; and, as Schopenhauer said, the greater regularity with which we pay this interest the less likely are we to be confronted by the grim collector of the principal.

AS IT SHOULD BE.

Local automobile men will make their floral parade in the Fiesta the greatest pageant of flowers ever witnessed. This is fitting, for Los Angeles is the first garden of the world. The decorations of its church chancels and altars last Sabbath were of a beauty to have been the entry of Paradise. The smiles and tears of angels, cast into the mould of lily and rose, could never have shone with fairer radiance. Men and women walk the streets of Los Angeles all heedless that the fragrance of the flowers here gives them the breath of God for their air. Surely it was of Divine appointment that Los Angeles was named the City of the Angels; for if they could not have the City on High for their home, Los Angeles is doubtless the place where the angels would most care to abide.

HE TURNED THEM DOWN.

San Francisco women bitterly denounce Roosevelt for his contribution to the defeat of equal suffrage in Illinois. The women of the South have always disliked Roosevelt for his attitude on this question. When he came to Los Angeles to speak a few days before the amendment elections he was waited on by a committee from the Political Equality League with the urgent request that he say a word in favor of woman suffrage. That afternoon his audience was composed largely of women who expected to see their cause given a boost. Roosevelt did, however, exactly what Johnson had done. He utterly ignored the subject and the women left the building in bitter disappointment. They have an opportunity to express their opinion of his idea of women in politics at the primaries May 14, and nothing will perhaps have a larger influence on the California results.

RECIPROCITY.

Local Chinese will ship Imperial Valley cotton to China and return their vessels with cargoes of coal. They will also ship anything else which this city has to sell to China and will bring their own merchandise directly to local ports without having to pay for railroad freight from the North. One possible feature of the Chinese trade will be poultry and game. China is the greatest country in the world for ducks and turkeys, and its mountains are full of deer with the hunting season open the year around. There is no reason to doubt the ability of the local Chinese merchants to put their plans into execution. They have had a large share both in the finance and the plan of the Chinese revolution and will bring to bear the same business judgment, initiative, courage and capital which they lent to the great enterprise across the seas. The Chinaman is a natural merchant prince, whether he be huckster, laundryman or importer. He gets full value for everything he sells and he saves all that he gets.

A PECK OF TROUBLE.

Judge Monroe has ruled that a lady who frankly married her present husband in order to secure a home and an education for her little son must remain married and must contribute her share to the making of a home. He also ruled that a man who has obtained a divorce from his wife must contribute liberally to the support of their two children who remain their mother's care. August Strindberg, the Swedish poet and playwright, in his "Dream Plays" puts the following exceedingly apt speech into the mouth of a lawyer:

"Do you know what is worse than anything else? It is to separate married people. Then it is as if something cried treason against the primal force, against the force of all good, against love! And do you know what reams of paper have been filled with mutual accusations, and at last a sympathetic person takes one of the two apart and asks the simple question: 'What have you really got against your husband or your wife?' Then he or she stands perplexed and cannot give the cause. Once I think a lettuce salad was the principal issue; another time it was just a word—mostly nothing at all."

Surely Strindberg should know, because his first marriage ended in exactly such a sordid little tragedy as he described. To the granting of divorces there is, alas, no end. We sympathize with the judge to whose lot this work must fall.

There is no remedy, perhaps, for the unhappy marriage except the happy marriage.

It is proposed to postpone the Baltimore convention until August. That would give the party oodles of time to view with alarm, point with pride and deprecate until the cows come home.

THOSE RAMPANT RIVERS.

The watershed in the center of the North American continent is the greatest in the world with the single exception of the Valley of the Amazon. This enormous area reaching from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and all the way from the Appalachian to the Rocky Mountain chain, has but two outlets for its run-off. The extent of the run-off is indicated by the immense American lakes, the largest bodies of water of their kind on the globe. The outlet for these to the sea is the St. Lawrence River. The other outlet, which drains a much larger area, is the Mississippi River. This, with its confluents, the Ohio and the Missouri, being, so to speak, trunk lines, carries off the run-off of a greater area than that drained by the St. Lawrence.

The watershed is the best watered agricultural area of anything like a similar extent on the globe, and constitutes the garden spot which furnishes food for more human beings than any other of the same size in the world.

The rainfall in this area is generally so well distributed that the region suffers from disastrous floods less than many parts of the world where the watershed is much narrower. The district is safeguarded also by the comparatively level surface of nearly the whole region. For example, the Alps stand almost on end, while in ascending the Rocky Mountains one is scarcely conscious of going up until the summit is almost reached.

These safe conditions occasionally disappear in seasons like the one now ending when the snowfall has been far beyond the average, and melting rains fall in torrents. Then there is sure to be trouble along the great confluents of the Mississippi above St. Louis and on the main stream itself below that city. These are exactly the conditions of the present moment, exaggerated beyond the experience of recent years. Of course the trouble was bound to come and it has come thick and fast.

For streams of their character in conditions like those of the present, the Ohio and Missouri have behaved fairly well. This applies absolutely to these streams in their upper reaches.

But from Cairo to the Gulf, where the floods have all come down at once, the suffering of the people and the destruction of property has been beyond the power of human minds to grasp.

Cairo, in the southern part of Illinois, has been marooned for days, the city left on an island in the midst of swirling torrents that have threatened momentarily to break down all barriers and sweep large portions of the city out of existence. At St. Louis the strain has been almost, if not quite, as intense. As the days passed the crest of the flood has worked its way southward, absolutely inundating Memphis, and so on down to the Crescent City, below which the river divides into several mouths, and from that district we hear less complaint.

Of course, the wires bring the newspaper reports mostly from the city. There the destruction is greatest and the suffering, too. We must remember that like the River Po, in Italy, and the Rhine, below Dusseldorf, the Mississippi River has carried down so much silt for ages that the river bed is above the surrounding country at many points and the stream there is restrained by levees. When these break it is like the breaking of a Holland dyke when the North Sea rushes into the Lowlands.

As we read the daily dispatches of the destructions in the cities from Cairo to New Orleans we may cast a mental glance over areas of country measuring hundreds of square miles that were inundated by the Mississippi River through its broken levee.

It would be very difficult at this moment to estimate accurately the damage done by the floods of the last ten or twelve days. Estimates put this loss of property at many million dollars. There is usually a disposition to exaggerate in making these estimates, but in the present instance this is probably not so. This probability comes to our minds from considering the area over which the flood has spread, from many parts of which reports have not yet reached us. You must remember that we are now at the middle of April and the season is becoming late for the reseeding of farms where the crops have perished through the flood. It will be many days before the waters recede and the soil becomes sufficiently dry to be worked.

Nor is the loss of property the only thing or the greatest thing to be regretted through these frightful floods. The loss of life has been great beyond any recent experience. This loss may reach a full count of a hundred individuals.

"I, F. B. HENEY."

A lady who attended the Roosevelt meeting at Blanchard Hall on Friday night said at its conclusion: "Well, I am still for Roosevelt, but that thin man with a red nose named Heney (the man not the nose) who roared and shrieked at us for an hour, and who thought he was making a speech when he was only making a noise, shook me mightily."

Of the speech of "Chet" Rowell at the meeting nothing will be said; for nothing can be said of nothing. The speech of Heney is worth noticing, however, because of its uniqueness. He did not, as in other towns, denounce the Constitution of the United States as a document prepared in the interests of predatory wealth by Washington, Jefferson, Adams, Madison and their associate grafters. He did, however, attack Abraham Lincoln and the thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth Congresses, for "giving away 25,000,000 acres of land and $55,000,000 belonging to the people to aid in the building of transcontinental railways."

It was a queer argument to make to a California audience. If the land and the money had not been given nearly half a century ago to build the pioneer railroad from the Missouri River to Sacramento, we might now be enjoying the comforts of travel to the East by stage and steamer. Los Angeles might have remained a city of 10,000 people, and San Francisco one of 50,000. At least our growth would have been nothing like what it has been, and, but for the construction and success of the Union and Central Pacific roads, the other five transcontinental roads would never have been built.

From denunciation of the Constitution framed by the fathers, and denunciation of the railroad-construction aid laws signed by Abraham Lincoln, the speaker passed to eulogy of Roosevelt for taking the stand that "A President has the right to take any action for the benefit of and in the interest of the people," (whether he is authorized by law to take such stand or not,) while "Taft is a standpatter who is opposed to any change in the existing order of things" —(unless authorized by law.)

"Roosevelt," said the speaker, "is a true type of the progressive, the man who contends that when an existing system or policy has been demonstrated [in his opinion] to be wrong, it should be changed." And if Congress won't change it, Roosevelt himself will change it by his Presidential ipse dixit.

The speaker injected one truth into his harangue. He said: "It is for the people of the United States to say which of these policies they will support." It is indeed for the people to say whether they will "go on in the same old way" and be governed by laws made by Legislatures and interpreted by courts, or whether they will surrender the law-making, law-interpreting and law-executing power into the hands of the colonel, and say to him: "Be thou captain, and mate, and midshipmite, and crew of the captain's gig."

Heney allowed the incarnate egotism, the selfhood—so to speak—of him to bubble up through the froth of his harangue when he said of Roosevelt: "I refused to give My support to him until he had made a declaration as to his position in his Columbus speech."

If The Times had been disposed to print a verbatim report of Heney's speech, a decent respect for its typographical appearance would have compelled it to refrain from doing so on account of the inordinate number of capital "I's" with which the report would have been disfigured.

A GOOD NAME.

The name of Henry Clay Dillon will long be kindly remembered by Californians. Dillon lived in the Southland thirty years, having first come to Long Beach as something of an invalid. He was always genial and always useful. He was of the sort who makes time for any cause in which he believes and who serves that cause with the best that he has to give. For instance, he was a lifelong advocate of woman's suffrage and helped the women of Colorado and California in the two campaigns which the women of both States had to make before their brother citizens would stand convinced. Indeed, his zeal always lent itself with greater fervor to a public campaign than to any individual enterprise. A State is always richer for the men it can boast of Henry Clay Dillon's type.

THE PASSING OF CRAZY SNAKE.

Old Crazy Snake has gone into the spirit land. He was a Creek Indian chief and a fighter seventy years ago. His tribe was one of the five civilized clans who were located in the Indian Territory, now the State of Oklahoma, about the year 1837. Crazy Snake did not like the restrictions imposed by the government upon the so-called "civilized" Indians. He preferred to remain, so far as he could, a spiritual descendant of Weatherford, Osceola and the rest of the Indian fighters produced by the Muskogee Confederation of Georgia, Florida and Alabama, which existed a century ago.

It is only four years since Crazy Snake, with the snows of nearly one hundred winters on his head, attempted to organize a rebellion against the land-allotment law. A few old Indians and a few disorderly and fight-loving young Indians rallied under his leadership, but gradually dispersed as the Oklahoma militia chased them. There was no fight in them. Their implacability oozed out of their finger ends. Crazy Snake found himself in a tangle of railroads and telegraphs. He found that among the 117,000 Indians who form part of the 1,700,000 people of Oklahoma are merchants, farmers, bankers, miners, stock raisers, lawyers, one Congressman and two United States Senators. When "Man Who Don't Give a Dam for a Caucus" and "Man Who is Afraid of Teddy the Terror" write U.S.S. instead of placing a postage stamp on their letters, and eat Armour's cold-storage tenderloins in place of buffalo hump for breakfast, and wear spike-tail coats and plug hats instead of embroidered blankets and feather plumes and say, "Mr. Chairman and Fellow Citizens" instead of "Sagamores and Medicine Men," and drink Martini cocktails instead of metheglin, it is time for a high-toned Indian chieftain of the vintage of the days of Metamocet, Pontiac, Tecumseh, Black Hawk, Red Cloud and Sitting Bull to retire his body from its earthly pilgrimage, while his simulacrum continues to dwell in the nickelodeums and there resist the ravages of the cruel palefaces.

AN ABNORMAL EGOTIST.

Notwithstanding the capture by Roosevelt of Jackpot Lorimer's State, the colonel is far—very far—from having even a respectable minority of delegates in his favor, while the nomination of President Taft is practically assured. The colonel assumes in a spirit of kindly self-appreciation that all Roosevelt delegates have been elected by an intelligent, unbiased expression of the popular will, while all Taft delegates have been chosen by secret and corrupt practices of pot-house politicians in the employment of big business, special privilege and loathsome capitalism.

Roosevelt is—according to Roosevelt—the greatest man in all the world. T. R. is not only responsible for all the good laws that have been enacted since 1900, he is the author of the sunshine and the rain. He caused the wheat to grow. But for him we would have had no pure food or drugs and all the big families are due to his strenuous opposition to race suicide. From the Mediterranean to the Baltic he has advised kings and emperors. He has swayed the mysterious harmony of the spheres and made the earth affluent in fatness by his counsel. Taft, on the contrary, is, according to the Rooseveltian press, a measly, low-down Ohio thimble-rigging politician, who always did wrong from impulse and never did anything that was right if he could help it.

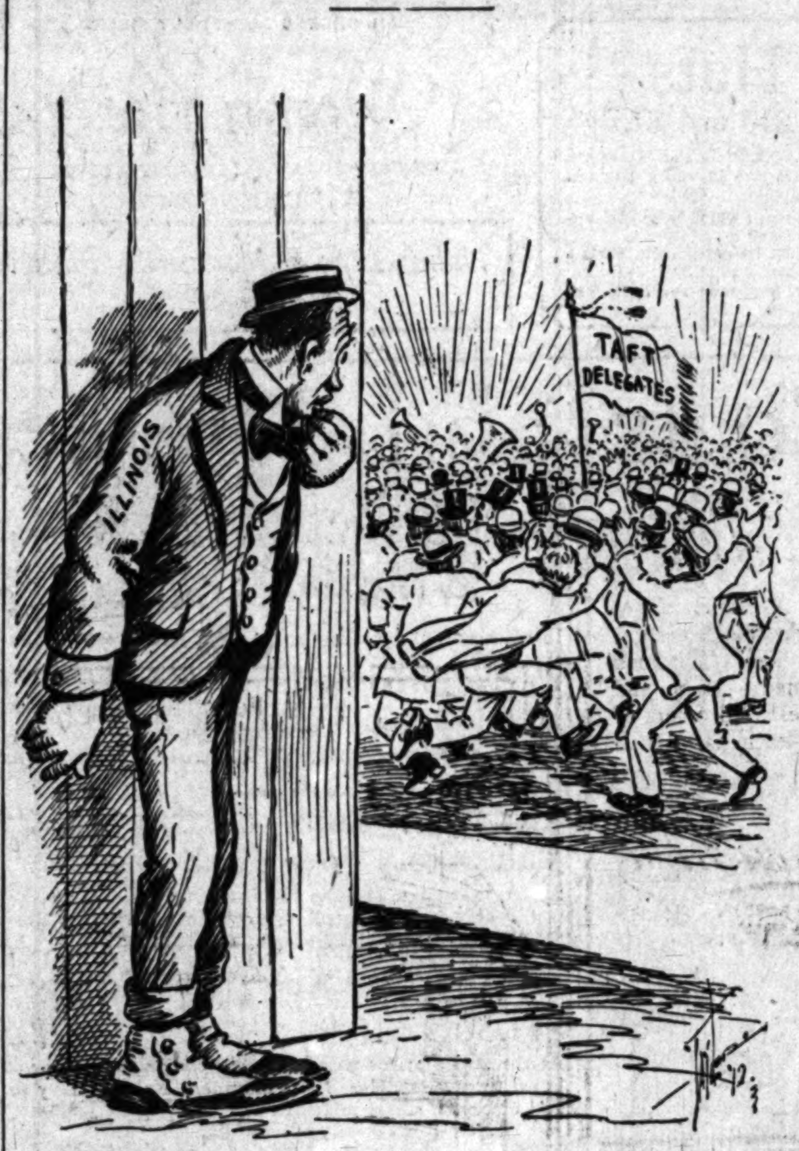
THE ROMANCE OF LIFE.

An entombed miner in an Arizona camp was rescued from his living grave after having been buried for many hours. He was only a solitary workman, but thousands of persons interested themselves in his rescue. His story became the topic of many newspapers during his long and perilous wait for the light to steal through from the good warm sun. The natural death of many important citizens in the same length of time in any one locality would not have attracted so much attention. Such instances give the imagination an opportunity to play upon the common fate of all humanity. The tragedy of death is inextricably interwoven with the romance of life, and an individual or an army in peril makes a wide appeal in which every unit of society will ever participate. It is only now and then that a few master builders become so world-weary through long practice in dealing with generalities that the individual experience loses the charm of emphasis. It is thus that theologians sometimes account for the apparent indifference of Jesus to the personal fate of John the Baptist.

LAZINESS.

Persons may share the common complaint of laziness without any appreciation of how far it is responsible for the saddest cases of mental and moral disintegration. Laziness is really the key to a large share of what passes for lack of balance and perhaps for insanity. It takes hold in the schoolroom where pupils slight the work they most need because they like it least. Having shirked the studies which would have done most to balance their mentalities, they proceed to emphasize this lopsidedness by refraining from every line of endeavor which is not to their liking. They find a hundred excuses for doing so, but nearly always their excuses are not reasons. They do only what they like until finally they do not like doing that. Then they drift and regret that the ravens of today are not as active in their charities as in the days of Elijah.

That Lonesome Feeling.



FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS.

Contributions Offered—Moneys Will Be Received and Forwarded by "The Times."

Reports of the awful devastation wrought by floods in the Southern States grow more appalling from day to day. Yesterday's dispatches added to the accumulation of horrors. The suffering is widespread and dreadful.

The Times has received offers of donations for the benefit of the stricken ones from warm-hearted people in Los Angeles and vicinity. Aid is certainly needed. The Times will receive, account for and forward moneys contributed to the fund for the sufferers.

THE DAY'S STORIES.

When the Judge Forgot.

[Harper's Weekly:] The damage suit was on, and Bildad's chauffeur was testifying for the plaintiff.

"Now, you say," said the pompous lawyer for the defendant, "that at this point the two cars, traveling at the rate of thirty miles an hour, came together head on. Then what did you do?"

The witness gazed wearily at his questioner.

"Why," he said, "I turned to my wife, who was brushing the baby's hair in the tonneau, and I said that I thought the dumplings must be done by this time——"

"Bang!" interrupted the judge's gavel. "Stenographer," said His Honor, "strike that fool answer from the record."

"And doesn't the question go with it, judge?" asked the witness meekly.

"Sure!" said His Honor, forgetting the dignity of his calling for the moment.

Slight Consolation.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat:] Mayor Baker of Cleveland said at a recent Democratic banquet, apropos of a disgruntled statesman:

"He was disgruntled; he had a right to be disgruntled and all our consolation and comfort rang as hollow as the keeper's consolation to the poor shot.

"A poor shot made a dreadful exhibition of himself while rabbiting. Finally a rabbit, about five yards in front, sat down broadside to him and he took slow and careful aim.

"It seemed to him he couldn't miss such a splendid broadside, and after the report he opened his eyes and said to the keeper hopefully:

"'Well, did I hit him?'

"The keeper scratched his ear.

"'I dunno, sir,' he said, 'as I can exactly say you hit him, but I never seen a rabbit wuss skairt.'"

A "Walk-Off" Sermon.

[St. Paul Dispatch:] At the banquet of a Sunday-school association, the newly-elected State secretary told this story of the "walk-off men:"

"An old darky attended services when a high church dignitary preached.

"'How did you like the sermon, uncle?' was asked.

"'I likes the sermon fine, boss. It was a regular get-up and walk-off sermon.'

"When asked what kind that was, he replied: 'It is like this: After the good Lord he fixes up the world, he makes twelve men out o' mud and stands them alongside a wall to dry. He says to them: "Now, you stand there until you are dry as dust and then I'll come back and put some brains into you and make you men."

"'Well, some of them they stands and waits to get their brains, while others they don't like to wait, and gets right up and walks off without no brains at all. Them's what you call walk-off men! And a walk-off sermon is the same way—it has some go to it.'"

British Musical Critic.

[St. Paul Dispatch:] "The English are not very musical," Walter Damrosch, the conductor, admitted at a dinner in Manhattan. "The English are a little too cold, too self-conscious, to produce a Chopin or a Rimsky-Korsakov.

"Robert Louis Stevenson once went to hear Charles Halle play the piano in Queen's Hall. After the performance Stevenson walked in silence out Regent street to Oxford Circus. He stopped at Oxford Circus, and in a slow, meditative voice, pronounced this excellent criticism on the English musician he had heard:

"'The manner of the elderly statesman at the piano was somewhat austere and chilling.'"

A Modest Request.

[Harper's Magazine:] That a reputation for oratorical excellence may have its handicaps is illustrated by the experience in Arkansas of a certain member of Congress noted for his mellifluous tongue.

On one occasion this statesman was traveling in a little-visited section of the State mentioned when he stopped over night in a log cabin inhabited by an old man and his wife. After breakfast the next morning, the host, who had been in a flutter of excitement ever since he had learned the identity of his distinguished guest, said he would like to make one slight request before the visitor departed.

"Couldn't you," he said, with evident anxiety—"couldn't you jest make my wife and me a little speech before leavin' us?"

Was Not Greedy.

[New York Mail:] An old negro preacher did the honors and the candidate for baptism was a coal black negro woman. The preacher led his victim far out in the stream, where she could be thoroughly immersed, and at the auspicious moment he cried, in a loud voice:

"Be stiddy, sistah, be stiddy, an' you'll come up whitah dan snow."

"Oh, parson!" she exclaimed, "dat's askin' too much; a cream color'll do!"

AN EASY JOB.

The promoter, to the applicant: "Yes, I advertised for a doorman. You are pretty broad across the chest, aren't you?"

The applicant, swelling up: "Unusually broad, sir."

"Just stand in the doorway, please. Ah, yes, you fill the opening, don't you? I think you are just the men I want."

"An' what are my duties, sir?"

"Why, you are to fill the doorway, that's all. There are some foolish persons who may drop around and try to shoot me, or hit me with a bomb—and you are to fill the doorway, that's all."

Commercial and industrial reasons are moving thoughtful California to give President Taft support in the primaries with greater force than are political reasons, strong though they are. His poise, lack of rash judgment, freedom from personal animus, ignorance of egotism, vanity and ambition, sterling uniform interest in the future of the people and conservatism on the modification of the laws affecting an independent and just judiciary, are political qualities in his official character that bring strong support. But in addition, in the commercial intelligence of a State whose industries are dependent on a just measure of protection which Taft personifies and which would be annihilated by free trade and exposed to destruction by a low tariff programme. The Democrats promise free trade; the insurgents promise practical free trade disguised as "low tariff." As Congressman [illegible] so tersely said last week: "Low tariff is the acid test of an insurgent." This issue is more commercial than political. More than 50,000 farmers, orchardists and others engaged in agriculture are now co-operating in making this commercial campaign for the President's renomination successful. They realize that the defeat of Taft and the Taft delegates in California is fraught with peril and they propose to arouse the disinterested voters, largely in the cities, to the danger.

Objection has been made to the injection of the tariff question by the Roosevelt apologists on the ground that this is a question for the September primaries when Congress candidates are to be nominated. Then they tell us only "safe" insurgents will be elected and the industries of the State are to be properly protected. This bluff has some phase of plausibility, like most insurgent theories, but it only encourages the people to pull the wool over their own eyes. The tariff question is in the Presidential campaign now and the result of the May election will be accepted as an indication of how California stands on the proposed revision and free trade programme.

Why? Because the twenty-six delegates to the Chicago convention will make the party platform and determine the platform on which Republican candidates for Congress, to be nominated in September, must run. If an insurgent delegation is sent to Chicago it must be expected that an insurgent plan will be advocated, fought for and adopted if enough States send insurgent delegations. That platform will bind the California nominees [illegible] fall unless the insurgents, accomplished flip-floppers as they are, can find a way to repudiate their own platform and give pretense of protecting the California industries.

We already have evidence of insurgent tariff-making in the vote of Congressman William Kent on sugar and wool. He voted for free list measures. He is a free trader. His vote for free sugar was against California's infant sugar beet industry and for the monopoly of the sugar trust in its refined imported cane sugar. It was a vote to permit the trust to strangle an American industry, the only bona fide competitor of the trust, and to permit, after strangulation, the trust lever on prices to the consumer.

Speaking of this situation and the commercial side of the fight to sustain President Taft (and he may be sustained only by a Taft delegation to Chicago) Chairman Hammond of the State organization of Taft Republicans says:

"The sugar beet growers, who are just beginning to reap the rewards of years of scientific experiment, are fighting for the future of 108,000 acres of California land and an income of approximately $6,000,000 per year. More than this, they are fighting for the preservation of an industry that has a magnificent potential future, since the limit of production has been reached elsewhere, while the consumption of sugar increases by leaps and bounds, making it positive that thousands of acres of idle California land may be devoted to sugar beet culture.

"So powerful is the influence of the beet growers in this one instance of opposition to tariff changes that they enlisted the activity of the Chambers of Commerce of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Sacramento and other cities and the California Development Board, which represents the entire State. It was in discussion before these and kindred bodies—not in political headquarters—that the policy of the Democrats was assailed and the action of the progressives denounced. Former friends and supporters of two members of the California Congressional delegation led in denunciation of the Senator and Representative who had deserted State interests for the sake of opposing the administration. The growers of prunes, of raisins and of olives are demanding of the progressives if they, too, must combine to resist interference with their pursuits, and if each session of Congress under the order of things proposed will make it necessary to engage in an expensive campaign to oppose experiments with the tariff laws of the country."

In connection with the sugar beet peril Chairman Hammond has sent the following telegram to the President:

"The Taft Republicans of California, having in hand the campaign for the re-election of President William Howard Taft, have considered in all its bearings the proposal to abolish the duty on sugar. Realizing that the interests of thousands of Californians will be endangered by the change proposed, and foreseeing the difficulties that will beset an important industry that is just gaining a foothold in this State, an industry that distributed $6,000,000 last year for the product of 108,000 acres of California land and that offers to the humblest and poorest of our new citizens an opportunity to gain a clean and honest livelihood, we, the Taft Republicans of California, do earnestly request that in event of its passage by the Senate you do withhold executive approval from H. R. No. 21213, entitled 'An act to provide revenue, equalize duties and encourage industries of the United States and for other purposes.' By this action, we firmly believe, the best interests of the State of California will be served.

"Taft Republicans of California,

"CHARLES M. HAMMOND,
"Chairman."

Taft Day at the Woman's Progressive League will come next Saturday and John G. Mott, a Los Angeles attorney, will present the reasons why the President should receive the support of women voters. The league is a non-partisan organization and assumes a duty of stimulating interest in women in political affairs and encouraging them to an intelligent understanding of all sides, according to its programme. It has already held Wilson, La Follette and Roosevelt days, and the Taft Day is to be followed by a Clark Day. Then, finally, there will be a symposium of representatives of each candidate for the further elucidation of their claims to support at the May primaries.

Mr. Mott will deliver his address in the auditorium of the Higgins building, Second and Main streets. This auditorium is on the tenth floor and the speaking will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

The Woman's Progressive League asked the Woman's Taft Club to furnish the speaker and it considers itself fortunate in getting Mr. Mott to represent the loyal Republican side.

In spite of the Illinois election there still appears evidence that President Taft is likely to have more votes in Chicago convention than he had in 1908. In that year's convention he received 702 on the first ballot, yet at the same period as this before the convention he had less delegates pledged to him than he has in 1912. Proportionately he should have a greater number with the enlarged representation than four years ago, if the present ratio keeps up.

It is also well to remember the vote of the Presidential election of 1904 and 1908. In the first Roosevelt ran against Parker, who was confessedly weak on all sides and was defeated by the stay-at-home Bryan vote which would not receive his gold standard views. In 1908 Taft ran against William Jennings Bryan, the most popular candidate the Democrats ever nominated. In spite of Bryan's popularity, Taft received 7,679,006 votes in the entire country, which was 50,162 more than Roosevelt received four years before, while, in the same election, Bryan's vote exceeded that of Parker by 1,332,293. The weakness of Parker was Roosevelt's strength, but it was the strength of Taft that broke the records in 1908—as it will in 1912.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Santa Monica has invited Los Angeles officials to visit that city and tell the people how they should go about getting water from the aqueduct.

Socialists are trying to persuade the City Council to change the Bion J. Arnold report and run cars on Los Angeles street.

Vice-President Clark of the Salt Lake Railway wrote Chief Engineer Mulholland and told him, yesterday, that the railway's effort to furnish meals to its men at 25 cents resulted in a loss of $7,887.45 in eight months, or 12 per cent. of each meal.

Judge Hutton of the Superior Court will hear a motion tomorrow for an injunction to restrain the city from proceeding with the sale of property of seventy-four persons in the assessment district for the opening and widening of Sixteenth street from Pacific to Normandie avenue.

At the City Hall.

AQUEDUCT WATER IS IN DEMAND.

SANTA MONICA ASKS HOW TO BE SUPPLIED.

City Officials Invited to Attend Chamber of Commerce Session at Shore City, and Chief Engineer and Mayor Will Explain Steps to Be Taken.

Santa Monica wants the aqueduct water and is prepared to start its plans for getting it at once. How to get it is a question that the citizens there are already exercised about and they have appealed to the city officials of Los Angeles to tell them. The plans as given in the Mulholland report showed how Santa Monica could be supplied and that district now wishes to be told how to start proceedings.

Yesterday a delegation from the Santa Monica Bay Chamber of Commerce called at the City Hall with an invitation to the Mayor and City Council and the members of the Aqueduct Advisory Board, with the Board of Public Works and the Public Service Commission to attend a dinner to be given at Santa Monica on the 26th inst. At that dinner it is proposed to have Chief Engineer Mulholland and Mayor Alexander speak. Mayor Alexander gave the delegation a cordial greeting and assured them of his hearty co-operation.

M. Bunker led the delegation from the bay city and the other members were A. R. Fraser and Secretary McLeod of the Chamber of Commerce there.

WOULD CHANGE ROUTE.

BACK TO LOS ANGELES STREET.

To revive the notion of running Pacific Electric tracks on Los Angeles street from Sixth to First street, although Bion J. Arnold specifically condemned this plan, was the tenor of the arguments put forward yesterday morning before the special committee of the City Council when the question of reaching an agreement with the railways for rights of way on San Pedro street from Sixth to Aliso streets was under discussion.

Richmond Plant and other speakers, representing an organization of Socialists known as the Alembic Club, asked the city to abandon the suit looking to the use of San Pedro street, to place the tracks on Los Angeles street and to grant no franchises whatever, because, he said, all franchises would have to be fought out in the courts. He considered indeterminate franchises to be of no more value than any others, he said, but was sharply called to time for this assertion by Councilman Lusk, who challenged his statement.

Councilman Reed said that in his estimation, Expert Arnold had made a mistake in "overlooking" Los Angeles street. A representative of San Pedro property owners at this point announced that he did not care about Los Angeles street one way or the other, but if laying rails on Los Angeles street was to deprive San Pedro street of the local service it demanded, he would assure the Council his clients would oppose it.

R. D. Wade for the Municipal League said he could see no real objections to an route that would bring about the relief of the present congestion of traffic on Main street, and he thought that any railway would be willing to build, as it was evident that the city would have to reimburse it should the municipality conclude eventually to take over the lines. He called attention to the fact that Los Angeles street was a wholesale thoroughfare, densely crowded with teams, and he declared that San Pedro street would never be a retail street. This led one of the San Pedro street property owners to say that they were working to the end of making it a retail street.

Local interests should not be permitted to stand in the way of the general good, Wade continued, and the general needs of the traffic situation ought to be considered rather than the wants of any particular frontage.

W. H. Coffman of the Municipal League declared that this Los Angeles street idea was injected into the discussion simply to cloud the issue and that the elaborate and comprehensive report of Bion J. Arnold ought to be treated with respect.

The committee decided to ask for a direct statement from the Los Angeles Railway Company as to what it would do toward laying a third rail on San Pedro street should the Pacific Electric be granted rights of way from Sixth to Aliso street. The discussion will be resumed next Saturday morning.

CHEAP RATES A LOSS.

RAILWAY MEALS AND DEFICIT.

That the Salt Lake Railway's 25-cent charge for meals to the construction force on the Meadow Valley wash resulted in a heavy loss to that company was stated yesterday to Chief Engineer Mulholland of the aqueduct, in a letter received from J. Ross Clark, second vice-president of the railway company. Vice-President Clark, in his note, says he has seen a letter from a man named Holt, in which it was said that the company in charging the men 25 cents a meal on the high line of the Meadow Valley wash had done so at a cost of 11½ cents, showing a profit of 13½ cents a meal.

"I would like to correct this statement," says Clark, "and for your personal information will say that, while we charged the men 25 cents a meal, our commissary camps for the eight months' period ending February 29, 1912, were run at a deficit of $7,887.45, showing a loss on all meals served of about 12 per cent."

City Hall Brevities.

Mayor Alexander said yesterday noon that he was no nearer a selection of a member of the Board of Public Service Commissioners than before. He said he had come to no decision whatever.

City Attorney Shenk has advised the Board of Public Works that the Los Angeles Railway Company may use "T" rails in relaying its track after paving on Sunset avenue and Beaudry street, as the distance is less than 600 feet. An effort was under way to make the company lay "trilby" rails there.

As the safe manufacturers refused to do anything more toward placing the city treasury vault in position until the city enlarged the entrance into the treasury office, the Board of Public Works yesterday ordered the counter in the office to be moved and the manufacturers then returned to work after the vault had lain out in the City Hall corridor for two days.

DEPLORE THEIR LOSS.

The Juvenile Court Committee adopted a resolution yesterday, signed by President Ryland and Secretary Clark, deploring the death of former Judge Henry C. Dillon, a member of the committee, and expressing the loss of an untiring worker and wise counselor, declaring that the children under the Juvenile Court supervision "have lost a friend indeed, who gave himself witout stint to their services."

At the Courthouse.

SCORES SEEK TO RESTRAIN CITY.

BLANKET INJUNCTION ASKED ON WEST SIXTEENTH.

Property Owners Would Prevent Proposed Sale of Lots Declared Delinquent for Failure to Pay the Assessment for the Opening and Widening of Street.

Seventy-four property-owners have joined in an application for an injunction to restrain the city from proceeding with the sale of their property, declared delinquent for failure to pay the assessment for the opening and widening of Sixteenth street from Pacific to Normandie avenue. The motion will be heard by Judge Hutton tomorrow.

The sale is set for Thursday, the amount involved aggregating $40,000. More than 100 lot owners are on the list. The application for an injunction follows the decision of Judge Bordwell in the suit of M. A. Goldman against the city in the same street improvement, that the proceedings were illegal, as the city had failed to show that the notices had been properly posted.

This was the technical point raised by Attorney Loucks, who was counsel for Goldman, and is the issue raised by him as attorney for the seventy-four property-owners.

The city is preparing an appeal in the Goldman case. In view of the interests involved, the test which Loucks has prepared promises to provoke a hot legal battle.

PREPARING TO APPEAL.

ARGUMENT IN KEATING CASE.

Attorney Keefer, representing Mrs. Vinette Lohman, the alleged co-respondent in the divorce action of Hazel and Edward Keating, who was barred from participating in the argument for a new trial on technical grounds, appeared before Judge Church of Fresno, yesterday, and joined in asking for a new trial.

His reasons were in line with those advanced by Attorney McDonald, counsel for Keating, when Judge Church denied the motion, namely, that the court had been unduly influenced by Mrs. Church.

The object yesterday was to perfect the grounds for an appeal to the Supreme Court. Judge Church took the matter under advisement. The attorneys yesterday were engaged before the court in settling the bill of exceptions upon which the appeal will be based.

Mrs. Keating won a decree in the divorce suit and was awarded $50,000 alimony.

COURT'S GOOD ADVICE.

GIVES THEM ANOTHER CHANCE.

When a husband believes that he is being crowded too hard by his wife's mother, the advice of Judge Hutton is to take a walk and breathe the fresh air. A little ozone will bring about a more cheerful frame of mind and lead to a better understanding with the mother-in-law.

This advice was handed out to Albert J. Bowen, a stock and bond broker, who was defending the divorce suit of his wife, Margaret W., for failure to provide. The evidence yesterday brought out that it is largely a case of mother-in-law.

Judge Hutton continued the case until May 11 to allow the young couple to get together and try again.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

DAMAGE SUIT. Alleging that the automobile owned by Paul Horn was being driven on the wrong side of the street and that as a result he was struck and injured, Frank Montano brought suit against Horn yesterday for $10,000 damages. The accident occurred December 22 last when Montano got off a Jefferson street car at Grand avenue.

ASKS FOR INJUNCTION. Charles W. Durand filed a complaint yesterday asking the court to restrain the Pasadena Consolidated Water Company from interfering with the flow of water to lands bought from the Fair Oaks Water Company. Durand, it seems, has bought 115 lots from the Fair Oaks Company and 1529 shares of stock that company held in the Precipice Canyon Water Company which controlled the water supply. Later the Consolidated bought the 1,000,000-gallon reservoir on the land now owned by Durand and theatens to cut off the supply to the pipes.

JUDBE DECIDES DAMAGES. Judge Wood in Extra Sessions One gave judgment for $1750 for C. Fujimoto yesterday in the latter's $16,868 damage suit against the Pacific Electric. The case was heard by Judge Wood instead of a jury. Attorney Gortner for the company admitted its liability, the question being one only of amount. Fujimoto's suit was one of several growing out of the collision between a Southern Pacific train and a Pacific Electric car on September 10 last.

IN THE INFERIOR COURTS.

Police Judge Gives It as His Opinion that an Attorney Without a Fee Is Not to Be Relied Upon.

Police Judge Rose scanned the jury box in his court and found one seat vacant. It was one minute after 9 o'clock and Juror H. Schreiber was not there to answer to his name. Twenty-five minutes later he rushed into the courtroom all out of breath, Clerk O'Brien having located him over the telephone.

"What's the matter here?" asked the justice. "Thought I told you yesterday to be on hand at 9 o'clock?"

"I didn't remember, your honor, whether you said 9 or 10 o'clock," replied the juror, "and I asked an attorney and he said 10 o'clock."

"Don't you know that an opinion of an attorney without pay is not to be relied upon?" asked the court.

Schreiber then took his seat in the jury box as the laugh went around.

Lottery Tickets Cause Trouble.

Len Tung, one of the smallest Chinese ever seen in a Police Court here, was before Justice Chesebro, yesterday, on the charge of having lottery tickets in his possession. Patrolman McFadden testified that Tung was selling them among Chinese and others, peddling them from place to place. He was fined $25. Ah Lee and Mock Chunk were fined $50 each for having tickets in their possession.

No Substitutes Allowed.

Police Judge Chesebro, sitting for Police Judge Frederickson, who is ill, showed some impatience upon the bench yesterday when a young man whose name was not given sought to plead for R. A. Walton, for an alleged traffic ordinance violation.

"Is R. A. Walton your true name?" asked the court when the boy stood up.

"No, sir," he replied. "I drive for Mr. Walton and he told me to appear for him."

"Where is he now?"

"Out in the country."

Turning to the complaining officer, Judge Chesebro ordered him to locate Walton and bring him into court "forthwith."

New Name Didn't Save Him.

"J. Donahue, J. Donahue," called Police Judge Chambers, reading from a complaint.

No one in the dock claimed the name, for no one moved. Lieut. Spellman, who stood in front of the bench, turned around, took a look over the familiar faces, and then called out: "J. O'Brien, stand up."

J. did so.

"He came in under the name of J. Donohue last night," said the lieutenant. "His true name is O'Brien. Thought by switching names he might fool us."

He got ten days.

Pasadena Speeder Fined.

Fred Halley of Pasadena was fined $50 by Police Judge Chambers yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to intoxication and exceeding the speed limits.

"A Family Affair."

It cost Miss Lupin Valencia $10 or ten days in the City Jail to break into a quarrel between two brothers, E. and J. B. Provencia. The men got $30 or thirty days each, for being drunk and fighting. Miss Valencia is a close friend of E. Provencia. When J. B. picked a quarrel with him, she went to his assistance. When the police arrived the trio were fighting on the sidewalk on New High street. The brothers appeared in court with cuts on their faces, and the woman was in a defiant mood for being arrested. She cried when sentenced.

WILL HE BE THERE?

Bondsmen of Charles Mackie are wondering if he will appear in Justice Forbes's court to present his defense to a charge of battery. Yesterday morning Miss Ida Josslyn, one of the witnesses for the prosecution, stated her side of the case and the matter went over to give the defendant more time. Jnustice Forbes was informed yesterday that the defendant, who is under $500 bonds, had left town, and that his bondesmen were somewhat worried. Inasmuch as the charge is mild and subject to a light fine if the facts warrant, there seems no good reason, in the opinion of court attaches, why the young man should go away. Miss Josslyn testified that she and another girl were driven to Venice by Mackie and that there was a quarrel. Following this she said he tried to eject her from the automobile and in the struggle she jabbed him several times with her hatpin.

BIDS FOR ARROYO BRIDGE.

The Board of Supervisors, at its next meeting, will consider bids for the construction of the Colorado-street bridge, Pasadena. The bridge is to span the Arroyo Seco and is to be 1478 feet long. The Supervisors have agreed to pay not more than $100,000 of the cost and the city of Pasadena is to furnish the balance.

GREAT PRIMA DONNA EXPRESSES DELIGHT

Madame Esther Palliser So Charmed With Los Angeles That Visit Here Will Be Lengthened Year or So

IMPOTRANT ADDITION TO CITY'S MUSICAL STARS

Madame Esther Palliser, the great Anglo-America prima donna, who came to Los Angeles about a month ago, intending to stop but a few days in her tour of the world, has become so infatuated with the climate and the people here, that she has decided to remain possibly a year, before resuming her travels.

Madame Palliser comes direct from the Covent Garden or Royal Opera House of London, fresh from a series of remarkable triumphs, in which she sang all the Wagnerian, French and Italian operas, in the corresponding languages in which they were written.

This great artist has sung in all the capitals of Europe, before the royalties, in all festivals throughout the British Isles, as well as in society orchestrals, and in New York and other American eastern cities.

Many special honors have been conferred upon Madame Palliser by Queen Victoria; King Edward and others. She occupies a unique position among artists, in that she sings in thirteen different languages, besides possessing a very extensive knowledge of traditional work which she uses largely in her recitals and teaching. This particular qualification has made her work of great value and interest to the artists among us, and to the music-loving public.

Before the Ellis Club, Gamut Club, and in society recitals, thus far Madame Palliser has achieved already in this city a most enviable position of prestige, and success. These recitals will undoubtedly be supplemented by others throughout the summer

The California Furniture Company's showing of these exquisite wall paper creations is representative of the best productions of the foremost designers of this country and Europe.

The beautiful new colorings in light foliage, dainty grays and rich dark blues—and the natural colors in browns and greens are particularly effective—and eminently worthy the inspection and study of every one interested in the "home beautiful."

We most cordially invite you to come and see these exclusive new ideas in tapestry papers—and the many other distinctly new and noteworthy productions we show. MUCH SAVED BY NEW METHODS.

CHIEF ENGINEER'S REPORT ON THE COUNTY ROADS.

Rock Waste Has Been Eliminated and Other Features Have Been Improved — Changes in Watercourses Cause the Commission Much Difficulty.

In a report which Engineer Joyner of the County Highway Commission will make to the Supervisors tomorrow, he states that up to January 1 of the present year, the commission has completed 198.51 miles of macadam highway and 8.04 miles of graded road; also there are under construction 26.82 miles of macadam and 4.90 miles of grading.

The Supervisors have formally accepted 171.23 miles of macadam, representing a total cost, including preliminary surveys, of $3,158,642.47. The 171 odd miles of completed and accepted road cost a total of $2,523,045.66

The report sets forth that the present commission, upon assuming office July 12, 1911, found 102.35 miles of road under contract, twenty-seven miles of which were completed, but not accepted, and on ten miles of which considerable work had been done, and sixty-five miles of which some work had been started.

Engineer Joyner in his report, says:

"The full value of the new methods of handling the work does not clearly appear in the tables submitted as they necessarily include much work done before said methods were fully in effect, yet by carefully comparing these tables with those previously submitted the value can be found. The total waste of stone has been reduced from 22 to 10 per cent. and during the last months of 1911 the average waste was practically nothing.

"Considerable expense for broken stone was necessitated during the latter half of 1911 on account of the fact that the county had contracted for the delivery of more broken stone to contractors than was available at reasonable prices. Our Pacoima quarry furnished for road work from July 1 to January 1, 1912, a total of 109,683 tons, at an average cost of 42 cents per ton and the San Dimas quarry, controlled by the county, furnished 98,841 tons during the same period for about 32 cents per ton. But in order to furnish stone called for in our contracts we were forced to buy from private companies 105,918 tons at a cost of from 60 to 75 cents a ton, and were frequently obliged to pay extra freight in order to get stone delivered on time. No contracts requiring the county to furnish stone were advertised after July 12, 1911, on account of this condition.

"Asphaltic oil is of great value in road construction when used in such a manner that its strength will develop, but it is of no value otherwise. The desired strength develops when the oil is placed on the surface. It is believed that with a firm subgrade under a mechanically-locked mass of broken stone covered with a tough uniform coating of asphaltic oil, we will get a road that will stand heavy travel by the simple maintenance of the oil coat.

"No material changes have been made in the methods of grading and grades and alignments established before the present commission assumed control have been generally followed. Culvert design and location is one of the difficult parts of our work, made so mainly by the continual changes in watercourses due to natural laws and rapid development of the county. There appears no possibility of a satisfactory solution of this problem until such time as a comprehensive system of water control is established and maintained throughout the entire county."

Engineer Joyner refers in his report to the reorganization of the engineering force, made last August. The three construction divisions were abolished, the position of office engineer created, the title of inspector changed to resident engineer and the latter given more responsibility and authority than the inspectors formerly had.

The present organization, besides Chief Engineer Joyner, includes S. V. Cortelyou, in charge of surveying parties; William Davidson, in charge of the Pacoima quarry; Holmes Ellis, the records, and C. M. Soule, construction clerk, who looks after the broken stone and oil shipments.

BENCH AND BAR TO DINE.

Local Minister Will Enliven Occasion by Humorous Comments Upon Veracity of Legal Profession.

The Los Angeles Bar Association will give its semi-annual dinner at the Alexandria, Wednesday night. The justices of the Supreme Court will be guests of the association.

The Banquet Committee has arranged a sparkling programme, with but three speakers. The first will be Judge Bledsoe of San Bernardino county. He will be followed by President Scherer of Throop Polytechnic Institute. The last address will be given by Rev. Arthur S. Phelps of the Central Baptist Church. His topic will be "Why Lawyers are——." Though no one has supplied the missing word some may take it to mean that the legal fraternity is given to prevarication upon occasions.

Orders, Sir!

HANDCUFFED, HE SAYS GOODBY.

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE IS TAKEN TO MARE ISLAND.

"General" Asks to Be Spared Humiliation, but Sergeant Says He Has His Instructions—Rumors that Sickness Isn't as Serious as Friends Pretend.

"Gen." Jack S. Mosby, soldier of fortune, was taken to Mare Island yesterday to answer the charge of desertion from the navy.

A number of his friends had gathered at the County Jail to bid him good-by, and he had hoped to escape the handcuffs. As he could not ask the favor himself, he begged Ervin Dingle, Deputy United States Marshal, to ask Sergt. Morris to not put the "nippers" on him.

"We have our orders," said the sergeant; and the handcuffs went on.

Another humiliation for Mosby was when he was searched by Sergt. Gallanti, who has seventeen years' service to his credit with the government. Nothing was found in his pockets but a lot of letters written to Mosby by impressionable women. He asked that the letters be returned to him and this was done.

From the Federal building Mosby, in company with Sergt. Morris and Gallanti, with Sergt. Fachman of the local naval recruiting office, went to headquarters at Second and Los Angeles streets, where Mosby was kept until last night when he was taken north.

As he was leaving the Federal building, Mosby asked if the authorities had consented to the dismissal of the indictment against him, set for trial next month, charging him with violation of the neutrality laws. He was told that this would not be done. He was visibly disappointed.

It was intended that the indictment should be dismissed, provided Mosby gave certain information sought by United States District Attorney McCormick. He was not to be used as a witness in the trial of the case against the Magon brothers, but his statements had been at variance with known conditions.

When called before Assistant United States District Attorney Robinson he refused to talk or enlighten the official in any way in regard to matters that would have assisted materially in the coming hearings. He even denied having written a certain letter to the Magons, whose signature he could not explain, although he declared he is not the author of the missive.

His attitude was so defiant it was then agreed that he should not go free so far as the local prosecution is concerned, and the indictment still stands against him. Whether it will ever be invoked is not determined. Mosby will be placed either in the naval hospital at Mare Island, or in a similar institution at Los Animas, Colo. The impression is strong that Mosby is not as sick as some of his sympathetic friends have represented, and the statement that within the past week he suffered a hemorrhage is denied at the County Jail.

Cement Magnate Comes to Make Investments.

Says This City Leads the Concrete World.

One Man Buys a Million's Worth in Year.

After having supplied much of the cement which has gone to the material upbuilding of Los Angeles, more than [illegible] worth annually for several years, W. H. L. McCourtie, builder of seven cement plants that dot the American continent, has come here to invest heavily, and has already purchased a ranch and obtained more than a fifth interest in an extensive oil company.

"This is one of the cities of the United States to which much credit is due for the advancement given cement as building material throughout not only this country, but throughout the world," said he at the Alexandria yesterday. "Contractors in this section, one of them particularly applied it in many new ways, some of them daring and all of them successful.

W. H. L. McCourtie, Cement King, Now Here.

He built seven plants throughout the United States and Canada, and is interesting himself heavily in Southern California properties. He is the man who won $20,000 on football wagers when he backed the University of Michigan team against the University of Minnesota team a year ago.

Los Angeles leads the world in [illegible].

"When I first became interested in the cement business in 1899 through the building of the original plant in which I had much interest, the Peninsular at Cement City, Mich., there were only 1,000,000 barrels produced in the United States. Today there are more than 80,000,000 going into the structural work of the country. Then cement was considered good merely for sidewalks and floors in basements.

"In 1902, two young Cincinnati engineers decided that it might be applied to large buildings after they had tried it on several smaller ones. They interested President Ingalls of the Big Four railroad to the extent of erecting a sixteen-story building for him of reinforced concrete. That turned out to be a turning point in building and made them famous as [illegible]. The erection of large buildings of this type is continually increasing, partly because they cost less, because they are monolithic in strength, fire and flood proof and cost little for upkeep.

"Portland cement has been a revolutionary factor in building. In a [illegible] building of brick or steel, [illegible] of concrete construction, because of their thinness will gain an [illegible] over the old-fashioned construction. The decreased cost of building rests largely in location, the same frequently canceling anything that might be gained otherwise in style of construction."

Speaking of the origination of the term "Portland cement," McCourtie stated that John Abaidine, a [illegible] engineer, in experimenting with lime and clay of silica and [illegible] composition discovered the [illegible], and because he was able to make a stone similar to that quarried at Portland Hill, a town on the south Coast of England, he called it Portland cement to distinguish it from the natural rock cement and [illegible] cement.

In a single year McCourtie shipped to one contractor, Carl Leonardt in this city, nearly a million dollars worth of cement, the bills for which made a string forty-eight feet long, one of the special treasures in the office of the contractor. The plants [illegible] interested in at this time include the original one in Michigan, the National at Durham, Ont., the [illegible] at Hull, Quebec, the [illegible] States at Atlantic, Ga., the [illegible] States at Independence, [illegible] the Northwestern States at [illegible] City, Iowa and the Southwestern States at Dallas, Tex.

Although he lays no claim to being a sporting man McCourtie on several occasions has received the title. [illegible] for the University of Michigan, when he graduated from the [illegible], led him in 1910 to wager [illegible] on the outcome of [illegible] played by that college with [illegible] from the university at Minneapolis, in which city he has had [illegible] for several years. He realized on his judgment and the [illegible] about him. McCourtie [illegible] the legal profession for a year, [illegible] he found it a struggle for [illegible] to eat, and dropped it.

One of the reasons for his present visit to California is to go again to the [illegible] of his parents. His father crossed the plains hither in the days of the gold rush. His [illegible] to Mokelumne Hill, then [illegible] San Francisco and [illegible] a mining camp back of [illegible] near Sacramento.

TOO MANY FIRES.

can be brought to the attention of the people, and simple means suggested for fire prevention, much good can be accomplished. Fire Prevention Day should be a day of education along these lines.

"I believe there should be rigid and frequent inspection of the basements and storage-rooms within the fire district, and that a system should be established whereby all firemen would become familiar with the floor plans of the various downtown buildings and the location of the light wells, the means of egress and the places where inflammables are stored."

Of the 1349 fire alarms responded to by the department in the last year, 819 were classed as false alarms, grass fires, and unknown. Of the remaining 530 alarms, 161 were caused by gas, gasoline or oil stoves, or lamps. Children and matches caused thirty-three fires, and mice and matches, twelve. Distillate overflow was the cause of thirty-five, chimney fires numbered twenty-seven, and defective flues caused twenty-seven. Spontaneous combustion was given as the cause of twelve fires. Two persons placed electric light bulbs in bed to warm their feet with disastrous results. Nine awnings burned from various causes. Crossed wires set eighteen fires.

Olden Days.

MISSION PLAY LOOMS CLOSE.

PREMIER TWO WEEKS FROM MONDAY EVENING.

Final Preparations on McGroarty's Allegory of the Padres and Their Great Work of Civilization—Ben Horning Will Probably Be Seen as Padre Junipero Serra.

The "Mission Play," John McGroarty's dramatic allegory of the early mission days in California, is to receive its first production at the San Gabriel Theater Monday evening, April 29, with Princess Lazarovich in the chief feminine role.

According to the present plan of Director Henry Kabierske, Ben Horning will play the really big role of Padre Junipero Serra, the mighty pioneer of religion and civilization on the West Coast. This was the last role decided upon, and the assignment of the part has been a matter of considerable discussion.

Ernest Wilkes, formerly a member of the Belasco company, and for the past two or three years in the East and in England, will enact the leader of the Spanish soldiery.

Rehearsals have been going on for a week now, and within the next few days, according to the directoral promise, real dress rehearsals will be commenced, with the full equipment of scenery and costuming.

Mr. Horning is in actual charge of the stage.

Mr. Kabierske has spent much time in preparing the costumes and the scenic equipment. The latter he has had prepared from personal sketches and plans he made in the three locations of the piece, viz., San Diego Bay, Carmel, and the ruins of San Juan Capistrano. Some of the costuming equipment he has secured from the northern and southern missions, as well as various properties, and other materials he has imported from Spain.

In order to get reality and correctness the dancing seen in the production will be done by a troupe of genuine—by the managerial word—Castilian dancers, who have been in America a short time.

Princess Lazarovich—Eleanor Calhoun of California a few years ago—is a coadjutor in the preparation of the spectacle, and shares directoral honors, as well as playing Senora Dominguez, who, in the last act, tyypifies the courtliness and elegant indolence of the original Spanish-Mexican aristocracy of the land of sunshine.

The theater is practically completed, and there is nothing in it which is not of mission suggestiveness. The decorations, pictures on the walls, external form of the theater, and even its cloister garden and guarding wall suggest the form of the fortress-church community center promoted by the militant priests who flourish in the days of Cabrillo.

The sale of seats for these performances will commence tomorrow morning at the Bartlett music house, on South Broadway.

Regular evening performances, excepting Sunday, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees, are announced.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion and likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Co., 235 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) 75 cents. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat at the rate of 12 to 16 ounces a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leaving exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

This Girl Recovered from Consumption

The makers of Eckman's Alterative, which is doing so much good for Consumptives, are continually in receipt of really wonderful reports of cures brought about solely through the use of this medicine. These reports are always at the command of anyone interested, and many of the writers in their gratitude have suggested that like sufferers write direct and learn what it did for them. Here is one specimen:

421 Second Ave., Aurora, Ill.

"Gentlemen: Pardon me for not writing sooner, but I waited to see if I would stay cured. I can now truthfully say I am perfectly well. Never felt better in all my life. I wish to express my heartfelt thanks. I never have any pain, no cough, no night sweats, no hay-fever. Since a child of two years I have been ailing with lung trouble, which grew worse as I grew older. At the age of fourteen the doctor said if I could not be sent South, I would surely die of Consumption. Every winter I would be sure to have either Bronchitis, Pleurisy, or Pneumonia. I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels and had Hay Fever for the last few years; but have not anything of the kind this year.

"I will answer all letters sent to me, asking a history of my case, from anyone suffering from lung trouble."

"I remain with many thanks to you, your grateful friend."

(Signed Affidavit) ETTA PLATH.

Three years later reports still well.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever; Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Co.'s Stores and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet of cured cases and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

To Remove Warts

If you are troubled with warts, go to your druggist and get two drams of Traxit (triple strength.) Bathe the wart in warm water just before you retire, dip a wooden toothpick in the Traxit and touch the wart lightly. It will disappear entirely in less than three days.

SAN BERNARDINO NOTABLES TO ASSUME MARITAL VOWS.

Justice Will Wed One of the Handsome and Accomplished Girls of the Gate City—Conference Held Relative to Extension of Electric Line to Upland—News Briefs.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 12.—One of the social announcements of the spring season, which comes as a pleasant surprise to the wide circle of friends of the principals, is that of the engagement of Miss Lily Edna Desmond of Highland and Justice of the Peace Godwin Monterey Pittman of this city. Miss Desmond is the beautiful daughter of County Tax Collector and Mrs. L. A. Desmond, and is one of the younger social queens.

Justice Pittman, the fortunate groom-elect, is a son of Dr. H. Pittman, formerly Coroner of this county, and now one of the leading physicians and land owners of Imperial Valley. At the last election he was made Justice of the Peace for San Bernardino county, by a vote most flattering. Against him were two veterans in the political game, and men of wide judicial training. He is a practicing attorney, having secured his legal training under Byron Waters, being admitted to the bar after a most successful examination.

Recently Justice Pittman bought an attractive bungalow in Thirteenth street, which will be their home. The date of the nuptials has not been fixed, but it is understood that the wedding will be one of the social functions of the early summer months.

HOLD A CONFERENCE.

Quite a delegation of local citizens went to Upland this morning to attend a conference at which rights of way for the Pacific Electric extension between that city and the county seat were discussed and a plan outlined to secure the rights without unnecessary delay. Nothing has appeared in print in recent months which has enthused the citrus towns of this county quite as much as The Times report of the Pacific Electric plans to extend the line between Upland and San Bernardino.

Backing the move to secure an immediate right of way are the civic bodies of all the committees which will be directly benefitted. Committees are now at work signing up the route, and it is expected that within a very short time all difficulties will be eliminated and the rights of way secured and presented to Paul Shoup, general manager of the Pacific Electric.

FOOTHILL BOULEVARD.

At the meeting of the State Highway Commission to be held next Wednesday at Los Angeles members of the Highway Committee from this section, including Redlands, Highland, Rialto and other towns, will present the claims of the foothill boulevard route, and urge its adoption in preference to other routes. For several weeks the executive committee has been quietly at work, and it is expected will be able to make a strong showing when the time comes.

Fred Knight was arrested last night charged with reckless driving in an automobile. He was coming down Arrowhead avenue in his auto from Highland, skidded, struck and uprooted a tree and then crashed into a wagon driven by Henry Herkelrath. The auto and wagon were damaged. B. F. Weymer, who occupied the automobile with Knight, was badly cut about the face and head. The others escaped without injury.

Telephonic inquiries were made here today regarding the marriage Tuesday of Arthur J. Stokes of Garden Grove, and Lillian May Lewis of Long Beach. It is claimed that the girl is not any where near the legal age of consent. The inquiries come from parents and attorneys for the girl's family. Whether or not legal action to annul the marriage will follow is unknown here.

Owing to the continued rain the Taft meeting scheduled for last night was postponed to next Tuesday evening. It is expected on that evening to formally launch the big Taft club here, when rousing addresses will be made by Capt. Fredericks of Los Angeles and other political veterans.

DOES CHARACTER CHANGE?

Land Filed on by Railroad as Agricultural Has Turned Out to Be Oil-bearing.

The question of the value of expert testimony regarding geological conditions, in the absence of ocular proof existing at the time that patents were issued by the United States government to the Southern Pacific, will be gone into Tuesday morning when the hearing of the case brought by the government against the corporation and others for the cancellation and withdrawals of certain entries on the ground that the land is mineral in character, will be begun.

Three cases involving practically the same issues were filed about a year ago, but the testimony in only one will be taken at this time by Special Commissioner Longley. The land involved embraces about 6000 acres in the Elk Hills district, and is said to be some of the most valuable oil land in the Kern county district. It is now proven oil territory, but the point to be determined is whether in December, 1904, when this particular land was patented to the railway, it was mineral in character.

It will require at least three weeks for the government to present its evidence in this one case and it must all be in before May 31. The defense will then have sixty days in which to marshal its evidence and the government will follow with thirty to offer its rebuttal. More than 100 witnesses have been summoned by the government.

MRS. MARGARET O'NEIL.

The late Mrs. Margaret A. O'Neil, who recently died in Los Angeles at the age of 78 years, following a fall from a street car, was the daughter of Wilson Adams, a brother of Samuel Adams, a patriot and statesman of the early days of the Republic and a member of a family which contributed two Presidents to the nation. It is needless to say that the allusion in a recent number of The Times, in this connection, to Samuel Adams as "one of our early Presidents," was a blunder inadvertently passed by the copy-editor.

QUESTION OF INSANITY.

Dist.-Atty. Fredericks is still considering the case of Viola Carver, who killed J. Edwin Edge, believing that the girl might have been insane at the time of the commission of the deed. He wants to deal justly by the girl and at the same time be assured that she was mentally incapable of what she did before, suggesting she be placed in a hospital for the insane. It is probable that an insanity commission will be asked to examine Miss Carver before she is ever arraigned for murder in the Inferior Court.

THOUSANDS OF ACRES IN BEANS.

Acreage in Bostonian Food in Oxnard District Is Greatly Increased by Recent Rains.

OXNARD, April 12.—From five to ten thousand more acres of lima beans are to be planted this season than last, according to information from figures of ranchers who are preparing for planting. In the next month predictions are that the largest crop in history is to be planted. The past rain has insured excellent land conditions for planting and the greater part of the planting work will be under way in the next couple of weeks.

The advertising done throughout this country and Canada within the past month or more will create, it is thought, an unusually large demand for limas, thus making necessary the increase in production.

Lawrence Hansen, a local young man, was shot through the face and probably fatally injured by the discharge of a gun he was cleaning. With his brother he had gone on a fishing trip into the mountains of this section and taken the gun along for protection. After doing some practice shooting, he stopped to clean the weapon and in some manner it exploded, the bullet entering his right cheek, knocking out three teeth, splitting his tongue and going out the left cheek. He was carried by his brother for a considerable distance until help could be found, and is now in a serious condition.

SERVED IN HOSPITAL.

G. F. Von Weimer, who is charged with forgery, committed last year, was yesterday served with a bench warrant to appear in Justice Forbes court for his preliminary examination. The defendant was found in the Pacific Hospital too feeble to be moved. He recently underwent an operation. A deputy constable will guard him until recovery.

NATIONAL UNION BALL.

The National Union, a fraternal organization, will hold a complimentary invitation ball at the Goldberg-Bosley assembly rooms, on the evening of May 9, in honor of some of the national officers. President Henry C. Smale of Chicago; Past-President Henry E. Evans of Trenton, N. J., and Harry S. Anderson of Oakland, national speaker, will be here. On the day following the ball there will be a large class initiation in McKinley Hall.

FAVORS LISSNER PLAN.

Commission Government Expert Talks to City Club—New Officers Installed—Preferential Ballot.

Commission government, as advocated by Meyer Lissner in the City Charter Revision Commission, was advocated by John J. Hamilton, secretary of the commission, before the City Club yesterday. The argument of Hamilton was extensive but covered ground that has frequently been presented to the club. In general, he favored an elective commission of five members, charged with full responsibility, the government to be divided into five branches of which one commission shall be the administrative head. He did not favor the election of candidates to head specific departments but preferred that the five be elected and divide the work after taking office.

The meeting of the club witnessed the retirement of Lissner as president and the ushering in of the new officials chosen by the preferential ballot system through the mails. The new president, Thomas E. Gibbon, who was elected by a majority over E. C. Bellows and Lewis R. Works, was unable to be present as he is one of the harbor representatives now en route to Washington and Lissner turned his "gavel" (which happened yesterday to be an ice pitcher) over to Lewis R. Works, who was elected vice-president by a majority of first, second and third choice votes. Works presided and introduced Chester H. Rowell and Francis J. Heney, who made talks after Hamilton ended.

Lissner could not refrain from calling attention to the unnecessary use of the preferential system of voting. He stated that the result showed that sixty-three members out of the 589 whose ballots were valid, had declined to express a second or third choice and 217 had declined to make a similar expression on individual offices though they had expressed secondary choice on some. He said this indicated that 40 per cent. of those voting did not use the system which impeached the assertion of the advocates of preferential voting that it brings out a full expression. In addition he showed that the same result was accomplished by the three choices that would have resulted from a first choice plurality method.

Lissner also announced to the club that plans would soon be laid before the board of governors by which the club will have a home of its own "where you can meet any day as well as meet at luncheon on Saturdays," he said. The plans have not been sufficiently advanced, he said, to make further announcement.

VEGETABLE CHAMPAGNE.

An Imported Plant from Arabia the Leaves of Which When Chewed Make Men "Happy."

[Detroit News Tribune:] An interesting plant called "khat" has recently been obtained by the government plant bureau from Aden, in Arabia. When its leaves are chewed they are said to affect one like a bottle of champagne, being most agreeably stimulating. Presumably, it would grow very well in our southwestern country, but seeds of it will not be distributed until something more definite has been ascertained about the nature and action of the alkaloid which it contains.

Khat is a shrub grown commercially in only two localities in the world—on the west coast of Arabia, and near Harrar, in Abyssinia. It will thrive only in the mountains 3500 to 5000 feet above sea level; it will not live anywhere near salt water, and in cultivation it has to be fertilized with sheep or goat manure.

The plant has thick, dark-green foliage, and is propagated from cuttings, yielding its first commercial crop of leaves the second year. When the Arab cultivator sees birds eating the leaves he knows that they are ripe and of good flavor for market. The leaves are used everywhere throughout Arabia. To the natives of that region life and hard work would be unendurable without khat, and there is no coolie too poor to buy his daily portion of the plant. It is the great fact, next to their religion, in the everyday life of the people.

C. K. Moser, the American Consul at Aden, writes: "Khat caravans arrive daily at Aden at about 11 o'clock in the morning. The Arab who earns 30 cents a day spends at least half of it for khat. Among the better class the proportion of expenditure is not so high, but it is at least 25 per cent. of their incomes, and some of the wealthy will spend several dollars per day for the gratification of their favorite passion. The fresh leaves and tender stems are always chewed—never brewed or made into any sort of beverage."

ORIGIN OF FRICTION MATCHES.

Resulted From a Druggist Compounding a Prescription for Sulphur and Phosphorus.

[Washington Post:] The first friction mach made in the United States was made in Zanesville, O. In 1843 a man by the name of McGinnis kept a general store there, where he sold everything, including drugs. One day a clerk at McGinnis's was given an order to mix in a mortar a quantity of sulphur and phosphorus. He did it and delivered the compound to his customer.

That evening the store boy, a lad named Sheward, in cleaning out the mortar used some shavings to scrape out the mixture that was left. He thought nothing more about it until the next day, when he picked up one of the shavings and carelessly drew it across the counter. It ignited. He directed the attention of McGinnis to the phenemenon and the latter began to study.

The result was that McGinnis manufactured the first sulphur matches made in the United States. The store boy afterward became Judge Sheward of Dunkirk, N. Y.

AMERICAN BUSINESS.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

American business in cotton goods exported was 50 per cent. larger in February, 1912, than in February, 1911, and 25 per cent. larger in the eight months ended February, 1912, than in the preceding similar period.

The Bureau of Statistics' figures are:

February, 1912	$ 5,000,000
February, 1911	3,250,000
Increase in February, 1912	1,750,000
Eight months ended, February, 1912	32,000,000
Eight months ended, February, 1911	26,000,000
Increase in 1912 period	6,000,000

The value of these exports in the eight months ended February, 1912, exceed that of any corresponding period in any year except 1906, when the value was $4,900,000 greater. The average prices were 6.6 cents and 5.95 cents per yard, respectively. China led in the increased purchases, followed by the Philippine Islands and Canada.

Scores of aeroplanes, thousands of automobiles and millions of feet of motion-picture film appear among the articles forming our foreign trade in the current fiscal year. Imports and exports of aeroplanes this fiscal year (ending June 30) will aggregate a half-hundred, valued at approximately a quarter of a million dollars. The number of automobiles exported and imported will reach 20,000, valued at $25,000,000. Twenty-five million feet of motion-picture film will enter and leave our shores, or sufficient to reach half way round the world. Our exports of automobiles have rapidly and largely increased, while our imports of the useful machine have as rapidly and relatively decreased. That is as it should be for American business.

Note these Bureau of Statistics figures for the eight months ended February, 1912:

	Imported.	Exported.
Aeroplanes	$ 48,623	$ 99,796
Automobiles	1,672,376	12,064,283
Automobile tires		1,641,673
Other automobile parts		2,426,264
Motion picture film	416,407	3,927,097
Totals, eight months	$2,137,416	$20,159,213

Our automobiles go all over the world, but Great Britain, Canada and the other British colonies are our best customers.

Our aeroplanes go to Canada, Brazil, Cuba, Jamaica and Australia.

For moving-picture film our best customers are England, Canada, France, Brazil, Philippine Islands, Australia, Japan, Newfoundland, Panama and Bermuda.

Uncle Sam began business on April 1 with the largest cash balance he has ever had in his treasury, namely $1,915,674,574, or $952,000,000 more than his entire interest-bearing debt, including $134,000,000 of Panama Canal investment bonds. Nearly $1,650,000,000 of hs cash balance was in gold and silver coin and bullion.

We are doing business with a money circulation of $3,281,187,766—equal to $34.45 per capita of an estimated population of 95,237,000.

In the eight months ended February, 1912, our merchandise exports had a value of $1,506,027,907, against $1,047,159,706 imports, giving us a favorable trade balance of $458,868,201 in this branch of the American business. In two years this favorable trade balance has increased by $271,000,000.

The End of Steam Vessels.

[New York Times:] Sir Marcus Samuel, the English oil magnate, says the motor ship Selandia, equipped with the Diesel engine, marks the end of the steam engine. At the meeting of the Institute of Naval Architects, he said, that those who went on building steam engines with the knowledge now afforded were only courting disaster. He assured his hearers that his company, which possessed seventy vessels, would never build another steamer.

He himself, he said, was absolutely certain that engines of the Diesel type would take the place of steam, and his own company's Vulcans had shown that the consumption of oil was as one to five when compared with coal.

When She Grows Up.

[Winnipeg Post:] The latest addition to the prize compositions from children of the public schools of the States now rests at the Franklin Building, Washington, D. C., the headquarters of the local school system, and is a most naive dissertation on "When I Grow Up." The author of the composition is an 8-year-old girl, who plays with dolls and is in the third grade. The teachers all believe she has the correct idea of leap year, for she has announced in her composition that she intends to marry the little boy who sits across the aisle from her.

"When I am 19," begins this work of art, "I am going to be a school teacher. When I am 25 I am going to get married to—"

Here follows the name of the fortunate lad of 8½ years.

"If the first child is a girl it will be named Freida Egbert. If it is a boy it will be named Lucullus."

And then the concluding line brings a sadly prophetic vision:

"Maybe I will be an old maid."

Our Unknown World.

[Winnipeg Post:] Despite the marvelous advance of exploration in various parts of the globe, an estimate as submitted by a member of the Royal Geographical Society in London shows that no less than 20,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface yet remain unexplored.

The largest unexplored area is said to be that in Africa—6,500,000 miles; but even North America contains 1,500,000 square miles of virgin territory. It is surprising to learn that there are three times as much land awaiting the foot of the pioneer in North America as in South America.

New York's Telephone Directory.

[New York Tribune:] Recently 30,000 copies of the latest telephone directory of New York City was placed in the hands of subscribers in the lower part of Manhattan. The distribution was begun a day later at Brooklyn Borough Hall. The entire distribution over five boroughs was pushed as rapidly as 300 men could do it, but it will take three weeks to place the entire edition of more than 500,000 copies, in the hands of all the subscribers in New York City. More than 850 telephones have been added to the New York system since January 1.

WHAT CHINESE THINK OF EXCLUSION ACT.

Bright Los Angeles Thinker of the Race Analyzes the Situation and Concludes that Tveitmoe, Indicted Labor-Union Boss, and Others of His Kind Are Their Only Real Enemies in America.

BY CHEW PACK,

Chinese Journalist.

[Translated from the Chinese for The Times by Henry U. Yip.]

THE Chinese of Los Angeles have recently organized three important associations which I believe are destined to perform important functions in the solution of future commercial and immigration problems, such as will confront the people of the West Coast when the great Panama Canal is opened in 1915. These organizations, the Chinese-American League of Justice, the Chinese Protective Association, and the Chinese Consolidated Association, which latter will represent all of the leading Chinese societies and clans, including the Masons, were formed only after extensive deliberation, and as a result of many years of persecution and discriminatory abuses. All of these bodies stand for progress, for the upbuilding of trade and commerce, the betterment of conditions among the Chinese residents of the United States, the beautification of the Chinese colonies in all of the larger cities, and the development of more friendly relations between the two largest and greatest republics—China and the United States. They represent all that our people consider right, just, progressive or beneficial. But, to progress, to accomplish the high purposes for which these organizations were created and financed, our people must depend largely on the fair-mindedness of the great body of the Americans, to see that the inequitable treatment and persecuting practices which now obstruct our advancement in this country are corrected. Progress and persecution will not abide together.

Chew Pack,

Who expresses clearly his people's view of Tveitmoe's Chinese Exclusion League.

STRONG PART HERE.

The Chinese have awakened, or, rather, I should say, the Chinese have accepted the standards of republicanism. The Chinese of Los Angeles are proud of the fact that they played an important part in the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty. It may not be generally known, but there was hardly a day, from that memorable night when Dr. Sun Yat Sen fled from Canton, with a price of $35,000 on his head, to go out into the world, an exile, concentrating his life energies to the stupendous task of establishing a republic in a land that for 5000 years had borne the yokes of monarchy; from the hour when Look Ho Tung and his band of patriotic followers were beheaded in Hongkong until Dr. Sun returned to London, from his visit in California, to lay the final plans for the last momentous movement that crowned his life's efforts—hardly a moment when the Chinese members of the revolutionary party in Los Angeles were not in touch with every step taken by the leaders in China; and the Chinese of Los Angeles helped to finance and promote the revolution.

A Los Angeles man, whose name will be immortal among our people—Homer Lea—was the close personal adviser of Dr. Sun Yat Sen and had charge of some of the most important work in connection with the overthrow of the Manchus. And Mr. Lea was not the only American friend of the Chinese people. I believe he represented a great and good class of Americans who are sincerely interested in our countrymen, and who regard them as the children of the same loving God. "One Father, one family"—that 's the motto of the Chinese-American League of Justice, and it is great truth, a divine reality, which all races of the earth must some day comprehend, and to which the whole world eventually must conform. The Chinese are human beings; our ways may not be your ways; our customs may not be your customs, but our God is your God, and our people are your people in the sight of that Eternal One who knows no race, class, nationality or color, but judges all men by their deeds, all nations by their fundamental principles, all classes by their characters.

Other Asiatics have been favored at every opportunity by the United States government; and yet that same government has seen fit to allow the Chinese exclusion act, drafted and adopted by Congress in the heat of a blind agitation carried on by a handful of California labor-union leaders, who, alone, were responsible for its enactment, to become a fixed law, an established policy, subject to no modification and surrounded by these labor leaders with a pseudo-halo of sacred invulnerability which, they hope, will prevent it from being even criticised or questioned. In the enforcement of this law, the Chinese have been subjected to many cruel abuses. The letter of the law has been so rigidly enforced that its spirit has been forgotten. Yet not so much the exclusion act that I, personally, find fault with, although it is unreasonable, unjust and un-American; it is the abuse of authority that has accompanied its enforcement, the heartless, cold-blooded treatment of the Chinese by those officers of the law who know nothing of its real purpose, but who seek to satisfy the revengeful demands of the labor leaders who, in many instances, through political activity, secure the appointment or election of officials who will permit them to punish the Chinese as a "grand stand" play that will divert public attention from their real inner workings and anarchistic actions.

TVEITMOE, ENEMY.

So, briefly resolved to the last analysis of fact, the first and only enemy of the Chinese in America was and is the labor-union leader. One man, one individual, who stands boldly out in all of the bitter conspiracies of the last few years, and who represents all of the other enemies of the Chinese, is Olaf Tveitmoe, head of the Asiatic Exclusion League of San Francisco. The recent arraignment of this man, Olaf Tveitmoe, in the lime-light of public indignation, the exposes of the press in connection with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times Building, the amazing crimes and intrigues revealed by the Federal investigation here, have proved that the labor unions are conducted by aliens and so-called Americans who are of a type far more dangerous, far more inimical to good government, than any of the Chinese whom they have been so long and so unfairly denouncing and excluding. Among the Chinese there are what we term "hatchet-men," highbinders and tong-feudists, but they are gentlemen compared with many of the dynamiters opposing us. And, in view of the recent startling developments; in consideration of the gratifying fact that these men have at last been branded for what they are, publicly recognized in their true light, the Chinese (I believe I speak for most of them) feel that the time we long prayed for has arrived, and that now we may hope to contend successfully with our enemies. They are no longer entrenched behind the bulwarks of government, and surely they will no longer enjoy the co-operation of governmental hirelings.

PATRIOTIC REVIVAL.

Hence the recent revival of patriotic spirit in the Los Angeles Chinatown. We are beginning to hope, to plan for progress, to reach out for more trade, to prepare to build a "Chinatown Beautiful" that will be consistent with the artistic architecture of Los Angeles. If we can receive the co-operation of the American citizens of Los Angeles, we will not only have a "Chinatown Beautiful," but we will have a steamship line established between China and Los Angeles harbor; we will help to increase the volume of commerce between the Orient and Los Angeles; we will have a $500,000 exhibit at the San Francisco world's fair, and we will accomplish other great enterprises which will mean more prosperity, not only for the Chinese, but for the Americans, in conformity with the new progressive policies of the new Chinese Republic—Chung Hwa. We will have the moral and financial backing of the Chinese government. Already we have assurances from the new regime in China that it will finance our plans if we can promise there is even the slightest hope that the present attitude will be made more humane, more just and reasonable. We ask only for the co-operation of the American business men in the furtherance of these plans and in the prevention of private abuses and

Home Made Toilet Articles

Easy to Make, and You Get So Much More for Your Money.

It's folly for any woman to pay high prices for ready-made toilet articles when she can make in her own home better and fresher preparations for one-fourth the price. A marvelous greaseless cold cream, one that will not grow hairs or clog the pores—a cream that makes wrinkles and crowsfeet disappear can be made in a few minutes by dissolving two ounces of cerol in a pint of boiling water, stirring until thick and creamy. This makes a full pint, four times as much as you can get ready-made for the same money.

A form developer and general tonic can be made by dissolving a cup and a half of granulated sugar in enough water to make a full pint, then add one ounce of pure galiol. This famous treatment is now recommended by beauty specialists all over the country.

A simple lotion that will keep the hands and arms soft and white, free from chaps and roughness, is easily made by dissolving two ounces of amarol in a pint of hot water.

SULPHURRO

How Stewart's Liquid Compound of Sulphur Is Taken, and Why it Makes Wonderful Cures

SULPHURRO THE GREATEST ENEMY OF DEADLY GERM

Nature's Own Remedy Introduced Directly Into Blood Removes Impurities.

"COLDS" ARE MINIMIZED

An Explanation of How C. M. C. Stewart's Discovery Should Be Taken to Secure Best Results to Sufferers of All Kinds.

(Copyrighted, 1912, by The C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Co., Inc.)

Sulphurro is nature's remedy. That is why its cures are numbered by the thousands. It is a natural purifier of the blood and system—the enemy of disease in any form.

With pure blood disease is a virtual impossibility. Stewart's Liquid Compound of Sulphur is introduced directly into the blood, and by the use of the enema cleanses and purifies the human sewerage system. This feature of the use of Sulphurro is regarded as of the utmost importance.

Letters of inquiry reach The C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Co. almost daily asking all sorts of questions about Sulphurro, the method of taking it, etc. This paper today reproduces extracts from the copyright Booklet issued by The C. M. C. Stewart Company. Every word is worthy of your careful consideration.

Greatest Harmless Germ Destroyer.

Sulphur is now, and probably always will be, the greatest harmless germ destroyer in existence. Disease and its germs have no greater enemy. We burn sulphur in a room to destroy germs in the air. We take it internally to destroy the disease germs accumulated in our body.

Sulphur has long been used for the cure of skin and blood diseases, but owing to its insolubility, only the most minute part of its power has been brought into action. Sulphur being insoluble in water, alcohol or spirits of any kind, and all generally known harmless ingredients, is almost practically insoluble in the stomach. The greater part of the sulphur taken in the powder, or in the form of various mixtures, is never absorbed into the blood at all, but remains in the stomach and bowels, coating the lining, clogging the system and retarding circulation.

All Curative Properties Absorbed.

Notwithstanding these objections to mere mixtures of sulphur, much good has been accomplished in blood and skin diseases by their use. While some benefit is received from mere sulphur mixtures when they are absorbed, how much greater would be the curative power of sulphur when it is in complete solution and can all be absorbed. For many years this was considered an impossibility, but we have advanced in the science of chemistry and are now able to offer you SULPHUR IN COMPLETE SOLUTION, not simply held in suspension as is the case with the mixtures above referred to.

Nature intended sulphur as a disinfectant for man. It is found in the water of wonderful hot springs. It is found in the vegetable and animal life. The human system should, if normal, contain a certain percentage of sulphur. The hair nearly five per cent., the nails, also contain it. Some of the products of the digestive juices contain large proportions of sulphur. Did it ever occur to you that nature provided your system with sulphur to act as a disinfectant?

If the laws and calls of nature have been overlooked and poison and disease germs have been allowed to accumulate, is not sulphur nature's own remedy for this condition?

No Lye or Poison in Sulphurro.

Sulphurro is held in solution without the use of acid, potash (LYE) or alcohol. Instead, the ingredients used are just as beneficial to the human system as the sulphur itself. The sulphur in SULPHURRO is held in complete solution, and when used as directed is absorbed into the blood, purifies it, increases circulation, hence reduces to a minimum the tendency to "take colds." The fact that all the sulphur in SULPHURRO is absorbed directly into the blood explains the reason for taking but two or three drop doses, and the advisability of using it in the baths. It further explains why it can be taken internally and indefinitely.

Through its use there is no coating of sulphur left on the lining of the stomach and bowels, as is always the case when sulphur in the powdered form is used. Sulphurro can be taken in any climate at any season of the year without fear of overdoing, as this remedy has no effect upon a well part; it solely and simply attacks impurities and drives them from the blood and the system.

SEVERE HEMORRHOIDS YIELD TO SULPHURRO

913 24th Avenue, Seattle.
February 2, 1912.

C. M. C. Stewart Sulphurro Co.,
71 Columbia Street, Seattle:

Dear Sirs: So far I have seen no testimonials of Sulphurro as a remedy for hemorrhoids, so I wish to tell you my experience, as I know there are many people who suffer untold agonies from that source.

I have for years been afflicted, many times being unable to turn myself in bed.

Late in September, I received my first bottle of Sulphurro, being one of about four hundred who were that day given of the wonderful remedy at Mr. Stewart's home.

I immediately began its use, and was simply astonished at the sudden and complete relief from pains from both hemorrhoids and rheumatism, which had given me no relief for many months. Now after five months I can say I have felt no return of pain from either source, and feel as agile as a girl.

My daughter had a bad stiff neck. We applied the usual remedies for two days; she grew worse, then tried Sulphurro as a liniment. The contracted muscles softened perceptibly while applying it. We used it but twice. The relief was immediate; the cure speedy.

A friend gave it to her children for worms with the desired result.

I know of many who have had marvelous relief from the use of your wonderful remedy and hope many, many more will seek and obtain relief and cures from the same source.

I will gladly answer any inquiry either personal or by phone, or by letter if postage for reply is enclosed.

Very gratefully yours,
No. 913 Twenty-fourth Ave., Seattle. (Signed) MRS. LORA SMITH.

Take Sulphurro Every Day.

SULPHURRO is entirely absorbed into the blood and should be taken every day (also baths as directed) until the blood is pure, and its use continued, in order to keep it so. Take it a month or so after you think you are entirely well, as there may still be some impurities in the blood.

After having taken the two drop doses for two weeks, it will be noticed that a finger print left on a silver knife will in a moment turn the knife dark, (as sulphur darkens silver;) this shows the blood has carried the Sulphurro even to the tips of the fingers.

Some may ask: "Why is Sulphurro given in such small doses if so harmless?" The answer is, Sulphurro is a germicide and it is much better to take it in small doses, allowing the system a chance to carry away the impurities, than it is to take it in large doses, thereby clogging the circulation with impurities. All that medicine can do is to assist nature in its work.

Sulphurro for All Ages.

Sulphurro is good internally and externally, for all, from the baby to the great-grandmother, if taken as directed. It gives temporary relief because it eliminates the uric acid and destroys the germ which caused the inflammation, which in turn caused the soreness and swelling. It makes permanent cure because it purifies the blood and stimulates the circulation, so relieving the body of congestion and sluggishness.

After taking Sulphurro for several months many people have been surprised to discover that it has not only cured the disease for which they first started to take it, but every other ailment as well. For instance, a person taking it for Rheumatism discovered it cured Stomach Trouble also. Another person taking it for Rheumatism found it to be a cure for Catarrh; others taking it for the stomach were cured of Chronic Constipation in addition.

Prevents Accumulation of Poison.

In this way the different diseases which Sulphurro will cure have been brought to the knowledge of many. The explanation for its curing diseases as different in character, as Rheumatism, Asthma, Stomach Trouble, Kidney Trouble and Goitre is: First, that it will cure Chronic Constipation (if taken in the Enema as directed,) so preventing further accumulation of poison and disease germs from that source—the sewer pipe of the system.

It will cure Stomach Trouble by taking it directly into the stomach in two drop doses and by taking it in the Enema for the lower bowel.

It purifies the blood by eliminating the uric acid and the poisons caused by the germs of disease. Circulation is restored as the blood is purified. With the stomach and bowels in good condition, the blood being daily purified and the circulation increased, there is no organ not excepting the heart and lungs but will be benefited and few diseases, if any, beyond its power to reach if not too far advanced and instructions are followed.

Internal Uses of Sulphurro.

Dose: Sulphurro should be taken internally for all ailments, preferably before meals. Use a small amount of water, as Sulphurro is good for the teeth, gums and throat and helps these parts if not diluted to excess. The dose should be measured with a medicine dropper and not guessed at. A portion of the Sulphurro should be poured into a small bottle for convenience in using the dropper; both bottles should be kept well corked. No other medicine should be used while taking Sulphurro, unless it be a mild vegetable laxative (not effervescent salts,) but even then the Sulphurro Enema is far better.

ADULTS: The directions on the bottle read, "Dose, two or three drops in wine glass of water, three times a day," preferably before meals. We would suggest, however, that the first dose be but one drop as once in a great while it nauseates a person at first; should it do this, do not increase the dose until it no longer has this effect. If it does naseate, it is the best evidence that you need it. Continue the treatment—persevere and take a reduced quantity as directed below.

Small Doses Preferred.

There have been cases where the stomach was in bad condition in which the patient took it as follows: One drop in a little water, shake and drink but half the water, throw the rest away (so making it fresh each time.) In this way but one-half drop is taken.

CHILDREN: The full dose for a child is but one drop three times a day in half wine glass of water, preferably before meals; begin with a sip of the water in which one drop was measured (make fresh each time.) It is not wise to force a child to take more at first. The same is true with adults.

SYSTEM'S SEWER MUST BE KEPT IN BEST ORDER

Most of Bodily Ills Due Primarily to Accumulation of Poisons.

INVITATION TO DISEASE

Sulphurro Used With Enema Purifies, Cleanses and Cures Disordered Parts With Permanent Effects Throughout Entire System.

(Copyrighted, 1912, by The C.M.C. Stewart Sulphur Co., Inc.)

Never even hope to be cured of any disease until your sewerage system is in good condition. You may think it is all right, but in a great number of cases it is not, says the copyright booklet accompanying each bottle of Sulphurro. If one is in need of any medicine, for any trouble from a sore throat down the list of the various skin and blood diseases to tuberculosis, the bowels either are or have been out of order. Out of order might mean a tendency to diarrhea, or it might mean a tendency toward constipation. In cases of diarrhea there is often some catarrhal growth or ulceration of the Lower Bowel or pressure of a growth against its walls from another organ. The mucous membrane thus constantly irritated starts the muscular action which causes too frequent evacuation of the bowel, or diarrhea. In such cases the Sulphurro used in the enema would destroy the catarrhal germs, allay the inflammation and heal the ulcers.

In cases of Constipation the lower bowel is forced to retain waste matter left clinging to its walls for hours and days and weeks longer than it should. Germs of disease breed in this decomposing matter; fermentation goes on forming uric acid. The acid and poisons thus formed, if not carried away through the proper channel, are reabsorbed into the blood through the walls of the colon; the more liquid portion is absorbed first, leaving the substance clinging to its walls harder and dryer and more and more coated each day.

Is it any wonder the walls become so dilated that they lose their elasticity and muscular power to contract and relax?

Sulphurro Eliminates Uric Acid.

When they have lost this power they have also lost their power to move naturally and you perhaps imagine your lower bowel is paralyzed. Under these conditions the Sulphurro used in the enema would eliminate the uric acid, destroy the disease germs, carry away the poison and cleanse the walls so that they would regain their muscular power; in fact, it would cure the Constipation. The Sulphurro Enema would also furnish medicine instead of poison to the walls of the colon to be absorbed into the blood and so carried to the other organs, thus preventing further disease and hastening a cure.

The colon is about five feet in length, thus affording much wall space through which the absorption can take place. To illustrate the amount which can be absorbed for good or ill into the system: In cases of cancer of the stomach, when food can be no longer taken through the stomach, life is sustained for weeks by administering nourishment through the enema in the form of malted milk, whey, etc. Think, then, of the amount of poison which may be absorbed through an unclean colon.

Disease Caused by Neglect.

Nine-tenths of the diseases to which the system is subject have their origin in the diseased condition of the lower bowel, caused by neglect in obeying nature's calls at the proper time. Continued neglect from day to day causes such an accumulation of waste matter that the lower bowel is often distended two or three times its natural size. This pressure on other organs is frequently the cause of their misplacement and consequent inflammation.

This condition is also responsible for stomach trouble. If the lowed Bowel is crowded with waste matter close up against the trap door and valve leading from the small intestine, the food is forced to remain in the stomach Hours longer than it should; being thus unduly retained, fermentation sets in, causing added troubles from the accumulation of gas and acid, not to the stomach alone, but indirectly to the heart and other organs.

The colon at best is only the sewerpipe of the system. Where, then, could germs of disease find a more natural breeding place, creating poisons which are absorbed into the blood and carried to all parts of the body when not allowed free egress by means of the natural channel?

Foul breath and foul perspiration furnish evidence that the system is succeeding in throwing off some of the poison through the lungs and the pores of the skin. The number of pimples on the skin tell the story of the poisoned blood and the cause thereof.

Poison Produces Disease.

The amount of poison absorbed into the blood from the walls of the colon is, in many cases, too great to be thrown off by this secondary means and is instead deposited in the organ which offers the least resistance. Always the weakest organ, and you may wonder why you have asthma, rheumatism, Bright's disease, diabetes, sore throat, skin and blood troubles, etc.

The nourishment from the food we eat is all absorbed into the blood before it leaves the small intestine; how, then, can medicine taken into the stomach, intended for the lower bowel, ever be expected to reach the parts for which it is intended, with sufficient strength to do the work necessary, to relieve the clogged condition of that organ? As a matter of fact it cannot.

Physic taken into the stomach only increases the action of the stomach and small intestine, crowding the loosened substance through a small passage way in the center of the encrusted colon; it does not remove the faecal matter from the walls, but leaves them unclean as before, with perhaps strings of mucus, or even worm ulcers, lodging there; it simply gives temporary relief but cures nothing.

To cure Constipation the Sulphurro must be injected directly into the lower bowel by the use of the high enema tube. Even though there is no apparent trouble, is it not another way of getting more medicine into the blood quickly? At any rate, in thousands of cases, those who have taken Sulphurro enemas, whether constipated or otherwise, have recovered much faster than those who have not.

Sulphurro High Enema.

Next in importance to the dose is the enema (injection.)

ADULTS: Medicine dropper filled once with Sulphurro (30 drops) in one quart of water as warm as you can comfortably stand to the hand and inject slowly as directed below. Use Rectal Tube No. 18 (American.)

CHILDREN: Three to ten drops of Sulphurro in one or two cups of warm water, amount to be estimated by age, weight and condition as suggested in directions for dose. Use Rectal Tube No. 16 (American.)

Directions for Taking High Enema.

The directions for taking the High Enema by adults, states, "Medicine dropper filled once with Sulphurro." It is best, however, to begin with (as with the dose) but half the amount of Sulphurro as in cases of ulceration of the Lower Bowl, the full amount might smart and burn at first. Do not increase to the full amount until it no longer has this effect. In such cases a child's size enema tube could be used to advantage. If, after a few days or weeks, any form of growth should pass away, it might be necessary to again reduce the amount as the spot from which the growth had been removed might be tender for a few days.

The directions on the bottle state "take enema for ten days at least;" however, that does not mean they should be discontinued at the end of that time as no longer necessary, unless absolutely cured. In severe cases of any ailment it may be necessary to take them from one to two months. The Enema should be taken EVERY day (not every other day) as, at first, the Bowels are liable not to move the next day after taking the Enema. You will get better results by taking them every day for ten days than you would by taking every other day for two months. Do not take enema sooner than three hours after eating.

If twice a year, every human being would systematically take the Sulphurro Enema every day, for ten days, and once a month, or even once a week, between times, he would add years of good health to his life. If exposed to any contagious disease, never forget the safest way to avert it is by taking the Sulphurro Enema as well as the dose, mouth wash and bath, every day until the danger is passed.

Let us rid ourselves of the real cause of disease—the disordered condition of the Lower Bowel. Let us get the colon thoroughly cleansed and then keep it so, if we would regain and retain our health and youth.

Drug Stores Have Sulphurro.

Sulphurro is on sale in drug stores throughout Los Angeles, San Diego and other cities and towns in this territory, but because of the difficulty of supplying the trade on such short notice it may be possible that here and there a store has been overlooked. If you find you can't get Sulphurro from your regular druggist, try the next one, and then, if you fail to get it, send direct to the office of the C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Company, 71 Columbia street, Seattle, Wash., and your order will be promptly filled at the same price. Please let us know the name of your druggist, so that he may have an opportunity to obtain a supply from Sulphurro from us. Sulphurro is put up in two sizes and sells for 50 cents and $1. When you order direct from our laboratory the smaller size will be forwarded you by mail and the larger by express.

An interesting 32-page booklet containing full directions for the use of Sulphurro accompanies each bottle. Read it carefully and follow instructions. What Sulphurro has done for others it will do for you, but do not invest your money in Sulphurro unless you fully intend to follow directions.

Abolition of Death Penalty Petition Defective?

Odd Wording Sets Even Its Backers Guessing.

Superior Judges Voice Their Opinions on It.

The unusual wording of the petitions for the abolition of capital punishment in California, several of which have made their appearance in this city, is responsible for unusual lethargy on the part of its own backers in supporting it. The petitions have been printed several weeks, but only a few hundred names have been secured, according to John P. Steele, with whom they were left for local distribution by J. H. Young of San Francisco, secretary of the Anti-Capital Punishment League of California.

Aside from supplying them to volunteer name-solicitors, Steele has taken no active part in the campaign. Those, however, whose interest in the movement is sufficient to cause them to circulate the documents, express themselves as considerably dissatisfied with the initiative measure which it is proposed to submit to the voters. Two phrases in particular are called into question. One is the clause:

"—nor shall the death penalty or cruel or unusual punishment be inflicted."

MEANING DOUBTFUL.

Life sentence in the penitentiary for murder might be regarded as "cruel or unusual punishment," declare some of the persons interested in seeing the matter placed before the people.

Another phrase which does not meet with approval because its wording is subject to several constructions, is this:

"Witnesses shall not be unreasonably detained nor confined in any room where criminals are actually imprisoned."

It is claimed that this part of the amendment prohibits police, jail authorities and others from placing any one in a cell in order to gain information from a prisoner which can afterwards be used in court.

Miss Sue Brobst, a member of the Women's City Club and several other organizations, and an ardent foe to capital punishment, was among the first to circulate the petition, but she does not like it in its present form.

"I don't like the way the amendment is to be worded," said Miss Brobst." I am in favor of abolishing capital punishment, but I believe that a vicious criminal should be confined so that he can do no harm to society. The amendment should be worded so that it would stop the State from taking the life of a human being, but should go no further. I do not exactly understand the amendment as it now reads. I have been securing names to several petitions and placed two of them with girls in department stores, but because of the reasons I have just given I have not been as active as I might have been in the work."

Besides Miss Brobst, Grace Welsh Blondin, No. 707 Valencia street, and Miss A. A. Chevallier have been at work getting signatures to the petitions.

JUDGES SPEAK.

The question of the abolition of capital punishment was made the subject of comment yesterday by a number of judges of the Los Angeles county Superior bench. Judges Willis, Bordwell and Wilbur strongly oppose the proposed amendment, Judge Hutton favors the abolition of the capital penalty, as does also Judge Finlayson, though not in the manner projected. Judges McCormick and Conrey are inclined to be neutral on the subject.

Said Judge Willis: I have no conscientious scruples against capital punishment. In every case it is for the best interests of society. If capital punishment were to be abolished it would tend to increase crime, because there would be no fear of death. A man who commits a crime of such a character that he merits the death penalty is never of any account to himself, to his family or to society. It is as much justified as the surgeon who cuts off a limb that is diseased and a menace to the system.

Judge Finlayson: The only argument in favor of capital punishment is that it is a deterrent. There are better ways than killing a man. I think imprisonment for life is just as great a deterrent. In fact, I think that the best deterrent of crime is swift and certain punishment. I don't believe in hampering the Legislature: such things as abolishing capital punishment should not be put in the Constitution.

Judge Conrey: I regard the entire abolition of capital punishment as a thing of doubtful expediency.

Judge McCormick: "I have not sufficient data or information to justify me in the opinion that the present statute should be repealed. I believe, however, that if it is repealed and capital punishment abolished that the only consistent method in that case would be to abolish the parole system for life termers because under the present system a man being sentenced to life imprisonment for murder in the first degree or any other crime punishable by that penalty is eligible for parole after the service of about eight years. The theory of the sentence of life imprisonment is that the act which is the basis of the sentence has conclusively shown the offender to have become useless to society and that the act is of such atrocity and gravity as to render the offender's presence in society dangerous and that therefore he should be removed from it entirely."

Judge Hutton: "I am against capital punishment on humanitarian principals, and I am especially against it because it is almost impossible to get a conviction when the death penalty is likely to be inflicted, and for the further reason that, in my opinion, a great many men have been hanged because of a temporary mental aberration. It is a relic of barbarism to assume that the business of the State is to take vengeance upon wrongdoers. It is the business of the State to protect society from future wrongdoers and to inflict only such punishment on the wrongdoer as will be an example to others and prevent the possibility of a repetition of the offense by other wrongdoers."

Judge Bordwell: "Unless the court is given some discretion to mitigate the extreme penalty in murder cases, you need never expect to get a confession except in dead open and shut cases. It is the fear of death which will persuade any man charged with and guilty of murder to plead guilty in the hope that the extreme penalty may be mitigated.

"Punishment for crime is never in the spirit of vengeance. The object is to protect society. There should be no hestitancy to punish with death if it is required for such protection."

Judge Wilbur: "The punishment which the law fixes for a given crime not only has the effect of regulating the punishment to be meted out to the offender and of deterring others from committing offenses, but it is the formal expression of the people of the State of nation as to the degree of abhorrence with which they regard the crime in question. Consequently when the State says formally and officially that murder, poisoning, dynamiting, wholesale slaughter is unworthy of any more suffering than life imprisonment with the prospect of parole, there is a let-down of the moral tone of the whole people."

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—After a long warfare peace is now declared between the city and the United Railways. Thornwell Mullaly, vice-president of the corporation, bears the olive branch on high and the municipal authorities seem disposed to meet him half way. It is all over the use of the outer tracks on lower Market street. It now looks as though both the city and the company will use them and the public is pleased thereat.

It is sad to relate that "Ned" Greenway may never dance again. He hurt his knee in Los Angeles and is going to take a trip to Europe before he attempts anything in the terpsichorean line. Matters have been getting a little too strenuous of late for the social leader. He was peerless in the old-fashioned, stately dances, but the recent popularity of "ragging" is too much for his dignity—and his age.

Sanford Bennett, who is somewhat of an athlete, has made a proposal to Collector Stratton to deport the highbinders. He says that he is a property owner in Chinatown and the constant fighting of the tongs depreciates the value of his holdings. It Bennett can accomplish his purpose he will be doing more than a police force of 700 men has been able to do.

An old lady named Mrs. J. B. Anderson complained to Officer J. T. Kelly that some young people were misbehaving themselves in Hamilton square. The patrolman at once did his duty and arrested the aged person for disturbing the peace. The police commissioners have him under investigation for his heroism and it is likely that he will be rewarded with a $100 fine.

Besides being president of the Canton bank Look Tin Eli is believed by the State Pharmacy Board to be engaged in the illicit traffic of opium. It looks bad for Eli, as 300 tins of the drug belonging to the bank have been seized by the authorities. Still there is always an alibi to fall back on and Look Tin Eli ought to be able to spring a legal technicality all samee "Melican."

William Manning paid a fine of $25 for assault and battery. After leaving the courtroom his pocket was picked in the corridor of the Hall of Justice. Although he is somewhat of a philosopher he found it hard to reconcile the fact that two minutes after he had satisfied the law he had been robbed by the lawless in the home of justice. He is wondering if he would have been punished for commiting assault and battery on the pickpockets.

Every moment that the city is delaying in buying the Spring Valley water plant is increasing the cost. Last year the value was placed at $40,000,000. This year, according to a report made the stockholders, the worth is $53,126,929. President Bourn says that he hopes the differences between the municipality and the corporation will soon be settled and the property bought at a fair price.

In suing her husband, Dr. George avers that she never allowed Mr. Leek alleged that he was a heart-breaker and had been too attentive to Lillian Valencia and Eileen Morris. Both these ladies have made affidavits denying the charges. Miss Valencia avers that she never allowed Dr. Leak to call her "darling." The two ladies assert that the accusations of Mrs. Leek are false and malicious.

The rain was good for everybody except the baseball magnates. It shut them out of a few days of box office receipts. Probably they did not lose much. The local fans are down on the Seals and are wondering where Manager Long managed to pick up such a hoodoo gang of wholesale losers.

Cowboy Melody.

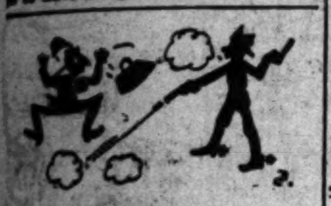
RANGE SONGS EXPRESSIVE.

History of Man's Life and Death in Few Lines.

How Some of the Strange Ballads Originate.

Many of the West Are from Southern Hills.

When the cowboys come to Los Angeles from neighboring ranches on Saturday night they neither ride their bronches into the main street saloons nor shoot up the city. Nevertheless the sight of them is a treat to the tourist whose idea of seeing the West is to have a regiment of cowboys and Indians swing gracefully and howling upon the golden horizon.



ORIGIN OF THE SONG ENTITLED "SHOOT THAT TURKEY BUZZARD."

One-sided Fun.

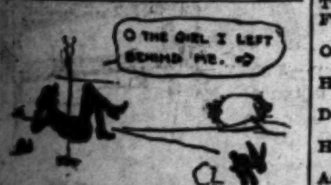
It is perhaps the plain duty of the Chamber of Commerce to engage a large cattle outfit to promenade the corridors of the Alexandria, the Angelus and the Van Nuys. Very acceptable grazing would the buffets of these hotels prove to many of the heroes of the range. To have outfits like the 101 Ranch Wild West pass the winter here is of incalculable value. The long horned steers, Indians and cowboy riders in chaps were the joy and inspiration of the tourist, and nothing could convince the cheerful Eastern guest that these picturesque contributions from Oklahoma were not part and parcel of the California landscape. Visitors like them much better than they like our club buildings, skyscrapers and beautiful banks. Besides, the cowboy is so far receding into the misty canyons of yesterday that it may soon be necessary to organize a society for his protection and conservation.

The eastern man is not at all to blame for his desire to see cowboys, or his disappointment if he fails to find them. In the first place Col. Cody went rough-shod over the world driving a herd of buffaloes to the crack of his rifle. Owen Wister won the love of the literary world with his "Virginian," and Dustin Farnum proceeded to create the Wyoming hero for the stage. Alfred Henry Lewis immortalized the cowboy of Arizona and New Mexico with his droll stories of the old cattlemen, and James Barton Adams has hardly yet ceased to give us cowboy ballads which are of close kin to the classics. Now come Arthur Chapman and a bright host of youngsters with melodies from the range which are finding the heart of the new generation. Time may eliminate the cowboy by removing his occupation, but cowboy literature promises to go on forever. The cowboy story is very well told in prose by the best modern of adventure magazines, but the cowboy ballad is mostly unwritten and will probably remain so, and it was through the ballad that the cowboy story was always told by himself.

OUT OF THE HILLS.

A good deal of the cowboy songs which get into print are made in an attic, but enough of them have been made on the plains to fill many volumes with quaint and spicy verse. The suggestion, as far as the writer knows, has never appeared in print that the cowboy in the early days was largely drafted from the Cumberland Mountains, the Blue Ridge and the Rocky Mountains, and that his melodies and ballads are therefore largely after the pattern of the unwritten music of the Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia hills. This music has a Highland fling to it and a mountain jig, which are not heard elsewhere. It has a corn field yodel without words which closely resembles the sustained yet curiously sad note of the wild goose heading his straggling V-shaped flock for the North when the winter breaks. This precise yodel is never heard in any other section than in the backwoods of the Southern States, but the cowboy in his song which deals with the journey from Texas to Montana over the old Chisholm trail ends each stanza of his endless drone with a similar yodel of "coma ti wi youpy, youpy, youpy ya." The words preceding the yodel are commonplace sentences such as:

"It's a ten dollar hoss and a forty dollar saddle
And I'm going to punchin' Texas cattle."



O THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME. ⇒
C.L.

One of the Favorites.

The southern mountain music has many songs such as "I'm as Free a Little Bird as I Can Be," "Little Boy Who Made Your Britches" and "Shoot That Turkey Buzzard," which probably have never been published, but which undoubtedly were carried to the plains by the young men who went West to grow up with the long horns and whose music undoubtedly contains correspondence to the southern tunes. For instance the boys in the corn fields of the mid-south sing:

"I don't care for your gold and silver
I don't care for your house and lands,
I don't care for your worldy riches,
All I want is a handsome man."

THE GIRL AND THE MULE.

The cowboy has a verse as delicious as [illegible] in which he says:

"We pray the Lord that we'll all be saved
And we'll keep the Golden Rule,
But I'd rather be home with the girl I love
Than monkey with this blank-blank mule."

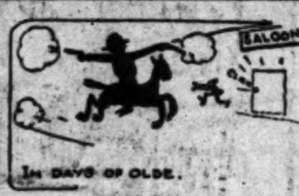
Georgia, Tennessee and later Missouri had a long siege of the ballad in its most homely guise as "Once I had a Fortune," "Joe Bowers," "Blue-eyed Little Nell," and the complicated story of Nellie Gray, which was written in New England, but sung most often in the South. These ballads usually required many verses to relate a rather pointless story, and the songs which the cowboys made around their camp fires carried this proclivity to the extreme. This is because each man at the camp fire usually contributed a verse and when it was passed to the next ranch every man in the outfit did the same thing. The writer once rode with a cowboy in Graham county, Arizona, from Morenci to Clifton, from Clifton to Solomonville, down the valley through Safford and Thatcher to Pima and back to Solomonville. During the whole trip the cowboy sang a ballad about Jesse James. The chorus was:

"No more Jesse James, no more Jesse James,
For they've laid Jesse James in his grave;
Oh, the dirty little coward who shot Mr. Howard,
Laid Jesse James in his grave."

The stanzas of the interminable song told the full history of the James gang and at the parting of the ways the song remained unfinished.

THEY'RE NOT ALL CHOICE.

The cowboys have one song of sixty-three stanzas about "My Lulu Girl" and only one verse of the sixty-three would do to print. That is true of many of their songs. They are the authors of the melody:



But No More Now.

"Oh, who will kiss those ruby lips,
Oh, who will kiss those ruby lips,
When I am dead and gone?"

Then the song inquires plaintively as to who will hold her lily hand under the same lamented conditions, and it goes on indefinitely for many miles. The song of the Lone Star Trail is a great favorite. It has for its refrain the plea:

"In a little grave just six by three
Oh, bury me not on the lone prairie."

As near as can be recalled one of its more than a hundred verses runs:

"'Oh, bury me not on the lone prairie,'
The words came slow and mournfully
From the pallid lips of a youth who lay
On his dying couch at the close of day.
He sighed and mourned till o'er his brow
Death's shades were slowly gathering now.
He thought of the home and the loved ones nigh
As the cowboys gathered to see him die—
'In a little grave just six by three,
Oh, bury me not on the lone prairie.'"

MELODY IN THIS.

Another prime favorite of equal length is the story of the cowboy the chorus of which ends, "For I am a ranger and I know I've done wrong." One of these verses chants:

"When once in my saddle I used to go roving,
When once in my saddle I used to go roving,
I first took to drinking and then to card-playing—
Got shot in the breast and am dying today."

The chorus of this song is delicious in its melody, the words running:

"Oh, beat the drum slowly and play the fife lowly
And play the dead march as you carry me home;
Take me to the graveyard and place the sod o'er me
For I'm a poor ranger and I know I've done wrong."

To this song also there must be half a hundred stanzas or more. At first the songs of the cowboys were very largely sentimental, but later the home influence and the memory of the Girl Behind gave place to the atmosphere of the plains, to the crooning meant to sooth the restless cattle who were milling at the rodeos through the long nights of fearsome vigil and to the equally restless yearlings and under which the cowboy calls his little doggies. A fair sample of the latter is:

"Whoopee ti yi, get along little doggies,
It's my misfortune and none of your own;
Whoopee, ti yi, get along little doggies,
For you know that Wyoming will be your home."

A verse and the chorus of the earliest of their sentimental ballads runs:

"A maiden fair and lovely drew close unto my side.
She promised me so faithfully that she would be my bride.
I kissed away the flowing tears that filled in her blue eyes;
We both shook hands and parted—the girl I left behind.

"My mother's voice it trembled, 'Oh, child, Oh, child, I fear
You never shall see home again or the one you love so dear.
May God protect and keep you and never leave you alone
Till he brings the rambling cowboy back to his native home.'"

Tried GETS-IT, The New Corn Cure, Yet?

See How Easy It Drives Away Corns.

"GETS-IT Will 'Get' Every Corn You've Got!"

At last, a real does-what-it-says corn cure. Nothing like it has ever before been known.

Every man and woman who has corns, callouses, warts or bunions, ought to try "Gets-It" at once and see how marvelously it works. Quit shaving your corn with a razor. You may draw blood and cause blood poisoning.

"GETS-IT" is remarkable because it never irritates or turns the true flesh sore or raw. It can't, it's as safe as water. Stockings won't stick to it. Corn pains stop. The corn or callous shrivels up, comes out. Blessed relief!

"GETS-IT" is sold at druggists at 25 cents a bottle, or sent on receipt of price to E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

HARBOR CHANGES NOT DISCLOSED.

WILMINGTON DELEGATION GETS NO INFORMATION.

Citizens on Anxious Seat Visit Office of Harbor Commission—Told Plans Will Not Be Disclosed Until Meeting in May—What Consulting Engineer Said.

The changes proposed in the contour lines of Wilmington basin and the channel constructed by Wilmington and San Pedro jointly before they were consolidated with Los Angeles are causing the citizens of Wilmington considerable anxiety.

Consulting Engineer Goodrich declared that the lines as originally laid out and which have been followed by the improvements since are not adapted to get the best water front service.

A delegation from the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, consisting of Henry Carter, E. Opp, F. F. Carey and William Sanderson, called at the office of the Harbor Commission yesterday and conferred with Commissioner Richards and the secretary for several hours in an effort to find out what the details of the changes are. The commission declined to state them until the public meeting at Wilmington on May 1. The committee, however, was assured that they will prove perfectly satisfactory to Wilmington and will add to the value of the water-front property.

E. Opp, after the conference, explained that so far as they have been able to learn the 500-foot frontage that Goodrich favors building a wharf upon runs north and south along a channel that is north of the turning basin. The land back of this frontage, he said, is in litigation. "The wharf improvements would be satisfactory to Wilmington, he said, but what is desired more is to have the channel to the northeast of this frontage improved." This was constructed at the expense of Wilmington and the Chamber of Commerce there is afraid that it is not to receive attention. The visit yesterday was to obtain reassurance on this point but Opp said the committee could learn nothing.

The channel on which the improvement is to be made, as they think, was originally deepened to a bottom width of 100 feet and a depth of eighteen feet. Since then the city of Los Angeles has dredged it to a width of 200 feet and a depth of thirty feet. Until Wilmington could learn what was intended here, the delegates said, improvement of property adjacent to the water front will remain at a standstill.

SPUNKY DEFENDANT IN JAIL.

Man Who Resists Officers When They Try to Replevin Stock Fined and Held in Contempt.

William Hines breathed defiance to deputies of Constable Woodbury, in Justice Reeve's court, yesterday, and was not only held to answer to the higher court on a charge of feloniously assaulting an officer, but was also adjudged in contempt.

Hines lives on Santa Monica boulevard. When two deputies went out to get his cows to satisfy a court judgment the doughty ranchman put up a tough fight. The deputies finally got him handcuffed and took him before Justice Reeve.

During the recital of what occurred when they went to the Hines home, the defendant became excited and repeatedly interrupted. When he would not heed the court's warning, he was fined $25 for contempt. He was also taken to the County Jail to await trial in the Superior Court, in default of $1000 ball.

Rheumatism Advice

Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription Easily Mixed at Home.

"From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed-time." This is said to be the quickest and best remedy known to the medical profession for rheumatism and back-ache. Good results come after the first dose. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original one-ounce, sealed, yellow package. Hundreds of the worst cases were cured here by this prescription last winter.

Magazine Profits

Last week we prepared a careful statement which was published in this paper announcing the possibilities of a publication like SEMI-TROPIC CALIFORNIA — the beautifully illustrated Magazine of the West.

The public responded to our invitation to let us submit the facts to them. Some have already purchased; others are considering.

This State is entering upon three years of great prosperity.

Business is booming.
New land tracts are being opened up.
More printer's ink is being mailed out.

More concerns are advertising, or planning to advertise.

The support that SEMI-TROPIC CALIFORNIA — the beautifully illustrated Magazine of the West—is receiving from common advertisers, will make this Magazine a great financial success.

The publishers have plans that they will talk over with any prospective stockholder the details of which we cannot write for publication.

Our financial statement is prepared by expert accountants — Simpson & Simpson.

To carry out certain circulation plans we are offering:

150 shares at $12.50 a share.
250 shares at $15.00 a share.
250 shares at $20.00 a share.
250 shares at $25.00 a share.

This means that if you act quickly, you can get the stock at $12.50 per share, and that the balance of the Treasury stock will be advanced as indicated.

The capitalization of the America Publishing Company, which owns SEMI-TROPIC CALIFORNIA, is only $25,000, par value $10.00. This Company should be capitalized for a very much higher figure, and when that time comes, which is not very distant, a "melon" will certainly be cut for stockholders.

You can buy stock on cash basis or on payment basis.

5 Shares all cash, $62.50, or in payments of $6.25 cash and $5.62 monthly.

10 Shares all cash, $125.00, or in payments of $12.50 cash down and $11.25 monthly.

The management solicit the most rigid investigation.

The officers are made up of Mr. Fletcher Ford, Pres.; Mr. W. H. Holcomb, Vice-Pres.; Mr. R. J. Simpson, Secretary; Mr. John J. Walter, Treas.

THE BIGGEST CUT-UP IN ALL LOS ANGELES.

Quarter Million Loaves of Bread Sliced Into Two and a Half Million Pieces Every Day, and Wonderful Increase Shown by the Bakers—Displacing Home Product in Southern California.

WHILE newcomers to this smiling land of plentiful return are carving the great ranches into small farming and garden tracts, the [illegible] people of Los Angeles are daily slicing 250,000 loaves of bakers' bread into 2,500,000 pieces of which every crumb is consumed.

It is estimated that the mothers, sweethearts, and housewives bake at least 50,000 loaves of the staff of life in addition to the quarter of a million loaves "raised" in the city's mammoth bakery ovens.

Over [illegible] rolls and 15,000 luscious pies—almost like your mother used to make—are baked and devoured every twenty-four hours in the home, restaurant and lunch counter.

Over [illegible] barrels of flour are used daily by the bakers in spreading this vast amount of leavened dough over the city.

Leading bread makers state that there has been a tremendous increase in the output in the last year, which strikingly illustrates that there are many more mouths to feed in this rapidly-growing region.

In 1911 approximately 400 barrels of flour were used every day to supply the staff-of-life demands of this city—200 barrels less daily than are required today.

As the baker figures 200 loaves to each barrel it means that 40,000 more loaves are required than a year ago, a wonderful increase.

CHEAPER THAN HOME-MADE?

Bakers say the housewives are finding out that they can get bread from them cheaper than they can make it themselves, and that the delicious old-fashioned bread will soon be but a past memory.

They declare the housewife finds that to bake baking powder and yeast bread uses up wood and other fuel at an alarming rate, and that the baker can turn out the bread at a good deal lower fuel cost per loaf.

The large bakeries buy their flour, sugar and other necessary ingredients by the carload and manufacture their own yeast. Very few of the bakeries use compressed yeast, although the housewife still sticks to that brand. The bakeries make their yeast out of potatoes, hops and malt, and say it gives far better satisfaction than compressed yeast, which was universally used up to a short time ago.

Over [illegible] loaves of French bread are turned out every day in addition to [illegible] to 20,000 French rolls. Bakers of French bread say they are putting extra shifts to meet the increased call for this brand.

Absolutely no yeast is used in making French bread and it is looked upon as the purest and most wholesome bread manufactured. It is made solely of sour dough, salt and water. The largest French bakery in the city bakes [illegible] pound loaves of bread daily, besides turning out several thousand French rolls and pastries.

SIX THOUSAND AN HOUR.

It would make Mrs. Housewife mighty envious to see the six huge brick ovens, each capable of baking [illegible] pounds of dough every twenty minutes. Distillate and crude oil are used in heating the ovens to a certain temperature before the dough is put in.

The dough loaves are put on a long hard wood slab called a "peel" and then shoved into the oven opening by the baker. The loaves are removed by means of the same stick.

The biggest bakery in the city turns out [illegible] twenty-four-ounce loaves daily and uses nearly 100 barrels of flour.

The flour is first dumped into a bin, then carried to a blending machine and poured into bin. The proper proportion of salt, yeast and water is then poured into the bin and the huge mass of sour dough is run into a mixer operated by electricity. After remaining ten minutes in the mixer the dough is turned into huge troughs where it remains until all of the gas is "punched" out by the trained workers. The dough is then placed in moulds and is ready for the oven.

The Los Angeles bakeries are equipped with the most modern machinery and apparatus and are scrupulously clean. There are over 100 of the bakery plants in this city.

SPREADING THE DOUGH.

That bakers' bread is rapidly displacing the ranch variety and country home product in Southern California is evidenced by the increased shipments in the past year to the small towns and growing communities. Country housewives are finding out, the same as their cousins in the [illegible] cities, that they can get good wholesome bread from the bakery cheaper than they can make it themselves, it would appear. The ranch consumption of bakery bread is increasing at a rapid rate, and bakers estimate that seven out of ten ranchers and others use city-made bread.

About 30,000 loaves of bread baked in Los Angeles ovens is shipped out every day, and on Saturday the total reaches close to 50,000. Over 100 barrels of flour are used in manufacturing this tremendous out-of-town output. Three years ago twenty barrels of flour was sufficient to supply the small-town and country bread demand. Many of the infant towns and husky villages have their own bakeries.

ARGUMENT LEAVES WRECKAGE.

Visalia Men Engage in Controversy and the Result was Fearful to Contemplate—Japs Versus Americans.

VISALIA, April 13.—After George Thompson had completed an argument with his father-in-law in Goshen last evening, several basketfuls of broken cups, saucers, plates, and other crockery, together with a flatiron or two, were collected from the floor of the kitchen in which the conversation took place. Thompson accepted several weighty arguments from his wife's parent, some of them being so effective and striking that neighbors brought him to this city last evening to have his scalp repaired. Thompson visited Judge Bagby after the repair work was completed and attempted to swear to a complaint against the parent, but as an investigation showed that the crockery or the flatirons were drunk, the warrant was not issued.

Thompson's wounds were numerous and painful, but not necessarily dangerous.

AMERICANS WIN.

Victory perched upon the banner of the American forces in a battle between natives of the land of the free and several subjects of the Mikado, in a pool-hall on East Center street last night. Several arrests were made.

Walter Denmand started it. Several Americans were in the place when the Jap proprietor put out a drunken white man. Denmand thereupon took upon himself the white man's burden and put the Jap out. Than five Japs put Denmand out. And then five Americans put out everyone, including the lights and part of the furniture.

As the direct result of this battle a second engagement took place in a Japanese noodle joint, a few doors distant, half an hour later. The net casualties in this fight were four broken chairs, and five wounded Japs. All of the arrested men but Denmand gave fictitious names, and all the offenders were dismissed in court this morning.

C. A. Turner, a business man of this city, is preparing a petition to the Board of Supervisors, asking for permission to build a toll road along the bank of the Kaweah River to Lemon Grove and thence on to the General Grant Park. The road will be thirty-two miles in length.

It is the purpose of those behind the enterprise to make of the highway an automobile road solely, and it is believed that such a highway to the biggest trees in California, as well as through some of the finest scenery in the world, would be more than popular with tourists.

Preliminary surveys, which have been made, place the cost of the road at $300,000, and it is said that the promoters who are associated with Turner are confident that the enterprise could be made to pay dividends if constructed.

THIS MAN HAS REAL GRIEVANCE

Exeter Citizen Says He Must Go Home via Rocky Roads to Avoid Neighbors Armed With Guns.

EXETER, April 13.—Although this is the twentieth century Richard Thew, resident of the Rocky Hill district, in a complaint filed in the Superior Court, alleges that by reason of the half-insane hostility of certain of his neighbors he is obliged to reach his beautiful new home, on the side of Rocky Hill, by a circuitous route over the rocks, his neighbors being represented as lying in wait for him armed with shotguns, along the county road. In his complaint Thew, who recently moved here from the South, alleges that he bought a strip of property along the base of Rocky Hill over which to lay a pipe line for irrigation. An unwitting error was made in the deed, although the intention is plain in the papers filed for the transfer. This property was purchased from Sophia Anderson, A. Anderson, Katrina Kuker, Richard Kuker, and these are the parties, Thew claims, who are making life a burden to him, and who have prevented, by a show of arms, his use of the county road. Thew claims the violence started when he began work to lay the pipe line. The court is asked to straighten out the tangle in his title, and in a separate complaint he will ask that his alleged bellicose neighbors be placed under peace bonds.

TAG-DAY PRIZES WORTH WHILE.

GENEROUS OFFER TO INSPIRE BOYS AND GIRLS.

Philanthropic Man Will Make Work of the Most Enterprising Tag Merchant Profitable — Ladies Freely Volunteer to Conduct Booths in Stores and Hotels.

The Associated Charities has always been successful in creating commendable competition among boys and girls on the annual Tag Day, but the excitement promises to pass all former occasions, by the offer of valuable prizes this year. More ladies than ever before have volunteered their services for Saturday, May 4, to take charge of booths in department stores, hotels and other places, which result the secretary attributes to the work of the "case" committee. Twenty ladies meet once a week at the offices of the society and consider the best way to treat each individual case presented, devising the best means to give permanent help.

Two bands have been engaged and there will be music on the down-town streets throughout the day. Every precaution is being taken to shut out impostors so that people may have the assurance of their money reaching the proper place.

A gentleman who directs his name to be withheld, has offered $500 in prizes, those won by schools to be applied to school athletics, but individual prizes are at the disposal of the winners. They are as follows:

To the High School selling the most tags, $100; to the one selling the next largest number, $75; to the next, $50, and to the next, $25.

In the intermediate grades, to the school selling the most tags, $50, and to the one selling the next largest number, $25.

In the grammer grades, to the school selling the largest number of tags, $50, and to the school selling the next largest number, $25.

Individual prizes: To the boy and girl selling the most tags in the high school, $10 each; in the intermediate grades, $5 each, and in the grammer grades, $2.50 each. To the boy or girl selling the most tags in any grade, $25. All individual prizes are for the sole use of the individual winning the prize. In all cases, the principal of the school which the pupil attends is to be the arbitrator and final awarder of prizes.

COFFEE A BENEFICIAL DRINK.

Investigations Made at Columbia University Disprove Assertions of Its Injurious Effect.

[Springfield Republican:] When doctors differ what are the rest of us to do? The Medical Record in its current number puts part of the blame for the divorce evil on coffee. Nerves, sleeplessness, coffee drinking — a straight chain of responsibility is stretched which should dismay the housewife who prides herself on her fragrant urn of Mocha. Luckily reassurance comes from Columbia University, where a "poison squad" has been testing the effects of coffee and its active agent caffein, and finds that the results are the exact opposite of those with which the laboratory experts have set forth the injurious effects of even moderate doses of alcohol.

The Columbia investigators do not go so far as to sanction a debauch in coffee, such as some great workers indulge in. It was said of Balzac that he lived on 40,000 cups of coffee and died of 40,000 cups of coffee. It is easy for one working at irregular hours and stealing from sleep, as many brilliant and ambitious men do, to abuse the virtues of coffee. But the Columbia tests indicate that in moderation it is not only safe, but beneficial, and increases capacity for labor without any after effect of depression and lassitude. Laboratory experiments are not conclusive, either in this case or in that of alcohol, and extended researches would be needed to test individual idiosyncrasy. But so far as coffee is concerned these results simply reinforce the personal experience of multitudes of people who habitually use coffee as a stimulant and experience no ill after results. The chief caution given by the Columbia experts is to people of light weight. It is found that people who weight less than 120 pounds are more likely to suffer from sleeplessness as a result of coffee drinking than are those who carry a heavier burden of flesh; those of 175 pounds or over seemed practically immune. But no doubt there are marked individual differences as in the case of tobacco, even among those of light weight.

the misinterpretation and mis-enforcement of the laws.

I am not a member of the new organization, but I intend to join immediately and to give them my hearty support if their principles are what I understand them to be. In this article I have spoken only as an individual who feels, deeply, the wrongs heaped upon his countrymen, and who would appeal to a Christian nation, which has spent millions of dollars to Christianize China (with the result that 70 per cent. of the new officials of China now are Christians) to remember that "charity begins at home," and to practice here, in the United States, that degree of Christian humanitarianism and brotherhood which they preach to our people at home.

Is it wrong to ask for justice? Is it wrong that the largest republic in the world, still in its infancy, although the oldest, should ask for the sympathetic aid and support of the next largest and greatest republic in the world? I think not.

Both Were Brave.

[Judge:] A sudden thunderclap sent little Billy running to his father with a scared whimper. "Come, come!" said pa. "Be brave! Be a man!"

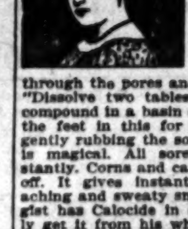
As they sat together on the veranda, Billy boldly declared: "Us men aren't 'fraid of nothin', are us, pa?"

"Why, of course not, sonny!"

"Thunder 'n' lightnin', 'n' bugglers, 'n' lines, 'n' tigrums, nor nothin', are us, pa?"

"Nothing at all, Billy, boy."

A pause; then Billy looked up with a sly face and said: "Aren't us 'fraid of ma, neither, pa?"



Lillian Russell's Warning. Sore Feet: Bad Health

Lillian Russell is a physical wonder. Now in mature years, but having preserved the fresh beauty of youth. In the Chicago Tribune she says: "Care of the feet, hardest worked members of the body, is absolutely essential to health. Irritation from sore feet often causes serious nervous disorders, and nothing brings face wrinkles quicker." Here is the best treatment known to science for all foot ailments. It works through the pores and removes the cause: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is magical. All soreness disappears instantly. Corns and callouses can be peeled off. It gives instant relief for bunions, aching and sweaty smelly feet. Any druggist has Calocide in stock, or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A 25c box usually cures the worst feet. Calocide is not a patent medicine. Don't waste money on uncertain remedies. Insist on getting what you want from the druggist.

"Miss Starr, how many parts have you played?" Question by the neglected and floundering interviewer.
"Have you seen Charley lately?" ignored Miss Starr, poising her spoon as she gazed across at Miss Johns. Miss Johns smiled into the depths of her grapefruit Ideale.
"Charley's a spoiled baby," she laughed, demurely.
"That's just why I like him!" scornfully championed Miss Starr.
"Charley who?" From the butt-in.
"Charley Cherry, of course. I beg your pardon, Miss Johns—what were you saying?"

Ladies' Day.

MISS STARR, MISS JOHNS.

TWO LEADING WOMEN AT A MATINEE TEA PARTY.

An Occasion of Ardent Day-Letters, Fond Reminiscence, Small Talk About Old Acquaintances, Grapefruit Ideales, Mystical Sandwiches and an Interloper.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Haste makes waste.

Never carry all your eggs in one basket.

A rolling stone is no respecter of persons.

Early to bed and early to rise and you'll never meet any prominent people.

And a lot of other idiotic but perfectly true old proverbs I recalled, after the first and last trial of my time-and-labor-saving device to save space and outwit the press agent by interviewing two actresses at once.

My idea is not brand new: it was born quite awhile ago, and has been rusting in the workshop, only awaiting the one golden opportunity which comes to every man and every thing.

Muriel Starr and Alice Johns seemed to be that opportunity.

Miss Starr and Miss Johns are two of the perfect flood of Morosco leading people which descended upon the town a week ago last Saturday.

Miss Starr is designed to fit into the "leading-woman-needed" groove plainly noticeable just now at the Burbank Theater, while Miss Johns, in the process of natural selection, has been apportioned to the Belasco company.

Theoretically, the scheme of interviewing two people at once is just as brilliant and ingenious—from the newspaper point of view—as paying two debts with a single sum of money, simply because you owe the debts to different members of the same family.

Meinherr Reichl, who makes the Alexandria worthy its ancient and luxurious name, was a party to my scheme and, not only an abettor, but an able assistant.

It was Reichl who, last Thursday afternoon, ordered tea served in a corner of the great state dining-room.

And while I was watching him, admiringly, as he brought out all Mrs. Alexandria's silver-tea things and set them modestly in front of the camera, Miss Starr, who barely knew Miss Johns, was getting acquainted—on the mezzanine floor—with Miss Johns, who was but slightly acquainted with Miss Starr.

When the stage had been properly set, and our production had received a final O. K. from the stage-managerial head-waiter, I scrambled up the onyx stair to find my footlight pearls. I found them.

Approaching from the rear, I interrogated, in my customary gentle cadence: "Is this Miss Sta——"

Two women, getting acquainted, always begin by knocking something.

"Isn't this beastly weather?" said Miss Starr to Miss Johns.

"Dear me!" said Miss Johns to Miss Starr—"I don't know—really! What with sitting up studying until 6 o'clock in the morning and spending eight hours a day in the theater and six at my dressmakers, I haven't found time either to look at the clouds or get my feet wet."

"I beg your pardon, but——"

"Think you're going to like stock?" said Miss Starr. Needless to say, not to me.

"If I can stand it. But I don't see how I could get up in a week, if the pieces don't run longer than that. Can you?" Miss Johns. Right across to Starr.

"Ladies!" I said, louder than before—rudely, even.

Miss Starr looked up with mild reproach in one of her warm eyes, and with absence in the other.

"We had given you up. We were just going, weren't we, Miss Johns?"

Miss Johns nodded.

"I've been waiting out in the alley for some minutes," I protested.

Miss Starr gazed sadly and reproachfully. "Why didn't you tell us you were here?"

Not to linger on the mezzanine—which was already overloaded—we at length got onto the congress of national bank notes, which is the main floor.

When Miss Starr remembered that she had to send a day letter, she leaned upon the telegraph desk, penning profusely for some minutes, and then finally called me over.

"How shall I say 'I miss you very, very, very, very, very, very much?' "

"Put in four more 'verys,' and I think he will understand," I suggested.

She didn't like the suggestion, and after exhausting my stock of ideas rejected them all and wrote something of her own.

She sighed as we moved away from the telegraph desk toward the leather cave which held Miss Johns.

"Yesterday I telegraphed him that I was dying of loneliness, and today he answered: 'You don't know what the word lonesome means.' "

"Real third-act stuff, that," I acquiesced; "Hartley Manners might have written that line to—I mean for—Laurette Taylor."

Navigating between tables and under palms we arrived at the setting for our little act.

Not only was the production elaborate, but the props were real.

There was a grapefruit ideale which would have made frapped ambrosia taste like sick people's food, coffee that was almost an aromatic syrup, sandwiches which not only defied but laughed at an analysis of their deliciousness, French pastry demure enough to tempt the fattest woman in the world.

I assisted Miss Johns out of an Amundsen coat, and I noted that the plumpness wasn't all in the heavy garment I had taken off.

Miss Starr to the south, in her severely tailored jacket that she wouldn't remove, Miss Johns to the north, in a shirtwaist and skirt. And nobody else in the great palace of eats, except a little cashier who squealed at the flashbang, a male chorus of waiters, and a hardworking interviewer, stationed between two ladies frankly interested in each other, and nothing else.

Nobody wanted my conversation or my food, and for the latter I was thankful. So I made sandwiches out of these two things and ate them—the food with great relish.

And made mental notes of the two women shortly to be sprung—practically simultaneously—upon Los Angeles audiences.

Miss Starr is slight, almost boyish in figure; her face, her skin, her eyes and her hair reflect youth and health. Her mouth is strong, and not only strong, but tropical. Her eyes have a glint of humor and a certain softness, too. Her two-o'clock-in-the-morning voice, however, not matching any of the rest of her anatomy or mentality, is absolutely fascinating.

Miss Johns is a handsome young woman of more mature figure, and whereas Starr suggests the type, the original of something you know not what, Johns, with her intellectuality, and a certain solidity, suggests the experienced actress who can be relied upon to give, at short notice, a competent and intelligent performance of anything from Mrs. Tanqueray No. 2 to Dorothy Vernon.

"Miss Starr, how many parts have you played?" Question by the neglected and floundering interviewer.

"Have you seen Charley lately?" ignored Miss Starr, poising her spoon as she gazed across at Miss Johns. Miss Johns smiled into the depths of her grapefruit ideale.

"Charley's a spoiled baby!" she laughed, demurely.

"That's just why I like him!" scornfully championed Miss Starr.

"Charley who?" from the butt-in.

"Charley Cherry, of course! I beg your pardon, Miss Johns—what were you saying?"

The sad part of being the third angle in one of these occasions when one New York actress meets another New York actress is that one is at once made to feel so sadly, so distressingly ignorant.

I couldn't even keep afloat, to say nothing of being able to swim, in the delightful stream of friendly reminiscence that flowed back and forth over Joe Reichl's best teapot, but I deduced a few generalities, some of which run in this wise:

That all New York actresses have, at one time or another, appeared in the same company.

That three-fourths of the prominent people know all the theatrical folk.

That the theatrical folk permit themselves to know a possible half of that three-fourths of the prominent people.

That the metropolis is a sort of heaven whose golden streets acquire a deeper plate with distance, and whose joys are more blessed the farther away one goes.

But of course you can't spend a tea half-hour without learning something about histories. And I learned a little, a very little, about Miss Johns and Miss Starr.

Miss Johns was in the original "Seven Sisters" Company, with Laurette Taylor, playing the older sister. She was very successful in the role. Recently she has been appearing in "Thy Neighbor's Wife," and has scored strongly in that, too. She is a Daniel Frohman star now, and is under contract to play in New York under his management, in a new play, next September.

Miss Starr comes here from the cast of Hadyn Talbot's "Truth Wagon," in which she was leading woman, and just before that was with Wilton Lackaye as leading woman, in "The Stranger," which I believe, will be her first play at the Burbank.

I bespeak for both these new leading actresses warm receptions and public favoritism. Certainly their range is so diverse that they can in no wise conflict. Certainly they are above the average in intelligence, capacity and experience.

Welcome to next week's debuts.

The Week.

HODGE, "MAN FROM HOME."

CHARACTER COMEDIAN IN FAMOUS ROLE AT MAJESTIC.

"David Harum" Revival at the Burbank Second Weeks of Alice Lloyd, "Henpecks" and "Third Degree," Armstrong Show—Various Vaudeville Bills of Coming Week.

"The Man from Home," the Booth Tarkington-Harry Leon Wilson comedy with five seasons of tremendous success behind it, comes to the Majestic Theater, starting tonight, with the droll William Hodge in the role of the Indiana lawyer, Daniel Voorhees Pike.

The piece is a comedy, but beneath the humor of its scenes and situations there is a current satire which bears a gentle rebuke for those rich Americans who overvalue a title and often undervalue real worth in character.

The character assumed by Hodge is that of a shrewd Indianan possessed of native wit, an astute mind and a strong will. He journeys to Sorrento, Italy, to see his ward, the daughter of a man, who, though much older than Pike, was Pike's friend. His arrival is not expected, but, because it is timely, is not regretted. Not regretted, at least, until his young ward has engaged herself to the son of the Earl of Hawcastle, the Hon. Almeric St. Aubyn, who fancies that Daniel Voorhees Pike is hardly a credit to her and her brother.

Pike endures patiently the insults heaped upon him by Ethel and her titled friends, but he quickly discovers the character of the latter and determines that the girl has fallen into the hands of a band of unscrupulous adventurers. As her guardian he can prevent any settlement on the Earl's family, but Pike, who cherishes a fond memory of the girl as she was in the days before her father made his fortune in Kokomo, prefers that she abandon the match of her own volition. His strong sense of duty, as well as her attitude toward him, prevents his declaring his love.

He arrives in Sorrento with a Russian Grand Duke, who is traveling incognito. The two are no sooner lodged at the Hotel Regina Margherita than word is brought that a Russian convict has escaped and is being sought by the Italian carabinieri. Pike encounters the fugitive and hides him. He is observed, however, by the sister of the Earl of Hawcastle, and, as the latter is aware that the Italian law makes this a grave offense, punishable by imprisonment, "The Man from Home" is threatened with exposure if he does not consent to the marriage and a settlement of $750,000. Pike appreciates the situation, but still refuses. Eventually he learns that the prisoner he befriended is the husband of the Countess de Champigny, the Earl's fellow-conspirator, and that the Earl himself is guilty of the theft for which the Russian fugitive was sentenced to exile in Siberia.

This discovery opens the young woman's eyes. She has some quixotic idea, however, of carrying out her contract with St. Aubyn, despite the revelation and consequent overtoppling of her ideal, but when she finds the young Englishman wants her money and not herself, she frees herself from the engagement and begins to see the real worth of character in Daniel Voorhees Pike. The Grand Duke, dropping his incognito, discloses his identity, and procuring a pardon for the fugitive, relieves Pike from any legal responsibility for aiding the prisoner's escape.

When at last Ethel realizes how he has effaced self in his devotion to her, has spared her pain and humiliation and has loved her faithfully, her heart goes out to him, and in the end, when he haltingly lets her know that he has cherished the memory of her because he loves her, she enters the hotel and sings to him his old favorite song of "Sweet Genevieve."

William Hodge in the title role, gives one of the really notable characterizations seen on the American stage in the past decade. Others in the cast are Helen Harvest, Leonora von Ottinger, Ida Vernon, Henry Harmon, Echlin Gayer, Arthur Bell, Herbert McKenzie, A. Montegriffo and Anthony Asher. The play is staged in a way that adds to its charm. The scenes are all laid in Sorrento, which gives ample opportunity for picturesque settings.

Burbank.

Commencing with the usual matinee today, the Burbank stock company will offer a big revival of that famous comedy drama success, "David Harum," unquestionably one of the most delightful and popular plays that has ever come to the native stage and one of the most attractive offerings that has ever been given at the Burbank Theater, where it has always proven uncommonly successful.

The revival of "David Harum" will serve for the reappearance with the Burbank company of the popular character comedian John Burton, who will again be seen in the title role.

In the West no one has ever played the part so successfully as John Burton, and his drawing of the York State banker, horse trader and philosopher, stands among the most enjoyable characterizations that has ever been given the local stage.

Mr. Burton will be supported by every member of the big Burbank organization and scenically the presentation will be of unusual merit, being a series of picturesque stage pictures and effects, not forgetting the great rain storm scene.

Mason.

Alice Lloyd, at the Mason Operahouse tomorrow night, inaugurates the second and final week of her engagement in Los Angeles, an engagement so immensely successful that no doubt is left of the warm hold this clever English comedienne has on the hearts of local theater-goers.

In "Little Miss Fix-It" Miss Lloyd quite duplicates the pleasant impression she created here on former visits as a vaudeville headliner, and her fortnight at the Mason seems all too little to accommodate the number of admirers who wish to see her in her new vehicle.

The book is the work of Robert J. Hurlbut, Harry B. Smith and George V. Hobart. During the course of the comedy Miss Lloyd introduces her most recent song successes "Have You Ever Loved Any Other Little Girl?" "Cupid," "The Hobble Promenade," "I'll Build an Eden for You," and "Excuse Me, Mr. Moon." In addition to Miss Lloyd's own songs there are "There Is a Happy Land," "Staying Out Late," "Disguising" and "My Word." A feature of the second act is the now famous dance number, "The Newport Turkey Trot," said to be quite the most fascinating of the new numerous terpsichorean oddities.

There is a most amusing and appealing story woven throughout "Little Miss Fix-it," which, needless to say, ends happily. Messrs. Werba and Luescher, under whose management Miss Lloyd is presented, have surrounded her with a most distiguished supporting company, including Lionel Walsh, Frederic Santley, Frank Shannon, James C. Lane, Grace Field, Nellie Malcolm, Annie Buckley and Grace Brown.

The scenic equipment is an extremely attractive and tasteful one. the first act occuring in the grounds of a pretentious country house on fashionable Long Island, and the second act in the living-room of the same attractive establishment. There will be the usual Saturday matinee during the week, and popular price Wednesday afternoon performance.

-o-

Fischer's Lyceum.

One more week, only and positively, of "The Henpecks," is the dictum of "Pop" Fischer and Harry James, and the best show the Fischer's Follies have yet presented at the Lyceum goes on its final lap starting this afternoon. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" is certainly due a week hence.

"The Henpecks," it is true, has afforded more scope for individual work on the part of "Pop's" aggregation of stars than either of its previous offerings. It makes a particular appeal on account of its fast humor, and there is besides, a consistent plot that holds the interest from the start.

Herbert Cawthorne is fitted to a "T" in the role of Hen Peck, and his constant ebullitions of fun are enjoyed hugely. May Boley, as his eldest daughter, is a scream, and her song of advice, "Girls, Keep Your Figures," is convulsive. Texas Quinan in her many hued robes, especially as a Spanish maiden, in her clever dances, her songs, "Little Band of Gold," and "June," and her final appearance with her fascinating boy's suit, is a constant delight to the eye, and Bob Lett as the long-haired magician, is a marvel of merriment. Laura Oakley as a character woman has made a new place for herself as Mrs. Peck. Lon Chaney reveals new cleverness as Ravioli, and Bud Duncan, Madison Smith, Ann Montgomery, Jane Urban, Charles Dudley, Paisley Noon and dainty Vanity, of whom all too little is seen, are constantly appealing in new ways.

The many scenes of the play, from the old farm through the wonderful barber shop, with its unctious humor, to the gorgeous banquet scene at the end, are works of art, and the lively chorus, whether as farm hands and maids to butterflies in the end, are ever present, ever delightful.

Belasco.

"The Belasco company's splendid presentation of "The Third Degree" has proved such an uncommonly popular offering and the demand for seats has been so great that the Belasco management has found it necessary to continue the presentation of this big Klein drama for a second week, commencing with the performance tomorrow night.

While several members of the Belasco organization have acquitted themselves in a most commendable manner, the two most striking individual hits of the piece have been scored by Thomas MacLarnie in the role of the Lawyer Richard Brewster, and Bessie Barriscale as the young shop girl wife of the young man who, through the third degree methods of the police, confesses to a crime, which he never committed.

Following "The Third Degree," Miss Alice John, the new Belasco leading woman, and Harry Mestayer, one of the most popular young actors who has appeared on a local stage, will make their appearance with the Belasco company in the first stock company presentation of James Forbes's comedy success, "The Commuters."

Grand.

The second week of the summer engagement of the Armstrong Follies Company will begin at the Grand Operahouse Sunday afternoon when the newest of Ed Armstrong's burlettas, "Madame Cherry," will be the offering. The initial week proved beyond all question of doubt that the public wants just such a high-class laughable attraction as that which the Armstrong company offered in "A Big Night," for the attendance was of record-breaking proportions. It will be the policy of the new managers of the Grand to offer a new burletta every week, regardless of how great is the attendance during any one week.

"Madame Cherry" is a speed show, for it is one and a half hours of rapid fire, music and comedy. The story is really a burlesque on "Madame Sherry," which, funny though it was, is made funnier still by the deft pen of Ed Armstrong. He has written one brand new song, "When You're Broke," which, he says, will be a hit

FLONZALEYS AT AUDITORIUM.

UNIQUE ORGANIZATION HERE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

Founded by Wealthy Art Patron of New York City, Discovered Them in Swiss Watering Place—Chronicle of Concerts, Recitals and Other Events.

There is a large number of the music lovers in Los Angeles who have grown sufficiently critical in the last few years to thoroughly appreciate the highest form of ensemble music: that of chamber music as presented by the celebrated Flonzaley Quartette, who form the organization furnishing the closing number of the second series of the Philharmonic course at the Auditorium next Friday night, April 19. Modern musical history offers no more striking example of a rise from artistic obscurity to world-wide recognition than that presented by this talented quartette.

E. J. de Coppet, a wealthy art patron of Brooklyn, having his summer home in the villa on Lake Geneva, Switzerland, heard the quartette play at a summer resort, and was instantly attracted by their proficiency. He discovered that for two years they had remained true to an arrangement among themselves to devote their entire time to the cultivation of chamber music; its singleness of purpose and lofty aims being shown in the mutual agreement not to teach, play in orchestra or accept individual engagements, and in this respect it has been continued since that time, wholly unique among organizations of its class. The patronage of Mr. de Coppett made it possible not only for this organization to continue, but allowed them suitable vacation time in which to visit their homes, and also to study additional compositions. It is interesting to note that the Flonzaley Quartette is the only European string quartette ever brought to America, and in America

MRS. WILLIAM GRANT FITCH, well known in the social circles of Los Angeles, has recently published a beautiful and interesting little book called "Happy Holidays in India" at the time of the Durbar of 1902. Mrs. Fitch had the good fortune to secure passage on the "Tara," a magnificent ship built especially for the use of the viceregal party at the time of the Durbar. It was on this ship that her book was written.

Mrs. Fitch's first sketch is of Benares and its many interesting hights, some of them more gruesome than agreeable. Here she visited the palace of the Maharaja. At Lucknow, which occupies another chapter of the book, she visited all the outlying places, as well as the bazaars. At Agra Mrs. Fitch visited the Taj Mahal of which her book contains an interesting description. A poem, "The Crown Lady's Tomb," is included in her book. The Fort of Agra and Akabar's Tomb are described. In her chapter on Jeypore she gives an entertaining account of hotel customs in India.

Then a chapter on Delhi and another on Calcutta complete Mrs. Fitch's literary itinerary. The author does not attempt the history of places visited but is content to give a few personal impressions of the strange beauties of India. Her book is charmingly illustrated with numerous half-tones, and bound in limp leather.

Holmes, Julius Wangenheim, J. Wellington Boyle.

The display of elegant spring creations of apparel was one of the elaborate features of the occasion, numerous marvels of imported gowns being worn. The dance opened without the usual spectacular feature of the grand march. Between dances and following, the guests engaged tables in the grillroom, where jollity and gossip reigned.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Mildred Brown, a young society woman of this city, and Ensign Richard Wuest of the U.S.S. Maryland. The wedding will be one of the brilliant navy events of the season. The ceremony will take place at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Tuesday evening, April 23, at 8 o'clock.

An Easter bride luncheon was given Monday afternoon by Mrs. D. C. Collier at her home, Collier Shack, Ocean Beach. Mrs. Herman Pink, a society woman of Superior, Wis., was the complimented guest. California poppies, Shasta daisies and Cherokee roses were used for decorations. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Mae Copley Raum, Mrs. James Gibson, Miss Jessie Burbeck and Miss Edyth Copley. Mrs. Collier also gave a bridge luncheon Friday afternoon.

Miss Eaton Weds in North.

Despite the rain Wednesday afternoon the wedding of Miss Dorothy Eaton and Rufus Hatch Kimball was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Eaton, at "Riso Vivo," Montecito. Plans had been made to perform the ceremony in the famous Eaton gardens, but there was a drenching rain and the wedding took place within the home. The bridal party was led by two bridesmaids, Miss Fredericka Otis of San Francisco and Miss Emily McBride of Pasadena. Following them came the maid of honor, Miss Cora Otis of San Francisco. The bride wore a gown of white satin with an overtunic of net embroidered in pearls and a veil of very rare point d'Alencon lace, a valued heirloom. A white tulle veil caught on either side by orange blossoms completed the bride's attire.

Only the immediate families and friends were present. Those from out of town were Mrs. William A. Kimball, mother of the groom; Mrs. James Otis, mother of the Misses Otis; Miss Frances Cole of Palo Alto; Mrs. W. W. Burton of Los Angeles and Miss Helen Burton. The bride is gifted in music and literature. She was the honor guest at many prenuptial events in the last two weeks. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kimball of Boston and a prominent young attorney of San Francisco. The couple left for the North on their wedding trip and will make their home in San Francisco.

NO MORE beautifully appointed wedding has ever been seen in Inglewood than that which occurred Thursday evening, April 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Nelson, when their eldest daughter, Miss Sarah M. Nelson, and Charles I. Hardin were united in marriage. The color scheme of the decorations being green and white, a profusion of beautiful ferns and masses of marguerites were used artistically in beautifying this pretty home. At 8 o'clock Miss Anna Nelk, who also played softly during the ceremony, struck the first strains of the beautiful Mendelssohn wedding march. The bride and groom, attended by Miss Rosaline Barrett and Erwin Nelson, took their places on a mat of marguerites under the beautiful arch of ferns and flowers, where the Rev. Thomas E. Stevenson of the First Presbyterian Church, performed the beautiful and impressive ceremony. The bride was handsomely gowned in a creation of crepe meteor over silk with pearl trimmings. The headdress was of pearls and the bridal bouquet a shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley tied with white chiffon ribbon and when thrown later in the evening was caught by Miss Anna Nelk.

RICHARD DE HAVEN

KING OF LIFE READERS

I was born with a strange and remarkable power—power not meant to gratify the idle curious, but to direct, advise and help men and women who are in trouble and suspense concerning the every-day affairs of life.

$5.00 LIFE READING $1.00

(Reduced fee for this week only.)

I give just as careful and complete a revelation of your business, love and domestic affairs for $1.00 as I do for my regular fee of $3 and $5. I am taking the reduced fee plan to introduce myself and my work more extensively to the people of this city, where I have established my permanent home.

MY WORK SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

While I have the indorsements of hundreds of the most noted men and women of America, I deem them of little value, since I stand alone upon the merits of my work. Any person who can believe their own eyes and ears cannot help but know that I am a man of high ability and indisputable power excelled by no man on earth in this line.

MASTER OF STRANGE POWERS.

There are strange and mighty forces which men and women can use to better their conditions. These forces are called personal magnetism, mental telepathy, semi-hypnotic suggestion, etc. All this I teach to any one who wishes to use it for a legitimate and honorable purpose.

WHAT I DO FOR $1.00 . .

I tell what condition your business is in and how to promote it. I tell you of any move, journey, position or change of any kind which may be before you, and how to act to obtain the best results. I tell you exactly what your acquaintances think of you, who to trust and who to shun. In short, I tell you everything you called to find out, and that, too, without asking you a question or you speaking a word.

I guarantee to develop mediumship to its fullest degree in those who have any latent power whatever. If I do not succeed as above stated, I ask no fee for my work and time whatsoever.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

as in Europe they have outstripped their rivals.

But one recital will be given in this city. Adolfo Betti, first violin; Ugo Ara, viola, are both Italians; Iwan d'Archambeau, cellist, is a Frenchman, and Alfred Pochon, second violin, comes from Switzerland.

The programme: Quartette in A Major, Op. 18, No. 5 (Beethoven;) Allegro Moderato, Assez vif-Tres Rythm, from the quartette in F (Maurice Ravel;) Sonata for two violins and cello (Guiseppe Sammartini;) "Interludium," "Scherzo" (Glazounow.)

Mr. and Mrs. Calve.

Calve, the operatic immortelle, has taken unto herself a new, youthful and tenoric husband, has established her residence in San Francisco, and, it is said, has experienced a sort of vocal second-coming.

She and her husband, Galileo Gaspari, have appeared in several concerts in Fairtown, and have been enthusiastically received. Certain critics have declared that the greatest of all Carmens has, through rest, a happy marriage, or some other more obscure cause, regained in great part her pristine vocal splendor. Other critics do not find that the return to perfection is complete, but admit that she is "singing better than usually."

On Tuesday night, April 23, the celebrated diva and her spouse will be heard in concert at the Auditorium, here, accompanied by that excellent pianist, Brahm Van Den Bergh.

Scenes from "Carmen,' 'with stage-setting and costume, will conclude the programme.

Ellis Club.

The third concert of the sixteenth season of the Ellis Club will be held in Temple Auditorium, Thursday, April 25, at 8:15 p.m., under the direction of J. B. Poulin.

The club will sing with more voices than ever before. The first tenor section is particularly strong. A well-varied and exceptionally tuneful programme will be rendered, including a number of favorites. A group of songs by Frederick Field Bullard, "Vagobondia," "Sword of Ferrara," and "Beam From Yonder Star." Four American Indian songs by Charles Wakefield Cadman: 'Sleep, Baby Sleep" (Lullaby,) Clarence C. Robinson; "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby," Frederick Clay; "The Birth of Love," John Hyatt Brewer; "Prayer of Thanksgiving," Ancient folk song of the Netherlands; "Sweet Hour of Rest" (Ave Maria,) Archie McDonald.

The soloist has not yet been announced.

Hilda Nolte.

Hilda Nolte has studied abroad for four years, after finishing her musical career in Los Angeles, and now returns with a repertoire and a musical understanding which has secured for her many engagements in critical Europe. She announces her only appearance in recital at the Gamut Club auditorium Thursday evening, April 18. The European critics credit her with remarkable technique and brilliant interpretation of the works of the great masters. She has been a most faithful student and has several of her own compositions that have received meritorious mention. The programme for her debut in this, her native city, is given below:

Fantasie, A minor (Bach;) "Soaring" (Schumann;) "Spring Song" from "The Flying Dutchman" (Wagner-Liszt;) Etude, op. 10, No. 12 (Chopin;) Beethoven S. M., Allegro, Adagio, Allegretto (Beethoven;) Concert Etude (McDowell;) Polonaise C Sharp Minor (Chopin;) Scherzo, C Sharp Minor (Chopin;) Eleventh Rhapsody (Liszt;) "If I Were a Bird" (Henselt;) Rigoletto Paraphrase (Verdi-Liszt.)

Torrey.

Miss Marguerite Torrey, classic dancer, who is to appear at the Auditorium the evening of April 17, was born in Berlin, but came to this country at a very early age. Her childhood was passed in Pasadena so that in common with the others who have gained distinction in her line of endeavor, she is a western girl. She danced from infancy and it is one of her favorite stories to tell how she could dance before she could speak English. She passed a number of years in London, where she studied her art, and where she was instructed by Mlle. Aimee Phipps, who was the instructor for a number of the dancers now with Mordkin. During a recent stay on the continent she danced at private entertainments before Countess Zacklika and Baron Steinheil of Russia in the winter home of the Countess in Moran, Austrian Tyrol. She has also appeared before Countess Scherbeque-Boelje, from the Hague, Countess Finkenstein of Germany, and many others of the noble families of the continent.

At her engagement here she will have on the programme an orchestra of forty instruments, selected by A. H. Smeby and directed by E. C. Kammermeyer, which will be a strong attraction in itself, and will be assisted by Helen B. Cooper, dramatic soprano, late of Dresden.

Reginald Deming.

At the Auditorium, Monday, Reginald Deming, organist, pianist and accompanist, will present an evening of piano and organ music. Deming is well known in musical centers in Southern California, is a resident of Pasadena, and has for a number of years appeared in various recitals in this section. He has been prevailed upon to give one of his artistic programmes for the music lovers of the Southwest. The programme is an interesting one, covering a wide range of compositions, as the numbers below indicate: Fantasia in D Minor (Mozart,) "Aufschwung" (Schumann,) "Cantique d'Amour" (Liszt,) "Arolus" (Gernsheim,) "The Wind" (Alkan;) organ, "Introduction to Tristan and Isolde" (Wagner,) "Gavotti" (Martini,) "Even Song" (Johnson,) March (Roze.)

Mrs. Dreyfus.

Mrs. Estelle Heartt-Dreyfus, noted for her artistic originality, has been presenting, with great success, another unique "Purpose Programme!"

This newest departure concerns famous figures of the Bible, as found in folksong, oratorio, opera and cantata.

This programme has been presented by Mrs. Dreyfus in Pasadena, before the Santa Monica Woman's Club and before the Ebell Club of this city.

Pease Recital.

Sibley G. Pease, organist of Westlake M. E. Church, Eighth street and Burlington avenue, will give his regular fortnightly recital Sunday evening at 7:20 o'clock, playing the following programme: Concert Overture in A (Maitland;) Adagio from Sonata in E Minor, Op. 27 (Piutti;) Improvisation No. 15, Agitato (Callaerts;) Intermezzo from Pastoral Sonata in G, Op. 88 (Rheinberger,) and Festival March in C (Huhn.)

At the morning service will be given "Chant de Bonheur" (Lemare;) Elegy in F Minor, Op. 55, No. 3 (Guilmant,) and Toccata in C (D'Evry.)

Guild.

Last Monday evening the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists held its monthly supper at the Hollenbeck. About twenty-five organists were present. Following the supper a discussion on counterpoint was led by P. Shaul-Hallett.

Namara-Toye.

Mme. Namara-Toye, the young Los Angeles soprano who has been winning laurels in Europe and New York, is taking a brief rest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Banks, No. 834 Hollywood boulevard. She arrived in New York from Europe in January and has been the success of the season in concert and private soirees at the houses of New York's society leaders. Her public concerts in New York attracted brilliant society audiences and she received an ovation at each.

Monday morning Mme. Namara-Toye will resume her concert tour, leaving for the Middle West, where she sings at a number of musical festivities, closing her season in Paterson, N. J., May 2. She will then return to California for the summer, giving but one concert in her home city. This will take place in May at the Auditorium under L. E. Behymer's direction.

The Schubert String Trio, consisting of John A. Bettin, pianist; Olney J. Dobbings, violinist, and Earl Bright, 'cellist, gave a chamber music recital in "The Romanesque Room" of Hotel Green, Pasadena, last Friday evening. The recital was an invitation affair and was patronized by thirty prominent society women, headed by Mrs. Albert Sherman Hoyt, Mrs. John B. Miller, Mrs. Walter Raymond and Mrs. Thaddeus Lowe. The programme was as follows: Trio, Op. 11, No. 4 (Beethoven;) violoncello, "Rondo" (Boccherini;) nocturne, (Chopin;) "Tarantella" (Popper;) trio, "Slavisher Tanz," No. 16 (Dvorak;) "Humoresque" (Widor;) violin, "Legende," Op. 31, No. 7 (Bohm;) second polonaise brilliante, Op. 21 (Wieniawski;) "Danse Tzigane," Op. 14 (Nachez:) trio, "Novelletten," Op. 29 (Gade.)

Congregational Orchestra.

The forty-third popular concert by the First Congregational Orchestra is announced for Friday evening, April 19. Miss Esther Ione Garfield, mezzo-soprano, will appear as soloist and will sing "Sunshine and Rain," by Jacques Blumenthal, and "Love's Coronation," by Florence Aylsward, the latter with the accompaniment of organ, 'cello and piano.

Arthur Grip will play Leonard's "Soveneir de Bade," with orchestral accompaniment, and other members will render solos and obligatos.

The numbers given by the orchestra have been carefully selected and will afford a pleasing variety.

This is the third concert in the course by the orchestra and the Choral Club of this church, and is the seventeenth season for the orchestra.

Mme. Fisk.

Mme. Katherine Fisk, contralto, of New York City, will give a recital Monday evening at Hotel Green, Pasadena. Mrs. Gertrude Ross will be at the piano.

Besides groups of German, French and English songs, Mme. Fisk will read and sing the contralto part of the "Ballade du d'esespere," of Bemberg. This will have a trio accompaniment, of violin, piano and 'cello, played, respectively, by Carl Becker, Mrs. Ross and Axel Simsonsen.

Organ Recital.

Albert F. Conant, organist of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, San Diego, will give a recital in St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, under the auspices of the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Conant was for thirteen years organist of the world-famous "mother church" of Boston.

His programme will include the Faylkes' "Prelude Heroic," the Bach Toccata and Fugue in D minor, Bach's "Mein Glaubiges Herz Frohlocke," the Guilmant No. 5 sonata in D minor, Joynston's "Evensong," Federlein's "Serenade in B flat," a Faylkes concert prelude and Fugue, Harker's "In the Twilight," and Becker's toccata in D major.

Mason & Hamlin Co.,

Gentlemen:
"I find the Mason & Hamlin to be so much richer, fuller and warmer than that of any other piano I have used in my public concert work, and the singing quality so extraordinary, the touch so responsive, that I am enabled to a degree heretofore unknown to express those thoughts and feelings which lie beyond any other language than that of music, the creation of which is the joy of the musician's life.
"I congratulate you upon your marvelous success."

THE DRAMA.

[illegible] there ever was such a thing registered anywhere.

Ethel Davis will introduce a new song, "Bring Back My Loving Man," and should prove a big attraction, for Miss Davis is one of the few prima donnas who seems to get better and better each time she appears. Clara [illegible] will also have a special song, "The Rag Time Ball," and Bert Vincent, the big, good-natured fun-maker, will render "I Want a Girl" in his inimitable manner.

Chorus girls' contests will be held each Friday night in the future. The Baby Dolls revel in those evenings, and every one is out to beat her rival. Several new baby dolls have been added to the list during the past week, so there will be something worth while seeing Friday night.

Orpheum.

Really a wonderful bit of human life, couched in the dramatic form of the ancient morality play, is "Everywife," the coming week's Orpheum headline act, opening Monday matinee. Written by George V. Hobart, who has taken quite a flash at the old [illegible], it yet is so up-to-date that it is a revelation to modernity, and presented by a selected company of twenty-two, in four scenes, it runs the gamut of human life in epitome, faithful, keen and true.

In brief, it treats of the lovely home of Everywife and Everyhusband, where the servant is Happiness. Into the [illegible] comes Rhyme, accompanied by [illegible], and there is the inevitable [illegible]. Everyhusband and Everywife, [illegible] by Jealousy, lose Happiness [illegible] advertising for another maid, [illegible] Care. Then in a shift of scene Everyhusband is seen haunting the stage door, whence are seen to issue [illegible], Dress, Gaiety and Beauty, followed by Squabina, the chorus girl, [illegible], after Gamble, Money and [illegible] carry off the others, Everyhusband attaches himself.

At his club, where next he is seen, Gamble, Drink, Sport and Rhyme assemble, and things run high till again [illegible] speaks, and wiser now, Everyhusband returns home to find Everywife a mother, and Joy and Happiness again assembled. Finally, asked by Reason who would disturb such a [illegible], Nobody, a black-faced property, pops over a screen and announces "Nobody!" which is the tag. It is an unusual, clever and very brilliant piece of work.

Supplementing it comes a typical Orpheum bill. McKay and Cantwell, two clever chaps, bring "A Broadway Breeze" in song and story and [illegible] companion to "Everywife;" Mike Bernard, the ragtime king, and Amy Butler, a delightful little comedienne, offer a melange of music and song, and Georges Simondet, late lyric tenor of the Paris Grand Opera company, will make his vaudeville debut with a fine series of notable songs. Added to these will be Mary Norman, in her very good impersonations of "Some Women I Have Met;" Robert T. Haines Co. in "The Coward;" [illegible] Watson's farmyard circus, with its quaint Cockney flavor, and [illegible] Brothers, who still tell you to "Go Out"—but you don't.

Empress.

The famous new vaudeville novelty, "La Petite Revue," William Powell and Will Howard and their company in "Books" and The Stantons are the three features of the new [illegible] Sullivan and Considine bill opening at the Empress Theater tomorrow afternoon.

"La Petite Revue" is a miniature musical novelty which requires the services of ten clever people, who present, upon a stage within a stage, miniature imitations of famous stage celebrities including Eva Tanguay, Anna Held, Emma Carus, Montgomery and Stone, Chauncey Olcott and scenes from "[illegible]" and "The Chimes of Normandy." The act is entirely new to the vaudeville stage and is said to be an exceedingly amusing and entertaining offering.

Will Howard, William Powell and a selected company of players will be the second feature in the lively, breezy college farce "Books." This sketch has to do with a young man who is very much of a spendthrift at college, and whose foolish waste of his father's money gets him into all sorts of trouble when he attempts to explain it. "Books" is written purely for laugh provoking purposes, and is said to measure up to all of the specifications of a riot of fun.

The Droll Daffydills, Val and Ernie Stanton, will furnish much good fun in their speedy skit called "Who Stole the Moon," a combination of bright songs and sayings, and the Altus Brothers are jugglers and Indian club manipulators who should prove [illegible].

Coy De Trickey, perhaps the most talented interpreter of colored types on the vaudeville stage, should prove [illegible] with her coon songs and [illegible]. Hyde and Williams, two [illegible] musical comedy entertainers who have served their apprenticeship in musical comedy, will be seen in a [illegible] of new songs and dances and [illegible] patter talk.

When Jesse Lasky figured out the "[illegible] Hoboes" and put the act into [illegible] for vaudeville, he did the best work of his busy life. The act [illegible] whose popularity will last as long as the characters it exploits remain with us, to be the bane of the housekeeper, the joy of the country constable and the stock in trade of the cartoonist and jokesmith. The hoboes of Lasky's vaudeville act are a composite of all that the genus is supposed to represent. They are carefree and foot-loose. They sing, dance and make merry under all the varied circumstances of life on the road. Their sojourn at Pantages will be one week of unalloyed happiness for the patrons of that theater.

Another contingent of joys arrives with the Ellis-Nowlin troupe. These are acrobats, but not of the serious, common, or gymnasium variety. The Ellis-Nowlins realize that life is lived only once, that man is born and dies to the tune of tears, and therefore the intervening years should be devoted to laughter.

Beatrice Moreland and Richard Claye, in "Doctor Brown,' do the doctor to the degree of doneness commonly described as brown. This is one of Michael Mortons best comedy efforts, and the players who present it have won the approval of Pantages patrons all along the line. Two girls "in white" (whatever that may mean) are the Misses Fitch and Early. They have thus far surrounded their act with more or less of mystery, and their long-delayed appearance at the local branch of the Pantages joy foundry must be awaited to solve the question as to what and who are these two "girls in white." Skinner and Woods dance. This simple statement means a lot more than it carries on the surface. They dance. Lots of dancers do not, but S. & W. assuredly do. Reros Bros. are heralded as unusual performers of real feats of strength. The Biograph company will furnish the week's pictorial feature, and the Pantages orchestra will continue its exposition of ragtime joy.

Adolphus.

Workman and Sturm, the new owners of the newly organized Adolphus Theater on Main street, between Third and Fourth streets, will open a season of popular priced musical comedy Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The shows are releases of the western wheel of burlesque, which now occupies an enviable position in eastern light musical comedy circles.

The opening bill is a musical melang, "King Koko," produced under the personal direction of Frank Morton. A company of forty people will compose the new organization.

The scene is laid on the mythical island of Koko, somewhere in the storied South Seas. The action of the play revolves around two American fortune hunters who happen on the island. One of them falls in love with the reigning princess and the other becomes mixed up in politics. Through a trick he is made king and the princess dethroned. Soon war clouds gather on the horizon and the new ruler finds himself unable to cope with the situation. How the princess regains her lost throne and how the adventurer is beaten is charmingly told in song and action.

The title role is interpreted by Frank Morton. Lloyd Hamilton, formerly with James K. Hackett will portray the island Prime Minister. Gladys Vaughn will play Miss Talkington, the American press correspondent, and Winnie Baldwin will take the part of Princess Louise. Harry Francis will make his initial bow to Pacific Coast audiences as the genial Larry O'Toole, and Otto Peck will play lieutenant of Hussars. Smaller parts will be taken by Miss Marie Stewart and Miss Lucille Standish.

There are ten big song numbers of the whistling, catchy variety and a beauty show of twenty prize winning girls.

Princess.

Oceans of fun are to be found in "The Other Mr. Smith," the musical farce-comedy that is to be seen at the Princess Theater all next week. In it, two Mr. Smiths, one a reverend, and both married, hire flats in the same apartment-house, their wives get mixed in the locations of the quarters, and right there is where all the merriment ensues.

Edmund Flynn, as the plain John Smith, will handle the main part of the comedy, with the assistance of a company that is practically reorganized and including O. J. Post, Walter Harrison, Miss Jeanne Moore, Miss Nell McCune, Miss Sis Mathew, Donald Stewart, Madeline Rush, and Jessie Lacey.

Among the prettier of the musical selections to be heard next week are these: "Navajo Rag," by Miss Sis Mathews; "Do It Now," by Miss McCune; "Just You," by Miss Jeanne Moore; "Daddy," by Mr. Post, and "Dixie Moon," by Mr. Harrison.

Throughout next week the living pictures, which were made a special feature of last week's performance, will be continued.

Kinemacolor.

One of the prettiest bits of scenery ever produced on a screen is Troolhattan Falls on the River Gota, which will be seen at the Kinemacolor Theater this week, commencing Monday afternoon. These falls are situated on the River Gota, near Elfsborg, Sweden, and are very picturesque. A delicious softness and charm pervades the picture—an example of the wonderful powers of Kinemacolor in the perfect reproduction of water in rapid motion, here translucent, and there a mass of foam. The rapids are shown from many points of view, while the quaint little city of Elfsborg makes a delightful background. The browns of the rocky banks of the river, and the blue of the sky are an effective contrast, and perfectly realistic.

The Badger Hunt; A Visit to the Kicking-Horse River; The Moiseley Regatta; The Improved Methods of Agriculture; The Otter Hunt; and Scenes on an English Goat Farm complete a very interesting programme.

Louise Gunning Coming.

"The Balkan Princess" will be the offering at the Majestic Theater for the week beginning next Sunday night.

The company numbers nearly a hundred, and aside from its musical charm, "The Balkan Princess" is said to be gaily caparisoned and to contain sufficient comedy for a half-dozen ordinary music shows. Louise Gunning is supported by Mark Smith, who will be remembered as the salesman in "The Traveling Salesman;" Teddy Webb, for many years of Tivoli company fame; Harold Crane, Harry P. Gribbon, Harry Lewellyn, Fritz Maclyn, Geraldine Malone, Amy Leicester, Ethel Intropodi and seventy others.

Blanche Bates will inaugurate a week's engagement at the Mason on Monday evening, the 22nd, in her immensely successful comedy, "Nobody's Widow," a deliciously clever composition from the pen of Avery Hopwood.

The cast includes Bruce McRae, Adelaide Prince, Kenneth Hunter, Edith Campbell, Alice Claire Elliott, Minor S. Watson, Arthur Hyman and others.

The pet hobby of John R. Chase, millionaire oil operator of San Jose, Cal., is the figuring of the tire mileage of the different makes of automobile tires. It is said he keeps his chauffeur busy changing the back tires of his automobile to the front, and those on the right to the left, in order to be able to record the most miles possible for each make of tire.

NEWS AND MENTION OF LITERARY FOLK.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

LONDON, March 27.—At a big dinner to be held on May 7, by which the Royal Society of Literature will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Robert Browning, the principal speaker will be Henry James. Some folk, who profess themselves as unable to understand Mr. James as they are to understand Browning, regard the one upon the other as rather strong meat, but as the members of the royal society are "highbrows" this won't matter.

In talking about the author of "The Golden Bowl" the other day one who knows him intimately remarked that James rarely touches a pen in the daytime. According to this acquaintance, the novelist waits until his last caller has gone, and every member of his household in safely in bed, and then retires to the garden study, which is a feature of his home, and plies his pen through the stilly watches of the night, often until the first streaks of dawn come through the window. I hear from another source that owing to failing eyesight Mr. James has lately taken to dictating his work.

The same acquaintance is authority for the statement, which I never have seen published, that it was Henry James who persuaded Du Maurier to write "Trilby." The two, of course, were intimate, and the story goes that Du Maurier offered the plot of "Trilby" to James, but that the latter, recognizing its value, insisted that Du Maurier write the novel himself. One can't help wondering how much of a hit "Trilby" as written by Mr. James would have been.

A trifle late in the day, considering that all the doings in connection with his centenary are over, an exhibition of Dickens's manuscripts and letters has been opened at the Victoria and Albert Museum in South Kensington, and will remain open until October. It is genuinely interesting and should be seen by every American lover of Dickens who comes to London this year. These are the manuscripts which the novelist himself bequeathed to his "dear and trusty friend," and subsequent biographer, John Forster, with whom he corresponded constantly, and whose criticism he invited at all stages, from the first dawning of the idea for a story until the final proofs. All the letters he received from Dickens together with the manuscripts Forster left in his will to the British nation.

Americans will be especially interested in the original manuscript of the "American Notes," which is exhibited together with two letters addressed to Dickens by committees representing the citizens of New York, in which the novelist is welcomed to the United States, and invited to a dinner and a ball. They are dated January 24 and 26, 1842, and pay tributes to "the value of your labors in the cause of humanity and the eminently successful exercise of your literary talents." Among the signers are William Cullen Bryant and Fitzgreen Halleck.

Here, too, is the original manuscrip of "David Copperfield," also the corrected proofs of that work, from which one makes the uncommonly interesting discovery that "King Charles's head"—one of the best "bits" in the novel—was an afterthought, and was only introduced when the manuscript came back from the printers. Dickens originally wrote: "'Do you remember the date,' said Mr. Dick, looking earnestly at me, and taking up his pen to note it down, 'when that bull got into the china warehouse and did so much mischief?'" In the corrected proof Dickens cut out the part about the bull and inserted, "when King Charles the First had his head cut off?"

Side by side are the manuscripts of "Oliver Twist" and "Martin Chuzzlewit," and there is also a letter from Dickens to Forster regarding the first work, in which he says, "I hope to do great things with Nancy." Evidently the title of "Master Humphrey's Clock" gave its author some trouble, for in another letter to Forster one reads: "I incline rather more to 'Master Humphrey's Clock' than 'Old Humphrey's Clock' if it be that there is no danger of the pensive confounding 'Master' with a boy." Other items of this exhibition are the unfinished manuscript of "Edwin Drood," several diaries, many portraits and a collection of sketches by Cruikshank, together with letters from Dickens to that artist.

Edmund D. Morel, secretary of the Congo Reform Association, who has been well known in the United States since his visit a few years ago on behalf of the cause he has nearest at heart, has just published a new book called, "Morocco in Diplomacy," in which he analyses in detail the recent "conversations" between England, Germany and France over the land of Muley Hafid. In the course of this work, Morel describes as a delusion the belief in German dreams of conquest which is so generally held in the United States, as well as in this country, and though his words are addressed to Englishmen, they deserve to be read by Americans too.

"Germany's supreme need today," says Morel, "is not war but peace, is not military conquest, but trade, is not the acquisition of colonies peopled by a German-speaking race, but markets. The extension of trade, the extension of markets to feed an enormous expanding home industry, outcome of a yearly increase in population equal to the combined yearly increase of the United Kingdom, Austria-Hungary and Italy—these are matters of life and death to Germany. A fair and open commercial field in every undeveloped area of the world's surface is a vital national necessity for Germany. The closing of potential markets to her trade in Africa, in Asia, in South America, Germany is bound to regard as a blow aimed straight at her heart. She cannot help herself. Either she must find work at home to do for her rapidly-increasing population, or she must be content to see that population emigrating en masse to foreign lands over seas. To find her people in work, she not only requires expanding markets in which to sell her goods, but she requires the raw material of the tropics and sub-tropics, to sustain her industries and manufactures.

Moreover, she must feed her people, too, and she is no longer able to do that from her own soil's output. Owing, on the one hand to growth in population and on the other to the current which, as in our case, is sweeping the people from the land into the towns, aggravated in the case of Germany by the political and social disadvantages under which the rural population, or at least a considerable section of it, suffers by comparison with the urban population; Germany is becoming increasingly less able to support her own people with the products of her own agriculture. These national necessities automatically entail both a constant and growing addition to German shipping, and the necessity of adequate protection for that shipping on the high seas."

The Queen of Holland has given 300 gulden to the fund being raised by Gen. Booth for prosecuting the work of the Salvation Army in Amsterdam. The Queen is very much interested in the work of the army, as she is in everything that may be for the good of her people.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

In the Louvre.

A dingy picture, others passed it by Without a second glance. To me it seemed
Mine somehow, yet I knew not how, nor why;
It hid some mystic thing I once had dreamed,
As I suppose. A palace porch there stood,
With massy pillars and long front, where gleamed
Most precious sculptures; but all scarred and seamed
By ruining Time. There, in a sullen mood,
A man was pacing o'er the desolate floor
Of weedy marble; and the bitter waves
Of the encroaching sea crawled to his feet,
Gushing round tumbled blocks. I conned it o'er.
"Age-mouldering creeds!" said I, "a dead sea raves
To whelm the temples of our fond conceit."

—[John Todhunter.

Brown at Daniell's.

A few days ago Benjamin Chambers Brown showed me a clipping from Art and Artists dated some time in 1906. It referred to his work as a painter in terms which were laudatory. It mentioned, if I remember correctly, that work's painter-like qualities. Mr. Brown intended to use the paragraph, with two others from the International Studio and the Chicago Record-Herald, in an advertising folder.

It pleased me to know that the artist considered my opinion worth treasuring for so many years, and it is even more agreeable to me to be able to repeat, in a slightly different way, the appreciation of six years ago. Mr. Brown's work has still qualities that are finely painter-like. Indeed, as he is a diligent student of nature and a constant wielder of the brush, these qualities have become finer with the years. He paints better than he did six years ago, his interpretation of nature is more subtle, more penetrating.

This well-trained painter has always been an artist of various talents. He not only paints landscape with skill and distinction, but he is also an excellent painter of portraits and genres. He can paint flowers and still life, and, in fact, has done it with great success. Although his chosen medium of expression is that of oils, he uses water colors with facility.

His great distinction, however, is that he studies, with loving fidelity and an eager striving after truth, so many different aspects of out-door nature. Sunrise and sunset, dawn and dusk, moonlight and mist, mountain and valley, sea and shore—all these he has essayed with marked success, rendering values of chiaroscuro and delicate nuances of color with directness and simplicity. There is no fumbling, for the artist knows what he wants to say. I repeat once more, his work is painter-like, it shows mastery of his materials.

Tomorrow an exhibition of fifteen of his paintings will open in the Daniell studios, No. 218 South Broadway, to remain there for one week only. It shouldn't be missed by lovers of art.

The cool of morning lies on the road leading up to the group of buildings in "Sunrise, Mission at Pala." The same restful coolness is in the lush grasses on either side the road. Against the yellow sky are serrated mountains of grayish pink with blue shadows at their base. The morning glow is creeping up the tower of the mission and along the red roof of the main building. A sort of sabbatical quiet pervades the picture.

"Misty Morning" is all autumnal tone, delicate grays warmed by the falling sun of early November. The greenish sky shows trailing clouds. A poetic theme poetically rendered. A difficult phase of nature interpreted with great skill is found in "Moonrise at Sunset on the Desert." The rude hills to the right glow in the setting sun. The foreground is in shadow. The middle distance is glorified by a flood of sunlight. A pale yellow moon in a greenish sky rises above pink and lavender mists, while the far-off mountains are a cobalt blue.

Very different in feeling and treatment is "Windy Day, Eagle Rock Valley," which shows spring freshness and spring joy in the greens of its sunlit valley and in the foreground eucalyptus trees swaying in the wind. The road cut through the hill shows fresh, moist soil. In "Poppy Fields" we have the splendid vistas of a typical Southern California landscape. Beyond the orange grove in the middle distance are the light greens and blues of spring after the touch of rain. In the immediate foreground shines the "punctual gold" of the poppies in superb masses. The mountains, miles and miles away, are snow-crowned. What wonderful aerial perspective, what clean and close values!

The tarnished gold of autumn's foliage brightened by vivid sunlight is found in "Santa Anita Canyon," with bluish shadows of fine quality. The modeling of the mountains is subtle and true, blue-gray in the shadows, rose-pink and delicately green in the sunshine. "Mountain Vista Near San Dimas" is brightly green, and was evidentaly painted right after our recent rains. The sunshine lies warmly and pleasantly upon it, the distant mountains seem washed to a pure, pale blue. In the foreground we see the rough, wagon-scarred road which Brown paints so often and so well.

Though only a sketch, "Arroyo, Eaton's Canyon," is a good picture. Every brush stroke in it counts. It gives the winey browns and yellows of autumn. The trees are seared by summer suns—a few slim sycamores with scattered leaves. The mountains glow like amethysts.

Four Sales in Paris.

The first of four sales of the ancient and modern pictures belonging to the extensive collection of the late Jean Dollfus took place recently in Paris at the gallery of Georges Petit, where a large number of connoisseurs, art dealers and directors of galleries from all parts of Europe and America were assembled. This first sale consisted of seventy-seven modern paintings, including twenty canvases of Corot, one of Millet, six of Delacroix, four of Gericault, and others of Renoir, Sisley, Ribot, Monticelli, Michel and Ingres.

The gross sum realized amounted to 1,122,760 francs, exceeding the estimate of the experts by 300,000 francs. The picture bringing the largest price was a Corot, "La Femme a la Perle," for which the National Gallery of the Louvre paid 150,000 francs.

Two days previous to the sale, the collection was on exhibition in the Petit gallery, where the public, as well as connoisseurs, was welcome. After having seen the world sky-blue and pea-green with the modern colorists, in angles with the cubists, amid forewarnings of the conists and spherists to follow, and a disjointed chaos with the futurists, this collection comes as a balm to one's nerves. It is like listening to Meyerbeer and Gluck after Charpentier and De Bussey.

For several years the Louvre has coveted this masterpiece of Corot, "The Woman With the Pearl," called often the younger sister of the "Mona Lisa," owing to a certain enigmatical expression about the eyes that recalls the charm of this Leonardo da Vinvi so mysteriously stolen. In pose, too, it resembles the Gioconda—the bust of a woman, seated, three-quarter view, her hands crossed before her. On her forehead gleams a magnificent pearl suspended by a thread from a garland of flowers encircling her head. M. Dollfus bought the picture in 1875 at the studio sale soon after Corot's death, for only 4000 francs. The Louvre has been especially desirous of having this canvas, because it owns none of Corot's important pictures with figures, most of its paintings by this artist being landscapes.

The Dollfus collection contains examples of all the various styles of this great master. The painting next in importance to the one mentioned was "La Grande Metairie," bought by MM. Bousod & Valadon, for 133,000 francs. The Louvre obtained also another canvas by this artist, "Rome, Monte Pincio," at 32,000 francs, several thousand francs less than was asked by the experts.

A third picture obtained by the National Gallery was Gericault's "La Course des Barberi au Corso," a painting full of life and fire, yet sculptural in treatment and giving the impression of a bas-relief.

Other important Corots were, "Silene," sold to MM. Durand-Ruel at 81,000 francs; "La Peche au Filet," to M. Knoedler at 40,000 francs, and "Bouquet d'Arbes," to the same dealer at 30,000 francs.

"The Evening Star," by Millet, is much in the same tone as the "Angelus," so well known everywhere. It represents a peasant and his wife returning from the fields after the day's labor. The woman is seated on a donkey, beside her walks her husband and before her three sheep. Through the dusk shines the evening star. The same peace and tranquility that characterize the "Angelus" and the "Gleaners" pervade the scene. Although rich in Millets of this tone, the Louvre was one of the most eager bidders for this picture. It reached its limit, however, at 117,000 francs, and MM. Knoedler & Company secured the masterpiece at 118,000 francs. At the sale of Millet's canvases in 1875 this picture brought 6050 francs.

Two pictures by Renoir were hotly contested: "La Loge," which was secured by MM. Bernheim Jeune at 31,200 francs, and a copy of Delacroix's "La Noce Juive," secured by MM. Durand-Ruel, at 30,000 francs. These last mentioned dealers bought also "La Vague," by Courbet. A small canvas by Daumier called "Don Quichotte et Sancho Endormis" brought 30,000 francs.

The Luxembourg Gallery was satisfied with one small picture, "La Fillette au Poupard," by Roybet.

The second sale of the Dollfus collection took place late in March. It consisted of drawings and water colors. The third, which was held on the 1st of April, comprised a valuable assortment of pictures and objets d'art of the Renaissance and of the early Italian and Flemish periods. The last will take place on the 20th and 21th of May, and will be composed of paintings belonging to the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

International Studio—For April.

An unusually interesting and illuminating article is that on the work of Turner at Farnley Hall, by Alexander J. Finberg, beautifully illustrated in colors. "Drawing-room at Farnley Hall" and "Farnley Hall in the Seventeenth Century" are exquisite examples of this great painter's work in aquarelle. The sketches of birds' heads are also brilliantly done.

The account of the 117th annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy is accompanied by twelve illustrations. Max Eisler's description of works from the school of the Hague in the Van Randwijk collection has twelve illustrations from paintings by Josef Israels, Matthew Maris, William Maris, James Maris, Bteitner, Bosboom, Blommers, Neuhuys, Mauve and Mesdag.

Leopold Honore writes of Henri Zuber, an Alsatian landscape painter; A. S. Levetus of the Jubilee exhibition of the Royal Hungarian Art Society at Budapest; Lester Hornby contributes some clever Paris sketches in pencil and wash, and there are the usual Studio Talk, Lay Figure, Art School Notes, In the Galleries, etc.

Art Notes.

A portrait of great strength and vitality is that of King Gillett of Santa Monica, which Jean Mannheim painted in less than forty-eight hours. It represents the famous maker of razors seated at his ease, his hands folded on his knees. Its directness and vivacity make it very life-like, and it is undoubtedly fine in characterization. It is rich, yet subdued in color, brilliant in its brush work. All thing considered, it is probably the best portriat Mannheim has so far painted. Next week the artist goes to New York and Boston, to paint portraits of two members of the Gillett family. He will remain for two months, and will also sketch the New England springtime. On his return he will paint another portrait of Mr. Gillett, this one to be hung in one of the offices of the Gillett company.

A deserved honor has come to William Wendt, the famous landscape painter of Los Angeles. On Thursday he received a telegram stating that he had just been made an associate member of the National Academy. He and Gardner Symons are the only California painters who have been distinguished by such an election—and both, it must be remembered, are painters from Southern California. In the spring exhibition of the academy, they had two canvases on the line, "Fallen Leaves" and "The Land of Heart's Desire," the latter a brilliantly painted landscape, big in treatment and poetic in feeling, and typical of Southern California's scenery.

Louis Betts has come all the way from Chicago to paint a portrait of Mr. Logan, vice-president of the Chicago Art Institute. The work was done in Hotel Green, Pasadena, where Mr. Logan is now stopping.

Frank L. Heath, the landscape and marine painter, who recently held exhibitions here and in Pasadena, has gone North. He will spend the summer in sketching along the shore at Monterey and at Lake Tohoe. He is so well pleased with Los Angeles that he will return here next winter with more pictures.

Carl Oscar Borg is still in Rome. He is showing four pictures in the eighty-first international exhibition of art in Rome, which opened on March 16. When the number of entries is considered, this is a most remarkable showing for so young an artist. It has been my pleasure, on more than one occasion, to predict big things for this talented painter. I am glad to find that my good opinion of his work is being amply justified in Europe.

Warren E. Rollins has built himself a new and commodious studio at San Gabriel in the orange district. He is at home to all visitors on Sunday afternoons.

During Shriner week an exhibition of pictures by artists of Southern California will be held in the Blanchard gallery.

A full-length oil study of a nude man lying down is being exhibited in the Royar gallery. It is exceedingly fine in construction and drawing, good in color. The foreshortening of the right arm is a masterly bit of drawing. The study has an interesting history. It was presented to William Keith by his instructor in Munich when the famous Californian was a student there. Later, Keith gave it to Gutzon Borglum, and it has remained in Los Angeles ever since. Keith won fame after he got the picture, Borglum became celebrated after it had been handed on to him. Is the picture a mascot? And who painted it?

OVER THE SEA.

Jan Kubelik, the violinist, at the age of 32, is credited with having earned over $1,000,000 in the last ten years from his concerts.

William Watson, the English poet, is now in New York making the final arrangements, for the publication of his newest work, "The Heralds of the Dawn," a play in eight scenes.

Lord Rothes, who proposes to spend some months this year touring the United States, is the nineteenth earl of his line and possesses, among a number of other queer hereditary prerogatives, the strange right of pulling off the sovereign's boots on the return of His Majesty to his apartments on the conclusion of any state function or ceremony in Scotland, and is, therefore, sometimes styled "Grand Bootjack to the Scottish Crown."

Ferdinand Forest, a French mechanic, the creator of the modern explosion motor with several vertical or radiating cylinders, is living in poverty in Paris, and a petition has been presented to the French government asking that a suitable pension be conferred upon the inventor.

Countess Ogasawara, who has been appointed to represent her countrywomen at the ninth international conference of the Red Cross Society in Washington next May, is the first woman in the history of her country who has been asked to represent Japan at a great international gathering. She is one of the most beautiful women in Japan, speaks English and French, but has never been abroad.

PROGRESSIVE YOUTHS.

Helen and George Hurlburt, of Vergennes, Vt., aged 8 and 9 years, have walked a mile to and from school for the past year and have not been absent or tardy once.

Hazel Woodside, 12 years old, has won the prize for being the best-developed child of her age in Brookline. She says that physical development ought to begin when one is very young, and that she was taught to take exercise before she could talk.

Miss Alpha Rice, 17 years old, of the Ethel village school, who won the district spelling match in Macon, Mo., spelled every one of the 2500 words correctly. Five hundred of these words were written and 2000 were given orally.

Hazel Orr, a 10-year-old girl of Lawrence, Kan., maintained a perfect record for attendance at a country school this winter by crawling on the frozen snow for an eighth of a mile. The snow being over Hazel's head, she found that by crawling over the top she would not break through, and in this way reached school.

Miss May Robertson, 20 years old, has taken the contract to drive the stage between Meeker and Buford, Colo., beginning April 1. She will be the first woman in the world to drive a regular stage, it is said. Buford is thirty miles from Meeker, and the stage carries mail and passengers.

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

Although she was 81 years old, has had impaired sight for fifty years and had been totally blind for thirty years, Mrs. Matilda Ann Douthett is one of the notable housewives of Atwater, O. She does all her cooking, baking, sewing, washing, sweeping and housecleaning.

Mrs. S. A. Smith, who has had charge of the postoffice at South Sandisfield, Mass., for the past twenty-seven years, is believed to be the oldest postmistress in the United States. She is 80 years old.

Robert Crichton of Caterham, a descendant of the "Admirable Crichton," celebrated his hundreth birthday by playing billiards. King George sent his congratulations. Mr. Crichton is a teetotaller and a nonsmoker.

Capt. Shedd of Rindge, N. H., who is more than 90 years old, sawed and split five cords of wood during the winter.

A. M. Kendall, a mail clerk on the Rutland Railroad, running between Burlington, Vt., and Boston, celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary last week sorting mail on his regular run.

Mrs. Sarah Sweeney of Belmont county, O., who is 114 years of age, is the mother of twenty-two children, sixteen of whom served their country in its wars, and consequently Senator Pomerene of Ohio, has asked that a pension of $100 a month be granted her. She can walk back and forth to the village, a distance of three miles, and has not had a day's illness for th last fifty years.

The oldest soldier in the British army is said to be Samuel Parsons, the King's gunner at Windsor Castle, who has just celebrated the fifty-second anniversary of his appointment to the position. He is still on the active list, but his duties are now mainly confined to the hoisting of the flag on the tower at sunrise and hauling it down at sunset.

SOMEWHAT CRANKS.

Rev. G. A. Wells, pastor of the Methodist Church of Colville, Wash., stood on his head on a high stool in the Courthouse there to force W. Lon Johnson, Clerk of the county, to attend church and sit through a sermon. The minister had invited Johnson to attend the Methodist Church, and Johnson agreed to do so if the minister would stand on his head on the stool.

When Robert Wheeler was asked in the Indianapolis Juvenile Court to give his defense for having failed to support his child properly, he said that during his two years of married life his wife had insisted that he keep moving. They had moved thirty-two times in two years, he said, and, as a result, he had been unable to hold any position.

John Jollat, a Frenchman, who lives in West Mead township, Crawford county, Pa., always a hard-working and thrifty man, has purchased the Henry Lippert farm in that township. When he came to pay the real estate agent who made the sale Mr. Jollat had half of the purchase price—$1100—in silver dollars and half-dollars. The shining coins filled a tin bucket and the weight was considerable.

The fashion of the present day demands that the complexion of the well groomed woman shall be clear and of a snowy whiteness.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY ROSE L. ELLERBE.

THE subject of the legislation for which the women of the State, as voters, shall ask, is agitating almost every woman's club and organization and many proposed laws have been discussed. It seems to be the consensus of opinion, however, that the women shall first exercise their privilege to obtain a full measure of justice and protection for women and children. It is probable that the first law demanded will be the enactment of a co-guardianship provision, giving the mother equal control with the father over their children. The Delineator has been making an extensive investigation into the laws concerning women and children recently and after investigation covering a number of States has formulated a joint guardianship law which is brief, clear and comprehensive and is offered as a model for such legislation. Every woman who is interested in this subject should read this form and compare it with our own statute. It is probable that any well digested and carefully prepared bill, generally endorsed by the women of the State, will receive favorable consideration, at least, at the hands of the next Legislature.

Federation Plans.

Preparations are in progress for the meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at Paso Robles May 22, 23 and 24, and this promises to be a most interesting and profitable session. Among the topics which will receive especial attention is the legislation which the women wish to secure at the next session of the Legislature. Almost every club in the State has some pet measure to put forth. Before giving its endorsement to any proposed bill the federation feels it necessary to thoroughly investigate and digest the subject. An indorsement by the federation, representing as it does 25,000 club women who are also voters, should carry weight, and the officials feel that this matter is of greater importance and graver responsibility than ever before.

Another subject which will have a place on the programme is civil service reform, particularly in connection with the public institutions of the State. The women will ask that all employment in State institutions be placed upon a civil service basis. The federation is also taking an active interest in the child-placing work of the Native Sons and Daughters. This organization has a branch in almost every town of the State. Through their local affiliations the society is in a position to investigate homes that ask for children and to keep close tab on the children who are placed through their instrumentality. The superintendent of this work, Mrs. Lilley of San Francisco, will have a place on the programme. Of course, plans for the biennial in San Francisco and the entertainment of the guests of the federation at that time will have a large share of attention.

A Floral Fete.

The Flower Show of Sierra Madre Woman's Club will open on Thursday, April 18. The town of Sierra Madre is a flower show in itself, just at this season, and this three days' "fiesta" cannot fail to be a delight. In the evening a floral social, with suitable music, will entertain the club and its guests. On Friday prizes for exhibits will be awarded. Saturday will be children's day, with folk dances and drill singing by the children at the clubhouse, followed in the evening by a dance and floral cotillion.

Ebell Club.

The members of the Ebell Club will listen at their Monday programme to a dramatic interpretation of the great Northwest, read by its author, [illegible] Alice Ferris. The title of the drama is "The Bridge of the Gods." This deals with a section that has thus far seemed to escape the dramatists of the day as a field of action. Members of this club are taking an active part in the preparations for the pageant "Jappy Land," which is to be given at the Auditorium, for the purpose of building a much-needed cottage at McKinley Home for Boys. The dances and songs of this pretty affair promise to be most taking.

"A Romance of Yesterday."

While we are waiting anxiously for the mission play at San Gabriel, the Friday Morning Club will take us part way back to the past with a pretty pantomime, founded on two historical incidents. Ruth Comfort Mitchell has written the prologue in verse, which will be read first. The pantomime is under the direction of Mrs. George Goldsmith and is known as "La Fabula de Ayer"—"A Romance of Yesterday," with a hint of the story in the sub-title, "The Pearl and the Pirate." Mrs. Mathew Robinson, Mrs. Alexander Barrett, Miss Belle Mayer and Miss Elsa Grosser take the leading roles among the women. Miss [illegible] Bok and Mrs. Ada Van Pelt are to represent priests of San Gabriel. Everett Maxwell and F. H. [illegible] and Thomas Allen Box are the lovers and the pirate. Miss [illegible] Nickelsen is a captive Indian maiden and Mesdames L. J. Selby, H. B. Johnson, O. P. Clark, George McIntyre, Don Harrison, A. Maurice Low, G. W. Heron, Abramson and G. J. Cressey will appear in costume as the Indians of San Gabriel Mission. The Venetian quartette will supply appropriate music. This will be the programme for Friday morning, the 19th.

A Real Poet.

John W. Foley, newspaperman, humorist and poet of the people, delighted the women of the Friday Morning Club Friday morning with the reading of his own verses. Mr. Foley has been a frequent contributor to the popular weeklies and the magazines, and has published several volumes, which have had a wide circulation. Born in Missouri and for many years a resident of the Dakotas, he may be fairly claimed as a western product. With a genial and whimsical humor and a warm-hearted philosophy of his own he deals with the everyday things of life. His boy poems really interpret boyhood as genuinely as Whitcomb Riley's or Eugene Field's verse, and his "An Unusual Chum," with its wistful statement, "And Henry [illegible] father, he doesn't seem as though he's more than his uncle [illegible] Henry so," touch home as closely as anything Riley has written.

Among the poems read the "Sewing Circle," the "Hoss Trade" and "The Reasonable Juryman" were full of the wit that brings happy laughter.

Before the programme the club heard reports of some of the work done by the president and her committee to make the Tetrazzini concert the success that it was. Some of the letters received and some of the letters of gratitude from those whose pleasures are few were read as a recompense for the hard work performed by the women who had the affair in charge.

Teachers' Club.

One of the largest organizations in the city is the Teachers' Club, made up of about 700 of the grade teachers of the city. At its annual meeting on Tuesday afternoon Miss Edith M. Hodgkins of the Vermont-avenue school was elected president; Miss Louise E. Atkins and Miss Alice Crowell, vice-presidents; Miss Sarah W. Lyon, recording secretary; Miss Louise Curtain, corresponding secretary; Miss Grace J. Gray, financial secretary, and Miss Jennie Maxwell, treasurer.

The choral section of the society is preparing a musical programme which will be given at the next general meeting of the club. A dramatic section has recently been formed. The teachers are much gratified at the action of Prof. Francis in keeping one evening in the month clear.

County Legislative Committee.

The Woman's Progressive League has completed the organization of a County Legislative Committee, of which Mrs. F. W. Houser is chairman. The committee is made up of the chairmen of the assembly district legislative committees. Miss Mary Roff, 61; Mrs. James Scherfee, 63; Mrs. R. D. Davis, 64; Mrs. F. W. Houser, 66; Mrs. Cora Lewis, 72; Mrs. T. L. O'Brien, 73; Mrs. H. J. Slater, 62. It is proposed to hold a council of the city assembly districts to which delegates may be appointed by any club, parent-teacher association, church or other organization interested in civic matters. This council will consider proposed legislation, and it is expected that it will act as a sort of clearinghouse for ideas on the subject. One properly-drawn bill presented with a strong backing will have more chance of favorable consideration than a number of bills on the same subject presented by different sponsors. It is probable that the consideration of candidates for the assembly will also fall within the province of the legislative committee and council.

Westlake Sunshine Society.

This branch of the International Sunshine Society is doing many helpful things, which are left over from the regular charitable organizations. They are arranging for a benefit dance, which is to take the form of a "children's party" the latter part of this month, the proceeds to be used in preparing graduating outfits for several boys and girls who would otherwise not be able to share in the joy of the graduating period. One of the members of the society has donated the use of a cottage on the east side, which the society has furnished and is now lending to four men, convalescent patients from the County Hospital. Here they will find shelter and comfort until able to go out and earn a living. A Book Committee has recently been appointed, which is making a collection of books to be placed in the County Hospital. Donations may be sent to the president, Mrs. E. B. Crowder. This society has recently joined the Federation of Clubs.

Ruskin Art Club.

"Dutch Literature of Today" was the subject of discussion at the Wednesday meeting of the Ruskin Art Club, Mrs. F. B. Long presiding. Mrs. W. H. House spoke of the new school of literature inaugurated in Holland by Jacques Perk, Marcellus Emante and their associates. Mrs. F. L. Kennedy gave an account of the novelists Eckard and Rodenbach. Mrs. E. S. Hodgin talked of Maten Maartens, the most widely known of Dutch novelists, giving a critical survey of his works. Miss Frances Clark considered Lemonnier and Verhaeren, who, with Materlinck, form a distinguished trio of writers of our day. She also spoke of the struggle for supremacy between the French and the Flemish languages in the literature of Belgium. The annual election of officers for this club will take place April 24.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

The late Edwin Hawley, the great railway builder, began life by selling eggs in Chatham, N. Y., where he was born. Although this was a modest business he began saving money from the start, and at his death was estimated to be worth $30,000,000. He did not, however, love money for the satisfaction of its possession, but was a good friend of his fellowmen, and his record was as clean as modest. A few weeks before his death the story is told how, unsolicited, he sent $25,000 to a broker friend who was trying vainly to get on his feet after financial failure. Meeting one day another friend in the same predicament, Hawley asked him what he was doing. The broker said he was trying to get going, but that it would take $60,000 to start him. Hawley loaned him the necessary capital without the scratch of a pen.

Because his father, when a boy, saved three women from death, Charles A. Tunley of Brooklyn, N. Y., has recently been informed that a fortune of $3,000,000 is awaiting him in England.

While working as a certified accountant in the New York office of the Standard Oil Company, on February 24, Tunley was sought by a Mr. Hamilton, a solicitor of Welford, Essex, Eng., who, after a number of questions for the purpose of identification, handed him $4000, and said: "My friend, I have been seeking you for seven years, since the death of Miss Brown in Welford—the last of the sisters whose lives were saved by your father. She inherited the fortunes of the other two, and in 1904 made a will leaving all to your father, or in event of his death to you. The amount is 600,000 pounds sterling or approximately $3,000,000. This small advance which I have handed you is to enable you to go to Barbadoes and get proofs of your identity and then go to England and claim your inheritance."

Ernst Thalmann of the banking firm of Landenburg, Thalmann & Co., New York, who died on February 26, made these charitable bequests: The Hebrew Orphan Asylum, $10,000; the Mount Sinai Hospital, $10,000, and the German Hospital and Dispensary, $5000.

During the year 1911 the total cash donations made by Andrew Carnegie amounted to $3,264,822.69, nearly $1,500,000 more than was given in 1910.

Of this amount Andrew Carnegie gave $2,236,370, more than double his gifts of 1910, to 136 towns and cities in the United States and twenty-eight in Canada. The majority of these towns are in the Middle West and the South and in the province of Ontario, although nearly every State in the Union is represented.

James Bragden, a young Wake-county (North Carolina) farmer, recently gave his life for his team of horses. Caught in the flood torrent that swept over a bridge, the horses were swept into the stream, and Bragden was swept from his seat. Twice he swam to the neighing horses in a vain effort to free them from their harness that they might swim, but the last time he went down.

The late Susan L. Munroe left as one of her personal possessions a 31-year old family horse. Mindful of its faithfulness she provided an inheritance of a savings bank account and shares of stock in two of the richest mills in Fall River, all of which is to be held for the animal's benefit by a trustee, and the income used for her comfortable maintenance and support.

Provision has also been made for the attendance of a veterinarian, and when she passes away to the equine heaven she is to have a fitting burial.

Rumor has it that Daisy's account and stock mount up as high as $100,000. Some persons in Fall River discount the rumor, but it is certain that the mare's bank account is in the Fall River Savings Bank, the oldest savings bank in the city, while her mill stocks are more than gilt-edged—they are eighteen carat.

Several well-known educational institutions have recently been well remembered by their friends. An unnamed donor has given Harvard $50,000 for its graduate school of applied science, to be used for the establishment of a high-tension electrical laboratory that is expected to outrank all others.

The friends of Mt. Holyoke College have contributed upward of $300,000 of the $500,000 it is desired to raise for the benefit of the institution.

By the will of the late Dr. Oliver H. Arnold of Providence, R. I., Brown University receives a gift of $80,000 for the erection of a laboratory, and the estalishment of two fellowships, one for men and the other for women.

Pennsylvania University receives $80,000 from the estate of Mrs. Lucy Wharton Drexel.

Drake University of Des Moines gets $5000 for its endowment fund from Thomas Burton of Norton, Kan., who, while visiting Des Moines, had been favorably impressed with the educational work of the institution.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Representative Humphreys of Mississippi used to be a "drummer," and sold whisky and cigars throughout his district, but never drank or smoked, and this made such an impression on the people that later on, when he ran for Congress, nobody else had much chance.

Louis G. Michael of Troy, Pa., who has been demonstrating to natives of Manchuria, at the request of the Russian government, how to grow more and better corn, has been visiting, with his wife and daughter, at their former home in Troy.

By hard work, temperate habits and plain living George Johnstone, for thirty years a teamster for the Illinois Humane Society, piled up an estate of $70,000.

Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi has been selected by the trustees of Columbia University to give a course of lectures on politics or government on the George Blumenthal foundation next year.

James Bryce, the British Ambassador, will leave Washington late this month for a trip to New Zealand and Australasia. He is writing a new book on democracy, and desires to study at first hand the advanced social legislation of these British dominions.

Maj. A. L. Parmenter, Twenty-first Infantry, U.S.A., has been detailed as lieutenant colonel and adjutant-general of militia in the District of Columbia, replacing Maj. S. A. Smiley, U.S.A. Maj. Smiley has been ordered to report for duty at Vancouver barracks, Washington.

United States Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, although 82 years of age, is at his post of duty at 9:15 daily. It is said no member of the Senate in the last ten years has answered as many roll calls as he. Senator Cullom has been in the public service for over half a century.

Representative William D. Stephens, of California, is the only member of Congress who speaks Chinese.

A lively contest is on for the vacancy in the list of brigadier generals which will result from the retirement of Gen. Daniel H. Brush, commanding the Department of California, which takes place May 9 next. One of the leading candidates is Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, who is said to have an excellent chance of selection. He is from Ohio and is an intimate friend of the President of long standing.

Allen Miller of Halstead, Kan., was 92 years old the other day, and celebrated the event by getting shaved for the first time in his life. And the next day the March wind began to blow.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Marie" writes: "I would like a remedy for a pimply, oily skin. I suffer from constipation, headache and indigestion."

Answer: Get from your druggist three grain sulpherb tablets and take according to directions. These tablets are packed in sealed tubes and contain full directions for using. I have found them to be the most reliable in such ailments as arise from constipation. They are made of sulphur, cream of tartar and herb medicines and if taken regularly will cure your constipation and purify the blood, thus causing your skin to become clear. These are fine for children, as they do not sicken.

"Mary"—You can easily cure your little girl of bedwetting by mixing 1 oz. of comp. fluid balmwort; 2 drams tincture rhusaromatic; and 1 dram tincture cubeba. Mix thoroughly and give in water about one hour before each meal, 10 to 15 drops.

Doctor: "My blood, stomach and bowels are badly affected due to a very severe case of catarrh of the head. Can you recommend a cure?"

J. E. H.—You should use the following local treatment: Get two ozs. of antiseptic vilane powder and make a catarrh balm by mixing one teaspoonful of the powder with one ounce of vaseline or lard and use in the nostrils as far as possible. Also snuff from the palm of the hand through the nostrils the following wash: To one-half teaspoonful of Vilane powder add a pint of warm water and use two or three times daily. For internal treatment for the blood, stomach and bowels obtain the following ingredients: Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful four times a day: Comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., fluid extract buchu, 1 oz., and comp. syrup sarsaparilla, 4 ozs.

"Sadie" says: "I misplaced the prescription you sent me for dandruff and itching scalp. Will you please send it again?"

Answer: There is nothing better for dandruff and itching scalp than plain yellow minyol which is sold in 4 oz. jars at any well stocked drug store. Use this according to directions and you will soon be cured of all diseases of the hair and scalp.

"Nina R." writes: "Please advise me what to take to overcome extreme thinness. My arms and bust have no development and my face is so thin that it is positively homely, although my features are regular."

Answer: Many ladies would be much more beautiful if they were somewhat fleshier and as increased weight is possible it is the duty of every woman to be always at her best. Begin taking three grain hyponuclane tablets, which are obtained in sealed cartons with directions and continue until your weight is satisfactory. Frequently a two months treatment adds 15 to 30 pounds, besides adding more color to the cheeks and lips and a sparkle of health to the eyes.

'Mrs. O.' writes: "Kindly publish again the prescription for rheumatism which you gave to 'Ted' some time ago."

Answer: I shall be very glad to repeat the formula. Get at the drug store the following ingredients and mix yourself, taking a teaspoonful at meal times and at bedtime. Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla, 5 ozs. This is my favorite prescription for rheumatism.

"Charlotte" writes: "Some time ago you answered through your columns telling 'Marie' how to cure bad cough and cold. Will you kindly repeat the formula?"

Answer: I shall be very glad to repeat the formula for you. Get from your druggist a 2½ oz. package of essence mentholaxene and mix with honey or home-made sugar syrup and take according to directions given on the bottle. This is a very mild laxative and will surely cure your cold in a few days at most. It is absolutely harmless and very pleasant to take.

"Ted" writes: "I have had chronic appendicitis for some time but I cannot consent to an operation. My stomach is in a bad condition also. Can you help me?"

Answer: The best scientific and satisfactory treatment for you is tablets triopeptine, which you can get at any well-stocked drug store. They are packed in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. I think many cases of appendicitis could be prevented if triopeptine was used regularly.

"Mrs. T." writes: "I have been sick for some time and do not seem to be able to get anything to give me strength. I am nervous and cannot sleep. Could you prescribe a good tonic?"

Answer: The best system and nerve tonic I know of is made by mixing 8 ozs. syrup hypophosphites comp. and 1 oz. tincture cadomene (not cardamon). Mix by shaking well and take a teaspoonful before meals. This is a fine tonic for old and young.

"X. Y. Z." says: "In the last two years I have become so fat that I am very uncomfortable. Diet and exercise do not seem to do any good."

Answer: I receive daily letters from hundreds of grateful people who have used the following treatment for reducing their weight. I advise you to purchase these separately so as to avoid any substitution. Aromatic elixir 5 ozs., glycol arbolene 1 oz. Mix, shake well before using. Take a teaspoonful for the first three days after your meals and thereafter take two teaspoonfuls until you are the weight you wish to be.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Mayme: To keep your complexion smooth, fresh looking and free from chaps in all kinds of weather, you will find nothing better than a splendid greaseless cream made as follows: Stir 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine and one ounce almozoin in ½ pint cold water. This fine cream-jelly will make your skin soft and smooth, and is very cleansing and healing. It will not grow hair and gives excellent results in removing blackheads and reducing enlarged pores. This cream affords the very best protection to the complexion at all seasons of the year.

N. C.: Do not have any fear about taking parnotis to reduce your weight. If you will dissolve 4 ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints hot water and take a tablespoonful before meals, you will lose your excess fat quickly without any injury to your health. This remedy is absolutely harmless, very effective and does not cause a flabby, wrinkled skin. You need not diet or exercise violently to get proper results from this simple remedy.

Clara T.: Yes, a genuine hair-grower has been found at last. Keep the scalp clean by frequently shampooing with canthrox and rub into the scalp twice a week a tonic made by dissolving an ounce of quinzoin in ½ pint alcohol, then adding ½ pint cold water. This excellent remedy refreshes the scalp and makes the hair bright and glossy. It stimulates the hair-roots and keeps the hair in a healthy, growing condition. For dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, you will find this remedy unequalled.

May: Pulling the hairs out by the roots is both painful and dangerous. Try this simple method and you will be delighted with the result: Make a paste with a little powdered delatone and water, spread thickly on hairy surface and after two or three minutes remove and wash the skin.

Mrs. H. T.: If you want a first-class tonic for family use to purify the blood and remove the accumulated poisons of winter from the system, you can get nothing better than an old-fashioned tonic made by dissolving ½ cupful sugar and 1 ounce kardene in ½ pint alcohol, then adding hot water to make a quart. A tablespoonful taken before meals will make one's blood pure, restore lost appetite and energy, and overcome all sallow, pimply conditions of the complexion. This is the greatest health-tonic I have ever used and I can't recommend it too highly.

M. C. J.: Those light, faded patches in your hair are the result of shampooing with soap. The free alkali in soap and many shampoo preparations causes the hair to fade, split, become dull, brittle and fall out. To get away from all these troubles, shampoo with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. After rinsing, your hair will dry quickly and evenly, and be so lustrous and fluffy that you will find it will do up nicely and appear quite beautiful and abundant. This shampoo is the best scalp-cleanser of which I know and you will no longer be bothered with dandruff and itching scalp. Practically all first-class hair-dressers use this wonderful shampoo.

Nathalie: I would not encourage you to use face powder as it rubs off too easily and shows too readily. To make an excellent beautifier and whitener, dissolve 4 ounces spurmax in ¼ pint witch hazel (or hot water) then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. The use of this lotion will take away that coarse, sallow, oily look to your skin and make it soft, pink and beautiful. This splendid lotion is used by many society women who prize their good looks, as powder will ruin any complexion in time. It is very fine for cold sores, freckles and to prevent chapping.

Ellen O.: The "dope" you are using will never make your red, smarting eyes strong and clear. If you will get an ounce of crystos, dissolve it in a pint of water and put a few drops in each eye daily, you will soon have clear, sparkling strong eyes. This tonic is very soothing and strengthening to weak, tired eyes and greatly aids those who wear glasses. It is unsurpassed for treating granulated lids and as a dependable, strengthening tonic for weak eyes.

IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Gardena Agricultural High.

The Southwestern Order of Teachers of Agriculture held their first meeting last Saturday. It was an enthusiastic gathering, with a live programme. In Mr. Rea's talk on "Farm Mechanics," he showed how essential it is for a farmer to know the elements of carpentry, iron work, and mechanical drawing. Robert Teall opened the discussion, confirming what Mr. Rea had said, and then made a plea for half-day session for mechanical and agricultural subjects; also for the need of some knowledge in cement works, announcing the Agricultural High School will take up this subject next year.

Lunch was served by the home economics department to about sixty guests, after which the school farm was visited.

In the afternoon, Miss Anna Leland discussed the subject "Training Girls for Farm Life." She laid particular emphasis on the economical preparation of foods and the necessity of a closer familiarity with household architecture, labor saving devices and a knowledge of fabrics. Miss Galpin, lecturer on the products of California at the Seattle and Portland expositions, insisted that the leisure of the farm woman is of vital importance. She held that the improvements of the farm in the past have not very seriously considered the conveniences inside the house.

Col. John J. Steadman gave an address on "Aids a Farmer Can Get from Outside Sources." He told how the government, the State and the colleges are helping the farmer, and in how many different ways.

"In the Days of the Padres," is a clever little musical play just completed by Miss Agnes Peterson, who wrote the book, and C. W. Curtis, who composed the music. The piece will be given on the 10th and 11th of May, in the auditorium. Miss Jones is designing the costumes, which Miss Leland will help the girls of the sewing department to make.

Two thoroughbred Berkshire pigs have been added to the farm live stock, on which the students will experiment regarding feeding and housing.

Manual Arts High School.

The baseball enthusiasts have been working up interest in Friday's game with San Diego. It is hoped that a return match at San Diego will be held soon.

The physical training department is planning big things for the new conditions that will confront us in the fall, when the new building is complete. An ideal place has been left in our cloister court for a swimming-pool. There is confidence expressed that the board, so generous where the need can be shown, will finance the project.

The foundry class is making eighteen stoves for the board of Education from brass and aluminum patterns made at Poly. The boys will melt the pig iron and carry out the necessary steps in the operation. Brass, nickel plated, will enter into the construction of some of the parts. It will take about two weeks to complete the undertaking. "Slow?", says H. A. Rae, head of the department, "Well that may be, but boys are worth more than stock!"

Ten thousand bench-stops and six hundred bench-hooks for the grade schools are also being made by the boys. The girls' woodwork class is busy fashioning pigeonholes for various departments of the school.

A new machine in the cafeteria is proving satisfactory. It is a food-chopper for preparing meats for hash and hamburgers, and vegetables for soups and salads. It is proving a saving of time, energy and material. As with the other machinery in this department it has been purchased by the student body organization.

The class-mates of Bernice Hanna[illegible], a young student, were shocked at the news of her death. The flag was placed at half-mast out of respect to her memory.

Dr. Robert Williams of Pomona College addressed the boys' assembly on Wednesday. The address dealt with the psychology of certain forms of speech and contained abundant material for the attention of his interested audience.

Los Angeles High School.

The Boys' Glee Club of the school is receiving recognition not only at home, but in near-by communities. Its members recently gave concerts at Redlands and Colton.

Their most important local appearance will be at the opening of the Los Angeles Athletic Club Wednesday evening.

The orchestra will give a concert Tuesday evening at Bethlehem Institute. The success of both of these musical organizations is due to the untiring work and personal enthusiasm of Miss Blythe, head of the department of music.

The officials of the school are rejoicing over the purchase by the Board of Education of the vacant lot south of and adjoining the school grounds. It is a piece of ground [illegible]x120 feet and will greatly add to the beauty and usefulness of the hilltop school reservation.

The encampment of the High School cadets held at Pomona during the Easter vacation was a pronounced success in every particular. Some of the biological enthusiasts on the trip brought back enough live reptiles to fill the cages set apart for the study of live animals in the zoological museum.

Students in the art department are showing their usual helpful enthusiasm in getting out original illustrations for the Blue and White. The art work has for years been one of the strong features of the publication.

Ruth Hundsdale has been chosen to represent the school in the forthcoming interurban oratorical contest.

The debators of the school are rejoicing over the successful outcome of the regular league debate with Pasadena. Pasadena and Los Angeles High schools have for years enjoyed a keen, but friendly rivalry in debating. A fine lot of promising debators have been developed at Los Angeles High School this year.

The first of the regular interclass debates was held Friday. It was a contest between teams from the two senior classes, the debators discussing the question of "Compulsory Arbitration for Quasi-Public Corporations." The judges gave the decision to the senior A's, who upheld the negative side of the question.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Star and Crescent Society, held Friday, the following programme was given: Duet, Coronation March by Ruby Yoakum and Polly Fellows; call to order, Franklin Lee, reading of Minutes, Dorothy Goodrich; transaction of business; trio, Humoresque, by Felix Jonas, first violin, Robert Howard, second violin and Isidore Kornblum, piano; readings by Miss Beulah Wright, dean of oratory, U. S. C., and Toreador, Hola by Boys' Glee Club.

Poly High.

Polytechnic students were called to the auditorium for a pleasant hour Tuesday morning when Mr. J. W. Foley, the poet and humorist, gave readings of a number of his own poems, mostly relating to the moods and happenings of boyhood days. He so delighted his audience that they were loth indeed to return to recitations, and recalled him repeatedly to give another bit of humor. In fact, so enthusiastic were they over Mr. Foley and his work that, in the reading classes following, nothing was acceptable but his delightful poems.

Prof. Rockwell D. Hunt, of the University of Southern California, will address the students of economics and sociology next Friday. This is the first of a series of lectures arranged by Mr. Stephen I. Miller, instructor in these subjects, to be given by different prominent men of the city. Such a thing has never before been attempted and it will undoubtedly add much to the value of the courses.

At the "Aud" call Tuesday, Miss Lucile Dickson, of the music department, announced the comic opera to be given by the Poly Glee Club April 18 and 19. This time it is entitled "The Royal Peddler," and is expected to come up to the high standard set by Poly's musicians in former years. Norman McPhail, the possessor of a very fine voice, will sing the title role, and Faith Gay will take the part of the lovely princess. Sarah Crosby, as the court chaperone, will take advantage of Leap Year and propose to the stately King. Barnell Tunison, Katherine Sanborn and Robert Cleatham will appear as friends of the Peddler and Princess. The music will be furnished by the Poly orchestra, and the whole will be under the direction of Mrs. Gertrude Parsons.

Prof. Williams of Pomona College addressed the Boys' Student League last Wednesday, choosing for his subject, "The Psychology of Profanity." He gave a very impressive talk, to which the boys listened with deep attention.

Next Friday the Girls' Gym Club will give an exhibition during the roll call period, having as guests the Girls' Gym Club of Manual Arts High.

An all Spanish class, under the direction of Mr. Skinner, is noted for its picnics and good times, and these fun-loving people enjoyed an April party in the gymnasium, Thursday afternoon. Each boy invited a girl, and each girl a boy, from the outside, so that about forty people were present. The games were in charge of Miss Harriet Grant, and were played with zest. Punch and cake were served, and dancing occupied the remainder of the time.

The German Club held a social meeting Friday afternoon. Games were played and refreshments were served. The Committee on Arrangments consisted of Lucy Fisher, chairman; Anna Meyer, and Clarence Eisenmeyer. German songs were sung, and all declared they had had a delightful afternoon. The next meeting of the club will be devoted to Ludwig Uhland and his works.

San Pedro High School Social Center.

One of the most important events in the welfare of the San Pedro High School occurred on Thursday preceding the spring vacation, when Dr. Jessie Russel, district organizer, launched the new San Pedro High School social center. Principal Clayton and his faculty have long felt the need of such a co-operating body and have worked steadily during the whole year for it. The new socitl center is bound to be a success with the interest shown by fathers and mothers alike and with the efficient body of officers chosen at its first meeting. Dr. Mills, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church was chosen president, Mmes. Abel and Whitesel, vice-president; Mrs. R. L. Davenport, secretary and Mrs. Z. L. Craig, treasurer.

Theopen semi-annual programme of the Sigma Pi Literary Society given Thursday evening, March 28, was a great success. The auditorium was filled to overflowing with friends of the young participants, who reflected credit upon all concerned by the judicious selection and happy rendering of all numbers. One notable fact was the independent work of the students. No faculty member helped in any way either as to material or coaching. The evening's programme was made up of music, a debate by the Young Men's Civics Club, original sketches, recitations, essays and current events. President Roland Haskell and his programme committee are doing splendid work for the Literary Soceity.

San Pedro Night School.

Miss Ludwig is getting out circulars of the night school work, to be sent to every family of the harbor district, setting forth the scope, and advantages of the evening school. There is a large and constantly changing population of foreigners, many of whom do not speak English. To get the information to this class circulars in Italian and Spanish are being prepared by Miss Ludwig and Mr Strera.

Two music classes, numbering twenty and thirty respectively, now meet weekly at the night school, on Monday and Tuesday nights.

Mr. Wyatt's class in penmanship on Wednesday evening, for teachers, is very popular, having an attendance never below twenty.

A feature of the evening school which the principal, Miss Ludwig, has closest to her heart, is the civics class. At present, the Young Men's Civics Club, as the class is called, meets every Thursday evening to study the vital questions of the day: Municipal government, commission government of cities, local questions, Presidential candidates and how San Pedro will be affected by the completion of the Panama Canal. "What shall we do with the immigrants who come to our harbor?" are some of the questions. Val Lucas is the leader and Miss Ludwig acts as adviser. Arrangements are being made to interest many young men employed in the lumber yards and mills and stores, who can find in such free discussion a pleasant and profitable evening. A number of outside speakers will be secured to give talks on special subjects. Immigration will be the first subject so discussed, and a careful study from all available sources made of this vital issue.

Kite Tournament.

The sixth annual kite tournament to come off on April 20 at Exposition Park, is absorbing the attention of ingenious youth at present. Girls as well as boys are building aeroplanes and kites. No admission fee will be charged. The judges are not yet appointed, but ribbon badges and diplomas will be awarded as in former years.

Kite lines for quarter and one-eighth mile dashes and yacht race will be measured at Grand-avenue school Thursday and Friday afternoons, April 18 and 19.

Every sort of kite, from the common or garden variety, with a rag tail, to the big aristocratic Chinese sort, without any tails at all, will be entered, according to the schedule which follows:

Group A—Best star kite, best tailless kite, bird kite, flock of bird kites (five or more,) insect kite (butterfly, beetle, dragon-fly, etc.,) boy kite (or man, clown or girl,) animal kite, flower kite, (pansy, poppy, lily,) smallest tailless, smallest square box kite, smallest triangular and house kite. Group B—Most artistic kite, best decorated tailless, best ditto star, best ditto box, best color harmony, emblematic design, picture kite (scenery,) ship kite. Group C—Windmill kite, kite with mechanical moving parts, yacht race, quarter-mile dash, one-eighth-mile dash, dragon, Chinese. Group D—Highest flyer, single, tandem, in five minutes; strongest pulling tailless, box, tandem. Group E—Balloon, longest flight, balloon ascension, prettiest balloon, largest balloon, largest parachute, prettiest parachute, parachute shower, suspended figure. Group F—Monoplane as a kite, biplane as a kite, exhibition stunts with aeroplane; best-constructed aeroplane model (no flight required,) longest flight from hand rubber-band motor, longest flight from platform.

Mr. Miller, assistant supervisor of manual training, who has the affair in charge, reports an undiminished interest in aeroplanes, and he expects some very clever models.

Grand-Avenue School.

Miss Ethel Fellows, a pretty and popular teacher, is to leave on Sunday for Spokane, where she is to marry Dr. Snites, of that city, and where the young couple will take up their abode. A luncheon was given on Friday in honor of Miss Fellows, at the schoolhouse, the lunchroom being prettily decorated for the occasion.

Mr. Bettinger Speaks at San Pedro.

Assistant Superintendent Bettinger spoke on Friday evening at San Pedro, in regard to the work of the newly-organized social center at that place. Said Mr. Bettinger in part:

"Social center work is simply one of the phases of public education which is striving to diversify school work so as to meet the varied needs of different communities and different individuals.

"It is an effort to preserve in the man and woman, in after years, the knowledge taught when they were children, and which makes for good citizenship.

"It is furnishing a community home for the people of a neighborhood, where they may go and enter into activities, partly industrial, partly educational, partly social, in much the same spirit in which people of Colonial times went to the spelling bee and the quilting party.

"This century must forever abolish the word 'uplift,' and substitute therefor the word 'up-push;' that is, conditions must be made by the State which will give the community a chance to push itself up into good citizenship."

Sixteenth-Street School.

A genius in catching likenesses of his companions in school, and transferring them to paper, is little Harold Woodley of the deaf school. He is but 14 years old, is a splendid all-round student and athlete, and so great is his talent in drawing, and especially in portrait drawing, that his principal has asked for him the special privilege of attending Polytechnic High School for the purpose of taking architectural drawing and special work in the art department. Harold's misfortune of deafness kept him back for years, but as soon as he entered the deaf school his natural brilliancy asserted itself, and his teachers think he has a great future. Under the tutelage of his teacher, Miss Bennett, he has learned to speak well, even though he cannot hear a sound.

Harold's latest achievement is a picture of Indian heads, drawn with great fidelity to details of feature and expression.

Berendo-Street School.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its meeting on Thursday afternoon. Members of sister organizations from Hoover-street, Sentous-street, Washington-street, Twenty-fourth-street, Arlington Heights, Cahuenga and Magnolia-street schools were in attendance. Mrs. Chalmers Smith, president of the federation, delivered an address proposing "The Plan to Be Followed by Intermediate School Associations," suggesting that in these schools evening meetings be arranged for fathers and boys, and afternoon meetings for mothers and girls. Members of the various organizations represented spoke on "The Intermediate School," and many were the words of praise for this new factor of the school system.

The different organizations furnished and represented each by a different flower, Ida Martin serving as chairman of the Flower Committee.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by the following students: Katherine Judd, Letitia Kingsley, Ruth Ryan, Julia James and Frieda Hager.

Lockwood-street School.

Two girls' classes in pottery were opened on Monday, with about fourteen pupils in each class. The students make their own tools with which to handle the clay, construct their models, and take them over to the Grand-avenue school to fire them in the kiln. Some pretty and artistic work is being turned out.

Avenue 62, School and Social Center.

As a result of the musical evening with the Community Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. William Neff, over fifty have joined this branch of the Social Center organization. A well-equipped gymnasium for the young men is being seriously considered by the Executive Committee, with every chance of its being an accomplished fact by September.

A goodly sum was realized from the food sale held at the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association Wednesday afternoon. The larger part of the proceeds was voted to the use of the Federated Parent-Teacher Associations of the city, for the scholarship fund, which is used for the aiding of needy families whose children would otherwise be kept out of school to help support the household.

The association voted to hold its second pay entertainment on the evening of June 1. A rollicking programme is promised for the occasion.

Staunton-avenue School.

Prof. John Hill of the University of Southern California addressed the Parent-Teacher Association on Wednesday, on "The Fundamental Principles of Education," giving most helpful hints to both teachers and parents regarding the care of child life.

Miss Biffer, during the spring vacation, purchased pictures for the school with the money raised at the March meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. Those chosen were Rosa Bonheur's "Horse Fair," "The Angelus," "Peace" and "Motherhood."

CHURCHMEN, EDUCATORS.

Margaret Deland, the novelist, is a great lover of flowers and her annual sale of jonquils for charity, which has just taken place this year, is one of the pleasant spring features in Boston.

Rev. Dr. James W. Kramer, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Spokane, has opened a business office in the banking district, and has made official announcement that "any one in the world but a drunkard or a divorced person will be married with a short or a long service."

Alexander Graham Bell is urging upon Congress the advisability and practicability of an international agreement on a universal alphabet intended to represent the sounds of speech after a uniform system. He says the English language is fast becoming the commercial language of the world, and could become the universal language if standard pronunciation was adopted.

Dr. C. D. Ginsburg, the eminent Hebrew scholar, now in his eighty-first year, is supervising a new edition of the Bible to be issued in London by the Bible Society, in which will be seen for the first time how the Psalms were printed. This edition of the Bible will show the various readings of the different manuscripts. Dr. Ginsburg says he has never found a Hebrew manuscript written by a Christian. All were written by Jews, and his researches cover sixty years and the continent of Europe. The Psalms had no musical system at all; they were originally intoned, but never sung to music. The importance of the accents was syntactical, not musical.

Sir Sydney Olivier, Governor-General of Jamaica, is the defendant in London for libel brought by an elderly spinster of the name of Gertrude Hay who owns certain estates in Jamaica, and who finds her principal pastime in quarreling with the officials of the island. Sir Sydney's offense was a report regarding the woman's pretensions to the Department of the Colonies in London. Although marked confidential, its contents were learned by Miss Hay, who lost no time in bringing suit against the Governor.

Ruptured People Waste
$10,000,000.00 A Year
On Worthless Trusses

The Country Is Flooded With Belt and Spring Contraptions Which Do More Harm Than Good.

Ninety-nine out of every hundred dollars spent for trusses might about as well be thrown away.

Close to $10,000,000.00 is wasted every year on belt and spring contrivances which the law should never allow to be sold.

Nine ruptured people out of ten are victims of trusses scarcely worth a paper of pins.

Nine sufferers out of ten are saddled up with good-for nothing contraptions, which are letting them get worse all the time or which hurt so they keep a man in constant misery.

No wonder so many truss-wearers have scared themselves into thinking that an operation—in spite of its dangers—is about the only thing that can do any good.

No wonder so many truss-wearers—driven to desperation — have let themselves be hoodwinked into buying "appliances," "methods," "systems," etc.—only to find that such things are simply the most worthless kinds of old-fashioned trusses masquerading under misleading names.

Is Your Truss Making Life Miserable?

It's a sin and a shame that so many ruptured people have had to drag through life at the mercy of trusses which are nothing less than a crime.

But the day is past when any man has to endure the curse of wearing such contraptions.

You can easily prove that—by making a 60-day test—without having to risk a single penny.

Test This on 60 Days' Trial

We have invented something so utterly different from everything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents—something which has proved its merits in nearly 300,000 cases.

We have so much faith in this invention—we have seen what it has done for so many others—that we want to make one especially for your case and let you test it on 60 days' trial.

If it doesn't keep your rupture from bothering you—when you are working, exercising, taking a bath, and at all other times—if your rupture doesn't get better right from the start—then you won't have to pay us a penny.

GET RID OF BELTS AND LEG-STRAPS.

This revolutionary invention we offer you on 60-days' trial has no belt, no leg-straps or springs. Thousands say it is as comfortable as their clothing.

It is the famous Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss—made on an entirely new principle.

Far more than just a truss—far more than merely a device for holding your rupture in place.

It provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture—does that by giving a soothing, strengthening, healing massage to the weak ruptured parts—all entirely automatically.

Trusses Like These Are a Crime

THE THINGS WE TELL IN OUR BOOK.

This massage is so remarkably curative that nearly everyone who tries the Cluthe Truss begins to get better right away. It has cured thousands after everything else—including operation in many cases — had done no good whatever.

Don't try to make up your mind from the few facts we can give you here, but wait till you get our free book of advice.

This sensational book — cloth-bound, 96 pages, 23 photographic illustrations, and 20 separate articles—is full of facts never before made public.

It explains just why operations are dangerous, and why, in case a man manages to recover from the operation, the surgeon nearly always tells him to keep on wearing a truss.

It explains why ordinary trusses simply shorten a man's life and why the law should put a stop to their sale.

And it puts you on guard against frauds and fakes—exposes the false claims back of so-called "appliances," "methods," etc.

And it tells all about the Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss—just how it holds—how it gives the massage—how it is waterproof and holds when you take a bath—how you can try it 60 days without risking a penny. And it gives you the names of over 5000 people who voluntarily testify to the merits of the Cluthe Truss.

No Matter What the Color of Your Hair

Newbro's Herpicide

Will Not Change It in the Least.

While they appreciate full well the value of a sanitary hair-dressing, many ladies are afraid to use one for fear it may alter the color of the hair. No such apprehension is associated with the use of Newbro's Herpicide. It makes no difference whether your hair is blonde, brunette or otherwise, Herpicide will not streak, fade or alter it by a single shade. The clear, pure nature of the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer appeals to everyone. It contains no grease and does not stain or soil the clothing. Herpicide is clean.

Used regularly Newbro's Herpicide will eradicate that most common as well as most annoying and distressing of all hair troubles, dandruff. Dandruff is caused by a germ or microbe which gradually forces its way down into the hair bulb or follicle. This gives rise to inflammation, manifested by an itchy scalp and the hair slips out. Herpicide kills the germ, cleans the scalp and prevents the hair from coming out. The itching stops almost instantly.

NATAL DAY OF MASTER

SHAKESPEAREAN ANNIVERSAR AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Egan School Will Give Large Representation, Beginning With a Processional Pageant, and Embodying Extracts from Twenty-one Famous Scenes.

An extensive Shakespearean celebration will be that taking place at the Auditorium next Saturday afternoon, April 20, when the Egan School will give its "Anniversary Pageant," commemorating the 348th natal anniversary of the greatest dramatist who has yet wielded pen, pencil or typewriter.

The programme, though large, is likewise concise. There will be no less than twenty-one "tabloids" of the great scenes, but these will, allegedly, be made compact, sheared of extraneous matter and lengthy introductions and conclusions, and so rapidly put on the stage that it is promised that the whole rendition will occupy no more time than that required for the proffering of an average Shakes-

NATAL DAY OF MASTER.

SHAKESPEAREAN ANNIVERSARY AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Egan School Will Give Large Representation, Beginning With a Processional Pageant, and Embodying Scenes from Twenty-one Famous Plays.

An extensive Shakespearean celebration will be that taking place at the Auditorium next Saturday afternoon, April 20, when the Egan School will give its "Anniversary Pageant," commemorating the 348th natal anniversary of the greatest dramatist who has yet wielded pen, pencil or typewriter.

The programme, though large, is [illegible] concise. There will be no less than twenty-one "tabloids" of the good scenes, but these will, allegedly, be made compact, sheared of extraneous matter and lengthy introductions and conclusions, and so rapidly put on the stage that it is promised that the whole rendition will occupy no more time than that required for the producing of an average Shakespearean play. "Scenes in one" will follow "full stages." In plainer English, this means that episodes which can be enacted before a single drop will occupy the time, while heavy settings are being made behind the curtain for something which requires space, properties and furnishings. Those participating in the scenes from plays, in all, will number nearly [illegible].

The production in general is under the direction of Frank C. Egan. The stage director is Sedley Brown. Florence Dobinson and Alfred Allen have had much to do in the preparation of this series of representations, likewise.

The dances have been prepared by Mme. Matildita, and the dueling scenes reflect the fencing of Richard [illegible].

There will not only be an orchestra, but a chorus, under the direction of Thomas Taylor Drill, dean of the Egan School's music faculty.

Preceding the dramatic portion of the afternoon there will be read—by Miss Helen Eddy—a prologue especially written by Miss Amanda Mathews, who has delayed a trip to Europe a week or more, in order to be present upon this occasion.

There will be a processional pageant, called "Shakespeare's Dream," embodying all the characters from Puck to Lear, and participated in by about 100 young persons in costume.

The numbers, in order, and with the principals, are as follows: Church scene from "Much Ado," Miss [illegible] and Mr. Backus; the [illegible] scene from "Anthony and Cleopatra," Misses Sterling and Chenoweth; the scene between Hubert and Arthur, in "King John," Mr. Backus and Miss [illegible]; the forest scene from "As You Like It," Miss Baird, Miss [illegible] and Mr. Keller; the banishment scene from the same play, Miss [illegible], Miss Cornwall and Mr. Longstreth; the closet scene from "Hamlet," Miss Sterling and Mr. Calhoun; the "troth" scene from "The Merchant of Venice," Miss Mace and Miss Haskins; the quarrel scene from "Julius Caesar," Mr. Pallette and Mr. Calhoun; Juliet's scene with her nurse, Miss Flood and Miss Mace; a scene from "Twelfth Night," Miss Springer and Miss Courtell; the sleep-walking scene from "Macbeth," Miss Foss; the trial scene from "King Henry VIII," Miss Caldwell, Mr. Pallette and Mr. Neff; the mad scene from "Hamlet," Miss Chenoweth and Miss Sterling; the arbor scene from "Much Ado," Miss Jones, Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Loranger; the dream scene from "King Richard III," Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Pallette; the proposal scene from "The Taming of the Shrew," Miss Surridge, Mr. Alexander, Miss Haskins and Miss Neitz; the borrowing scene from "The Merchant of Venice," Messrs. Keller, Longstreth and Mullen; the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," Miss Charles and Mr. Neff; the potion scene from the same play, Miss Courtell; the play from "Midsummer Night's Dream," Messrs. Wood, Backus, Pallette, Radovich, Longstreth and Keller; the "Quality of Mercy" speech from "The Merchant of Venice," Miss Rosin.

MEN AND THINGS ACROSS THE SEA.

China's Passing Pigtails.

[Christian Science Monitor:] Chinese and the pigtail have always seemed inseparable ideas, and the fact that today scarcely a queue is to be seen in any of the great cities of China is more than strange; it is the last page of a volume of one book of history and the title page of the next. Everyone knew that with the Manchu dynasty the queue must go, but few people could realize what it really meant, and that the discarding would be so universal. The transformation which has been effected seemed impossible to those who knew China.

Not so long ago a man without a queue was looked upon with suspicion and carefully watched. Now any man arriving in any of the big cities from the country with a pigtail finds trouble in store for him before he leaves the steamboat wharf or the railway station. More than likely he will lose his queue before he goes a hundred yards, for gangs of youthful reformers peramubulate the streets on the lookout for stray queues, and should they meet an unfortunate individual wearing one he is surrounded and given the option of proceeding to a barber and having his tresses cut or having them forcibly removed.

The differences that have followed the abolition of the queue are remarkable. Some men get their heads shaved, giving them the appearance of Buddhist priests; others merely clip the queues and present a very untidy appearance. The worst effect, however, is seen in dress. Before, a well-dressed Chinaman in his silk gown was a dignified figure. Some there are who look stately and dignified in complete western habiliments, but the change at present is not altogether an improvement so far as the general appearance is concerned. Those who have adopted European garb in its entirety look tolerably well, but those who combine a European cap with Chinese clothes have as yet no idea of the fitness of things in dress.

Berlin's Model Sanitation.

"The system of sewage disposal in Berlin is admirable," writes Consul-General Thackara. "No sewage is permitted to be discharged into the rivers or canals that pass through the city. It is all pumped through large pipes to the city sewage farms (rieselfelder) located within a few miles to the north and south of Berlin. The farms have an area of about 40,000 acres, of which about 6200 acres are leased in small holdings to farmers and the remainder cultivated by the municipal authorities.

"While the city administration supervises the cleaning of the streets, the disposal of the sweepings and refuse gathered is left to various contractors. Some of these concerns have purchased barren and unproductive land to be used as dumping grounds, and as the garbage contains principally sand and horse manure, it is exceedingly valuable as a fertilizer and filler for such lands.

"By law and by municipal police regulations, houseowners are obliged to provide for the removal of the waste from their buildings. For this purpose they have formed an association that includes most of the owners in Berlin. This association has made a contract for thirty years, twenty-one of which are still to run, with a limited liability company, which was formed for the purpose of disposing of household and other waste. They have erected a building for the purpose of handling the garbage, disinfecting it, and separating the different articles, such as metal, rags and bones. All the refuse is then disposed of for fattening hogs, fertilizing, paper making or for grading purposes, etc.

"Ingeniously contrived wagons are used in collecting the garbage. In every building large sheet iron tanks or buckets are placed. The daily refuse is thrown into these tanks, which are capable of holding 100 or 200 pounds of ashes and garbage, and which close with a lid. The ashes and garbage are placed in separate receptacles. On certain mornings of the week the tanks are collected by wagons accompanied by three or four men. The wagons are large and tightly covered. A chain elevator is arranged so that a bucket can be placed upon a shelf on the side of the wagon and then raised and dumped into the wagon without permitting any of the dust to escape.

"Ash barrels or other such receptacles are not permitted on the streets in Berlin. The experiment of burning the organic waste of Berlin was tried, but it proved costly and unsuccessful and was given up."

Lord Milner.

[Christian Science Monitor:] Viscount Milner, who has just been made chairman of the council of Toynbee hall, was, in the early '80s when he was fresh from Balliol College, one of the many able young men who served under Arnold Toynbee in the cause of social service in the east end of London. Lord Milner, in a well known memoir, expressed his profound admiration and affection for the founder of Toynbee hall. He attributed to its influence a very direct and important bearing on his own career. In his earlier days, he admitted that a want of keenness was one of his besetting failings. Toynbee hall, however, seems not only to have cured him of that, but to have made him one of the keenest workers in the service of the empire.

Japan's Great Quay.

The dock which is under construction at the naval port of Sasebo measures at the bottom, 229 feet more than the largest one in Yokosuka, 286 feet more than that in Kure, and 49 feet more than the one of the Mitsubishi dock yard at Nagasaki. In depth it exceeds those of the other docks from eight to ten feet. The absolute construction was finished about June last, and the dredging of the entrance is now being pushed forward, and will be finished about June in this year.

There are two more docks in course of construction at the naval base, and an extensive quay is also being built there, which is designed to accommodate seven of the largest battleships at one time. This requires an outlay of yen 1,789,600 ($894,800) and eight years' work. It is said to be the largest engineering feat yet undertaken by Japan.

No Sale of Player Pianos Ever Held Means More to Music Lovers than These KIMBALLS

RETAIL VALUE today depends upon volume of manufacture and quick distribution. The W. W. Kimball Company are the largest manufacturers of pianos, player pianos and organs in the world, and they have been leaders in the pneumatic field for years, their player action being intimately connected with their celebrated pipe organ mechanism. In fact, they are one and the same family, and no one will dispute their title of AMERICA'S GREATEST PIPE ORGAN BUILDERS. The Eilers Music House are the largest retailers, buying and distributing through forty different stores. In securing the wonderful KIMBALL 88-NOTE PLAYER for the entire Coast, we contracted to sell 1000 of these instruments within the next few months, placing the largest order for players of this grade ever given. In order to fulifill our agreement we are going to sell a limited number at the above price, sacrificing our profit to volume.

$100 Reward—Tum-Tum Music Eliminated

The exclusive player action and operating devices found only in the Kimball player piano have entirely done away with the mechanical effect heard in ordinary players, and we will pay the above sum to any person who can honestly say that the operation of a Kimball player is not fully as musical as a human performer.

Silent Pianos Exchanged

If you own a silent, useless piano, come and see us, and we will show you how to fill your home with music at a very slight additional expense. Wouldn't you like to hear the old familiar songs of childhood—the popular melodies of the day, and see the young people and their friends dancing to the strains of a beautiful waltz?

Free Concerts Every Afternoon at 2:30—By the Factory Representative.

Call and bring your friends. You are more than welcome, whether you buy or not. If you are one of the few who are prejudiced against player pianos, we will guarantee to cure you. There is quite a difference between the KIMBALL and other players.

What the Kimball 88-Note Player-Piano Does for Your Home.

When you have placed the KIMBALL PLAYER PIANO in your home, from that moment your home is a musical center. You, yourself, become a pianist without a day's practice. From that day you hear in your own home the best musical compositions that have ever been written. Nothing is denied you.

Instead of the home being dreary and dull and uninteresting, it becomes joyous and attractive when it is equipped with the KIMBALL PLAYER.

It is the best investment you have ever made in your life. It brings returns that cannot be counted in dollars. It will make all the members of your family look for their pleasures in their own home instead of outside. It is at once the most pleasure-giving, the most instructive, the most enjoyable musical instrument you can possess. It will be a musical education in itself to every member of the home.

Exclusive Kimball Features

De Reszke, Walter Damrosch, and fifty others.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST PSYCHIC
BYRON L. STANLEY.
Others may come and others may go, Byron L. Stanley always remains at his own home, BETWEEN SECOND AND THIRD STS., NEAR ANGELS' FLIGHT.
247—S. HILL STREET—247
READINGS, 50c TO $1.00.
Former Prices $2, $3, $5.
ALL READINGS REDUCED FOR SHORT TIME.
BYRON L. STANLEY
fully appreciates that in this day of sensational advertisements there are more false claims and misrepresentations chaperoned through the columns of the daily press than the most hypential tongue could utter in a lifetime, until one cannot be blamed for doubting almost everything they read. Therefore he says to you—come to him this very day and let him give you a complete reading, telling you every hope, fear or ambition, better than you could explain yourself. He will tell you the bad as well as the good; keeping nothing hidden from you. He will tell you everything upon matters of love, marriage, divorce, business, health; in fact, he will read your life like an open book.
Before you go into anything of importance or undertake anything serious—in business or love, or marriage, or before you make any change—you should consult the master mind of psychics.
ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO PSYCHIC THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU.
DON'T FORGET
The name STANLEY, a double guarantee. See the real life reader who really tells what you desire to know or no charge. A foolish weakling only will pay for a reading that gives no benefit. Stop and think.
Don't struggle with a burden you can divide. A troubled mind begets a morbid conscience. Sympathy, consolation and timely advice heal the worst of wounds. Be advised and relieved of anxiety.
Realizing that this city has been overrun with pretenders, and that many of its best citizens are anxious to visit a genuine psychic, Mr. Stanley has decided to place his consultation fee within the reach of all.
Finding many deserving people who were not able to pay a large fee he has decided for a short time to place his readings within the reach of all at live and let-live prices. So if you wish to take advantage of this offer, call at once.
If you contemplate consulting a psychic several things should be taken into consideration—ABILITY, the HONESTY of methods, the FAIRNESS of dealings, the HIGHER degree of work, the ACCURACY of each prediction, the COMMON SENSE used with it, the INTEREST taken in each case, the RESPECT shown to each caller, the fact of SECRECY in consultation, the FEE charged for services. You hear the truth and nothing but the truth.
BEWARE of pretenders and partially-developed mediums. They copy his advertisements and in many smaller cities use his name. Please remember BYRON L. STANLEY can be seen only at his Los Angeles office.
To whom it may concern: We take great pleasure in recommending our brother, PROF. STANLEY, as a life reader of good standing, having to our knowledge been fully developed in all the various phases of mental phychism. We cordially recommend him to any individual or society that may need his advices.

PERSONAL—
MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST. (over Owl Drug Store,)
by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.
The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigation along psychological lines, that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.
PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.
Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions, and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.
MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.
HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

PERSONAL—
PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,
NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.
305½ S. SPRING, NEAR THIRD ST.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 28 YEARS.
PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc., also your good periods coming—giving dates of these events for the future.
PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Mary Mannering, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, Ethel Barrymore, etc.
PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED WORK with his trained judgment must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.
PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST, and WITH EACH PALM READING gives also an ASTROLOGICAL READING.
DR. J. A. LARSEN writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life; I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States."
FREDERICK WARDE says: "Your reading was most SATISFACTORY. Your knowledge and skill is REMARKABLE."
MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK says: "I was greatly surprised to find how many of your warnings were well founded. YOUR READING WAS MOST MARVELOUS."
MME. BALDWIN writes: "The Horoscope you wrote for me is absolutely CORRECT. My friend, MME. NORDICA, the singer, first showed me her Horoscope, and recommended your work to me. Inclosed find check for four more Horoscopes—all friends of mine."
The interpretation of a Horoscope is a fine art; the percentage of "GENUINE" astrologers is exceedingly small. To know a little of astrology out of books, and to be a skilfully trained, EXPERIENCED ASTROLOGER, are two entirely different things. Therefore, in this work, it depends largely WHO it is that reads you as to the RESULTS obtained.
PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and hand reading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention. Strict privacy. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. Therefore HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.
Daily and evening; Sunday, 10 to 2.

Motorcycles.

GOOD BYE BICYCLE.
LET A 4 H.P. THOR MOTORCYCLE DO THE WORK.
$190 $190 $190

The fact that 80 per cent. of all Thor motorcycles sold are being used for every-day service, proves positively their supremacy as the most reliable motorcycle you can buy.

The great demand for a better-than-the-ordinary motorcycle to be used for daily, hard service, in the hands of R. F. D. carriers, inspectors, collectors, salesmen, buyers, deliverymen and all other professions necessitating the covering of a great deal of ground at a low cost, made it necessary for the Thor factory to design this model as one being best adapted for these purposes.

That the 4 h. p. model has made good, we have but to point to the fact that it has won every important endurance contest ever held.

Every business man should have a THOR Motorcycle, as it is the cheapest, most convenient and economical investment that he can make. It is ready at a moment's notice—rain or shine—to make quick deliveries to any part of the city.

With a tandem attachment an extra person can be carried for long trips, which makes it ideal evenings or Sundays when you are on pleasure bound. Owing to the practicability of Thor Motorcycles they are classed as a business necessity.

THE MOTORCYCLE SUPREME.
5 H.P.—THOR WHITE FLYER—7 H.P.

Call and see the motorcycle that has created a sensation in Los Angeles.

We are receiving orders daily for future delivery. Be wise and order now.

Some of the features are: Two oiling systems; 28x2½ inch tires—very low saddle position with the new "No-Jar" Seatpost; new and original spring fork; wide mud guards; double jet carbureter; Bosch magneto; Thor transmission—a combination of chain and gear—will outwear and outpull any other type, and in addition is guaranteed for 30,000 miles.

Thor free engine clutch runs in oil, and enables the rider to start on the steepest hill, no fiber or asbestos lining to burn up and cause additional expense.

The THOR is the ideal motorcycle for business or pleasure.

We stand ready and willing to demonstrate the THOR SUPREME. Let us show you.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS—
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted.

WHEN EVERY ONE OF THE BIG BAND MASTERS SAY THAT A BAND EQUIPPED WITH CONN INSTRUMENTS WILL PROVE AT LEAST TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. MORE EFFICIENT THAN WHEN USING THE INSTRUMENTS OF ANY OTHER MANUFACTURER THERE MUST BE SOMETHING IN IT. THE CONN INSTRUMENTS PLAY EASIER, HAVE A BIGGER VOLUME OF TONE, AND ARE IN BETTER TUNE THAN ANY OTHER INSTRUMENTS TO BE HAD ELSEWHERE. TRY THEM.

Mr. K. G. Brown is one of many Saxophonists who have found the Conn superior. His letter is a very good representative one of many received daily. He also represents the business musician, and the fact that he uses the Conn Saxaphone for all sorts of musical engagements gives him ample experience and capability to judge the instrument as to its merits.

Delta, Colo.
March 15, 1912.

Mr. C. G. Conn,
Elkhart, Ind.

Dear Sir:—

Your letter of March 9th is received. I have been intending to write you for some time past and express my appreciation of the Melody Saxophone I purchased from you some months ago, but I have put it off from time to time and consequently neglected adding my testimonial to the many you already have on the fine instruments you turn out of your factory.

First of all, I cannot begin to properly express the great pleasure I have had from my "Saxophone." I use it at home with the piano, in orchestra work, both in concert, dance and theater work, and in band, and it has more than paid for itself already. Now that I have become used to handling it and become somewhat proficient in my playing, I realize what a fine quality of tone it possesses and how favorably it compares with the Saxophones of other makes that I come in contact with. There are several of the Buffet Saxophones here and I can assure you that they do not compare with mine in tone and quality or ease of execution.

One of the boys is sorry he did not know about the Conn when he purchased his Buffet and another is almost persuaded to trade his Buffet in and get a Conn. I believe that Conn instruments more than any other make gain their friends and admirers simply by seeing and hearing them.

To say that I am pleased with my instrument is only a poor attempt at telling a long story.

With best wishes for your continued success, I am,

Yours truly,
K. G. BROWN.

VAN NUYS LANKERSHIM
VALLEY LANDS.
Offer opportunities extraordinary in that they are proven lands for the successful growing of all products, of both the tropical and semi-tropical varieties so profitable to Southern California land owners. The valley's soil, water and climatic conditions are unsurpassed. The soil varies from sandy loam to decomposed granite, being absolutely free from alkali or hard pan. It is easily worked, and all products are raised without irrigation. The lands are located in a cove, surrounded by mountains or watersheds, assuring at all times an abundance of moisture in the soil. They are well adapted to the growing of citrus and deciduous fruits, berries and general farm products. Aside from these lands having all natural advantages, money has not been spared in transforming them into valley of beauty and grandeur. The 16-mile boulevard, with its 30-foot parking on both sides, in connection with the new county road to Los Angeles, offers easy access to eager markets.
THESE LANDS ARE SUBDIVIDED INTO TRACTS OF 1, 2, 5, 10 TND 20 ACRES, AND ARE YOURS FOR $325 AN ACRE AND UP.
THE TOWNS OF VAN NUYS AND OWENSMOUTH offer exceptionaly good opportunities for the establishment of mercantile houses, and desirable locations are to be had at prices that are more than reasonable, when you consider the wonderful future of this chosen garden spot. If you are not the proud possessor of some of these acres, we can't help but think that you have not taken advantage of the opportunity that is justly yours. See us regarding these lots and lands, and arrange for appointment to visit this district and make your own investigation.
We make two automobile trips to the valley daily, and our
MR. DERNIER
will personally accompany you and make you fully acquainted with prices, terms, conditions, etc.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

Due to a misstep whil applying the brakes to a box car, Krank Dow, 50 years old, a brakeman employed in the Santa Fe yards, was thrown under the trucks at Sixth street and Santa Fe avenue, last night, and died before a physician could be summoned. According to witnesses of the accident, Dow endeavored to stand on a small platform at the end of the car when a sudden ulrch caused him to release his hold. The body was sent to Bresee Brothers morgue.

CRIPPLED FOR LIFE IN AN ACCIDENT

Eye-Witness of Tragedy Horrified by Fate of Friend—Tells of Struggle.

"When I saw poor Joe fall under the street car, I thought he was surely killed," said a business man to a friend as they watched a pale-faced young man hobbling painfully along the street with the aid of two crutches. "Perhaps it would have been better for him if the accident had been fatal, for now he'll have to drag along the rest of his life a hopeless cripple, a burden to his friends and relatives, and know that he will never be of any more use in this world.

"It was a spree at the club that caused it all. We left there together about 1 o'clock in the morning, both feeling pretty mellow. We heard our car coming up the street and made a run for it, but Joe was so full that he didn't know where he was going. He staggered right in front of the car and the next minute both of his feet were gone and he was the wreck that you see him now.

"I tell you the shock sobered me up mighty quick. When I got home, after looking out for poor Joe, I told my wife all about it, and said that I was never going to take another drink. She looked a little skeptical, for I'd sworn off before and always started to drink again. But this time I meant it, although I never dreamed how impossible it would be.

"There were times during the next month of struggle that I wished that I had been hit by the car instead of Joe.

"Let me tell you how I finally won out. The tip may help you some day. I thought at first that all I would have to do would be to quit drinking and I would be all right, but I didn't realize what a hold it had got on me. I suppose that during that month I gave my wife cause for divorce a dozen times. I was mean, cross and irritable. Little things at the office or at home annoyed me and I would cuss like a blue streak—my nerves were all shot to pieces, you see. Moreover, I became a coward and a sneak with myself and my associates. I told them all that I had stopped drinking, but sometimes, when the craving became too strong, I would sneak off to a little saloon where nobody knew me and take a drink. I'd think nobody knew it but they must have smelled the stuff on my breath and put me down for a liar. I could no more stop drinking than a man with a chill can stop shivering.

"Just the same I tried hard, although the thing seemed hopeless, until one day the craving left me all at once. I thought I did it myself until my wife told me what she had done, two days later. She had been giving me medicine secretly, which she had secured from Dr. A. N. White, an Inebriety Specialist. It was only a preparatory treatment and she told me the effect wouldn't last, but it straightened me up so that I could see she was talking good sense when she urged me to take the White-Cross Home-Cure voluntarily, which she had all ready, waiting for just the moment I should be ready for it.

"She struck me just at the right time and I started in that night. The cure took me just three days, wasn't a bit unpleasant, and since that time I've never had the slightest desire for a drink. I feel sure now that I'll never be a cripple like Joe, a lunatic like another friend I had, or a criminal like Harry, who was sent over to the pen the other day, all the result of drink.

"You take my tip. I know that you drink a little now and think it doesn't hurt you, but it will down you in the end as sure as fate. Before you are crippled mentally, morally, or physically, write to Dr. White, 509 Tabor Bldg., Denver, Colo., and get his booklet telling of his 21 year's experience in curing over 12,000 cases and of a preparatory treatment which can be secretly administered and for which no charge is made."

WILL CONTINUE EFFORT.

Subcommittee of Operators and Miners Conferring on Coal Strike Adjourns to New York.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) April 13.—When the subcommittee of miners and operators, who are trying to reach an agreement, adjourned their session today, it was to meet in New York Tuesday afternoon. This arrangement is believed to have significance.

Certain matters in connection with the demand for recognition of the union cropped up that can be better handled with the committee in session in New York, where most of the heads of the coal companies have their officers and where all records are kept.

A report that the committee had about reached an agreement could not be confirmed today.

An imposing aggregation were the Y.M.C.A. Euterpean Minstrels as their seventy members filled stage and orchestra pit at the Auditorium, last night, presenting a varied programme which sustained the interest of a large audience from overture to athletic stunt at the close.

The most noticeable feature was the performance of the orchestra of twenty-seven instruments, most of whose players are among the younger members of the organization, and whose response to the trying olio of a minstrel show reflected credit upon themselves and Conductor Mead.

The ensemble overture was well executed, with promise of more virility in a future repetition. Distinctive hits were made by W. H. Ruggles in "Constantly," V. T. Malott with the "London Scream," and the Lyric quartette in "Down Mobile."

SIERRA MADRE PLANNING ITS ANNUAL FLOWER SHO

SIERRA MADRE April 13.—The second annual Flower Show, under the auspices of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club, will be held here April 18, 19 and 20, and the entire city will be in holiday attire. Crowds of visitors are expected from Los Angeles and surrounding towns to attend the festival of the fair foothill city, and large house parties have been arranged to entertain out-of-town guests. Alluring attractions will be offered to the public from the time of the formal opening Thursday, at 2 p.m., until the close of the beautiful flower cotillion Saturday night. As little time remains until the great event, final preparations are going on with a rush and the committees are working day and night. The general enthusiasm has been stimulated by the generous subscription list, and the Festival Committee feel assured of splendid financial support.

Little Miss Margaret Allen has been chosen by the committee in charge of the Flower Show to be queen of the festival. The choice was made by committee instead of by election as was done last year. Maids-of-honor chosen to attend the queen will be, Eleanor Hinton, Margaret Bravinder, Hallett Johnson, Loraine Wright, Helen Seeley and Dorothy Mitchell. Thursday night at 8 p.m., coronation exercises will be held at the clubhouse, and the fair maiden, surrounded by her attendants, will be crowned Queen of the Flower Festival. On Master Sam Graham falls the honor of placing the crown upon her brow. After these exercises, a short address by Mayor C. W. Jones, will be given, followed by the distribution of the various prizes by the queen. A musical programme will be furnished during the evening by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Green, Mr. J. A. Patterson, Mrs. H. I. Hawxhurst, Miss Jean Craig, Miss Elsie Caskey and Miss Dorothy Humphries.

A notable feature of the flower festival will be the street parade, held Saturday, at 1:30 p.m. This is done under the direction of Mrs. A. S. Mead. Already a long list of entries has been made, and the pageant will be a display of which Sierra Madre may well be proud. The following classed will be entered: Private automobile, private conveyance, equestrian; business house, organization, clubs and boards.

Splendid attractions will be offered at the club in the way of musical programmes for the entire three days, under the able direction of Mrs. Edgar W. Camp, an dentertainment will be offered the afternoons and evenings during the festival by local and out-of-town talent. Those to take part in the afternoon programmes are Miss Margaret Wetherby, pianist; Miss Jean Craig, soloist; Miss Ruth Fox, pianist; Miss Mabel Caley, violinist; Miss Gertrude Cook, soloist; Herbert Ingraham, 'cellist; Bruce McGill, soloist. The O. U. quartette will also be heard in several numbers. The well-known De Nubila orchestra of Los Angeles will furnish the music Friday evening, together with character songs by Misses Dorothy Humphries and Marjorie Rice. Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m., a cantata will be given by the school children under the direction of Mrs. E. T. Pierce, Miss Voger and Prof. Maltbie.

Last, but not least, comes the dancing party and beautiful flower cotillion Saturday night, which marks the close of the flower festival. The cotillion leaders will be Mrs. Edgar W. Camp and G. Hallett Johnson; Miss Helen Morrow and W. J. Lawless. Much interest has been displayed in this part of the programme, especially by the Sierra Madre younger set. A large canvas tent has been erected in front of the clubhouse, stretching from the building to Central avenue, to shelter the numerous booths and tables to contain the floral exhibits. This department will be presided over by Mrs. W. H. Ingraham. Here will be displayed cut flowers, floral baskets and potted plants. FOR SALE—

NOTICE OF SALE.
NOTICE OF SALE.
MY LOSS YOUR GAIN.

Notice to the public. Are you really in the market for a good buy in an apartment house? If you are I have one that I would buy if I was in the market. NOW THE POINT IS, why would I purchase this particular one? Here are the reasons, first the location suits me, second the house is absolutely modern, well built, finished, arranged and divided. Third, the lease is for ten years at $6.75 per room, no cost for lobby and parlor, I could not get as good a house today for $7.50 per room therefore the lease is worth having isn't it? Fourth, the house and furniture are only 4 months old, the furniture was bought from Barker Bros., and I will it to you at cost, on this basis you would be making in cash not less than $4500. The only thing to do is to come and see the place, and make your own investigation. Owner is absolutely going to sell, will consider one-half cash, or some cash and some exchange.

BUSINESS INVESTMENTS—

THE PEERLESS BRICK & ARTIFICIAL Stone Co. have completed their new factory and are in shape to handle the enormous business that they have been holding in check until they were in a position to handle the same.

When the Peerless Company started the manufacture of their concrete material, they had no idea that they were going to meet with the public favor as quick as they did, but when they saw that their factory was not going to accommodate the business, they at once began the reconstruction and have the same completed at the present writing.

During the past month this company has not advertised nor have they exerted themselves in stock selling, because they wanted to have things in full running order and be ready to accept orders for material, as well; before disposing of any more stock.

Of course, the stock has advanced in price during the past month, but it is still selling at a figure that should prove very alluring to the man who is looking for an investment in some local industrial enterprise, where he can watch his money grow and at the same time see the company actually in operation and where he knows that he is protected in every possible way.

We want you to come in and examine our books, examine our product and factory, anl then see whether or not you think we have something that will make an enormous dividend payer and all of the dividends como from the improvements in Los Angeles.

It is a pleasure to show you our product, whether you care to invest or not, we want to get acquainted with you at any rate.

See the display rooms and offices at 318-19-20-21 Lissner Bldg.

PEERLESS BRICK & ARTIFICIAL STONE CO.

AN ABSOLUTELY SAFE INVESTMENT. Timid investors, here is an offer for you that has never been equaled. Why? Investigate and we will show you how secure we are. We are offering you a chance to participate in the profits of a business that is making more money today than any other manufacturing business in the United States, viz., the manufacturing of motion pictures. We are a company incorporated under the laws of California. Our officers are experts in this line. They receive no salary. They've got to make a dollar for you before they make a dollar for themselves. We are offering a small block of our stock for sale to fill contracts and extend business. For every hundred dollars you invest with us we will secure you by depositing in your bank a bond of a corporation that has twenty million dollars of assets. If we don't make you 500 per cent. in dividends the bond is yours. Only a very little stock for sale, so apply at once. Address T, box 46, TIMES OFFICE.

"HOME BUILDERS" GUARANTY SHARES have many privileges which distinguish them from the shares sold without the guaranty. They are convertible into cash under the written terms of the Guaranty and are assured an earning of at least 8 per cent. per annum. They may also be used in the purchase of property or other securities held by the Company and have a standing loan value of 50 per cent. of the current selling price. This Guaranty is given only to original purchasers by "HOME BUILDERS GENERAL AGENCY," who issues it. Assets amounting to over $150,000 are held to assure the fulfillment of this Guaranty.

"HOME BUILDERS" stock, whether Guaranty shares or not, is the best investment in the local market today. If you can buy "HOME BUILDERS" shares without the Guaranty for less than the price of Guaranty shares it is a fortunate purchase, and will yield you a good dividend, but when you buy Guaranty shares you have an added protection and will participate in the profits of the GENERAL AGENCY which the other shareholders do not possess. Guaranty shares are sold only by "HOME BUILDERS GENERAL AGENCY," 129 South Broadway. Correspondence and inquiry solicited. Phones: Home 10662, Main 600.

JUST TOMORROW.

After tomorrow the price of CONSOLIDATED REALTY COMPANY treasury shares will be $10 higher. They are now $150; Tuesday (16th) they will be $160 each, with 7 per cent. income in gold guaranteed; terms, 10 per cent. down and $5 a share monthly.

As an investment there is nothing safer than these shares. They are founded upon inside business properties in Los Angeles, bought right and property managed in the direction of greatest assured growth.

Contemplating investors making application in person or by letters dated tomorrow may have the remainder of the week to confirm or reject their application for shares at the $150 price.

The advance from $160 to $175 for shares under the 7 per cent. guarantee will be made by the time of the June dividend. Apply to GEO. S. BATTY, 402 West Sixth st., Consolidated Realty Building, ground floor, Los Angeles, Cal.

PUT ON ARMOR FOR BOOK WAR.

Teachers' Association Opens Its Campaign.

Propose Amendment in Place of Shanahan Bill.

The Shasta Senator Declares He's Investigating.

In a five-hour session replete with oratorical roasts for the Shanahan free text-book proposed constitutional amendment and sarcastic jabs at the "book trust," the Council of Education of the California Teachers' Association, which met at the Normal School yesterday, launched a campaign in opposition to the Shasta Senator's pet measure.

As a first step in the fight, the joint text-book and relation to the State Board of Education committees of the body brought in a report ignoring entirely the existence of the Shanahan measure. They created an "educator and teachers'" amendment which provides for free text-books for all school pupils, the selection of books by local adoption, purchase of books in the open market, and creates a Board of Education, to be appointed by the Governor, which shall have complete power over school affairs including the selection of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Though Shanahan has been present at all sessions of the council and spoke several times in behalf of his measure, only one vote of "no" was registered against the report of the committees. The report received twenty-eight "ayes."

The Shanahan proposed amendment does not provide for free text-books for High School students and calls for a unified book system throughout the State, to be furnished by the State Printing Office.

Following the passage of the new proposed amendment steps were at once taken to launch the campaign of opposition to the Shanahan measure and to place the "teachers'" amendment before the public.

By a unanimous vote Superintendent Keppel of the Los Angeles county schools was empowered to select a committee to manage the campaign and to obtain the 31,000 signatures necessary to place the new amendment on the ballot for submission to the voters at the November election.

TEACHERS' AMENDMENT.

The amendment as passed by the council and signed by Will C. Wood of Alameda, Duncan MacKinnon, superintendent of the San Diego city schools; Mark Keppel, superintendent of the Los Angeles county school system; Lewis B. Avery, principal of the San Jose schools, and E. Morris Cox, deputy superintendent of the Oakland schools, is as follows:

A State Board of Education consisting of seven members shall be appointed by the Governor for a term of nine years; provided, however, that the members of the State Board of Education who shall first be appointed hereunder shall be appointed for two, three, four, six, seven, eight and nine years, respectively and shall take office upon the first Monday after the first day of January, 1913.

For the term beginning on the first Monday after the first day of January, 1915, and every four years thereafter the State Board of Education shall appoint a State Superintendent of Public Instruction at a salary of not less than the salary of the Secretary of State.

The State Board of Education shall appoint such educational and clerical assistants as may be necessary. One of the educational assistants shall be assistant superintendent of industrial educational.

The members of the State Board of Education and appointees of the State Board of Education shall be subject to the provisions of the recall. The Legislature shall provide for a county board of education in each county in the State. The county superintendents and the county boards of education shall have control of the examination of teachers and of the granting of teachers' certificates within their respective jurisdiction. All text-books for use in any of the puublic schools in any county, or city, or city and county, or high school district, in the State shall be adopted by the board of education of such county, or city, or city and county, or high school district. The text-books, when so adopted, shall continue in use not less than four years thereafter, and the cost of such text-books shall be defrayed from a separate text-book fund provided by the Legislature, and said text-books shall be furnished free to all pupils in the public schools of the State in such manner as shall be prescribed by the Legislature.

INVESTIGATION IS BEGUN.

Angered because of the charges of Shanahan that the opponents of his measure are either consciously or unconsciously agents of the "book trust," the Council passed a resolution ordering the chair to appoint a committee to appear before the Legislative Investigating Committee to aid in the investigation of the so-called monopoly. This committee will be instructed to obtain and give all information on the subject to the committee.

The committee, as announced by Chairman Keppel, is: W. H. Langdon, Modesto; Superintendent W. H. Mackay, Chico; Superintendent W. C. Woods, Alameda; Deputy Superintendent A. J. Cloud, San Francisco, and Superintendent J. H. Francis, Los Angeles.

Shanahan, who was present, took the matter in fun, and as he excused himself from the room, shouted: "That's all right. We are investigating, anyway, and will continue to investigate, but this resolution won't hurt any."

A report of the Committee on Moral Education, recommending a close enforcement of the anti-smoking and drinking laws among youths, moral talks to the pupils, closer relations between teacher and pupil, separation of the children by sexes and classes in the playgrounds, and the reading of excerpts from the Bible by the consent of the different churches, was passed.

The board of editors of the Sierra Educator, the official publication of the association, were selected as follows: Dr. A. F. Lange, dean of the University of California, Berkeley; H. S. Cheney, superintendent of the Orange county schools; E. W. Lindsay, superintendent of Fresno county schools; Duncan MacKinnon, superintendent of the San Diego city schools, and Mrs. Clara Partridge, principal of the Berkeley High School.

Directors of the association elected were: Miss Lula B. White, superintendent of the Shasta county schools;

INVESTIGATION IS BEGUN.

Angered because of the charges of Shanahan that the opponents of his measure are either consciously or unconsciously agents of the "book trust," the Council passed a resolution ordering the chair to appoint a committee to appear before the Legislative Investigating Committee to aid in the investigation of the so-called monopoly. This committee will be instructed to obtain and give all information on the subject to the

The committee, as announced by Chairman Keppel, is: W. H. Langdon, Superintendent W. H. Chico; Superintendent W. Alameda; Deputy Superintendent A. J. Cloud, San Francisco; Superintendent J. H. Francis, Los Angeles.

Shanahan, who was present, took the matter in fun, and as he excused himself from the room, shouted: "That's all right. We are investigating anyway, and will continue to but this resolution won't

A report of the Committee on Moral Education, recommending a close enforcement of the anti-smoking and gambling laws among youths, moral training to the pupils, closer relations between teacher and pupil, separation of the children by sexes and in the playgrounds, and the reading of excerpts from the Bible with the consent of the different churches, was passed.

The board of editors of the Sierra Educational News, the official publication of the association, were selected as follows: Dr. A. F. HISTORIC GROUND SOLD.

Eight Hundred Acres of Old Pico Ranch Near Whittier to Be Cut Into Small Tracts.

A tract of 828 acres of land, comprising all of the Charles Prager Estate in and adjoining the city of Whittier, was sold yesterday by the heirs of the estate to Herman Cohn for a reported consideration of $200,000. The sale was negotiated through the law firm of Trask, Norton & Brown.

Four hundred acres of the property is declared to be especially adapted to the growing of oranges and lemons. This portion of the holding will be immediately subdivided into five-acre lots and placed on the market. The tract is the last of the large properties especially adapted to citrus fruits to remain unsubdivided in the vicinity of Whittier. Two hundred acres of the tract is bottom land and about 200 acres of it lies in the hills adjoining Whittier on the northwest. The East Whittier water system covers the entire property.

The Home Realty Company of Whittier, of which A. H. Gregg is manager, will have the exclusive sales agency for the tract.

The property is a part of the old Pio Pico rancho, which originally consisted of 3900 acres. The ground is historical, having been the camping place of the Mexican army just before the memorable battle in which Stockton won California for the United States.

MORE THAN DOUBLE.

Building Valuation for April to Date Far in Excess of That for Same Period Last Year.

Building operations to date for the month of April represent an expenditure of practically $1,400,000, as compared with $645,294 for the corresponding period of last year. There is a striking gain also in the number of permits issued, over 600 permits having been taken out from April 1 to the close of business yesterday, a figure representing an increase of over 150 over the first thirteen days of April, 1911.

The largest permit of the past week was that issued for the construction of the magnificent apartment hotel to be erected by Hugh W. Bryson on Wilshire boulevard near Westlake Park, a perspective and account of which recently appeared exclusively in The Times. This building will cost in excess of $300,000, without the furnishings.

To date for the year, 4083 permits have been taken out, these representing a total valuation of $7,640,304. From April 1 to April 12, inclusively, last year, the permits numbered 3009 and represented an outlay for building of $5,882,312. The officials of the building department predict a valuation total of over $25,000,000 for the entire year. Already all previous records have been completely eclipsed.

APPEALS TO HIGHEST COURT.

San Pedro Man, Indicated For Smuggling, Will Apply For Bail—Point Concerning the Testimony.

Judge Wellborn will be asked tomorrow to fix the bail of Harry Lynch of San Pedro, indicted by the Federal Grand Jury in San Francisco for aiding and abetting the smuggling of Chinese, pending his appeal to the United States Supreme Court from an order of United States Commissioner Van Dyke, ordering his removal to the Bay City for trial.

Lynch, it is alleged, was mixed up in the trip of the "Morning Star," owned by the Cerise brothers, that landed a cargo of twenty-three Chinese contrabands at the Franklin street wharf, Oakland, March 2. It is asserted that the evidence against him is strong, and in the hearing of the removal proceedings one of the Cerise brothers testified that Lynch sailed on his boat from San Diego to Ensenada, and helped load the Chinese on the "Morning Star."

The point on which the case will be appealed is that the testimony of Ceriso, who is a co-defendent with Lynch, was not corroborated, as is required in prosecutions in the State courts.

ADDITIOAL AFFIDAVITS.

Documents Reach Here From Canada to be Used in Prosecuting Charge Against Dean.

Additional affidavits, in the case against Charles Dean charged with the robbery of a bank which is to be resumed before United States Commissioner Van Dyke tomorrow, reached Los Angeles from New Westminster, yesterday, and with their introduction the case will be argued.

Among the affidavits are those of the two Trapps, father and son, conducting an automobile garage in New Westminster, from whom an auto was stolen early in the morning after the robbery of the bank to carry away the money. Alice Wise, who saw the gang taking the machine out of the garage, also contributes an affidavit.

Dean has employed an attorney and a special stenographer, and is paying the expenses of his witnesses.

ATTACHES NO BLAME.

A Coroner's jury found yesterday that E. W. Culver, president of the Citizens' Lumber Company, died of a fractured skull sustained in a collision with an auto driven by J. M. Brown, Thursday. Brown said he tried to avoid the lumberman by turning suddenly, but the machine skidded on the pavement and the hind wheel struck Culver. The funeral will be held tomorrow. The body is being held pending the arrival here of two sons, one from Everett, Wash., and the other from Oklahoma.

Hygiene and Civilization.

[Philadelphia Record:] A pump which sprays lysoform has been set up by the Italian health officers at Tripoli; and the natives go to the place daily in droves for disinfection. The enginery of hygienic science has proved the most effective advance agency of civilization in the unsanitary sloughs of the world. Mosquito netting, kerosene oil and cistern covers have been the means of banishing yellow fever from Cuba and Panama; the rat-trap has been found to be an efficient instrument for preventing the spread of the plague; the filter-bed arrests the germs of typhoid and a host of other diseases which are communicated to mankind through drinking water. Prophylaxis is nine parts of the art of healing. Hail to the lysoform pump! It will squirt more civilization into Africa than the biggest battery of pump guns.

Too Much Feeling.

[New York Press:] Of John Grier Hibben, the new president of Princeton, a Peoria man said the other day: "Hibben had a keen intellect. Hence I'm not surprised at his success. Why, his fine, strong mind, his hatred of sentimentality and gush, were remarkable even in his boyhood here in Peoria.

"As a boy I was rather a gusher myself. I once went to a matinee with Hibben. The play was one of Daly's—a sentimental piece—and in the second act I began to blubber. Miss Rehan spoke beautifully her silly, sentimental lines, and big tears flowed, one after another, from my eyes.

"'Why, you're crying,' whispered Hibben.

"'Well,' said I, 'in a play as sad as this, I ain't ashamed to show a little feeling.'

"'Feeling?' Hibben looked at my wet and teary cheeks. 'Oh,' he said, 'feeling is all right, but you don't need to wash your face in it.'"

NEW SEWER SYSTEM NEEDED.

El Centro Not Satisfied With Ancient Plant Will Take Measures to Secure More Efficient Service.

EL CENTRO, April 13.—The rapid growth of El Centro and the failure of the original sewer system here to give satisfaction is pressing upon the citizens the problem of arranging for the construction of a new system. Owing to the general flatness of the Imperial Valley, the disposal of sewage in a satisfactory manner has been an engineering problem, and the probabilities are that an outfall will have to be constructed to New River, about eight miles distant, in order to secure the desired fall. Citizens are discussing a project of planning for a new sewer system with New River as the outfall and with capacity to care for the sewage of a city of at least 10,000 people. It is said that the present system will answer its purpose probably for another year, but that steps must be taken soon to provide for a greater system.

NEW ENTERPRISE.

The Golden State Mining and Marble Company, which this week shipped from El Centro the first blocks of marble taken from the quarries twenty-eight miles west of El Centro, is considering the advisability of establishing in this city a plant for the dressing of marble so as to get in as compact shape as possible before shipping. The matter will be decided within a short time. James S. Fowler, the marble expert who has been making a thorough investigation of the ledges owned by this company, states that it is the richest marble field he has yet seen in his twenty years' work in this line, and predicts that within the next two or three years the marble industry of Imperial county will give employment to from 500 to 1000 men.

VALLEY BRIEFS.

County Clerk Cook has issued marriage licenses to Alfred Standler of Heber and Rosa Baggestos of El Centro; to Frank Carlton of Holtville and Ella Hallam of Los Angeles.

Judge Cole has granted permission to the First Presbyterian Church of El Centro to mortgage its property for $600.

The Imperial Valley Oil and Cotton Company this week will complete its season's run at the El Centro cotton gin. The valley to date has ginned 9460 bales of cotton, and of this the El Centro gin has ginned 3460 bales, or more than one-third of the valley's crop.

Col. W. H. Holabird, receiver for the California Development Company, is to lecture in the L. & S. Theater in El Centro on the night of May 3, under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association, on "A Visit to the Philippines." Recently he spoke in the Methodist Church of El Centro on "A Visit to China."

The El Centro bottling works this week has occupied its new hollow tile building at Third and State streets, and has installed a new plant. The concern is reaching out into the Arizona and Mexico territories in the supplying of El Centro-made soft drinks and fountain supplies.

The new Board of City Trustees for El Centro will organize next Monday night. Hereafter the City Marshal will be appointed by the Trustees, and the city will be under the commission form of government. A City Attorney is to be selected at this meeting, as Attorney Dan V. Noland has resigned this position.

M. H. Donahoe, a pioneer merchant of Calexico, died at his home in that city on April 12. Funeral services held in the Church of Our Lady of Guadaloupe were largely attended and the interment was in the Imperial cemetery. Deecased leaves a widow and one daughter.

FIND SOUTHLAND IDEAL.

A tract of 320 acres, overlooking the ocean and near La Jolla, has been purchased by Joseph S. Mack and A. F. Mack, prominent business men of Allentown, Pa., from O. J. Strough. The consideration is given at $150,000. The buyers intend to make homes for themselves on the property and to induce a number of their friends to build near them. Both declare that Southern California is the countrys ideal home center.

BACK TO MEXICO.

United States Commissioner Van Dyke yesterday issued an order for the removal of Vincente Madrigal to Mexico, for trial on the charge of murdering Juan Magana, in the village of Purepero, October 26, 1906. Madrigal admits the killing, but alleges self-defense. The prisoner will be held subject to the orders of the State Department.

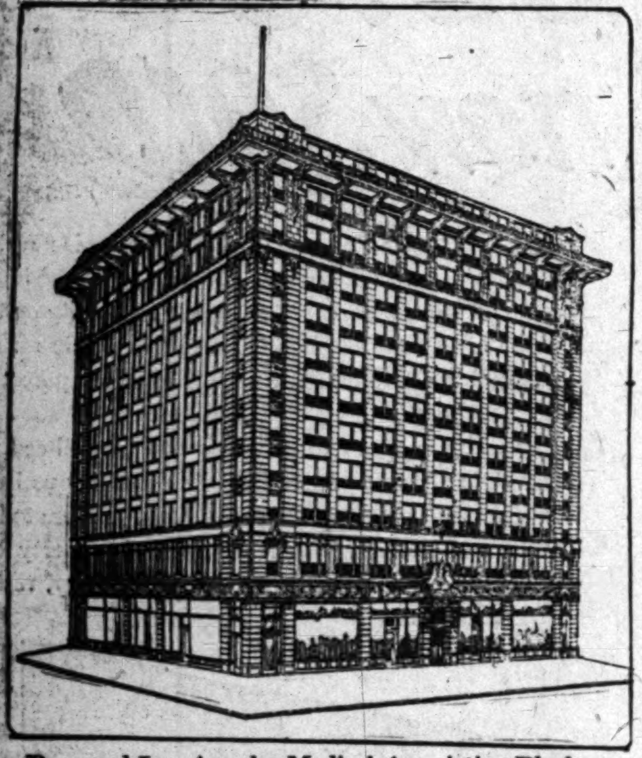
SPLENDID EDIFICE FOR THE LOCAL DOCTORS.



Proposed Los Angeles Medical Association Block.

It may be built at Sixth and Olive streets at a cost of a million and a half dollars, by professional men and exclusively for professional men.

A TWELVE-STORY class A office building for the exclusive use of physicians and dentists, to cost $1,500,000, is planned by the Los Angeles County Medical Association for the southeast corner of Sixth and Olive streets.

At a meeting of medical men at the office of Dr. H. Bert Ellis on the 2nd inst., a building company was formed for the purpose of erecting the proposed building, and the following were elected directors: Drs. H. Bert Ellis, Albert Soiland, O. O. Witherbee, Stanley P. Black, J. R. French, Granville MacGowan, John R. Haynes, William H. Lewis, C. W. Bryson, E. C. Moore and C. H. Whitman. Dr. Ellis was elected president and Dr. French secretary of the company, which is called the Los Angeles Medical Association Building Company.

Facing Central Park, it is proposed to rear a structure which will be in keeping with the improvements of that locality. The building, as projected will have stores on the ground floor, offices to the twelfth story, and on the twelfth floor the clubrooms, museum, library, etc., of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, with a grand staircase to an amphitheater on the roof, surrounded by a tropical roof garden.

An emergency hospital, where minor operations can be performed, will probably be located on the top floor.

NEW LAW WOULD MENACE TRADE.

PROTEST AGAINST SHORTER HOUR CLASS BILL.

Bent, Large Manufacturer, Says Proposed Measure Would Impede the Progress of Trade of the Nation—He Gives Reasons for Opposition.

George P. Bent, head of a large manufacturing establishment in Chicago, has written a letter to the Committee on Education and Labor at Washington, D. C., protesting against the passage by Congress of the proposed bill "Limiting the hours of daily service of laborers and mechanics, etc."

Mr. Bent gives three reasons for urging that the bill should not become a law; first, because shorter hours would limit the success of both the mechanic or laborer and employer; second, because it is class legislation; third, and perhaps most important, because no attempt should be made to shackle the progress of the trade of this nation with foreign countries.

For the past thirty-five years Mr. Bent has been an employer and previous to that he was a laborer and mechanic and he believes the success he has attained would not have been possible had such a proposed law been in force. He also states that the bill seems to be an attempt of certain persons to do by statute what they have not as yet succeeded in doing by dynamite and dastardly deeds.

While in Washington last week Mr. Bent noted with interest and commended the report of Secretary Nagle, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, in which an extension of the trade of this country with foreign nations was strongly urged. Mr. Nagle pointed out that our manufacturers are now producing much more than can be consumed at home and stated that the need for outside markets was great.

Speaking of his own product, pianos, Mr. Bent says he recently made an extended European visit and found German, English and French pianos entrenched in every market. Because wages are lower, hours are longer and there is no limitation of product in those countries the manufacturers are able to make much lower prices for consumers and thereby get the trade without danger of competition from the United States.

Besides impeding the progress of the manufacturing interests of the nation Mr. Bent believes the passage of the bill for shorter hours would add to the present cost of living.

SCHOOL TO BE MODERN.

Building for Lorena and Venice Streets Will Embody Latest Ideas in Construction and Appointment.

Plans are being drawn by the architectural firm of Eager & Eager for the handsome and modern Grammar School that is to be erected by the Board of Education at the corner of Lorena and Venice streets. The structure, which will be known as the Lorena-street school, will serve a steadily advancing district and will be a noteworthy addition to the educational facilities of the east side.

The school will contain eight rooms in addition to the rooms for the principal and teachers and will be two stories in height. It will be of brick construction and semi-fireproof in type, the walls being of brick and hollow tile and the stairs of concrete. The exterior will be plastered.

Architecturally the building will suggest somewhat the mission types, with a strong leaning, however, to English styles. Towers on either side of the entrance will be features. The cost of the school will be approximately $35,000. The site is large, occupying almost an entire block.

BUYS IMPROVED FARM.

Forty acres of land, improved with Valencia oranges, alfalfa, cabbage, beans and potatoes, and situated in the city of Stanton, in Orange county, was sold last week by W. H. Kennedy to B. R. Shinn, through the agency of Bryan & Bradford. The consideration is given at $30,000. The place is improved with a six-room bungalow and a fine pumping plant. It lies along the Main-Magnolia county road.

THE BURNING QUESTION.

Lewis of the Children's Home Society and J. H. Montgomery, editor of the Insurance and Investment News.

PRINCELY SHOW FOR SHRINERS.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND MORE FOR ENTERTAINMENT FUND.

Grand Ball Will Be Given This Month to Raise Additional Money. Constantly Increasing Number of Announced Visitors Calls for More Preparation.

When the entertainment for La Fiesta and the Imperial Shrine Council meeting next month was first outlined, it was estimated that $60,000 would be required to give the big show, but executive committeemen now assert that the cost of the week's festivities will be $75,000.

They did not expect such overwhelming numbers of the nobility to come from all parts of North America, and instead of decreasing, each day brings news of added special trains and large delegations.

A grand Shrine ball and drill will be held at Al Malaikah coliseum the evening of the 25th inst., the proceeds will go to help swell the entertainment fund.

At 8 o'clock the new Arab Legion of Honor will make its first appearance, with the three suits of new uniforms, the Arab, fatigue and full dress. And last the old reliable Arab Patrol will be there to add zest and brilliance. The patrol will be escorted on the dance floor by the tuneful Al Malaikah Shrine band, forty-five strong.

During the Imperial Council meeting every Shrine visitor and every member of Al Malaikah Temple will receive a unique official badge.

Chairman Motley H. Flint of the Executive Committee, is desirous that each and every citizen be a committee of one to make the visiting Shriners and tourists feel at home.

"Every little act of attention or kindness shown our visitors will be appreciated," said Flint, yesterday.

The programme, as prepared, is one of exceptional brilliance and should redound greatly to the credit of our city and State. It's up to the members of Al Malaikah and all good Angelenos here that the details for the entire week are carried through to a successful conclusion.

"We need about $15,000 to bring our entertainment fund up to $75,000, the sum we estimate is necessary for entertaining our friends from various parts of North America."

Chairman Flint yesterday mailed the following notice to members of Al Malaikah Temple:

"All members of the Mystic Shrine who desire to volunteer their services on the reception and all other committees incident to the entertainment of the army of Shriners who will be here in May, are urged to be present at Assembly Hall, Chamber of Commerce building, Monday evening, April 15, at 7:45 p.m., sharp.

PIER PLANS MATURING.

MATERIALS ALREADY ON HAND.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

VENICE, April 13.—Work is fairly under way on preparations for the building of a great new pleasure pier at the foot of Navy street, on the extreme northern end of the city. This pier is to have a length of at least 1000 feet and in width will be 225 feet, covering the entire strip between Navy and Marine and joining the Fraser pier on the north. The greater part of the structure is to be in Venice, although at the shore end there is a frontage of fourteen feet in Santa Monica. This gradually widens as depth is attained and it is said the surveys show that quite a considerable section of the deep-water end of the Fraser pier has been built on Great Western Amusement sand and ocean.

Materials and machinery are arriving and are being unloaded for the constructive operations and the announced plans of the promoting corporation are to the effect that large forces of men will be employed steadily from this time forward. Being located in the two cities it has been found necessary to secure permits and franchises from both places. The one affecting Venice has already been granted, while a formal application for a franchise is pending before the Santa Monica City Council.

Aside from embracing the ordinary features of a recreation pier, this structure has been planned to accommodate a unique riding device in the form of a spiral roller coaster, which will carry its passengers for a considerable distance beneath the waters of the ocean. This section of the route will lie through a huge concrete tube. A casino, roof garden, automobile parking space and other amusement and entertainment features will be included in the conception.

Just as soon as the bonds can be sold, work will be started on three new school buildings. The district voted to spend $60,000 and plans are now being considered for the proposed improvements. Simultaneously the city will spend a bond issue amounting to $43,000. This will be used in the erection of a garbage incinerator and in the extension of the outfall sewer into the sea.

HE'S A REGULAR MINT.

Turns More Pennies Into Gold and Fleeces Unsuspecting and Credulous Merchants.

The young man who Thursday passed three old-style pennies for $10 gold pieces, making a small purchase and pocketing the change, harvested $39.15 more on Friday from four merchants despite the publicity given his methods in the newspapers.

He evidently likes good cigars, for he bought two for a quarter from J. E. Powell, No. 109½ North Boyle avenue, and walked away with $9.75. He bought a 15-cent smoke of J. M. Stewart, No. 1204 East First street, and pocketed $9.85. At the A. L. Cornwall drug store the man made a 20-cent purchase and added $9.80 to his account. Then he went to No. 1414 North Main street, where Cruz Abalos holds forth, and exchanged a gilded penny for $9.75 and a small purchase.

BROADWAY SALE RUMORED.

It was rumored yesterday that forty-two feet on the west side of Broadway, between the Majestic and Tally theaters, had been sold to a local syndicate for $165,000 cash. The property has a depth of 165 feet and is improved with a small one-story brick building. Neither Dan Johnson nor Howard B. Smith, the owners, could be reached last night to affirm or deny the story. It is stated on good authority, however, that a check has actually passed in the rumored transaction.

FRENCHMAN ARRESTED.

Joe Martin, a Frenchman, who recently opened a new set of books for a wine company at Alhambra, was arrested and jailed yesterday, by Assistant Superintendent Loomis of the local branch of the Pinkertons, for forging three checks for $20 each. It is alleged Martin abstracted three blank company checks, filled them out and negotiated them. Loomis located Martin's room and lay in wait. Martin said he was out of money and wanted to pay his room rent.

ment of this tract marks the real beginning of a better class of development harborward. On the commanding and sightly elevation comprising the tract, wide boulevards are being created and the most elaborate landscape scheme is being worked out. Every street follows a natural ground contour, the knolls bing utilized for residence purposes. The owners of the tract state that a fine tourist hotel for a five-acre site fronting on Figueroa street is in early prospect. Athens-on-the-Hill marks the present point of termination of the yellow car service.

Plans Are Pretentious.

Just north of Athens-on-the-Hill the Los Angeles Investment Company is planning to lay out a splendid eighty-acre tract that promises to be one of the show sections of the region. Two more important squares, neither very far away, are represented in the extensive development around Strawberry Park and Florence Heights. It is just a little dip down the boulevard to Gardena, which, with Moneta and Hyde Park, constitute one of the most thriving of the village communities of the Southland. In the same vicinity, Panama Acres and Main-Moneta Acres are promising tracts.

Gardena is situated in the center of one of the richest agricultural districts in Southern California, a region of wonderful possibilities. The city of Los Angeles recently recognized the development of Gardena to the extent of building two new school buildings just off the Shoe String strip. Gardena, in fact, promises to spread over a vast territory within the next few years, and, once the proposed shipping canal through Nigger Slough has been created, there will be no calculating the future development of the place.

Below Gardena the development, though probably the most significant of all, is of exceedingly recent date. The new industrial town of Torrance, where shortly over 1000 houses are to be started, and where millions are being expended in industrial plants, is less than six months old. Lomita, with its large community of homes, was undreamed of two years ago. Harbor City, the promising new townsite on Bixby Slough, will not be formally opened until next week. All three of these places have been laid out directly in anticipation of the dredging of a canal and basins in Bixby and Nigger sloughs. With their expansion will come the filling in of the last really large gap between the city and the harbor.

POLICE HAVE WHEELS.

About the first of May a score of patrolmen walking the more remote beats on the outskirts of the city are to ride bicycles. Chief Sebastian yesterday selected twenty of the best wheels in the lost department that have been unclaimed in the custody of the police for about a year and sent them to the repair shop.

LAND SHOW CHORUS.

The Land Show Chorus, which did splendid service during the recent exposition in Fiesta Park, will meet on Monday evening in the Realty Board assembly room, for the purpose of forming a permanent choral society, under the direction of T. T. Drill. An invitation has been received by the chorus to give a concert in San Diego.

VALUABLE SITES TO BE IMPROVED.

Two Fine Hotels Projected by Local Capitalists.

One for Washington and Main; Other for Fifth.

Work on Both Hostelries to Be Begun at Once.

Two valuable sites, both close-in to the heart of the city and both hitherto practically neglected, are to feel the effects of progress within the next few weeks. One of these properties, at the northwest corner of Main and Washington streets, is to be improved with a four-story apartment hotel and store building of the most modern type of construction, while the other, on the north side of Fifth street, between Wall and San Pedro streets, is to be the site of a four-story hotel structure. Plans for both improvements are well under way.

The Washington and Main site is owned by Washington Sullivan and is [illegible] feet square. The building projected will cover the whole lot. Plans and specifications are now being prepared by Architects Neher & Skilling, and the work of construction will be begun as soon as bids have been accepted.

The building will contain a large lobby, an ample and handsomely finished dining-room and a kitchen, together with seven storerooms, on the first floor. The three upper floors will be divided into 150 rooms in two and three-room suites, each with kitchen and bath, and built-in features. One passenger and one freight elevator will serve the building. Among the conveniences will be steam heat, hot and cold water and an up-to-date vacuum cleaning system.

The exterior of the building is to be faced with manufactured granite. All the stores will have plate glass fronts, set in copper, together with [illegible] mosaic tile entrance floors. The interior woodwork will be in mahogany and white enamel.

An attractive feature will be a [illegible]-foot light court, facing Washington street. Both the restaurant and dining-room will open directly on the lobby. A billiard parlor, to be maintained in connection with the hotel, will face on Washington street.

[illegible] LEASE CONCLUDED.

Negotiations for the lease of the Fifth-street hotel were concluded yesterday, through the agency of the [illegible] C. [illegible] Company, the deal including also the sale of the site. Karl [illegible] and associates were the sellers and John G. Orth and B. Weingart the buyers and lessees. The site, which is vacant, extends from Fifth street to Winston, a depth of 250 feet, and has a frontage of fifty feet on the former and of thirty-four feet on the latter thoroughfare.

Plans for the four-story hotel building projected have been practically completed by A. Reif, who will ask for bids within the next few days. The first story of the building will contain two storerooms and a large lobby on the Fifth-street frontage, the rear part of this floor being given over to general hotel uses. In all there will be 225 guest rooms. The public baths will be in marble.

The storerooms are to have cement floors and prism lights. The building will be faced with red pressed brick on both street fronts. Several large light courts will be provided. It is the plan to carry the fire escapes through a series of ornamental bal-

PROJECTS TAKING SHAPE.

Splendid Improvements for Two Spring-Street Corners Now Practically Assured.

Two great building enterprises, both previously reported in The Times, are rapidly taking definite shape, with every assurance of early consummation. The project of Washington Sullivan to erect a thirteen-story building at the southwest corner of Third and Spring streets has been practically matured within the past three days. Instead of the hotel building originally projected, however, it is likely that an office block will be built on the site. Plans for this type of structure are to be rushed to completion by Architects Parkinson & Bergstrom. The building will contain several stores on the ground story and 288 offices on the twelve upper floors.

From reliable sources it is learned that R. A. Rowan & Co., who have an option on the Howe property at the northeast corner of Sixth and Spring streets, have practically succeeded in completing financial arrangements for the purchase of that site and for its improvement with a modern office building of ten or more stories in height. It is reported that sketches for such a structure have been prepared and that the actual work of construction may be begun within the next six months. The splendid structure projected will replace a number of small frame buildings erected a quarter of a century ago.

HUGE DEAL REPORTED.

Seven Hundred Thousand Dollars Said to Have Been Paid by Syndicate for Prager Park.

An apparently well-grounded rumor was abroad in realty circles yesterday afternoon to the effect that Prager Park, lying north of Washington street and extending from Main street to Grand avenue, had been purchased from the Prager Estate by a local syndicate represented by R. H. Rafael and Morris Cohn. The consideration is reported to have been in the neighborhood of $700,000.

The property extends northward from Washington street almost to Eighteenth, and had been in the Prager family for almost forty years. The original purchase price for the entire property is stated to have been $1000. Oscar Lawler, attorney for the estate, could not be reached at his offices, yesterday, but it was ascertained indirectly that he denies that the deal has been actually closed.

MILLION IN HOMES.

Newly Incorporated Company Will Erect Nearly Five Hundred Bungalows at Slauson and Budlong.

The Union Realty Company is the title of the latest big realty and building concern to be organized in Los Angeles. The company has a paid-up capital of $250,000, and boasts only seventeen stockholders, being a closed corporation and offering no stock for sale. The company owns seventy-three acres at the corner of Slauson and Budlong avenues and this piece will at once be cut up into 465 lots, upon everyone of which will be erected a $2000 bungalow. A general real estate business will also be engaged in.

The company includes in its membership some of the leading business men of the city. The officers elected for the coming year are W. W. Mines of W. W. Mines & Co., president; Philip L. Wilson, president of the Traders' Bank, vice-president; J. Herbert Johnson, formerly with the Title Insurance and Trust Company, secretary and treasurer, and H. A. Cole, superintendent of construction. The directors are Reese Llewellyn, F. W. Braun, Judge W. R. Hervey, Walter P. Story, A. F. Gilmore, A. W. Nash, Robert Sweeney, Philip L. Wilson and W. W. Mines.

PLANS FINE APARTMENTS.

Dr. A. G. Schloesser has bought from Mrs. M. P. Moll, of Redlands, seven lots in the Bonnie Brier tract, Hollywood. The buyer will improve the property, which faces the Hotel Hollywood, with a pretentious apartment house. Schloesser will be associated with Chicago, New York and Los Angeles capitalists.

FINE BLOCK FOR "FLAT-IRON" SITE.

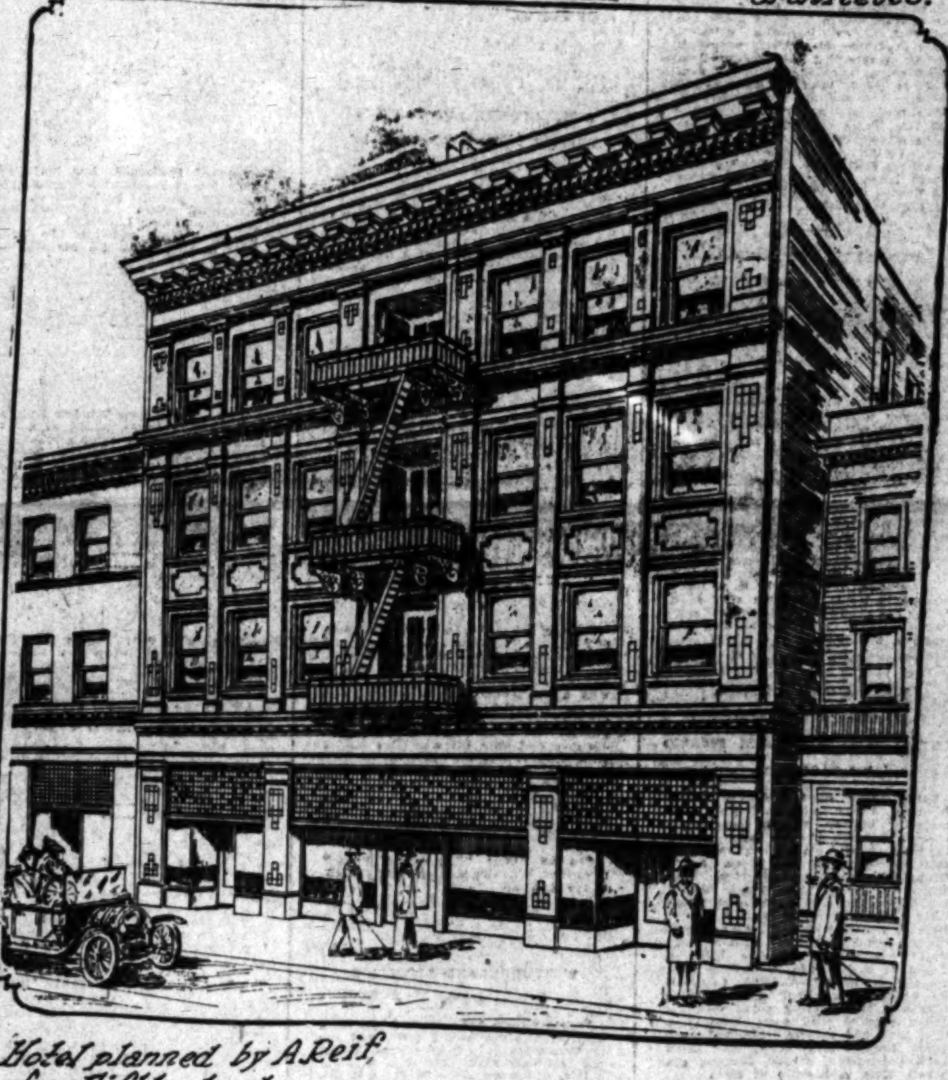
CHICAGOAN PAYS LARGE SUM FOR TRIANGULAR LOT.

Purchase Made in View of Immediate Improvement With Modern Hotel or Office Building—Holding Has Frontages on Spring, Main, and Eighth.

One of the largest and most significant real estate deals of recent months was concluded yesterday afternoon when papers were signed transfering the property on the south side of Eighth street between Spring and Main streets, commonly known as the "Flat-iron piece," to Edward Henning, the Chicago millionaire who recently paid the Isaacs Bros. Company $110,000 in cash for forty feet on the south side of Seventh street between Olive and Grand. The deal, which was consummated through the agency of R. A. Rowan & Co., involved a consideration of $360,000 cash and insures the erection of another metropolitan skyscraper in downtown Los Angeles.

The holding has a frontage of 103 feet on Eighth street, and fronts 117 feet on Spring and 121 feet on Main. At its south end it has a width of seventy-two feet. The whole site is at present improved with a two-story brick building which was erected about ten years ago and which will soon be removed to make way for the more modern improvement. The sellers of the property were the members of a syndicate headed by S. K. Lindley, Henry O'Melveny, Adolph Fleischman, John Parkinson, Thos. Haverty and J. Myrick, Jr.

The building to be erected by Henning will be of the full 150 feet of height allowed by the building ordinances and will contain from eleven to thirteen stories. It has not yet been decided whether a hotel or office building will be constructed, the architects, Parkinson & Bergstrom, having been instructed to prepare tentative sketches for both types of structure.



Hotel planned by A Reif, for Fifth street.

Modern Hotels Projected by Enterprising Capitalists.

The larger building will be erected at the northwest corner of Washington and Main streets. The Fifth-street hostelry is to stand half way between Wall and San Pedro streets and will be built by John G. Orth and B. Weingart.

FACT AND COMMENT.

A prominent realty broker tells this good one on himself: Eleven years ago he advised a friend of his against purchasing ten acres of land just east of Main street and fronting on the south side of Slauson avenue at $500 an acre, urging instead the investment of a similar sum in lands near Hemet that were then selling at $200 an acre. The client disregarded the advice and bought the ten-acre piece, the result being that he is today rich and independent. The Hemet property, it is true, has fully realized all the predictions made in respect to it, but the Slauson avenue holding has literally soared in value from year to year until today it is one of the most valuable pieces to the south of Los Angeles. The dealer who tells the story declares that to this day his client never loses an opportunity to "josh" him.

In no other section of the city has the advance of the past decade been more pronounced than in the area bordering on Main street and Moneta avenue and no other section is so rich with promise for the future. The experience of the man who backed his own judgment on ten acres just south of the city limits is only that of hundreds and even thousands who have in the past ten years acquired acreage between Los Angeles and Wilmington. And in the estimation of many who are studying the trend of things, the development southward toward the harbor is to constitute the most phenomenal part of the city's future advance.

The Southward Trend.

About a week ago the Fact and Comment man accompanied some friends on an automobile drive along the course of the Harbor boulevard, as Main street has, by common consent, come to be called. It is a trip calculated to fill the gloomiest of pessimists with unqualified optimism over the future prospects of development southward toward the city's port of entry. No one can really realize what has already been accomplished in the way of development in this direction until he has taken a careful survey of the sightly area within and to the right and left of the Shoe String Strip.

The marvel of the entirely recent accomplishment along Main street begins well within the city itself. The advance of Moneta avenue from the point where it branches off from Main is also notable. In five years lots on Moneta have soared in value from $300 or a little over to $2000 and $3000. Values on Main street proper from the same point to the south city limits have steadily climbed and there are no more optimistic people in Los Angeles than the residents of this section, which, when it was laid out by Bowen & Chamberlain, fourteen years ago, was actually the laughing stock of the realty market so far was it from the heart of things.

Today the section is holding its own with any other district and awaits only the completion of the paving of the three-mile segment of the boulevard that has not yet been improved to take a new and a real lease on progress. It has more than fulfilled the expectations of its original promoters.

Squares Growing Bigger.

South of Slauson avenue the development is in great and ever expanding squares, each of which represents a subdivision put on the market within the past few years. The Harbor boulevard section is today one vast and elegant checker board, the vacant squares of which are being steadily obscured by the activities of the home builder. The promoters of Sunnyside and of its neighbors, Manchester Heights and Vermont Heights, have filled in a large gap with a pretentious community of homes, and have to all practical purposes extended the city's limits far to the south of the incorporated boundaries. In another growing square almost adjoining, the Western Building and Investment Company has worked wonders in eliminating the area of green and undeveloped pastures.

The operations of J. F. Bowen have contributed much in the way of filling up the region immediately south and west of these developments. Another important square in the scheme that is being worked out is the subdivision known as Woodcrest. The Key place tract occupies an area which its original owner intended should be always an eucalyptus grove. On the left side of the boulevard a bit farther south, 840 acres recently acquired by the Wright-Callender-Andrews Company, will soon feel the march of progress, while south of Sunnyside the Wilcox estate owns a large tract which will soon be subdivided.

Probably the most noteworthy of all the developments along the Harbor boulevard is that under way at Athens-on-the-Hill, where 700 acres of high and sightly ground is being laid out as a modern and high-class residence subdivision. The develop-

A WILSHIRE BARGAIN.

551 OXFORD BLVD.

One of the most attractive homes in the fashionable Wilshire section. Unusually well built, on a 60x150-foot east-front lot near Wilshire boulevard. This magnificent home of 11 rooms is distinctive in type of architecture; not the ordinary design so prevalent here, but a most pleasing one of the Swiss chalet type. You enter a spacious reception hall paneled high in Peruvian mahogany of beautiful grain; on the right is the dining-room also paneled up high in quarter-sawed fumed Pollard oak, a fine large built-in buffet occupies one entire side of the room, so arranged as to display cut glass and china to the best advantage. A fine woven tapestry frieze occupies the wall space above the plate rail. A large living-room with handsome Grube tile mantel and library with ample bookcases are finished in Janeiro mahogany. The walls are canvased and hand decorated in oil colors. A most cheerful breakfast room, in French gray, unusually large, with fine buffet, opens onto a rear pergola porch, through French windows, as also does the library; a cool closet, kitchen, pass pantry, maid's room and bath and large screened porch completes the ground floor arrangement, while on the second floor there are four large bedrooms, one with solarium; sleeping out porch with ventilated wall bed; large airing balcony; two large tiled baths, with wide roll-rim tubs; pedestal lavatories and showers, connecting directly with three of the bedrooms. Quarter-sawed oak floors throughout; all rooms decorated; the bedrooms with dainty wall coverings of pleasing designs; furnace and automatic heater; large cellar with two entrances; garage for two machines, etc., etc. The finish of this house is of the very highest class and the floor arrangement is ideal. Handsome electric fixtures and hardware in keeping. Nothing for convenience or comfort has been omitted.

If you want a home that is right, go out today to see this one or phone for appointment.

STUNNING SWISS CHALET—BIG SNAP FOR HOME SEEKER OR INVESTOR.

Not often, but occasionally, you can find a genuine sacrifice. Most houses are advertised as "real bargains." But I do not ask you to take my work for this buy, but investigate values for yourself. Then you will realize that not one word of this advertisement is over-estimated. This house is one of the show places of the Oneonta Park district. Brand new, high, commanding corner lot, 129x210, Swiss chalet type; 8 beautiful rooms, finish A1 throughout. Unusually large living and dining-rooms, beamed, wainscoted, handsome built-in buffet with beveled plate mirrors, library with ample built-in bookcase; complete cabinet kitchen; four large, airy bedrooms upstairs, attractive tile bath, two toilets, large front porch and upper balcony; plenty of French windows and doors; porte cochere and pergola, cut-glass door knobs; hardwood floors throughout except kitchen; cellar, furnace, attractive electric fixtures; velvet lawn and flowers. You could not pass this place without noting its attractions. High ground (meaning health and comfort,) six car lines, only twenty minutes out; splendid view of mountains and valley. I can actually prove this place cost more than $10,000. It's easily worth $11,000. For quick sale will take $9750; only $1000 down. I defy you to beat it anywhere.

We have been selling bearing orange groves in the world-famous San Gabriel Valley for years and have a thorough knowledge of the orange business.

LOCATION.

This land is located about 12 miles from the town of Bakersfield and 4 miles from the main line of the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific Railroads and within a mile of a good school.

EVERY PROSPECT PLEASES.

Every condition proves this to be the finest place in the State to raise oranges. KING.

For sure, quick and profitable returns, grow alfalfa and hogs on the fertile lands of the Fairmead Colony, in Madera county, in the San Joaquin Valley. Besides these great staples all kinds of deciduous fruits, berries, grapes, melons, almonds, vegetables, potatoes, and the cereals grow and flourish in this fertile region. It is no wonder that we sold over $111,000 worth of Fairmead lands in three weeks' time, for the soil is right, water and climatic conditions are right, location is right, shipping facilities are right, prices and terms are right, the men back of the enterprise are right, and, in fact, we're all all right. Come to our office and let me tell you how easily you can acquire a few of our fertile acres, which in a few years will double and triple in value. Our office is open evenings. ORANGE PLANTING is now going on. Several hundred acres are being planted to oranges and lemons this season. The rapid strides made in the culture of citrus fruits in this district has awakened the interests of investors throughout the country. Terra Bella and Richgrove are absolutely proven districts. The past cold winter has proved it to be immune from frost damage. Experienced Southern California orange growers are planting oranges at Terra Bella and Richgrove. A careful inspection of these.
AT

EARLY ORANGE AND LEMON LANDS which are located in the heart of the early orange belt of Tulare and Kern counties will convince the most skeptical. Buy now, while it is yet possible to secure the choicest and best land for $100 AND $125 AN ACRE.

Our terms are within the reach of all. Many are buying on the monthly installment plan of $12.63 per month for ten acres of $100 land. This appeals to the wage earner and capitalists alike. It makes it possible for one to own an orange grove with a limited amount of capital. Excursion twice weekly. Call or write for illustrated folder and map.

Land is sandy loam, "no alkali;" 1100 feet elevation on main line trunk railroad and electric car line not far from the city. Good school, church, stores and oiled roads; a dandy place to live, and certainly good money in sight as you can have an orange or grapefruit grove coming while paying for the land growing potatoes; $250 an acre with the water shares, very small payment down, balance as your crops come in. I want every fellow that would like to get a start and have a home that will make a living for him when he can't work. Come and see Mr. Boyer, second floor, 631 SOUTH SPRING ST. Home 60437; Main 5180.

that the farmers on the best of the Merced County irrigated lands are netting from $60 to $600 per acre per annum from annual crops. In other words, these farmers are averaging as good returns as our orange and lemon growers are securing in Southern California.

Merced is located on the main lines of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe Railroads—only four hours South of San Francisco.

Merced is the banner agricultural county of California, taking at the State Fair held at Sacramento, in 1911, 17 out of 25 first prizes, 4 seconds, 4 thirds, grand prize for best general agricultural exhibit and a special prize for the best display of cereals.

Merced—with a population of 4000—has over $4,000,000 with its two banks, making it undoubtedly the richest city per capita in America. Every dollar of this $4,000,000 is farmers' money, and has grown out of Merced soil.

Grogan's Merced Tracts

comprising 4300 acres, adjoin the westerly city limits of Merced, and are universally conceded to be the very cream of the entire Merced region. Each and every acre has of record a perpetual water right, which insures for all time to come an abundance of cheap gravity water at a rate of $2.00 per acre per year. This rate is permanent and cannot be raised.

When you buy on Grogan's Merced Tracts, there is nothing left for you to do except to farm the land. Even the lateral irrigation ditch has been installed. You can buy your land today and plant it tomorrow.

These lands are suitable, in the highest sense, for alfalfa, dairying, hogs and poultry, black-eyed beans, sweet potatoes, garden truck, onions, canteloupes, watermelons, etc., also the best peach, fig, pear, apricot, almond and olive land to be found in the State of California.

Now is the time to plant nearly all of the crops above referred to. An investigation will convince you that not only no more than the first payment will be required but in addition that you can have your original investment back inside of four months, and a handsome bonus besides.

In addition, these lands will increase rapidly in value. An electric line is now practically assured through the tract, and nowhere else in the State of California are so many elements that make for rapid increase in land values, transpiring as at Merced.

If you want to make money—either from a farming or investment standpoint—you should investigate at once. We are selling these lands at an average of $150 per acre, on easy terms. Better arrange at once to join one of our three or five-party excursions, leaving Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

JAY GOULD'S COLOSSAL TRUST.

Held Together By His Heirs and Administered With Fidelity For Twenty Years—Has Grown from $80,000,000 to $150,000,000—Helen Gould's Days Here.

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT.

THE presence of Miss Helen Gould in Southern California for the second time in fifteen years is the occasion for making some personal notes of one of the most remarkable families in America.

Jay Gould, the first railway wizard of Wall street, died in 1892. He left a fortune, mostly in railway securities, valued at $80,000,000, at that date regarded a colossal fortune. There were six children—George Jay, born 1864, and then 28 years old; Edwin, two years younger; Helen, born 1868; Howard, 1871; Anna, 1874, and Frank Jay, 1878.

George had been a close associate of his father, had studied the complicated detail of the business, both clerical and managerial, and showed such sterling qualities and abilities that it was provided in the will that the entire estate should be pooled and kept undivided until the death of the last member of the family, and that it should be placed in the control of George to be managed for the family. As compensation for these services he was given $5,000,000 out of the estate, and the balance was equally divided between the six children, giving them nominally $15,000,000 apiece, though the revenues only could be drawn from the pool. This was assumed to be $600,000 a year for each of the children.

The estate, consisting largely of stocks and bond, railway and telegraph securities, greatly increased in value as the years rolled on, for the country prospered and continually developed new business, so the annual incomes of the heirs ever grew larger and larger. As these greatly exceeded their personal expenditures, each of the children were enabled to make profitable investments on their several accounts, thus supplementing their family fortunes with their private personal accumulations.

The family estate has been augmented to a figure estimated at $150,000,000, and, of course, the private fortunes have been greatly enhanced, yet, considering their enormous incomes, the members of the family have not, as a general thing, lived extravagantly. To be sure, the wife of one of the brothers was inordinately fond of making a display of her wardrobe and jewelry, but she is no longer a member of the group, and the younger sister paid dearly for the luxury of European titles; but it may be said of the family as a whole that there is nothing bizarre about them.

RAILROAD SECURITIES.

No less than $75,486,000 of the Gould railway securities were held by life insurance companies in 1908. These included $22,500,000 in Iron Mountain, $13,000,000 in Missouri Pacific, $11,700,000 in Wabash, $9,500,000 in Denver and Rio Grande, and from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 in other roads of the Gould system. At that time the outstanding bonds of his ten roads aggregated $649,300,000. Since then George has lost his grip on three of his roads—the Wabash, the Lake Erie and Pittsburgh, and the Western Maryland. But the others are yielding steady and enormous revenues. The Western Pacific is not included in the above summary, as it has not yet arrived at a stage of commercial success and there has been much difficulty in financing it. But it is bound to be one of the profitable continental roads, and is opening up valuable territory that would otherwise lay dormant for many years.

ANCESTRY OF THE GOULDS.

The first American ancestor of the Gould family, Maj. Nathan Gould, came from the south of England in 1646 and settled in Connecticut. His son, Nathan Gould, Jr., was justice of the Supreme Court in that State. His direct descendant, Jay Gould, named for Chief Justice John Jay of the United States Supreme Court, was born in 1836 at Roxbury, N. Y. While employed as clerk in a country grocery store he utilized odd hours in mastering a work on trigonometry, and fitted himself to engage in surveying.

Learning that a moribund railroad in Vermont was about to go under the hammer he purchased the bonds at 10 cents on the dollar. He became its president, treasurer, superintendent and general factotum, and in two years extricated it from financial embarrassment. He sold his holdings at 120, realizing a profit of 1000 per cent. Next he secured control of the Erie Railroad, then on the verge of bankruptcy, resuscitated it, and realized such an advance on its securities as to lay the foundations of his great fortune.

Perceiving the inevitable development of the Great West—an empire towards which immigration was hastening from the Eastern States and from Europe, he purchased Missouri Pacific stock at 8 cents, and personally undertook the management of the road with characteristic vigor. The towns along the route boomed with new life, vacant land was transformed into busy farms, freight was moving and the census increasing at a marvellous pace. The stock of the road went up by leaps and bounds. He sold enough of the stock at $45 to recoup himself for all his outlays and had enough left to control the road and extend its lines.

At the time of his death the systems controlled by the Gould syndicates aggregated 13,000 miles, gridironing the vast territory stretching from Iowa to Mexico and from the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains.

He dipped into some other money-making enterprises. He acquired a controlling interest in the Western Union Telegraph and made it a monopoly. He saw that nickels and dimes were pouring into the New York Elevated in a steady stream, and secured a controlling block of the stock when the market was depressed, and diverted that stream of small change into his own pocket.

At length, while in the very prime of life, at the comparatively early age of 56, he succumbed to the grim arbiter, and his clutch on the great financial affairs of the country was suddenly loosened. But the forehanded Jay Gould had anticipated the event and in his will provided for the remarkable trust above mentioned.

THE ELDER BROTHER.

The eldest son, then only 28 years of age, entered upon his arduous duties with a full sense of the great responsibilities devolving upon him. He took his father's place at the head of the railroad companies, and, assuming a paternal attitude in family affairs, conscientiously met every obligation. No whisper of dissatisfaction has ever been reported till the recent defection of Frank, the youngest son. As soon as he felt that his brothers were qualified he placed them in responsible positions, one as president of one of the roads, and two as vice-presidents of other roads.

Miss Helen Miller Gould.
Jay Gould II.
Kingdon Gould.

Three members of the Gould Family.

George was born in 1864 and in 1886 married Miss Edith Kingdon, a talented and beautiful actress of Daly's Theater. She is a woman of fine nature and noble traits of character and has made him a splendid wife. Though they have an elegant residence in New York, their principal home is a handsome country seat in Lakewood, N. J.

Six lovely children have blest their union. The eldest, Kingdon, graduate of Columbia, is described as bright, active, courageous, and a daring polo rider. He has been put into the directorate of one of the western roads to give him an insight into the nature of his future responsibilities.

Jay, a younger son, was named for his grandfather, and received a trifling bequest of $2,000,000, which is outside of the family estate. As this will enable him to support a wife very comfortably, he has recently married Miss Anna Douglass Graham, a granddaughter of Princess Kaikilani, last of the former reigning family of the Hawaiian Islands. Jay is fond of sport, an athlete, and takes part in the Columbia Aero Club, which is experimenting with flying machines. In 1909 he was elected a director in the Wabash Railroad.

The oldest girl, Marjorie Gwynne, beautiful and accomplished, was recently wedded to Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., scion of an old and wealthy Philadelphia family. Her hand had been solicited by lords and princelings in Europe, but she married for love, exhibiting much of the good sense inherited from both her parents. The next girl, Helen Vivien, in attractiveness is a good match for her sister. She was married a few months ago to Maj. John Graham Horsley-Beresford, fifth Baron Decies, and known for short as Lord Decies. He is a manly man, 44 years of age, wealthy and has seen honorable service in the South African War. Two other children, George, Jr., and Edith, complete the membership of this model American family.

EDWIN GOULD, FINANCIER.

Edwin, the second son of Jay Gould, is said to bear a strong resemblance to his father and has inherited some of his shrewd business traits. He is president of the St. Louis Southwestern Railroad Company, and director in most of the other roads in the Gould system. He is interested in banking and president of the Bowling Green Trust Company of New York, and director in other banks. He is very happily married to Miss Sarah Shrady, daughter of the celebrated Dr. George F. Shrady of New York. Though not wealthy, she is beautiful and highly accomplished. He was at one time captain of a company of New York militia. He has made good use of his financial opportunities and is reputed to be worth (including his family holdings) about $30,000,000.

HELEN MILLER GOULD.

Helen Miller, named for the mother whose lovable and sensible traits she inherited, was born in 1868, when her father's financial career was exciting the attention of capitalists in both hemispheres.

In her early girlhood her loving and sympathetic ways greatly endeared her to her father, and she gave an unwonted charm to his household. Her influence over her brothers was most salutary and they have always been accustomed to defer to her judgment. It was, therefore, the most natural thing in the world for the father to will the beautiful country-seat at Irvington-on-the-Hudson to his loved daughter Helen. She has developed and beautified the ample grounds, making it one of the most delightful places on the banks of the American Rhine, and it has always been a welcome rendezvous for the many members and relatives of her father's family.

Though it was inevitable that her attractive personality and her great wealth would draw the attention of persons in the highest stations of social and civil life, yet she has never been lured by American statesmen, nor by the shallow vogue of European titles. She has devoted her life to ameliorating the condition of those whose lot is hard, whose opportunities for betterment are few, and has thus contributed to the general uplift of humanity.

Unostentatiously, but with rare practical intelligence, she dispenses her gifts. The young women of a college, the soldiers in a tent, the patients in a hospital, have all collectively experienced her thoughtfulness. She has learned to expend her large income with an altruism that will stimulate the recipient and not lead him into helpless dependence.

Among the seven trustees named by Mrs. Russell Sage to take charge of the Sage Foundation, consisting of $10,000,000, donated by the widow of the late king of finance for the benefit of the poor of the United States, is Miss Helen Gould. Mrs. Sage planned her immense gift along lines laid down by Miss Gould, who has herself done so much for charitable institutions.

This benefactress of the race is not without a keen sense of humor. One day she was showing a party of little girls about her premises. "This," she said, stopping before a bronze in the hall, "is a statue of Minerva." "Was she married?" asked a little girl. "Oh, no, my dear," replied Miss Gould. "You know Minerva was the Goddess of Wisdom."

HOWARD GOULD.

Not a pleasant married life has been vouchsafed to the third son, Howard, who was born in 1871. When 26 years of age he was captivated by an actress named Viola Katherine Clemmons and he desired to marry her. There was a provision in his father's will that if any of the brothers and sisters should marry without the approval of the others, that person should forfeit $5,000,000 out of his share of the estate. A consultation was held and they objected to the marriage. Howard thought the matter over and decided that he preferred Miss Clemmons to the $5,000,000. They did not insist on the forfeiture of his interest. For a time things went on smoothly and two children were born. But certain unpleasant traits in the wife's disposition made life unpleasant for her husband and other members of his family and a rupture and separation was the result.

Before that event occurred Howard had built a castellated mansion on Long Island, which became known as Castle Gould. She had a retinue of servants and was in constant trouble with them. As they were constantly coming and going, a Chinaman who had suffered the usual fate sententiously remarked "hiree, firee," and it became a byword among the servants. Katherine was fond of dress and jewelry, and her extravagance in that regard brought matters to a focus. Howard proposed to settle an annuity of $25,000 a year upon her, but she insisted on $50,000. The judge finally compromised on $36,000, saying that $100 a day ought to be sufficient for the requirements of any reasonable woman.

It is a bit of gossip that Mrs. Katherine's mother lives in Palo Alto, Cal., and that her older sister, Ella May, had been engaged in settlement work in the Chinese quarter of San Francisco, and in 1906, the year of the earthquake, she married a Chinese merchant, and is now Mrs. Wong Sun Yue. It was not agreeable to Howard to be reminded that his wife had a Mongolian brother-in-law. In the divorce suit his attorneys, of which Delancey Nicoll was chief, received fees amounting to $250,000 and the detectives cost $100,000 more. It is expensive for a multi-millionaire to get unmarried. It was brought out that in eight years Mrs. Howard Gould's personal expenses amounted to $775,000. This sum did not include household and traveling expenses.

Among her items of jewelry were a pearl rope listed at $27,000, a diamond chain at $22,000, a sapphire ring at $6000, a pendant at $13,300 and a diadem at $24,000.

THE PRINCESS DE SAGAN.

The career of the wayward daughter Anna has been in the limelight and this glare seems suited to her temperament. At an early age she was dazzled with the idea of being addressed as a Countess. Thus bewitched, she accepted the hand of a handsome young Frenchman of pleasing manners, a sounding title and broken fortunes. Against the protest of the family council, but with their final consent, Anna was married to Count Ernest Boniface de Castellane, at the New York home of her brother, George J. Gould, in March, 1895, Archbishop Corrigan officiating. Count Boni, as he was familiarly called, has been one of the most expensive luxuries ever bought with American gold.

He was recklessly extravagant in the expenditure of her funds, deeming that he was drawig upon an inexhaustible fountain. They lived in a marble mansion and entertained magnificently to the amazement of the wealthiest old-timers. At length she was warned by the family autocrat in New York that she must retrench. She took account of stock. She had been married ten years and she found that besides the $2,000,000 settled upon Count Boni as his marriage portion, he had lost $1,500,000 at the gaming tables, $1,000,000 for bric-a-brac, and antiques, $2,000,000 for building sites in Paris, mostly unimproved, $400,000 for dinners and entertainments, $500,000 to purchase a seat in the House of Deputies, and other extravagancies, bringing the total up to nearly $1,800,000 a year. Anna saw that if this thing went on she would soon be on the verge of poverty.

With a grim determination characteristic of her family, she decided upon her course. She applied in the courts for a divorce. The story brought out at the trial was most pitiful. It was the story of a woman who had suffered neglect and ill-treatment for seven years for the sake of her children. During the painful trial Helen Gould was present, giving support and comfort to her sister. She won her suit, but lost her title; henceforth she was plain Madame Gould.

It was remarked of Countess de Castellane that, as his wife, she was received everywhere in Parisian society, her respectability even making amends for Boni's peccadillos, but after her divorce she had been discredited except in the socalled smart set. Then, when Mme. Gould found herself without standing, even the fast set did not want her. This undoubtedly hastened her decision to marry Prince de Sagan.

The Prince was first cousin of De Castellane, of ancient lineage, and heir to immense estates in Silesia. Withal he was a notorious spendthrift. It was thought very strange that she should entertain his suit after her grievous experience with Castellane. But she was eager for the title and her re-entry into Parisian society. The Duke, her husband's father-in-law, died a few months ago, leaving the vast estates to his only heir, the Prince de Sagan, and Anna acquired a new title—the Duchess de Tallyrand et de Sagan. It seems like a fairy story. Both a princess and a duchess and wealth exceeding that bequeathed to her in the family estate.

FRANK JAY GOULD.

The youngest member of the multimillionaire family of Goulds is Frank, now 34 years of age. He was a bright, promising youth, with likeable ways and a general favorite. Following a penchant of his older brothers, he married an actress—Miss Helen Margaret Kelly, a very attractive girl. There was a romantic element in the ceremony—the bride incurred the penalty of excommunication for being married by a clergyman not of the Roman Catholic faith. In the course of time two beautiful children were born, but the wife had brought into the family affairs one of those objects about which cheap paragraphers make time-worn jokes—a mother-in-law. Trouble and a divorce resulted.

Later Edith Kelly, a former Brooklyn chorus girl, (no relation to Helen) captured the susceptible young man's heart, and they hied themselves across the Atlantic and were married on Scotland's Gretna Green. The ceremony was performed at Abbotsford, former home of Walter Scott, which has been leased to Mr. Gould. Previous to his marriage, Miss Edith had been dismissed from the Gaiety Theater by the French manager, because she was not a good enough dancer. So Gould bought up control of the theater for his new wife and she had the satisfaction of firing her former manager. The latter sententiously remarked, "Ah, ze Americain; he is ze buzzsaw."

The first wife has remarried and relinquished the custody of her children, Helen and Dorothy, to their aunt, Helen M. Gould, and she is caring for them in her own home.

Recently there has been a falling out between Frank and the other members of the family. He does not like the "dictatorial" way in which George is managing the estate and holding the reins of government over the youngest of the brood who is sometimes disposed to fly the track. But George can be depended upon to take care of the situation.

Marvelous Growth of Financial Institutions of City.

Los Angeles Bank Securities Show Splendid Gains.

The total resources of the financial institutions of Los Angeles at this time are approximately $200,000,000, and the score is being increased annually to the tune of more than $25,000,000. It is unquestionably a fact that nothing has so advanced the prestige of the city as the growth and standing of its great banks. They have been conservatively managed, yet so wonderful are the resources of the surrounding territory that no city in the United States is more favored than this in its financial bulwarks.

In daily bank clearings a steady growth is noticed, and the grand total for the month of March was in excess of $93,000,000. If this ratio is kept up till the end of the year—and no observer doubts that it will be increased—the bank clearings for the year 1912 will aggregate at least $1,100,000,000. The total clearings for the year 1910 were $811,387,487.47, and for the year 1911 the total jumped to $922,914,526.09.

On January 1, 1912, the total deposits of the Los Angeles banks was $152,879,619.32; total loans and investments, $133,391,677.20; total capital, $14,268,225; total surplus and undivided profits, $10,137,139.70; total resources, $183,266,913.95. During the year 1911 the following increases were shown: in deposits, $27,818,142.61; in loans and investments, $19,266,691.64; in capital, $701,125; in surplus and undivided profits, $582,065.55; in total resources, $28,676,185.31.

SAFE-GUARDS OF LAW.

There is no doubt that part of the wonderful showing made by the banking institutions of Los Angeles is due to the operation of the new California banking laws. The "bank act" of California, which became effective on July 1, 1909, provided for the organization of a banking department, of which a Superintendent of Banks should be the head, replacing the Bank Commissioner of former years. One notable feature of the new act is the provision for the separation of various departments of banks authorized to do more than one kind of business—commercial, savings, trust, any two or all of them. By the terms of the law each department of such a bank must have its own resources and liabilities, separate and distinct from the resources and liabilities of the other departments.

It is conceded that California leads the western States in the manner in which the public is safe-guarding by its banking laws, and the feeling of confidence so engendered has had no little part in the upbuilding of the great financial institutions of Los Angeles. Many capitalists of the East, who have been brought here by the glories of the climate, have been attracted by the splendid position of the banks of the city, and have invested heavily in the securities of the local financial institutions. Notable among these is King Gillette, who has invested largely in the stock of the Security Trust and Savings Bank.

In the meantime the banking history of Los Angeles has been changed in one or more instances. Within the past year the Citizens' National Bank absorbed the Broadway Bank and Trust Company, and the latter institution is now known as the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, the trust and savings adjunct of the parent concern. Also the Security Savings Bank absorbed the Southern Trust Company and the Equitable Savings Bank, and is now known as the Security Trust and Savings Bank with the biggest resources of any financial institution of the Southwest. The total resources of this bank are now in excess of $45,000,000. The Bank of Southern California has also been absorbed by the Globe Savings Bank, and the combined institution will later have a home in the new building of the Los Angeles Investment Company at Eighth and Broadway.

FINANCIAL CENTER CHANGES.

Gradually the financial center of Los Angeles is being changed from upper to lower Spring street, and within a few months, two of the city's largest banks will be domiciled at Seventh and Spring. The First National will move from Second and Spring to the ground floor of the new Van Nuys building, and the German American Savings Bank will go from the Union Trust building to the Union Oil building. The Hibernian Savings Bank moved some time ago to the second floor of the Union Trust building, Fourth and Spring streets. All of the city's banks are located in accessible quarters and the comfort and convenience of depositors have been the first word. The magnificent homes of the leading institutions are the wonder of visitors.

While the Los Angeles banks have been taking the lead in the forward march of the city, the market value of their securities have advanced to a point that has excited the greatest interest among financiers of the whole country. This has only been possible through the solidity of the banks themselves. Among the city's banks the Merchants' National is a notable example of the high value placed upon a financial institution's stock. Capitalized at $200,000, with $800,000 in the surplus and undivided profits column, paying dividends at the rate of 40 per cent. a year, the standing bid price on this stock on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange is $850 a share with $1095 asked. Not long ago the bid price was up to $1900 a share, but even then none of it was jarred loose.

When that price was offered for the stock of the Merchants' National, all known records were practically surpassed. With one or two exceptions, these being the stocks of New York banks, no such price had ever been offered for similar stock in this country. The case of the First National Bank is another example of the public's confidence in the banks. With a capital of $1,500,000, surplus and

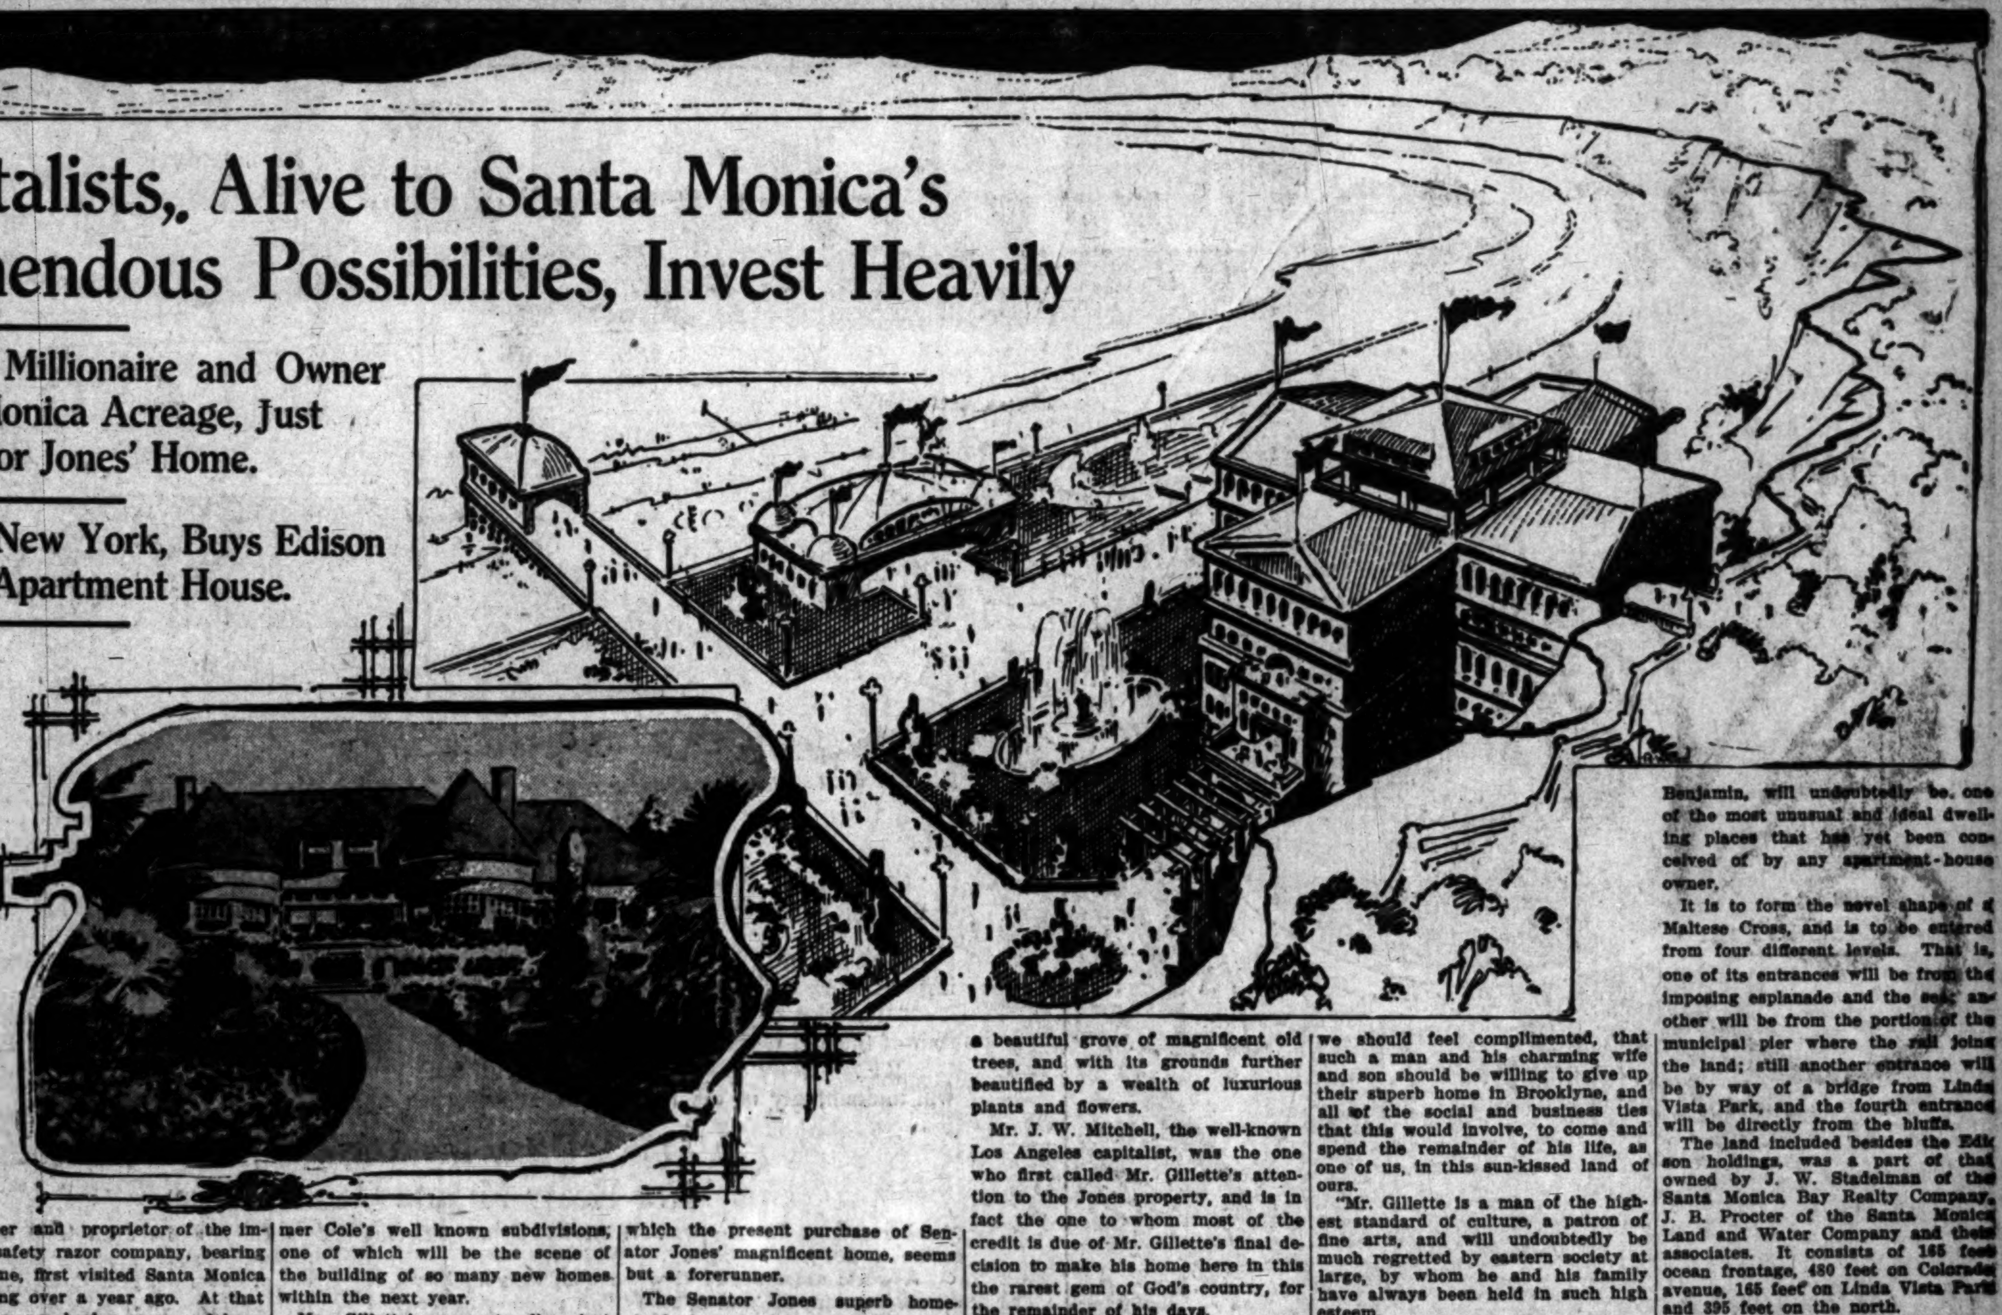
Eastern Capitalists, Alive to Santa Monica's Tremendous Possibilities, Invest Heavily

King C. Gillette, Boston Millionaire and Owner of Immense Santa Monica Acreage, Just Purchased Senator Jones' Home.

Edward P. Benjamin, of New York, Buys Edison Site for $100,000 Apartment House.



The reversed version of the saying "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," or "a noteworthy country is not without honor unless by its own people," forms as true if not a truer maxim than its original, especially when applied to such a community as Santa Monica, for certainly never was a community so alluring to its foreign visitors, as is this peerless Crescent Bay City; though every citizen here is an enthusiast, as well.

There is scarcely a visitor that comes within the environs of Santa Monica, be he a native of a foreign country or of the eastern part of the United States, be he a magnate controlling fortunes, or the modest homemaker, that does not become so enthralled with the beauties, the unrivaled health advantages and the immense investment opportunities of the city; that he at once takes all the steps within his power to place at least a portion of his money here, and ninety-nine times out of every hundred to establish his home as well.

This is the magnet that has lured in the past few months so many eastern capitalists, of which King C. Gillette and Edward P. Benjamin are examples, coming here from practically every part of the East, in ever increasing numbers.

THE KING C. GILLETTE PROPERTY IN SANTA MONICA.

King C. Gillette, who is well known throughout the United States as owner and proprietor of the immense safety razor company, bearing that name, first visited Santa Monica something over a year ago. At that time immense barley crops and bean acreage spread on every side of the site which he finally decided upon; but it didn't take a man with such an amount of keen discernment as Mr. Gillette is known to have, long to see the future in store for such a marvelous community as this, and so he immediately chose for himself a large 160-acre tract, adjoining Elmer Cole's well known subdivisions, one of which will be the scene of the building of so many new homes within the next year.

Mr. Gillette's property lies just between Nevada avenue and Montana avenue, the latter of which being the famous new automobile boulevard, which has just been completed from Robert Marsh's recent beautiful subdivision Ethelwyn Manor to the sea. It no doubt in the not far distant future, will be the scene of immense subdividing activity, of which the present purchase of Senator Jones' magnificent home, seems but a forerunner.

The Senator Jones superb homestead is one of the noted ones of the entire Crescent Bay district; due to the fact largely of its illustrious original possessor, who at one time held such immense possessions in this district, selling them off from time to time to big subdividers, as well as to its natural beauty.

It is located on Ocean avenue, facing the City Park, surrounded by a beautiful grove of magnificent old trees, and with its grounds further beautified by a wealth of luxurious plants and flowers.

Mr. J. W. Mitchell, the well-known Los Angeles capitalist, was the one who first called Mr. Gillette's attention to the Jones property, and is in fact the one to whom most of the credit is due of Mr. Gillette's final decision to make his home here in this the rarest gem of God's country, for the remainder of his days.

Mr. Mitchell in an interview on the subject says, "I believe that in the present addition of the Gillette household to Santa Monica society, we are realizing one of the greatest acquisitions that Southern California has yet known.

"Not only should we feel proud and happy to welcome to our midst a man who has so distinguished himself in Boston's exclusive social, and high financial business circles; but we should feel complimented, that such a man and his charming wife and son should be willing to give up their superb home in Brooklyne, and all of the social and business ties that this would involve, to come and spend the remainder of his life, as one of us, in this sun-kissed land of ours.

"Mr. Gillette is a man of the highest standard of culture, a patron of fine arts, and will undoubtedly be much regretted by eastern society at large, by whom he and his family have always been held in such high esteem.

"I know of no family more fitted to succeed to the Senator Jones' residence, noted far and abroad for its genial hospitality, nor one better adapted to perpetuate this same hospitality, than the Gillette household."

EDWIN P. BENJAMIN'S NEW APARTMENT-HOUSE.

The new $100,000 apartment-house which is to be erected by Edward P. Benjamin, will undoubtedly be one of the most unusual and ideal dwelling places that has yet been conceived of by any apartment-house owner.

It is to form the novel shape of a Maltese Cross, and is to be entered from four different levels. That is, one of its entrances will be from the imposing esplanade and the sea; another will be from the portion of the municipal pier where the rail joins the land; still another entrance will be by way of a bridge from Linda Vista Park, and the fourth entrance will be directly from the bluffs.

The land included besides the Edison holdings, was a part of that owned by J. W. Stadelman of the Santa Monica Bay Realty Company, J. B. Procter of the Santa Monica Land and Water Company and their associates. It consists of 165 feet ocean frontage, 480 feet on Colorado avenue, 165 feet on Linda Vista Park and 395 feet on the north.

It will consist of 200 bedrooms, ninety-five per cent. of which will overlook the ocean, as well as a roof garden, innumerable sleeping porches, ballroom and many other attractive features.

The building will be either of tile, brick or cement.

This is the second purchase of Mr. Benjamin's, the first being that of the Elks' Home where he is now residing.

PRACTICAL TALKS ON EVERY DAY BUSINESS.

Written by the Country's Leading Business Experts.

IDLE DOLLARS PAY NO DIVIDENDS.

BY WILLIAM H. LOUGH,

Professor of Finance, in New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance.

DR. JENKS' COMMENT ON PROF. LOUGH'S TALK.

DON'T you like Mr. Lough's curt advice? "Keep your dollars busy; keep enough of them on or near the firing line." You feel as if you had dollars in plenty.

I suppose the young spendthrift thinks his dollars are "busy;" he has them on the firing line—he fires them, too—but only once; he doesn't keep them on the line; they are not wisely used.

And how this counsel of good sense runs through life—in business, love, war, statesmanship. Many an able youth keeps busy enough, with his attentive courtesies scattered among many charming maidens; and many a winsome beauty bestows her smiles and favors often enough; but perhaps neither concentrates on the firing line at the fitting time. Judgment is poor; rivals triumph.

A German privy councillor lately replied to a hot-head demanding a bold foreign policy that might mean war with England and France: "We are not sure that we have a Von Moltke now." The battalions, he knew, were ready, but they would not conquer without the far-sighted planning of a war genius.

Lincoln took bold risks, relying on his political principles regarding slavery in his famous debates with Douglas in 1858. These principles cost him at first the Senatorship, as he knew they would; but his judgment was right. His reserves were on time. Two years later they won him the Presidency and eventually immortal fame.

Mr. Lough's advice is sound in all fields. Only ripened judgment gives certain success to eager enterprise of any kind. Keep your heart warm, but your head cool.

JEREMIAH W. JENKS.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon Waterloo was practically Napoleon's battle. His confidence was so great that he dispatched a mounted courier to carry the news of victory to Paris. Then suddenly Blucher, with his German troops, came to Wellington's rescue and the tide turned.

Meanwhile Marshal Grouchy, commander of the French reserves, was wasting his strength in a petty skirmish far in the rear. If he had marched on to the battlefield in time, he would have completed the triumph which Napoleon had almost within his grasp.

The troops that get into action before the battle is over are the only troops that help win victories.

It is not such a long jump from war to finance. The business general directing financial operations may take a lesson from Waterloo. His dollars, like Napoleon's troops, must be in the thick of the fight when the crisis comes or they do not count. Many a financial battle has ended in disaster because cash resources held in reserve were not brought into action until too late.

MEETING A SERIOUS CRISIS.

In the winter of 1910, when business in many lines was quiet and collections slow, a manufacturer of hardware specialties in the Middle West—we will call him Smith—found himself drifting into financial difficulties. Heavy bills for merchandise and for machinery that had been installed a few months before were coming due. Smith had figured on meeting the bills out of receipts from increased sales; but the sales fell off instead of growing, and still worse, he found it almost impossible to collect promptly on his outstanding accounts. Smith began to realize that his situation was serious. He must raise considerable cash quickly, or he would be at the mercy of his creditors.

First, he went to his bank, only to learn that no further credit just at this time could be extended to him. Though his plant was already mortgaged, he tried—but without success—to place a second mortgage with some local bank or capitalist.

Finally, as a last resort, he decided to part with a small piece of real estate adjacent to his plant on which he had intended to erect another warehouse. Hat in hand, he went to a man who wanted this piece of land and offered it at a ridiculously low figure. But by this time the prospective buyer, like every other business man in town, knew of Smith's situation and determined to take advantage of it. His counter-proposition was so unreasonable that even if accepted it would not have saved the day. Smith angrily refused

THE ONLY WAY OUT.

Helplessly he watched the approach of the day on which his heaviest bills were to fall due. In desperation he went over the whole case point by point trying to find some loop-hole for escape. His business, on the whole, was prosperous and sound. He knew that if he were once through his temporary difficulty, he could soon put himself into a strong financial position. But he could not raise sufficient cash to pay his bills when due. His credit was already too much extended; his property was not salable.

Smith rightly made up his mind that there was only one thing to do. He called his creditors together, told them his story and put himself and his business into their hands. They did not force him into bankruptcy, but they did compel him to hand over a large interest in his business, and, in addition, to give his personal notes for the sums he owned. It was a heavy sacrifice, one that will cripple Smith's business career for the rest of his life. Yet at the time no other course was open to him.

Three days after the arrangement had been made the prospective buyer of his real estate agreed to accept Smith's original offer—just three days too late. There was no longer any possible advantage in selling his real estate at an abnormally low price. Smith's financial reserves had arrived after the battle was lost.

THE ONE ESSENTIAL LAW OF FINANCE.

There are some important rules for successful financing, but only one rule that it is always absolutely essential to follow. Its violation is the unforgivable sin of finance. Here it is: "Keep plenty of cash or cash resources on or near the firing line."

The rule might be put in negative form in this way: "Never send all your cash reserves so far to the rear that you can't get them into the thick of the battle when needed."

That is just what happens to the farmer who puts all the money he can raise into land and does not have enough cash left to buy farm machinery, fertilizer and efficient help. Either he gets along without these things and thus wastes in large part his investment and his energy, or he buys them on short-time credit and at a serious risk of being unable to meet the obligations he incurs. That farmer has his cash reserves too far behind the line of battle. He is "land poor." In just the same sense many a manufacturer is "plant and machinery poor" and many a merchant is "building and fixtures poor." It is an unpleasant and a dangerous condition.

The chief financial danger of every prosperous business is that its manager will yield too readily to the constant demands upon him for more equipment, for more expensive offices, for a bigger building or plant, or for a permanently larger pay roll. All these things, of course, mean growth and are desirable in the long run, but their immediate effect is to reduce the company's financial strength—to carry dollars back farther from the firing line. Fixed assets, like anything else that is bought in legitimate business, must be paid for, but cannot be promptly turned into cash. An extension or improvement in itself may be highly profitable and yet may easily cause financial wreck. Financial skill shows itself in building up the fixed capital investment of a paying business as rapidly as possible without checking the normal growth of liquid capital.

NO SET RULES FIX WORKING CAPITAL.

What is the right amount of liquid, or "working" capital? It takes a close study of each particular case to answer that question. There are no set rules.

In some lines, such as a commission or jobbing business, the only fixed capital investment consists of office equipment; most of the assets are goods in transit, accounts and notes receivable and cash, all of which are forms of working capital.

At the other extreme, a transportation company has almost all its capital invested in fixed forms; yet its position may be entirely safe, for it has comparatively small short-time obligation to meet. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company actually carries normally a smaller amount of cash and accounts receivable than its outstanding accounts, notes and dividends payable. In other words, it has no net working capital. Yet its position is thoroughly sound financially, chiefly because payments by subscribers to its telephone and telegraph service are customarily made in advance of the service.

TEST OF FINANCIAL STRENGTH.

The best test as to whether working capital is sufficient or not is to compare the quick assets—those which will normally become cash within sixty days—with the quick liabilities. To make certain that money will be on hand to meet the liabilities when they fall due, there ought always to be a good surplus of quick assets. As a banker remarked recently, "Assets always shrink; liabilities never."

In any manufacturing concern the percentage of quick liabilities to quick assets should not run higher than 75 per cent.; 50 per cent. is better. Many banks set up still higher standards and ask that quick assets be reduced to 44 per cent., which is perhaps a trifle over-conservative even for a banker.

The International Harvester Company, which sells almost all its out-

NOTABLE CHALET TYPE.

New Home at Wilshire and Gramercy of Rambling and Commodious Type—Interior Is Distinctive.

On the northeast corner of Wilshire boulevard and Gramercy place may be seen a notable type of the popular chalet style of residence. The place, which is now nearing completion, is generous and inviting in line, rambling and commodious in plan. Harry E. Jones & Co. are the designers and builders. The residence is for Harry Harrington of the Angelus Hotel.

Great stress has been put into the cobble stone work. Massive structural lines predominate and are emphasized with a broad roof overhang and double coursed shingling with raised butts to mark the strong weathering. The stain is of a light bronze green.

A distinctive feature of the interior is the large living-room with its thirteen-foot chapel ceiling. The circular grand staircase and the fernery are finished in Juana Costa mahogany, the furniture being especially designed to match. The dining-room is finished in Circassion walnut, with paneled ceiling and high-paneled base.

The breakfast room is finished in white.

SAVES FINE TREE.

By an unique building plan, worked out with the assistance of friends, and later, in more detail, by architects, Mrs. Isabella H. Sievers has succeeded in not only planning a bungalow of sufficient size for her desires and of unusual beauty, but she has preserved one of the largest and most graceful pepper trees near Los Angeles. The bungalow, which is to cost above $4000, is to be built at once at Lifur and Navarro streets, in Sierra Park. Mrs. Sievers bought the lot some time ago through the Braly-Janss Investment Company, but when she came to design a home every proposed plan necessitated the destruction of the magnificent tree. The solution has come in a design that leaves the pepper standing within a court, the main portion of the bungalow and its two wings protecting the tree on three sides. It rises high enough to not only shade the court, but the entire bungalow as well.

Among the purchases of property in Sierra Park within the last few days was that of Samuel E. Mitchell, superintendent of the City Rescue Mission, in San Francisco, who bought a lot on Hawthorne street, Sierra Park, for his son, a Chicago lawyer, and a large corner for himself on Lifur and Templeton avenue, on which he will later build a home.

FINE FLOW ASSURED.

An unusual flow of water has been found on DuRay place tract, at the end of the West Adams street car line, and this is to be used for the domestic supply of this latest bungalow subdivision. The big well was sunk at the highest elevation of the tract and an immense tank is now being built with a picturesque design for both the reservoir and pumping plant, so that there shall not be the usual eye-sore presented by the ordinary subdivision water works. Pipes will be laid to every lot in the tract and there is assurance of ample supply for household and garden sprinkling purposes.

BUYS ANCHORED LAND.

Somewhere under the broad flood tides of the Mississippi River, N. E. Rash, a visitor in Los Angeles, has a lot of valuable farm land. When he left home this property was in the State of Arkansas, but until the waters recede it cannot be determined to which State the farms may have been annexed. But, whatever may be left and wherever it may be situated, they are for sale. Rash will dispose of them readily and cheaply, for he intends to invest all of his capital in the southland, where unusual winters, periodical floods, deluges and climatic mishaps never occur. Several days ago Rash made his first local investment, buying a residence site in the new town of Owensmouth through Charles E. Thurston, sales manager with the Janss Investment Company. On this he will erect a house.

Motor trucking service has been re-established in Oregon, between the towns of Bend and Burns, a distance of more than 142 miles. The line is said to be the longest in operation in the United States, if not the world.

undivided profits amounting to $2,312,487, and a yearly dividend rate of 28 per cent., the First National stock is held at $710 a share, with $690 a share bid for it on the Los Angeles exchange. At these prices it is very seldom that a trade is recorded in the stock.

OTHER INSTANCES.

The Security Trust and Savings Bank has a paid up capital of $1,650,000, surplus and undivided profits of the same amount, a yearly dividend rate of 16 per cent. and the bid price of the stock is $41[illegible]. The capital of the Germa[illegible]n Savings Bank is $700,000, surplus and undivided profits $615,617, pays 20 per cent. a year in dividends, and the stock is held at $45[illegible] a share, with $395 a share offered for it. The Farmers' and Merchants' National stock is now commanding a price of $351 a share, Central National $225 a share, Citizens' National $232.50 National Bank of California $207.50, and other banks in the same proportion.

Conceding the present population of Los Angeles to be 400,000, the present approximate total of $200,000,000 on deposit in the local banks would mean $500 for every man, woman and child in the city's confines. This immense sum of money belonging to the people is in the hands of thirty-six financial institutions as trustees, and that it is being handled to the satisfaction of the depositors is attested by the constant increase in these accumulations.

BUYS ORCHARD DALE LAND.

W. W. Shank, manager of the Southern California division of the Roeding & Wood Nursery Company, purchased this week, for his father-in-law, Henry Newman, treasurer of Tulare county, a lot of the Orchard Dale Tract, the consideration being $4000. Mr. Shank had himself invested in property at Orchard Dale during the past fall. The property bought by Mr. Newman will be set to lemon and orange trees during the coming month.

UTAH CAPITALIST PROMOTING IMPORTANT PROJECT.

Pennsylvania Automobile Manufacturers Invest Half Million Dollars in San Diego County—Big Brewing Concern to Erect Huge Plant at Once.

SAN DIEGO, April 13.—A 500-room hotel, to be operated at popular prices, is projected by A. J. Davis of Salt Lake City. Davis is in conference with local capitalists, whom he is trying to interest in the enterprise. He has been here several days and declares he has an option on a suitable location. Besides local capital he will interest Salt Lake men of means. He has been a resident of Salt Lake many years, is Past Exalted Ruler of Salt Lake Lodge of Elks, and at one time was president of the City Council. He expects to raise at least $300,000 for the investment.

Joseph F. Mack and A. F. Mack, automobile manufacturers of Allentown, Pa., have invested $500,000 in San Diego and Lower California. Their latest purchase was 5000 acres of land at Linda Vista, north of San Diego, for a reported consideration of $300,000. The land was bought of A. H. Frost and S. F. Smith of this city. The Mack brothers recently bought of O. J. Stough 320 acres adjoining La Jolla and abutting on the ocean, for $150,000. The Macks own the Bentley ostrich farm in this city, and are now stocking a big ranch near Ensenada with blooded horses imported from Belgium.

The Bay City Brewing Company will soon begin the construction of a plant on Hancock street to cost $200,000. The buildings will cost $173,000, the successful bidders being the Brown & DeCew Construction Company of San Diego. The equipment will be supplied by the A. F. Goetz Company of Chicago. C. F. Lang of Chicago is president of the Bay City Brewing Company.

A. S. Bridges has accepted plans by Arthur H. Stibolt for a brick residence to cost $45,000, to be erected on Point Loma, on a site of two acres overlooking San Diego and Coronado. The house will be three stories high with an architectural style of modified Italian Renaissance. A feature will be a pipe organ to cost $15,000. All contracts will be awarded within thirty days.

F. M. Brown has begun the erection of a three-story apartment building of fifty-nine rooms, at the southwest corner of Twenty-first and D streets, to cost $25,000.

Nelson Barker this week took out a building permit for a two-story tile residence of sixteen rooms, to cost $30,000, and to be erected at the northeast corner of Third and Walnut streets.

E. J. Swayne & Co. this week sold to a local syndicate the northeast corner of Seventh and E streets, 100 by 100 feet, containing four old buildings, for $80,000. The property was sold for D. C. Reed, who bought it three years ago from Mrs. Ellen M. Hitchcock for $50,000.

A sale of 150 by 200 feet of residence property fronting on First street and extending to Front, between Palm and Quince, was consummated by E. J. Swayne & Co. for $10,000. The lots were sold for John Stewart to Masten & Kendall.

The Dibble Realty Company has sold to James J. Mahler of Grafton, N. D., twenty-five acres in Sweetwater Valley for $7500. Five acres of the tract are in citrus fruit.

BLOCK WILL BE MODERN.

New Home of Neckwear Wholesalers to Be Seven Stories in Height and Absolutely Fireproof in Type.

Construction will be begun within a short time upon the new seven-story, fireproof home of the Marion R. Gray Company, to be erected at Nos. 752-754 South Los Angeles street. The company, which is one of the largest engaged in the manufacture and wholesaling of neckwear in the United States, will occupy the entire first floor of the building, the rest of which will be arranged in lofts and offices for the exclusive use of manufacturers' agents.

The structure will be of reinforced concrete and will occupy a ground area of 55x95 feet. It will cost about $75,000. The project has been in the hands of the W. Ross Campbell Company since its inception.

BIG TRACT FOR MARKET.

By the adjustment of an estate that has been held up in the probate courts for more than ten years, a fine piece of property in the Beaumont Valley is about to be placed on the market. This 1500-acre tract, said to be worth $200,000, has lain idle through the years that Southern California has been recording its greatest growth. Many investors have sought to secure part of the land. The settlement of the estate with the consequent opening up of the big acreage has placed the land under the direction of Selover and Whipple, with Strong & Dickinson. They acquired the land immediately following the finale of litigation proceedings and are starting at once to complete preliminary work of subdividing. Surveyors are laying out the tract and contractors are rushing a gigantic reservoir with a capacity of 2,800,000 gallons of water. Wells are being sunk to feed this reservoir and from the container the water will be piped to every acre for both domestic and irrigation purposes. The 1500 acres are at the immediate outskirts of Beaumont, fronting the transcontinental automobile highway and extending one mile along the town limits.

Mayor Rolph insists that the grand jury furnish him with evidence against the McCarthy appointees before he removes them from office. The members of the grand jury say that the law does not permit them to disclose the secret testimony given before them. The secretary, however, suggests to the Mayor that all he has to do is to question the accused men as to what they have done and have not done and he will find cause enough to fire them.

MRS. "BILL" SULZER.

Wife of the Chairman of Foreign Affairs, Occupies a Prominent Position Among the Women Who Compose the Social Set of the Lower House.

BY MARGARET B. DOWNING.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—William Sulzer, Representative from the tenth district of New York, is among the men serving in the House who are nationally known. He has served on the Democratic side in the lower legislative chamber longer than any of his political brethren with the sole exception of William Atkinson Jones of Virginia. But Mrs. William Sulzer, though ranking all the hostesses from her State, dates her official residence in Washington only from 1908. Her marriage was the result of a romance which had continued for many years before it ended. It is one of the happy unions which the capital can show. When a girl in her early teens she became enthusiastic over the idea of becoming a trained nurse and devoting her life to suffering humanity. A long and tedious illness of her mother and the presence of nurses in her home perhaps suggested the idea. Then it was the precise juncture of time that Miss [illegible] Fisher arrived from London with some very charming English girls of high social rank who had taken up the profession of nursing, not so much as a means of livelihood as a sort of religious vocation.

"I could scarcely wait until I could complete my course at school and reach the accepted age to enter," said Mrs. Sulzer, discussing the trained nurse phase of her life. "A wave of enthusiasm seemed to have swept over the country, and many entered the training hospitals in direct opposition of their parents' wishes. My parents were not particularly well pleased at my decision, and I think it was their lack of encouragement which spurred me on to make a success of my chosen career when once I had started. I took the entire course in the Presbyterian Hospital of Chicago, and then remained some time afterwards assisting in various kinds of work. Later I was assistant superintendent of the Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City. After devoting some years to this work, I became weary of the routine and confinement and perhaps of the heavy responsibility, resigned that post and spent a few years in private nursing. I had, however, given up the idea and returned to my parents' home before I married.

"Having an inside view of nursing and realizing its tremendous significance in the national life, I have very decided views on the subject. One thing I deplore that the spirit of commercialism is nowhere more apparent than in the nursing profession, and I regret that the perfection of the art is less considered than the remuneration which comes after the delivery of the training hospital. I admit that in every profession where a person expects to gain a living the [illegible] point is a monetary one. But nursing calls for more than a desire to make $15, $20 or $35 a week, and I believe the latest fee is for capable nurses. A deep compassion for the ailing and an earnest effort to aid not only the patient but to be helpful to the entire family should be an impelling force. I regret to say that those who are so inspired are the exception and not the rule.

"I am an advocate of the two years' course, instead of keeping the girls three or sometimes four years preparing for their work. In this, I started a reform in methods while at Mt. Sinai, and that was to give every training class the practical demonstration of all instructions and theories and under the eye of the teacher or the doctor giving the [illegible]. In two years a girl will learn all knowledge that is needful to nurse for the average cases. If the nurse shows special aptitude, then she should take advanced courses, which are always open to experienced trained nurses. There is an excellent college in Columbia, New York City, and some half-dozen others in easy reach of all those who desire the extra knowledge. Studying to be a nurse is dreary work, and it is enough to batter down some of the ideals which one may entertain in adopting this profession. Two years of it is therefore all that the general run of girls can endure. To draw it out another year means to compel more than needful to drop out, and suffer from physical exhaustion and [illegible] for the work. Thus it reduces the number of nurses with an accompanying elevation of charges for their services. I am a champion for the shorter course for the many and the advanced course for the exceptionally bright and capable, and this will lighten the burden put upon those who must have nurses in their families and who cannot pay the present high rate charged.

"I think that few people realize all that humanity owes to the modern trained nurse idea. Read the records of the past and see what conditions are now compared to those of fifty or seventy-five years past. We are all familiar with the Betsy Prig and Sairey Gamp type of nurse and with other ghouls of history and fiction. It is [illegible] that American hospitals are considered the best and most scientifically managed of any in the world. Constantly the heads of similar institutions in England and the great cities come here to study our methods and to bring back to their people the result of our natural [illegible] and broad spirit of philanthropy. The nurse as trained today is one of the greatest benefactors of the world and a strong [illegible] in civilization and national development. The discipline which the profession requires brings out the best qualities in a woman and elevates her immeasurably from the old-time self-indulgent mercenary who, under the garb of charity, prayed on [illegible]."

Mrs. Sulzer is at present in deep mourning for her mother, Mrs. Maximilian Rodelheim, who died the latter part of March in Philadelphia. Mrs. Rodelheim was a gentle, retiring lady, who had resided in her old home with her daughters all these years since the death of her husband. She was born at Livingston, and her family was among the oldest and most prominent in Wilkesbarre, Pa. Mrs. Sulzer was devoted to her mother, and she spent much time with her during her declining years. She has declined all invitations since her bereavement, and will not take part in the gaieties of the spring season. There are two sisters who will continue to reside in their old home in [illegible] Philadelphia not far from Fairmount Park, but they will make frequent visits to Washington during the spring.

"Mr. Sulzer and I are never so happy as when we have leisure to [illegible]. For years past he has spent his vacation weeks in Alaska, where he owned a roomy bungalow and there I have been his companion since our marriage more than four years ago," said Mrs. Sulzer. "I am just a little solicitous that this year we will be deprived our jaunt. It is now that anyone interested in politics at all, and, of course, we are concerned, cannot stir very far from home. This vacation is a time of pure delight, when we get back to nature and far from cities, papers, people or books, we take deep draughts of ozone and lay up a supply of strength and endurance for the winter. Mr. Sulzer hunts, and our home in New York is fairly museum-like with walrus tusks, bear skins, beaver skins, and we have given away more trophies than we have kept. The bungalow is near the town of Ketchikam and in a glorious wilderness of sky and sea and wonderful geologic formations. Fishing is a favorite diversion of Mr. Sulzer's, and one in which I can join. Salmon abound in such numbers that they offer no inducement to the lover of Isaac Walton's principles. There is excellent halibut and other deep-sea fish. Halibut fishing is one of the industries of the section. The Indians come down the waters in rafts when the ice breaks and catch the fish in nets. It is an unique sight to watch them counting their haul, and I beleive that they get only one piece for the excellent fresh halibut, which costs us so much when we purchase it at the market. Alaska offers a splendid field for those who desire rest and are not looking for new ways of dissipating their strength. As a resort for the brain-fagged it is gaining immense popularity. For those who wish to throw off all the cares and responsibilities of modern life it is unequaled. Then it offers opportunities to the curio hunters, and it is a field which is being fast exploited. From the Esquimaux most curious ivory and carved-wood objects may be gotten, and then for skins for home decorations or for robes for carriages and lounges it is a mine of treasures."

Representative and Mrs. Sulzer reside in a modest apartment in Capital Hill, and they camp out, as it were. Still they are most hospitable and constantly welcome their friends. Their New York home is their most cherished possession. It is the old Rutherford mansion down on the corner of Second avenue near St. Mark's Church. This ancient house is among the few remaining relics of eighteenth century New York and one associates the wide, wainscoted rooms and stately hall and stairway with the rustle of faded silk and the clinking of swords and spurs, while in the fine old dining-room the splendor of colonial silver and pewter and rare French china obstrudes among the beautiful modern possessions. Mrs. Sulzer delights in gathering odds and ends from every part of the world to adorn her home. Recently she has added to her stock of flat silverware the handsome tribute which Mr. Sulzer's district bestowed on him at the dinner given in honor of his fifty-ninth birthday. It is a splendid mahogany chest with silver adornments and a commemorative tablet in the center. Within are seventeen dozen of every sort of knife, fork, spoon; a generous allowance of ladies, carving sets and odd pieces for every conceivable use in serving food. She has also fine old china and furniture of the middle eighteenth century. Mrs. Sulzer is a domestic woman with every interest absorbed in the welfare of her husband and the care of her home. She has, however, ardent sympathies with all reformatory movements, though she has little time except to advise and to encourage.

Representative and Mrs. Sulzer were married in Atlantic City in the summer of 1907 by Bev. Herbert Gessner of Elizabeth, N. J.

Writing and Selling a Story.

[New York Evening Post:] John Kendrick Bangs tells this story of an attempt he made to get the better of Richard Harding Davis:

"Davis and I were talking one day of his Van Bibber stories, and incidentally I asked him how long it had taken him to write them.

" 'Oh, about ten days each,' he replied.

"I ventured to express the opinion that such a story could well be written in a couple of hours, and the result was that we made a bet of a dinner based on my ability to write a story similar in style to the Van Bibbers, and to have it accepted by a New York editor.

"When I reached my home in Yonkers that night I wrote the story, the work occupying the time from 8 until 10 o'clock; at 10 the next morning I reached my office in Franklin Square; at 10:30 I submitted my story to myself; at 10:45 I had read it, my warm regard for the author leading me to expedite the matter as much as possible; at 11 o'clock I accepted the manuscript, and at 11:15 I drew an order on the cashier for $100 in payment, which I at once cashed. Then I went out to find Davis. Meeting him I told him of what I had done, detailed the various steps, and at the end held out in my hand the cash to prove the transaction really had been consummated.

"Davis looked at me, then at the bills.

" 'Well,' I said, 'what of that dinner, Davis?'

" 'Huh,' grunted Davis, 'if you have all that money you can afford to buy your own dinner.' "

Quakers Increasing in Number.

[London Globe:] Amid so many instances of the decline in the membership of religious denominations it is of interest to note that the Quakers are increasing in numbers. According to the figures for the year ended December 31, 1910, which have recently been issued, it appears that the membership of the London yearly meeting, which includes all members of the society in Great Britain and about 650 in the Antipodes, amounts to 19,522, an increase of 174 on the previous year. In America there are now 95,912 Friends, which is 365 less than in the previous year, but 2862 more than in 1900. There is a serious drop, however, in the year of 559 connected with American foreign mission stations, whereas there has been an increase of 385 in a total of 3209 members at British foreign missionary centers. The total number of Quakers throughout the world is 124,484.

The Oldest Investment.

[From Leslie's Weekly:] The oldest investment security on earth is the real estate mortgage. We know that money was loaned on mortgages in ancient Babylon in the time of King Hamurabi, four thousand years ago and that some twenty-five hundred years ago the great Babylonian banking-house of the Egibi family invested large sums in mortgages on both city and farm property, the mortgages being recorded on bricks, which have been preserved in the safety deposit vaults of those times—great earthenware jars buried in the earth—preserved until the archaeologists in our own day and age, dug them up to show us when, where and how mortgage originated.

The Bedouin's Three Treasures.

[Winnipeg Saturday Post:] There are always three things uppermost in the Bedouin's mind; his gun, his horse and his wives. The most modern arms of precision have replaced the primitive spear, which, until a few years ago, was the usual weapon.

The Bedouin is quick to realize the efficiency of modern weapons, and soon becomes an expert marksman. So much has the spear fallen out of favor that the bearer of one would be ridiculed in his own camp. Such pride has the Bedouin in his weapons that even in his leisure hours he sits fully armed, examining and cleaning each piece in turn, making himself accustomed to carrying their weight.

No youth considers himself a man until he has fully equipped himself. A sword is much esteemed, but generally only as an heirloom and as giving distinction to the bearer. There are to be found many excellent blades among the sheiks, some with a history of hundreds of years, having been handed down from father to son.

Plants that go to Sleep.

[New York Post:] Plants have a mind of their own on the subject of winter sleep, and gardeners have tried various methods of waking them up prematurely, to furnish blossoms at a time when they are scarce and costly. Mere greenhouse heat and moisture failing to yield the desired results they have successfully tried warm baths and ether vapors to shorten the hibernating period of bulbs. From Germany comes a description of the latest plan devised by a man named Weber. By sticking a needle into the base of a bud he has caused it to unfold two or three weeks ahead of its fellows. Still more time was gained by injecting water into the buds. Not content with water, a physician has tried injections of water with 10 per cent. of alcohol. By this means he succeeded in gaining ten days in the budding of oak twigs.

High Islands of St. Lawrence.

[New York Sun:] The Magdalens are a group of thirteen or fourteen islands that lie almost in the center of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Bird Rock is the most northerly island of the group and is little more than a huge rock rising abruptly out of the sea to a height of 140 feet, on which the Canadian government maintains one of the most inaccessible lighthouse stations of the Atlantic Coast. Thousands of gannets, murres, kittiwakes and other sea fowl hover over it at all times, while beneath on its rocky ledges they have built myriads of nests in a series of tiers. The sides of the rock are very precipitous and until a few years ago, when a roadway was blasted out of the solid rock leading to the top, all visitors and supplies were taken ashore by a cage lowered to the water and hoisted up by means of a windlass. The waves that generally break upon it are so tremendous that it is possible to effect a landing only in calm weather.

Will Farm Rattlesnakes.

[Chicago Record-Herald:] One hundred rattlesnakes from the Schagticoke Hills, in Connecticut, are to be brought here by Cecil Miles, station agent of the New York and New Haven Railroad in Great Barrington, to start a twelve-acre rattlesnake farm, land for which he has just purchased in the western part of that town.

On the farm is a snake den, where four rattlesnakes were captured last summer. The timber was cut off several years ago, and the stubble growth and clefts in the rocks made it an ideal place to raise the snakes. Mr. Miles says rattlesnake oil is worth $5 a pint, and he believes there is also a fortune in the skins. He expects to have at least 5000 rattlers within three years.

Mr. Miles knows where the dens of the rattlers in South Berkshire are. During the summer he often goes out, wearing rubber boots and carrying a forked stick, with which he catches them alive as they bask in the sun.

Bank Bars Married Women.

[Chicago Tribune:] The Continental and Commercial Bank, one of the largest financial institutions in Chicago, has passed a rule regarding the resignation of all women employees when they marry. According to Vice-President W. G. Schroeder, the bank, which employed 100 women clerks, bars married women for these reasons:

Business and matrimony do not go together.

A bank is a business institution, not a school for matrimony.

Love affairs in banks should be thoroughly discouraged.

Married women should be at home, not at a typewriter or adding machine, and should not arrogate the rights of single women who have to earn their own living.

"There is a rule in our bank that when a woman employee gets married she automatically resigns," added Mr. Schroeder. "In February two of our girls were married. They were permitted to retain their jobs until April at their own request. All the others were discharged when the rule went into effect.

Happy Outlook.

RAIN INSURES GOOD CROPS.

Whole of Central California Is Optimistic.

Prosperity Reflected in Real Estate Market.

Sales of Citrus Lands Reach Large Aggregate.

PORTERVILLE, April 13.—One and one-half inches of rain thus far in April, added to the heavy precipitation during March, has insured the crops of this district beyond all question. The appearance of this portion of the valley has never been better in its history, and land-seekers who have visited all portions of this State during the past few weeks unite in the statement that there is no part of California which presents a more universally prosperous appearance.

As a result of these conditions, trade in realty continues brisk and there is every indication that the record begun early in the year is to be continued throughout the spring season.

Los Angeles purchases were not the feature of the market this week that they have been at other periods of the year, although there has been some activity among the southern investors.

E. Winter of Hollywood, who purchased 1000 acres of foothill land in the Strathmore district two years ago, has sold one section of his holdings to southern investors, whose names have not yet been given out. Winter received $84,000 for the property, which represents a clear profit of $24,000 for his two years' holding of the tract. It is understood that the new owners expect to develop the tract, though their exact plans have not as yet been made public.

Mrs. Alfreda Verwoert of Hanford has closed a deal for the purchase of 360 acres of foothill property west of this city. The greater portion of the land she has purchased is adapted to citrus culture and Mrs. Verwoert is planning extensive development this year.

The C. K. Towt lands in the Strathmore district foothills was sold this week to George H. Bradley, a nationally-known merchant of New York City, and E. J. Wilson, a business associate, the ranch bringing the owners $94,000. There are 120 acres of land in the property, of which eighty acres are in 6-year-old trees and twenty acres in 3-year-olds, about evenly divided between navels and Valencias. The remaining twenty acres are to be planted to Valencias. Mr. Bradley is in this city at the present time taking personal charge of the development work on his property, and he states that his improvement plans include the construction of a fine bungalow, which he will occupy during the orange harvesting season.

OHIOANS BUY ACREAGE.

The Ireton Land Company is the corporate title of an association of business men of Ireton, O., who have purchased eighty acres of orange lands in this district, forty acres of which is just to the north of the Strathmore Ranch Company's big tract in the Strathmore foothills, and forty acres four miles north and west. A. W. Williams of Whittier was the owner of the property, and although the consideration is not given, it is said that Mr. Williams realized a comfortable sum from his investment. The Ireton company will plant the entire eighty to oranges.

William Crawford, millionaire merchant of New York City, has purchased from Olds & White, Porterville business men, a forty-acre tract of bare land in the Deer Creek district. Crawford paid $150 per acre for the property. He is here at the present time letting contracts for the installation of a complete irrigating system. His plans are for a beautiful place and he hopes to make his orchard one of the show orchards of the Deer Creek district.

Several small sales have been reported from the Richgrove district, to southern investors, among them: S. R. Shoup, 30 acres of orange lands, with water rights; E. E. Hannah of Los Angeles, 10 acres; Bertha J. Platt of Los Angeles, 10 acres and J. M. Brummett of Los Angeles, 10 acres.

In the Deer Creek and Terra Bella districts there have been closed recently deals for the sale of 10 acres to Albert C. Chaille of San Bernardino; C. H. Bridgen of Los Angeles, 10 acres; John Gale of Midland, 10 acres and David Valdes of Pomona, 10 acres.

There has been some movement of alfalfa land this week, among the sales reported being 30 acres of the March D. Ford property in the Poplar district to Hjalmar D. Johnson, a recent comer to this district from the South. Johnson will put the holding into alfalfa and will make of it a part of his Poplar dairy plant.

BUYS ALFALFA TRACT.

Amos R. Coleman of Los Angeles, but recently from the East, has purchased a 20-acre tract of alfalfa and deciduous fruit land in the Westfield district, from H. A. Holland, who recently came here from the South. Coleman has let the contract for the installation of a pumping plant and will put the tract out to alfalfa.

One of the largest deals recorded in the Central California district this year, is the transfer of a 5000-acre tract of foothill and bottom land on the Kern line, from the Central California Farms Company, an association of Los Angeles business men, to the Railroad Realty Company, also a Los Angeles concern, the property changing hands at approximately $100 per acre, or practically $500,000. The new owners absolutely refuse to make any statement as to the future development of the property. Of the tract there are about 1000 acres now in young deciduous and citrus fruits, and an irrigation system has already been installed which will cover about one-third of the holding.

Development work in the Jasmine country is perhaps the most advanced of any of the new work of this district for the present year and thus far contracts have been let for the planting of quite 400 acres of orange and lemon lands. Trees are scarce and high, which is tending to retard the development of the citrus lands in all portions of this district. Estimates place the total land to be planted at between 1000 and 1500 acres, despite the high prices.

RANCHERS ARE HAPPY.

Beet Growers Around Van Nuys Elated By Late Rains—Church Campaign Is Bearing Fruit.

VAN NUYS, April 13.—The ranchers around Van Nuys are a happy lot. Over two inches of rainfall this week has made reasonably certain an enormous crop of potatoes; the young orchards planted last year are in elegant shape; over 100,000 fruit trees have been planted this season, and they are profiting by these late rains.

The American Beet Sugar Company has thinners in their fields, and are still continuing to plant beets. They have at present about 6000 acres planted. At the Van Nuys headquarters the officers in charge are very optimistic of a large crop.

The school trustees have readvertised for bids on the new school building, which will be opened on April 26. This building is estimated to cost $50,000.

The First Presbyterian Church of Van Nuys was organized last Sunday with an enrollment of forty-four members. Rev. Pritchard of the Central Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles delivered the sermon and the organization was in charge of Rev. W. B. Noble, D. D., superintendent of home missions.

An active campaign will now be carried on to complete the fund for the erection of a $10,000 church building, $6000 of which is already in sight. The church will be built on a lot on West "E" street, which is to be donated by the Suburban Homes Company.

The Pacific Electric Company is placing rock ballast on its right of way in the town preparatory to asphalting its tracks between the thirty-foot driveways on each side. This will complete the 110-foot street, which runs through the town for a distance of a mile.

Poppy day will be celebrated on April 20. Arrangements are being made to take care of a large crowd of visitors.

Building still continues active. J. B. Brackett's new business block is nearing completion. J. W. Miles has broken ground for a business building opposite the Hotel Van Nuys. At least twenty new residences will be commenced within the next few weeks.

Notwithstanding the large number of houses built in Van Nuys during the past year there are few unoccupied, and none for rent. Many people desiring to locate here have been unable to find quarters.

ACTIVE WEEK REPORTED.

Several Fine Crown City Homes Change Hands—Milwaukee Capitalist Buys Orange Grove Show Place.

PASADENA, April 14.—Last week was an active one among real estate men of the city. Several important sales of residence property were made and a large number of smaller transactions closed.

Charles Ray of Milwaukee, through the David Blankenhorn Company, purchased of William C. Reynolds the magnificent residence property at No. 280 South Orange Grove avenue, for a consideration reported to have been about $50,000. The lot is 100 feet by 216 feet in dimensions, and is located between the home recently purchased by F. H. Stevens and the residence of Dr. H. H. Sherk.

Ray was formerly president of the Merchants' Exchange National Bank of Milwaukee, and later was connected with the Northwestern Life Insurance Company there. He and Mrs. Ray passed the winter in the city, making their home at the Hotel Green. They were so captivated with Pasadena that they determined permanently to locate here.

F. S. Allen last week sold his residence, at the southwest corner of Santa Rosa avenue and Calaveras street, Altadena, to J. K. Stewart of Chicago. The consideration is reported to have been in the neighborhood of $33,000. The property has a frontage of 380 feet on Santa Rosa avenue and an almost equal depth on Calaveras street. The house is of Spanish design and has twelve rooms. There are many valuable plants and trees on the grounds.

The William R. Staats Company last week reported the sale of a lot at the northeast corner of Orange Grove boulevard and Kensington drive, owned by Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich. Mrs. Adalbert Fenyes, whose residence adjoins on the north, is the purchaser. The consideration is understood to have been $15,000.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Of building permits issued in Pasadena last week those for improvements to cost $1000 or more were: Fitz E. Beach, one-story frame barn, No. 711 South Broadway, $1400; L. A. Johnson, six-room bungalow and garage, No. 485 Davenport street, $1800; Fred Hawley, five-room frame cottage, No. 288 Franklin avenue, $1600; C. A. Litchfield, nine-room frame residence, No. 342 Worcester avenue, $3000; J. A. Thomas, Jr., six-room frame bungalow, No. 884 South Marengo avenue, $1400; J. P. Edwin, five-room bungalow, No. 405 Galena avenue, $2000; S. Bland, five-room frame bungalow, No. 685 Howard street, $1600; F. O. Andrae, five-room frame bungalow, No. 333 Ohio street, $1400; F. O. Andrae, six-room frame bungalow, No. 983 South Euclid avenue, $1500; E. Luermore, six-room frame bungalow, No. 99 Pepper street, $2000; James Holmes, six-room frame bungalow, No. 172 Millard avenue, $1600; E. M. Williams, seven-room frame bungalow, No. 685 Magnolia avenue, $3700; John U. Miller, six-room frame bungalow, No. 162 North Sierra Bonita avenue, $1400.

RAPID PROGRESS MADE.

FINE BLOCKS UNDER WAY.

SOUTH PASADENA, April 13.—Rapid progress is being made along the lines of private enterprise in South Pasadena. One evidence of this is the construction of the three-story business block at the corner of Fair Oaks avenue and Hope street. Added to this is the construction of the brick storerooms at the corner of Fremont avenue and Mission street, which is fast making headway towards completion. Already the Ong building graces the corner at Fair Oaks avenue and Mission street, and reports are current that a similar building is to be erected on the northwest corner of the same streets, as well as that other business blocks are contemplated. In every quarter of the city one can see attractive bungalows and residences in the course of construction.

O. Hibbard reports the sale for F. E. Durbin of Pasadena to A. C. Ong of a seven-acre orange grove, planted to bearing navels, near Colton, the reported consideration being $8000. This property was purchased as an investment.

Improvements amounting to $700 are now in progress at the Cawston Ostrich Farm. These include a fireproof vault and a waiting station at the car line. The vault is of steel and brick construction, and the waiting station will be an attractive one, accommodating many more people than the former one.

Mrs. Julia Ruth, whose home at No. 1503 El Centro street was destroyed by fire, has taken out a permit for a new bungalow to cost $2300.

NEW ADDITION OPENED.

ACRE FARMS TO BE OFFERED.

EL SEGUNDO, April 13.—W. I. Hollingsworth & Company are preparing to place on the market a new addition of acre farms. The "Back to the Land" movement now taking place all over Southern California is well shown in the extraordinary sales of El Segundo acreage by the Hollingsworth organization.

W. H. Morrison and W. W. Phillips have purchased five acres between Walnut and Maple avenues on Sheldon street. It is their intention to build a modern cottage and make a modern farm of their five-acre tract.

The moral welfare of El Segundo is not neglected. The Baptists recently completed and dedicated a fine house of worship, and other churches recognize the future importance of this city and are making arrangements to have the welfare of their members living here looked after.

The Presbyterians, through Dr. Noble, have selected a lot at the corner of Grand avenue and Arena street and will probably build before long.

Bishop Conaty has selected a lot for a Roman Catholic Church at the corner of Mariposa avenue and Concord street.

These lots have been given the churches without price by the El Segundo Land and Improvement Company.

WHITTIER ACRES OPENED.

Among the many fine home tracts of the Whittier section, the newest is Whittier Acres, which has just been subdivided and is now being planted to oranges and lemons. This is a part of the old Santa Gertrudes ranch and at one time was the property of Gov. Gage. Recently acquired by the Santa Gertrudes Land Company, it is now being offered in tracts of two and one-half, five and ten acres. One hundred acres of the tract is now being planted to Eureka lemons. Other parts of the subdivision will be planted to navel and valencia oranges. The tract possesses a fine irrigation system, with water for a thousand acres or more. Water will be delivered through cement pipes to the highest point of every tract sold. Streets are now being graded, water pipes laid and other development work is actively in progress. Charles F. O'Brien Company of Los Angeles and the Smith Realty Company of Pasadena are the selling agents.

BUYS ON NINTH.

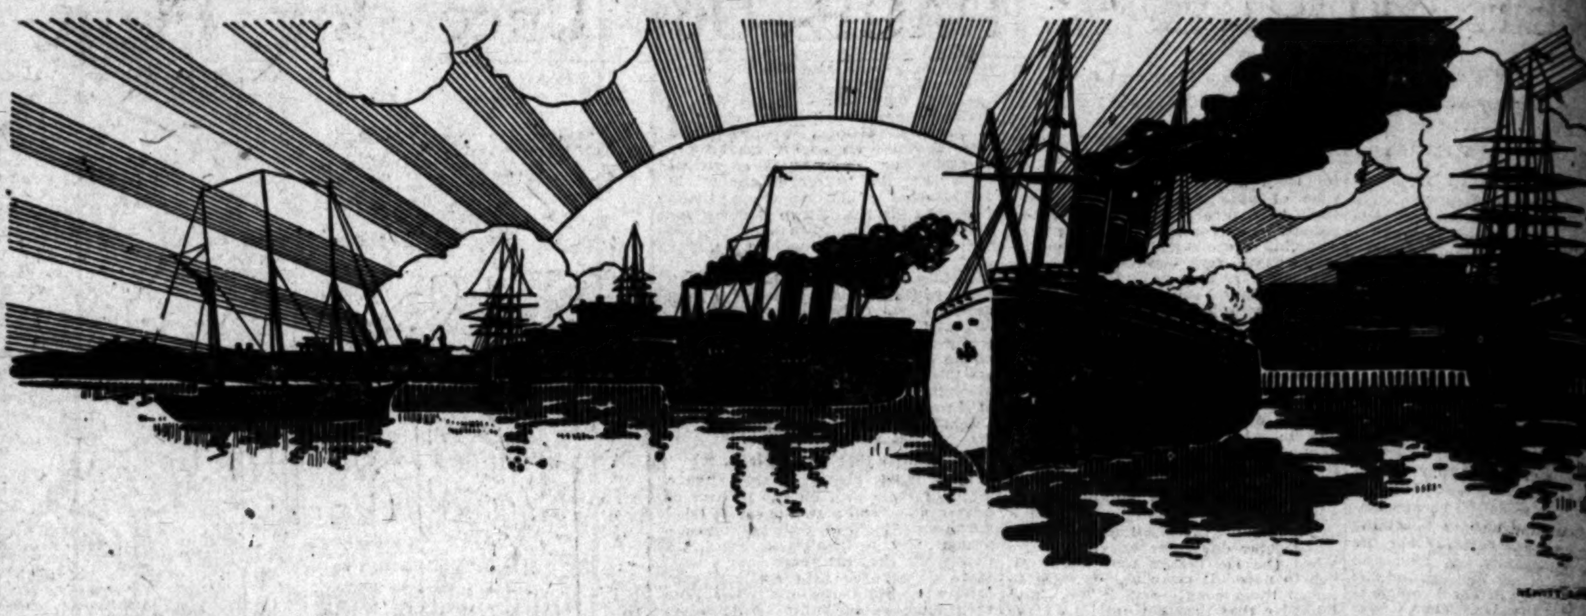
Hildesheim & Schiller report the following sales: Lot 52x151 feet, north side of Ninth street, between Stewart and Garland, with nominal improvements; Z. L. Parmalee to I. N. Noeman, consideration, $12,500; No. 675 Westmoreland avenue, 60x140 feet, improved with eleven-room house, George H. Rector to F. E. Harris, $15,000; No. 1522 Winfield street, lot 50x125 feet, improved with five-room cottage, Mrs. L. V. Brown to R. N. Hoper; lot 50x100 feet, west side of Bixel, between Seventh and Eighth streets, just north of the St. Catherine Apartments, to S. Tilden Norton from the Title Insurance & Trust Co., $12,000; this lot to be improved with a four-story brick apartment-house. The southwest corner of Park avenue and Ocean Front at Ocean Park, 55x145 feet, Peter Haack to Mrs. Nellie Powars, $27,000. The southeast corner of Horizon avenue and Trolley Way, Ocean Park, 60x90 feet, to Jos. Copp of Hollywood, stated consideration, $6000. Lot 38x90 feet, on Ocean Front, Venice, $2500, to F. P. Nutting.

ACTIVITY CONTINUES.

The Pitzer Realty announces that the activity in the 43,000-acre tract of Caney Act land at Delta, Utah, continues. The dam, ditches and cement headgates are all completed and have been inspected by the State Engineer. The water was turned into the ditches April 1. Many farmers have moved onto their places and have built houses and planted crops. The town of Delta is also being built up. The new fireproof hotel and a drug store are nearly completed and deals have just been closed for the building of a department store and bank building.

CITY BOUNDARY TRACT.

Among the sales reported by the McCarthy Company are: Charles Pressley, house and lot in City Boundary Tract, at No. 1406 Avery avenue, $2250. G. F. Strongland, lot in Florence Avenue Heights Tract, $725; A. McKinnon, lot in Moneta-Manchester avenue and Main Street Tract, $600, and Miss Mary E. Dickenson, lot in same tract, $1500.



The Sun Is Just Rising On The Greater San Diego

Men who bought property in Los Angeles ten years ago are independent today. The same opportunities for profitable investments are ripe in San Diego right NOW. San Diego has grown from a town of 17,000 in 1900 to over 50,000 today, while it is conservatively estimated that within three years it will be over 100,000. Unlike conditions prevailing in most cities—there can be no question as to where to invest in San Diego for greatest profits. The residential growth of the city is limited by geographical conditions to practically one direction—and right across the path of this inevitable growth lies

"City Heights"

It is ultra-conservative to estimate that a man can at least double his money in "City Heights" in two years. The property stands 850 feet above the sea—has fine soil—unequaled climate—gas, water, telephones, electricity, graded streets—much of it sidewalks and curbs. It is only 25 minutes from the city's business center, by double track through electric car line, 5c fare—10-minute service. It has a population of over 2000 today—and is growing at the rate of 50 per cent. a year.

ANARCHISTS IN RIOTOUS MOOD.

Disorder in Coal Fields of Pennsylvania.

Lawless Element Assails Men on Duty at Collieries.

Flaunt Red Flag and Sing the "Marseillaise."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Trouble was renewed yesterday among the anarchistic faction at Jessup, Pa., following the dynamiting of a railroad track there Thursday.

Nearly a hundred men armed with sticks and stones gathered along the roads leading to the Dolph and Robertson Company's mines near that town at 6:30 o'clock and sat down to await the coming of pump runners, engineers, firemen and necessary repair men that have worked during the suspension.

When the Dolph company employees came up they were made to run the gauntlet of the mob lining up on both sides of the track and pelting the workingmen with sticks, clay and tree roots. After the Dolph employees had battled their way through the lines, they were driven into the woods by volleys of stones.

Sheriff Conner and Deputy Sheriff [illegible] set out for Jessup in a carriage. When they reached there the trouble had died down and the crowd dispersed, but not before the original one hundred, their ranks augmented by a rag tag mob, marched through the streets singing the "Marseillaise," waving the red flag and hooting and jeering at everything in their path.

Windows in the homes of several men who have continued to work under the suspension order, were smashed with stones. The rioting is attributed to the miners' union by the colliery owners. The local organization is a branch of the Industrial Workers of the World, which has preached its doctrines in Jessup for several years.

At a recent demonstration of its strength, the red flag waved conspicuously at the head of the marching throng through the streets of the town.

Late in the afternoon Sheriff Conner ran into a full-fledged meeting of the Industrial Workers of the World in a small hall of the town. Pushing through the doors the Sheriff mounted the platform and dropped into a chair in the speaker's room. When the speaker had finished his harangue the Sheriff stepped forward and stated to the meeting that he wanted no further trouble and wanted company property left alone. He said he did not want to be called upon to exercising extreme measures but if order was not restored the strikers would have to stand the consequences.

WILL HIT YOUR PURSE.

The Increase of Railroad Wages, If Granted, Will Have to be Paid by the Public.

[New York Commercial:] If the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers declares a strike in the eastern district on the grounds explained in part by W. S. Stone, the head of that organization, it will be unique in one respect. It will be the first profit-sharing strike on record. Locomotive engineers are men of superior intelligence and they practically confess that the wages they now receive are all the traffic will bear. They ask for 18 per cent. more than they are getting and tell the railroads to take it out of the people.

This is to be an educative strike, if it takes place. It is to teach the public to pay higher freight and passenger rates so that the railroads may earn fair profits and the men may get what they consider fair wages. The public is also to be taught specific lessons in addition to this general proposition. The public is speed mad. Fast limited trains wear out the engineers who drive them. An engineer on some of these runs has to watch for a block signal every forty seconds. A moment's inattention and he loses his job. The engineers ask the public to pay for this special service at a much heavier rate than it now pays.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is to be asked to take these things into account. The public has a habit of taking the side of the strikers without knowing what may be said for the employers. The public is to be made to pay for this [illegible] indulgence in sentiment. It is to pay directly in dollars and cents for its sympathy. It is to prove by [illegible] money that it has the [illegible] labor at heart.

[illegible] rates enter into the [illegible] every commodity the public [illegible] the satisfaction of doing [illegible] for the railroad employees [illegible] of the day. It will not [illegible] to pay freight rates or [illegible] directly, the increase [illegible] be added to the cost of [illegible] everything else, so the com[illegible] will do their full share [illegible] having to bother about de[illegible].

If the demands of the locomotive [illegible] are granted, $7,553,792 [illegible] be paid by the public in [illegible] district for their benefit. [illegible] railroad employees in the [illegible] territory likewise get an advance of 10 per cent., it will cost the [illegible] in all the very respectable sum [illegible] a year. But as the [illegible] are entitled to some profit [illegible] outlay, as Mr. Stone concedes, [illegible] bill for sympathy will be probably $125,000,000 a year. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers deserve credit for putting the subject [illegible] the public in so clear a fashion.

The Stork in New York.

[Christian Herald:] According to the statistics just given out by the Department of Health for New York City, 134,542 babies were born in the city during the year 1911. This is the largest percentage of births since accurate records were kept, and the present method of recording is held to be almost 100 per cent. efficient. On the basis of a population of 4,833,385 the city last year had a birth record of one to thirty-six of its population. This was an average of one child a little more than three minutes through the year. This news [illegible] surprise, and a pleasant

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES ON AND OFF AND STRIKES COMING.

WILLIAM D. HAYWOOD of malodorous Idaho memory had not been in Passaic, N. J., twenty-four hours before violence on the part of the strikers began. That is Haywood's way, on behalf of one faction of the (so-called) Industrial Workers of the World, and particularly on his own behalf of leading strikes. At Lawrence, Mass., recently, the strike conditions were orderly and peaceful till he appeared on the scene, after openly announcing that he was going there (as also to Passaic,) "to make trouble." It matters not to him (or to any other strike agitator or trouble-maker,) who suffers, what women and children go hungry so long as his (and theirs) fat salaries and fatter expense accounts are paid by deluded union-labor. Under Haywood's lead the heretofore peaceful strikers at Passaic are to defeat the police, the National Guard and the law obeying population that dares to refrain from actively supporting them. Are the assaults and murder of Lawrence to be repeated at Passaic? They certainly will be if Haywood and his equally riotous and revolutionary associates have their way. Without violence there would be no use for those parasites in the ranks of union labor, which cause is degraded to the depths by their connection therewith. The peaceful leaders of the striking work people at Passaic are to be displaced as "impostors," in favor of the Haywood gang of thugs and criminals. When the riot act was read (after violence) in Passaic, the American-born strikers, knowing what riot act meant, dispersed without further urging, while the authorities drove the foreign strikers across the city line into the county. The other I.W.W. leader in Passaic is Haywood's avowed enemy. Wagons are going over the city bearing big signs reading, "Wanted, Aid for the Strikers. Food of all kinds." What a picture! Labor making of itself a beggar and a pauper, while work and wages (and independence) are waiting for it at the mills, with the mill owners ready to negotiate terms of settlement of the dispute if only the workers will listen to some kind of reason. The 400 strikers of one near-by mill (at West Hoboken) have listened to reason and returned to work, for increases in wages of from 5 to 15 per cent., very sensibly cancelling their demand for that myth of myths called "recognition of the union." The mill is to be "open shop," as heretofore.

J. H. Thomas, a labor leader in the British House of Commons, indorsed by Railwaymen Leader Crawford, says there will be a general strike on all the railways of Great Britain if the Central London Railway does not grant the petition of its men for the establishment of a conciliation board—the very thing the American coal strikers want the abolition of. They want direct "recognition of the union." Because of the American coal strike the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company is laying off men and postponing betterments. This affects train crews, shopmen and office workers. Those retained are working on short time.

Some hundreds have returned to work in Passaic, N. J., (in spite of Haywood,) but 4000 are still on strike there.

Martial law exists at New York Mills, N. Y., where 3000 textile operatives are on strike. Six military companies are in charge there, serious violence having been begun and worse indicated. All the saloons are closed there and at Yorkville, a near-by town. Hunger already exists among the strikers. Women strikers are throwing red pepper into the eyes of the police, soldiers and non-sympathizers. There is no apparent end to the strike. Every street car is watched and every stranger is held up and questioned by the strikers. Women strikers are doing picket duty in the mud and slush. Even boarding-houses are picketed to prevent food being carried to the non-union operatives at the mills.

It's "recognition or nothing" say the leaders of the anthracite mining strikers. Many say they will forego an increase in wages to get that. Once the mine owners grant that (which they won't,) and they will no longer own their own properties. The closed shop is the very worst form of union-labor, tyranny and practically amounts to confiscation of property—confiscation, not only of employers' property in its earning capacity, but also confiscation of the workers' property, namely, free labor's right to sell its property—its labor—where it chooses and for what it chooses.

Not only are the Canadian Pacific Railway men on strike at Vancouver, B. C., but the stationary engineers there have gone on that fool thing—a sympathetic strike.

At all strike meetings led by the Haywood et al., faction of the Industrial Workers of the World, the red flag of socialistic-anarchy is always prominently displayed. Los Angeles buried that flag on December 5 last, beyond the hope of resurrection as an effective force.

The enormous "war fund"—some ten million dollars—with which the British coal strike was started, has been wiped out almost entirely, says the London correspondent of the Sun of New York. The reserve funds of the miners' union which were invested in stocks and bonds, have been reduced more than one-half. And for what gain to the strikers? Really nothing, as the bill passed by the government merely rules that a minimum wage shall be stated in all wage agreements, and leaves the owners and the workers to fight it out between themselves—district by district—as to what shall be minimum wage. That means unending disputes and more strikes.

At this writing it looks as if the garment workers of New York will not go on strike.

Up to March 28, the British coal strike cost the coal unions $5,216,250 and the other affected unions $2,500,000, in all, $7,716,250 for strike relief, to say nothing of the many millions more of wages lost in the twenty-eight days since the strike began on March 1. All told the strike cost Great Britain fully $75,000,000, if not nearer $100,000,000, as the colliers themselves lost $50,000,000 in wages. In view of the futile result stated above, did it pay?

On March 31, the Sun of New York, published from Cleveland, O., the following figures on the American coal strike:

Bituminous miners idle	471,000
Anthracite miners idle	168,000
Total miners idle	639,000
Bituminous wages lost in first two weeks	$8,170,000
Anthracite wages lost in same period	951,000
Total wages lost in first two weeks	$9,121,000

The anthracite field, once strongly unionized, now has only 25,000 union men among its 175,000 miners. They are fighting for "recognition of the union" as a means of regaining the members lost in recent years.

The subway, surface and elevated railway employees of New York are being secretly organized into a union by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. His refused demand for higher wages for the engineers on fifty eastern steam roads would, if granted, cost those roads more than $7,500,000 a year, with similar demands from the rest of their employees. Just now the railroad business cannot afford to grant the demands. Paying the $7,553,792 a year would be equivalent to placing on these properties a lien of $188,844,818 of 4 per cent. securities, which, as wages are always paid first, would have preference over the present first mortgage bonds. Does union-labor ever think of that when it makes these heavy wage demands? Only two years ago these eastern railway engineers got a raise of $3,923,680, or 10.73 per cent. per annum. Now they want $7,553,792, or 18.63 per cent. per annum more. The demand is outrageous.

President Shonts of the Interborough Railway, New York, says that road always has been an open shop and always will be and that in the future as in the past, all "agitators" on its force will be summarily "fired." That is his plucky answer to a threat of strike.

In his book, "Big Business," Charles Norman Fay of successful Chicago telephonic career, says that his economic creed and politial slogan, based on years of experience, is in four words, namely, "Free labor, free business." And Mr. Fay is eminently right.

COST OF A COAL STRIKE.

Nearly Three Millions Dollars a Day Are Lost in Wages by the Idle Miners.

[The Mediator:] The anthracite industry employs about 170,000 men, who mine 75,000,000 long tons per year. The coal is worth $170,000,000 at the mine, while the men receive $112,000 per year in wages.

The bituminous industry employs 555,000 men, who receive $300,000,000 per year in wages and mine 417,000,000 short tons, worth $469,000,000.

Both classes of mining produce about 500,000,000 short tons, with total value of $639,000,000. The number employed is approximately 725,000, and annual wages $412,000,000. Combined payroll and value of products exceed $1,000,000,000.

A complete suspension of anthracite operations would cost about $773,000 per day in wages and value of products alone. A complete suspension of bituminous mining would cost $2,100,000 per day. Stoppage of both classes would involve a loss in wages and production of $2,873,000 per day. These direct losses would, of course, be only a small part of ultimate costs to industry and commerce of this country and the world.

Amount of anthracite in first hands is unknown. No producing company makes any report. Coal is stored in large quantities at tidewater, and in still larger amounts at a number of interior points. Presumably 7,000,000 to 9,000,000 tons could be stored at these points, and, if necessary, temporary storing places could readily be arranged.

Amount at tidewater has been reported monthly for years. It ranges from 500,000 to 1,200,000 tons. At last report it was 521,000 tons, the lowest for a long time. General impression is interior stocks are about 3,000,000 tons. As apparent consumption has been 6,000,000 tons per month for several months, supply at interior and tide would not equal three weeks' supply.

Consumers have unusually large stocks, but no one carries very large supplies. It costs money and ordinary consumers have not large storing capacity.

The Montreal bill, which was read the third time and was passed by the House of Assembly at Quebec, March 15, was amended in such a way that the city will be enabled to permit or refuse the motor 'bus lines to use the certain streets for traffic purposes.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

It cannot be truly said that trades-unionism is increasing to any appreciable extent in Great Britain. The membership in 1910 was only 15,888 greater than in 1907—three years before—while the number of unions decreased from 1221 to 1153, a loss of sixty-eight. From 1901 to 1905 the membership was practically stationary. Here are the official figures for the ten years, 1901 to 1910, inclusive:

Year—	Number of Unions.	Membership.
1901	1,282	1,969,424
1902	1,250	1,954,594
1903	1,237	1,931,558
1904	1,211	1,901,674
1905	1,209	1,926,560
1906	1,222	2,122,241
1907	1,221	2,419,816
1908	1,195	2,383,244
1909	1,163	2,362,450
1910	1,153	2,435,704

American trades-unionism, as set forth in the 1911 report of the American Federation of Labor (and every last man, woman and child is counted therein, doubtless) compares, as follows:

Year—	Membership.
1901	787,537
1902	1,024,399
1903	1,465,800
1904	1,676,200
1905	1,494,300
1906	1,454,200
1907	1,538,970
1908	1,586,885
1909	1,482,872
1910	1,562,112
Decrease since 1904, six years	114,088
Federation (Gompers & Co.) receipts in 1909	$232,377
Do., in 1910	193,470
Decrease in 1910 from 1909	38,907
Receipts in 1911	182,188
Decrease in 1911 from 1910	11,282
Decrease in 1911 from 1909	50,189

The decreased receipts in 1911 were in spite of the fact that in that year the membership (so Gompers says) ran up to 1,761,835. These federation official figures prove that, even though more names are being put on the membership rolls, less of union labor's wages money is going into the federation (Gompers and company) treasury. The receipts reported for 1911 do not include the $225,000 or more which Gompers deceitfully dragged out of union labor's wages money (to the loss of union labor's wives and children) to defend, or rather to pretend to defend, the McNamara murderers of innocent laborers. The Evening Journal of Albany, N. Y., remarks on this head:

"Likewise, the vouchers showing how the McNamara relief fund was expended have not yet been filed."

Unwittingly, the Journal forgot to recall the fact that one voucher was filed by telegraph and that by Frank Morrison, Gompers's side partner, which read:

"Sent to Clarence Darrow, $170,000."

What Darrow did with the $120,000 left after he got his princely "retainer" of $50,000 has not yet been publicly made known, the vouchers of Harriman, Scott, et al., not yet being on file publicly. And the assessment and collection of the great sum was public as far as union labor is concerned. Will the contributing union labor ever be told what was really done with its $225,000, or more?

Look at it this way, union labor contributor in 1911 to Gompers and company:

Federation receipts	$182,188
McNamara collection	225,000
Total contribution in 1911	$407,188

Do you union labor men not realize from those figures, union labor contributor to Gompers and company, that last year you took $42,188 more than $1000 a day (Sundays included.) out of the wages you worked for, and sent it to that non-working, get-money-easy firm in Washington, D. C., and that you got nothing whatever of value in return (except a paltry $4192 for "strike benefits,") but, on the contrary, by its action without investigation (as it alleges) in the McNamaras' case, you and your cause are now suffering humiliation and loss of prestige? What satisfaction is it to you to have them telegraph, "Sent Clarence Darrow $170,000," while, right now, Darrow is appealing to his friends in Chicago for money to pay the expenses of his coming trial on bribery charges arising out of the very case (McNamaras) for which Gompers and company sent him $170,000 for fees for himself ($50,000 to begin with,) and for Job Harriman and Joseph Scott? Who needs your wages money most—they, or yourself, your wives and your children?

Again, are you aware, union labor contributor to Gompers and company, that in the ten years, 1902 to 1911, you sent that concern (see its own 1911 report) no less a sum than $207,766 for "strike benefits" and that all you or your fellows have received back for that purpose in the ten years is $73,984, and that they now hold $133,782 of your money so contributed? Could you not do a good deal of good for yourselves and yours if you had that money now?

And, again, are you aware, union labor contributor, that in the thirty-one years, 1881 to 1911, you have sent $2,655,668 of your wages money (as follows) to Gompers and company:

Federation general receipts (as its report)	$2,430,668
McNamaras' collection and waste in 1911	225,000
Total wages money sent Gompers & Co.	$2,655,668

and that you have nothing whatever of value to show for that gigantic loss of your wages money? All of it has been "scattered to the four winds" except the $189,515 which Gompers and company say they had on hand on September 30, 1911. In other words, nearly $2,500,000 of your wages money has been wasted as far as you are concerned, just as much as if you had exchanged it all into bank bills and burned them up in a furnace. How much longer are you going to stand for this bunco game, union labor contributor to Gompers and company?

The Modern Factory.

President Hobbs of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers says: "The modern factory has abolished the sweat shop; the regular life and hours have of necessity lessened dissipation; there can be no overcrowding from the very nature of the machinery; labor laws have greatly reduced the hours of work; all sorts of devices lessen hard labor; each new machine not only lessens labor, but enables men to earn their livings in less time; it was the necessity of our mills that first made possible the development of humidification and cooling of air which now gives comfort to the afflicted in our hospitals; libraries, restrooms, lunchrooms and Y.M.C.A. rooms are found everywhere; a higher standard of living exists; the best sanitary and hygienic conditions known are found in the mills. It will be seen therefore that the modern factory life does not injure mentally, morally and physically those who are a part of it, but that the contrary is true and that the modern factory system has been instrumental in lifting the life of the people to a higher plane."

There are 100,000 motorists in England now, and before the year is out there should be 25,000 more. Practically all the British motor-making firms have arranged for an increased output, and apparently all seem confident as to the prospects.

Should Be Amenable.

LABOR UNIONS AND THE LAW.

IF CAPITAL MUST SUBMIT WHY NOT LABOR?

Workers' Organizations Are Rapidly Pushing to the Front the Question of Their Responsibility as Compared With Those Controlling Their Service and Paying Wages.

[New York Journal of Commerce:] Organized labor is pushing rapidly to an issue the question whether labor unions are and shall continue to be independent of law and beyond governmental control, whatever they may do to the injury of interests not their own and to the peril of the whole community. In the development of modern industries capital has been organized on an increasing scale, but capital must submit to law; the powers and privileges and the obligations and responsibilities of its organizations are defined, and they are subject to public regulation. Corporations have grown and have allied themselves together in the past, and their officers and directors have sometimes shown arrogance and a disposition to use the power of organization arbitrarily and in defiance of the rights of others. Abuses of corporate power, or the power of organized capital, were allowed to grow up until they were difficult to deal with and required new legislation and energetic measures of administration for their correction. The struggle is not over yet; but it has never been claimed that capital, which means in this case men who own and use capital, as "labor" means men who own and use the capacity for work, is independent of control by law and not subject to the public authority established for the common defense and general welfare. In discussing the relations of capital and labor we are not dealing with abstractions. We mean men, citizens and subjects of law, who control capital and labor in the operations of industry and trade.

While corporations, combinations of capitalists, associations of manufacturers or traders, and any manner of organization formed to give power and direction to the factor in production known as capital, are admittedly subject to public regulation and control and may be so restrained and directed as to safeguard the general interests and prevent injustice, is it to be assumed that labor unions, federations, brotherhoods or associations of whatever name are on a different footing before the law? Are the citizens and subjects who constitute their membership at liberty to form organizations with special privileges and immunities defined only by themselves, and to conduct them in disregard of the rights of others, in defiance of the system established for securing justice and protecting rights, and to the injury of the vast interests of a community in which they are a single factor? Can these voluntary organizations be formed with their own laws and rules and their own officers and leaders, and use the power of organization at their own free will, independent of law except as the individual members may be offenders? The abuses to which this kind of unregulated and unrestrained power is leading, are far beyond anything ever perpetrated by the organ-

Mining in the Great Southwest.

Northern California.

SOUTH FORK IS IN NEW HANDS.

Rio Antigua Company Is to Operate Mine.

Rush to High Grade Will Be on Before Long.

Thiogen Fume Process Will Be Tried Out.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

NEVADA CITY (Cal.) April 12.—The stock of the South Fork Mining Company, owning the South Fork mines, near Forest, has been purchased by stockholders of the Rio Antigua Mining Company of Los Angeles. The Rio Antigua people have held the property under bond and lease for about eight years, during which time large sums have been expended in search for the old river channel. From time to time rich streaks of gravel have been uncovered, and five strong quartz veins intersected. Several times the company has appeared on the eve of success, but failure of deposits to come up to expectations, together with some difficulty with the owning interests, militated against satisfactory results. The new arrangement places the Angelenos in complete control of the mines, and it is expected active production will be maintained in future.

The company has hitherto directed its principal efforts to the intersection of the southern extension of the Bald Mountain channel. This deposit yielded phenomenal values in early days and extensions have been intersected at several claims with excellent gravel opened. The Rio Antigua adit is about one mile long, with an extensive system of drifts and cross-cuts. Under the new plans it is stated chief attention will be devoted to the development of the quartz deposits. The five veins tapped are believed to be extensions of the Tightner-Rainbow-Red Star vein system, which have made Allegheny one of the best gold camps in the State. Consequently the company anticipates future profits from the quartz instead of the placers alone. It is probable the development of the gravel resources will continue, as indications are decidedly encouraging. Electrical machinery will be installed to facilitate the extensive campaign of development outlined. F. W. Kuhfeld is manager.

Central Eureka.

A new ore body running eight to ten feet wide has been intersected on the 2700-foot level of the Central Eureka mine, near Sutter Creek. The discovery was made in the south drift and arrangements are under way to open it on the 2800 level. The entire ledge is claimed to carry milling values with considerable free gold in evidence. The strike was made in a virgin portion of the estate and has aroused much interest.

Milling ore is coming from two strong ledges on the 2600 and 2800-foot levels, with the main ore bodies showing excellent character as developments progress. Thirty stamps are in action and it is expected more will go into commission as soon as the new vein has been opened sufficiently to justify large ore extraction. Considerable Southern California capital is interested. J. E. Davis is manager.

Plymouth Consolidated.

The unwatering of the main shaft of the Plymouth Consolidated group, otherwise designated as the Empire-Pacific mines, has progressed to below the 500-foot point. Considering the long period of idleness the timbers are in an excellent state of preservation, and it is probable the shaft can be placed in shape for active production with little trouble. Pumps and water tanks are employed in unwatering and the work has progressed at a rapid rate. Near the 1000-foot point lateral developments will be undertaken. This property is one of the most famous of Mother Lode producers, but has lain idle about twenty years, owing to lack of finances and friction among stockholders. It recently passed under the control of Bewick, Moreing & Co. of London, a powerful British syndicate, operating metal mines in all sections of the globe.

Coloradoans in Plumas.

The Feather River Consolidated Mines Company has taken a bond and option on the Gold Leaf mine, Argentine district, for $30,000. The company is composed largely of Cripple Creek people and plans have been perfected for immediate activities on a broad scale. The five-stamp mill, formerly operated at the Bluff City, will be removed to the Gold Leaf as soon as the roads permit heavy freighting. This will be used as a testing plant and more stamps will be added as soon as ore reserves justify.

There are three distinct veins, averaging six to eight feet wide, with values ranging $9 to $22 per ton. The deepest workings are only fifty feet from the surface, but surface work has blocked out good quantities of quartz. In addition to the ore veins, the new company will extensively prospect two immense porphyry dikes traversing the holdings.

Rush to High Grade.

Capitalists, miners and prospectors are flocking into Ft. Bidwell, New Pine Creek, Lakeview, and other California, Oregon and Nevada points near the new gold district of High Grade. Practically all the towns in the immediate vicinity of the camp are crowded already, while every train from Reno brings in fresh arrivals. Special trains from Denver to the High Grade field will be run about April 15, and every indication points to a wild stampede about May 1. Principal interest centers on developments at the Ft. Bidwell Consolidated, Sunshine and Big Four groups, where fairly comprehensive developments have been productive of good results. It is rumored new interests are negotiating for the Sunshine, which has been the most spectacular property thus far developed in the camp. It is stated the owners demand $100,000 for the property, and it is rumored the pending deal may be made on this basis. The Ft. Bidwell Consolidated is pushing work underground and has things in shape for the starting of the mill. The Modoc Mines Company, High Grade Mines Company, and other concerns are also manifesting activity. In addition to the ground located in the High Grade field, proper, considerable territory has been staked out around Ft. Bidwell and New Pine Creek. The district lies partly in California and Oregon, at an elevation of 8000 feet. Snow prevails from November to June, consequently prospectors are unable to do any work at this time.

Thiogen Fume Process.

The Penn Chemical Company is arranging to install the Thiogen method of smelter-smoke control at its Campo Seco smelter. Tests with an experimental plant have proven particularly pleasing, and the company believes the process will eliminate all future friction with farmers. The Penn Chemical Company operates the valuable Campo Seco copper mines and Valley Springs smelter, and is the largest copper producer in Central California. In the Thiogen process the sulphur dioxide, the deadliest element in copper smelter fumes, is neutralized by burning the oxygen and vaporizing the sulphur. This is accomplished by burning crude oil at a high temperature, which destroys the oxygen and turns the other element into free sulphur. Calcium sulphide is employed as an accelerating reagent. Sulphur dioxide forms the most difficult element to overcome in the treatment of smelter gases, and if the Thiogen process proves as efficient as indicated, it means the solution of the great problem that has formidably militated against the advance of California copper mining. The method, as employed at Campo Seco, was devised by Prof. S. W. Young of Leland Stanford University.

Mountain Copper May Resume.

It is rumored in Redding that the Mountain Copper Company, Limited, may resume copper smelting at Keswick during the present year. The company is manifesting increased activity at its valuable mines, and the steady advance in copper values will undoubtedly have a stimulating influence. The big Keswick plant has been idle for years because of trouble with farmers over the fume question. It is rumored a fume-controlling annex is being considered, but this has not been confirmed.

Bisbee.

HIGHER PRICES FELT AT BISBEE.

THE COPPER QUEEN PAY ROLL EQUALS HIGHEST RECORD.

Even in the Days of Twenty-five-Cent Copper the Conditions Were Not Better Than at Present—Calumet and Arizona Company Is Handling the Water.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) April 12.—Higher copper prices are beginning to have a visible effect upon the prosperity of Bisbee. Fully 300 men are on the Copper Queen pay roll above the number listed three months ago, and the number of employees of the company now exceeds the record even of the palmy days of 25-cent copper. The gross pay roll amount is not larger, however, for in those days the miners received 50 cents more wages a day and could labor seven days a week.

The output of ore for the past month was in excess of any other monthly record for a year, or more, past. At the Sacramento shaft was made a hoisting record of 3900 tons of ore within two eight-hour shifts, though the daily output of the company from all shafts is supposed to be about 2000 tons a day. At the new Dallas shaft cages have taken the place of buckets, and stations are being cut on the 1100, 1200, 1300 and 1400 levels, from which to start drifting into new ground of good promise.

Through underground connections lately completed, about all the water from mines in this locality now is being handled by the Calumet and Arizona Company from a single shaft, the Junction. This has resulted in material economy to both the larger corporations, wich join in the cost of pumping.

The Shattuck Company has added a shift of miners and its officers have been instructed to make all possible speed toward the erection of the long-projected smelter at Douglas.

From northern Sonora is coming complaint that a number of the smaller mining properties have been compelled to close down on account of the prohibition against the exportation of explosives into Mexico during the present internal troubles. It is known that a few carloads of dynamite have been permitted to go through for the larger companies, which could protect the shipments, and it is probable that this exception also may be made in favor of the Greene-Cananea Company, which now has powder for only a few weeks more of operation. If the Greene works were to shut down, it would be nothing short of a calamity for the laboring men of Sonora.

More than $1000 a carload is the average return from ore now being shipped to El Paso from the San Juan Grande mine in Ures district, Sonora. Some of the copper runs as high as 50 per cent.

Six carloads a month of graphite are being shipped from the Lapiz (pencil) mine, twenty miles from La Colorado.

The Greene-Cananea February output was 5,750,000 pounds of copper bullion, and 5,000,000 pounds for March.

PRESCOTT DISTRICT. DEVELOPMENT COMPANY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) April 12.—The holdings of the Ideal Mining and Development Company finally have been taken over by Charles M. Chapin and Arthur Turnbull of New York. Included in the deal are the famous McCabe and Gladstone mines, with four more properties at McCabe, and the Model group of three claims in Weaver district. Ore shipments are being made at the present time from the two main properties, which are being worked under lease.

Less than a carload of ore from the Bill Arp mine, near Turkey in the Bradshaws, brought to Prescott by the owner of the mine, Richard Umlah, here was sold to a sampler for $900.

Under foreclosure proceedings against the Dividend Mining Company, the bondholders, represented by Charles Grimes of Pasadena, have bid in the company's property for $88,950. The property, usually known as the Mount Elliott, has high local reputation for richness. It is understood that Mr. Grimes will manage the enterprise in the future. He was formerly in a similar capacity on the Tom Reed mine in Mojave county.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Porcellanite.

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of some mineral. Please state what it contains, etc. C.

A.: A noted character of the mineral is that at sight it resembles magnesite.

It is of vitreous luster; whitish-pearly in color; hardness 5.4; of distinct and interrupted cleavage; sp. gr., 2.7; before the blowpipe fuses to a glass, and in the closed tube yields a small percentage of water.

The sample is: "A semi-vitrified clay or shale, somewhat resembling jasper." When the variety resembles porcelain it is then known as porcelain jasper.

Aluminum is present in the particular sample submitted, not only in the form of silicate, but as oxide of alumina also to a favorable extent. Lime is present in the mass with 0.56 iron peroxide.

The specimen belongs to the kaolin family of minerals; it is of use in the manufacture of certain cement, and it is probable (although we do not certify from only one small sample) that the deposit is of value in the glass industry, especially so for common window glass, by the addition of sodium.

For use in the porcelain industry the material would require washing, in a clay-washing machine, after milling, but this view is from theory only.

It would call for a complete examination of the entire deposit to arrive at probable values regarding the oxide present to be determined by a series of analyses.

Obsidian Pebbles.

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Q.: I send you by this mail some hard stones of small size, and they may be valuable gems of some kind. They come from the surface of a claim in southern Nevada. Are they of any value? What are they? H. R. S.

A.: The pebbles are those of volcanic glass, and have no commercial value.

Hornblende.

VICKSBURG (Ariz.) March 18.—Q.: Sample from the granite mountains near here. Taken from the surface and from a large deposit. Is it hubnerite or what? Every one here interested readers of your department. F. R. L.

A.: The sample is of the hornblende family with mica-dioryte present. There is not a trace of tungstic acid or other valuable element contained in the rock.

Epidote.

LAWNDALE, March 19.—Q.: I am sending you in same mail four samples which I found near Barstow. Will you please analyze them for the following metals, which, I believe they contain: No. 1, nickle and tin. No. 2, tin and silver. No. 3, nickle. No. 4, zinc. I could not find a Times paper with instructions how to send the samples, but I think you will receive them correctly. I found several copies with "In the Earth" columns, but none gave the desired instructions. R. J. L.

A.: All that is necessary is for correspondents to send samples with letters explaining what is desired, and address letters and samples invariably to The Times. Sample No. 1 is epidote. No. 2, copper and tungstic acid traces. No. 3, epidote; manganese, iron and lime present. No. 4, iron peroxide (hematite,) zinc, trace only. There is no tin or nickle in any sample, and no sample was tested for silver.

Quartz and Garnet.

HEMET, March 19.—Q.: Will you please tell me what these two rocks are? I found them south of San Jacinto, Cal. There are queer stripes on one of them and I should like to know what they are, also the two spots on the other piece? F. L.

A.: The stripes you refer to are simply radiated forms of quartz. The spots are lime-alumina garnet.

Turquois Present.

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) March 19.—Q.: I send you three samples and ask you to kindly let me know what they are and if they contain anything of any value? It seems the vein was worked ages ago by the Indians; the clay is very tough, but when it is exposed to the weather it slacks and I do not know what to make of it. The samples came from about five miles from here, in the Cerbat range. J. W. H.

A.: No. 1 is a mixture of ordinary clay and Fuller's earth. No. 2, iron oxide with traces of copper. No. 3, turquois present in very narrow seams. None of the samples is of commercial value, but it would be well to be on the lookout for turquois.

Wulfenite and Cerussite.

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) March 20.—Q.: I enclose two samples of mineral from different seams in the same region. I would like to know what they really are and whether either of them contain vanadium? L. L. L.

A.: No. 1, iron oxides with lead traces. No. 2, vanadic acid sparingly; cerussite (lead carbonate) present with wulfenite (lead molybdate.)

Oxides and Sulphates.

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: Permit me to hand you with this letter four samples of mineral for name and test of each. All come from Lower California. D. T.

A.: No. 1 is native copperas (ferrous sulphate.) No. 2 is hematite (iron peroxide.) No. 3 is halotrichite (iron-alum.) No. 4 is granular gypsum.

Spessartite.

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: Will you please give me the name of the garnet sample in this sack? A. J. R.

California Lignite.

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Q.: I am sending you some supposed samples of coal from a find near, and southeast of Oakland, Cal. What variety of coal or peat does the sample show? Would it make a base for the manufacture of gas? I will thank you in advance for giving me some useful working knowledge regarding the sample which is a fair average sample. A. L. K.

A.: The sample stands for the missing link between the old coal of the ages and the youthful baby coal (peat) of the present day. Lignite

Suburban Development Co. Dividends 12½% on par

If you had bought 100 shares of Suburban Development Co. Stock a year ago at 75c per share (cost $75) it would now be worth $137.50. Almost double what you paid for it. From the day it reached par (May 1, 1911) your stock would have paid you $11.87 in cash dividends. How do those figures compare with the earnings of $75 lying in a bank at 4 per cent?—$149.37 AGAINST $78.03. If you had bought 1000 shares (cost $750) your stock would now be worth $1375 and you would have drawn cash dividends of $118.75. THAT MEANS $1493.75 AGAINST $780.30. THESE FIGURES SHOULD SET YOU THINKING. You can make the same proportionate profits now. Net earnings from our rapid sales of homes are what make this stock advance. Its market price will steadily rise as Los Angeles realty goes up. The value of our holdings has almost doubled in slightly over a year because of the constant improvements.

GLENDALE, April 13.—An incline [illegible] to be known as the Glendale [illegible] Verdugo Mountain Railway is the [illegible] feature to be brought to this [illegible]. It is proposed to run this [illegible] road from the terminus of the [illegible] Electric at La Ramada, Casa [illegible], to the summit of the Verdugo Mountain, the new and wonderful system of incline invented and [illegible] by Col. Verdugo, 3000 feet above [illegible] level, without the passengers changing cars, there being no massive [illegible] complicated hoisting apparatus [illegible] lift the cars. The motion of the [illegible] does the work and it is claimed [illegible] only one-half the power on the [illegible] used to lift it up the steep [illegible] that is used on the level. Residents of this place are receiving the [illegible] enthusiastically.

The new $20,000 home of the Presbyterian denomination of this city, [illegible] at the corner of Fourth and [illegible] streets, will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. W. B. [illegible], pastor of the Highland Park [illegible] Church, will deliver the [illegible] address. This edifice has [illegible] finish of shakes, stained [illegible], and is one of the prettiest [illegible] in this valley. The Mission [illegible] is carried throughout the building. Paul V. Tuttle, a local architect, was the designer and Elias [illegible] the builder of the structure.

The board of trustees has just passed an ordinance regulating the [illegible] now existing, the ordinance [illegible] into effect at once. At the present [illegible] the rate of $1.50 for a minimum of 800 feet is charged, with [illegible] cents for each additional foot. The trustees have just passed an ordinance reducing the minimum [illegible] to $1.25, with seven cents for [illegible] additional cubic foot. The ordinance provides that meters may be [illegible] by either the consumer or [illegible] company, and in case the [illegible] installs the meter the charge [illegible] shall not exceed the cost [illegible] meter. It also makes the water [illegible] payable in this valley instead [illegible] Los Angeles, as has been [illegible].

TO IMPROVE WASH.

The Glendale-Eagle Rock Railway [illegible] and the Salt Lake company, [illegible] a branch line to this city, combined with the city in an [illegible] to improve the Verdugo [illegible] the region of Glendale avenue. During the recent rains the waters have proven too large [illegible] culverts installed beneath the Salt Lake tracks some time ago by that company, and as a result have washed over the tracks and down through the Glendale streets, Glendale avenue and Third street receiving the greatest damage.

The city has also taken steps to care for the storm water which comes down the Sycamore wash. During the rains of this and last week this water has damaged property in the eastern section of this city. The city has the water now under control and the work will continue until it is completed. The Pacific Electric, in conjunction with the county, is improving the Verdugo wash where it crosses Brand boulevard. At this point the wash has flooded during the past two years. The work to be done will be of a substantial nature.

Bids will be opened Monday night and the contract will be let for the extension of the house-lighting branch of the Glendale municipal lighting system into the section known as West Glendale, which was annexed a short time ago to this city. This work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible, and will be quickly followed by the extension of a street lighting system into this new territory. These street lights will be placed every 150 feet on either side of the street, and will be erected on iron standards, the wires being run underground. This improvement will cost the city about $40,000.

Work will start soon on the $12,000 system of ornamental street lights to be established here. These lights will be in clusters of five lights each placed at every 100 feet along Fourth street, from Cedar to Central avenue; on Glendale avenue from First to Fifth streets, and on Brand boulevard from First to Sixth streets. This work is being done under the personal supervision of Harry B. Lynch, manager of the Glendale lighting department.

Work has been started on the new $20,000 church building at the corner of Third and Louise streets for the Baptist denomination of this city. This church will have a seating capacity of about 400. The architecture is along Gothic lines. Work on this structure will be rushed to completion.

FAMOUS GROVE SOLD.

The Hon. William H. H. Stowell, formerly member of Congress from Minnesota, and now a resident of Boston, has sold to John T. Bennison of Los Angeles his beautiful orange grove of thirty-eight acres, planted to navels and Valencia trees 9 years old, on Orange Heights, above Corona. This is one of the most attractive properties in Southern California, being situated close to the foothills in the Queen Colony tract on the main boulevard and hedged in with stately palms. The house is a pretty modern bungalow, surrounded by flower gardens. The place lies immediately above a model lemon grove belonging to A. F. Call and right across the street is the most valuable property of the National Orange Company. The deal was handled through the agencies of T. P. Cartwright & Co. of Los Angeles and Robert Lee Bettner of Riverside. The consideration is given at $75,000.

NEW HARBOR TRACT.

One of the newest of the subdivisions of the Los Angeles harbor region is the Grand View tract, which has just been placed on the market by the Southern California Realty and Investment Company of this city. The tract is not far from the Miner fill and the Huntington holdings and overlooks the whole of the harbor section. The improvements include oiled streets, cement curbs, ornamental shade trees and cement corner posts. Water is piped to every lot.

An Excursion To the Valley of Surprise

20c 'TIL MIDNIGHT MONDAY

22½c (12½% Advance) Tuesday

Eight Hundred and Forty-three Shareholders are on our books at the hour this is being written (close of business Friday night, April 12th,) all since February 11th, eight weeks ago.

One Thousand Shareholders by midnight Monday is our confident expectation—then we will be ready for our next important move.

THRIFT explains our success. Before spending a penny we spent months in preparation.

Then we did in eight weeks what usually takes a year.

We saved time, money, mistakes and experiments—the items that hit shareholders' pockets.

Our practical success was at once recognized. Within six weeks the entire authorized capital of $100,000 was over-subscribed.

Before the decision to broaden the business and increase the capital to $500,000 could be announced, the over-subscription was above $80,000.

Individual subscriptions of $5000, $10,000 and in one instance $50,000 cash have been declined.

Declined because we had planned for small amounts from a large number—and then to grow to a powerful company, carrying our investors with us.

Organized under good auspices, for mutual profit, and not promotion gains, our plan is already a huge success.

Today we have a thoroughly organized force of experienced men covering every branch of the home-building and real estate business; perfectly equipped offices; own a subdivision here and property in San Diego.

We are building houses, selling land, handling loans, leases, rentals, exchanges and insurance.

This is why our first issue of stock was over-subscribed so quickly, why new subscriptions are already almost as much as our entire first issue, and why our first costs of doing business have made a low record in every department.

Four weeks ago we would have urged you hard to come in with us at 20 cents a share. Now it is different—just 12½% in your favor if you buy before midnight Monday.

Saving 2½ cents a share is making 12½%. 2½ cents a share is 12½% on 20 cents—a thrifty 12½%.

You will find our shareholders a live, energetic, compact force, actively bent on making this (their) Company an ever growing factor in the important business of building homes in Southern California.

Orders post-marked up to April 16th only will be accepted at 20 cents a share. If you cannot call, use the subscription form following.

If, after subscribing, you want to stop, you can; and you will receive full paid shares for every cent you have paid in.

TREE MELON CULTIVATED.

New Tropic Delicacy Grown in South Texas.

Papalla May Have Place on American Tables.

Sweet Fruit Said to Have Medicinal Properties.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) April 7.—A new table delicacy is successfully grown in South Texas. It is the papalla fruit, introduced into the lower Rio Grande Valley from Mexico three or four years ago. The fruit is commonly known among Americans as the tree melon. It flourishes in the tropics of Mexico and in South American countries.

For a quarter of a century or more there have been isolated trees of papalla scattered through the lower border region of Texas, but it was not until recently that the great possibilities of the fruit as a commercial product were realized.

It is said to be superior in flavor and edible qualities to any of the native fruits of the United States.

Comparatively little attention has been given even in Mexico to its cultivation, and it is seldom found outside of a few districts where it is indigenous.

It is in great demand, however, in that country and the melons sell for 25 cents to 50 cents each.

Tests have been made as to their keeping and shipping qualities, and it has been proved that they are the equal of the banana in these respects. So well pleased are some of the growers of this new fruit in the lower Rio Grande Valley that they are preparing to engage in the industry on a large scale with a view of supplying the markets of the United States.

The papalla is more of a plant than a tree. Its life extends over a period of two years. It is grown from the seed and begins producing fruit when nine months to one year old. From that time until it dies it produces large yields of fruit constantly.

The melons grow in clusters far up on the trunk of the tree and near where the bushy top begins.

An orchard of these plants, or trees, is a picturesque sight. The seeds are usually thickly planted and when the young plants attain a size of two or three feet the weaker ones are cut down leaving the stronger ones to grow into producing size. They are left about eight feet apart.

The trees attain a height of fifteen to twenty feet, the trunks being sturdy and strong. It is not unusual for one tree to bear as many as sixty to seventy-five large melons at one time. Some of the melons weigh as much as twenty pounds. When ripe the exterior is yellow. The rind is very thin and the seed small.

The fruit has a delicious sweet flavor and is valued very highly on account of its medicinal properties. It contains a vegetable product that is utilized with much profit by some of the growers in Mexico. It is pepsin and is extracted from the melon just before it reaches maturity, the process being to cut the rind with a knife, whereupon a white juice flows from the wound. This liquid contains the pepsin properties of the fruit and the latter is extracted by means of evaporation, the residue being a pure pepsin powder. The leaves also contain pepsin in large quantities.

The peptonic qualities of the fruit make it a sovereign remedy for people afflicted with dyspepsia. The rinds of the melons and the leaves are used by natives in Mexico to soften and pre-digest tough meat. This is done by wrapping them around the meat.

The trees can stand only a minimum amount of cold weather, and for this reason it is considered improbable that they will ever become a commercial proposition much farther north than the lower valley of the Rio Grande, where frost seldom occurs.

TOWN OPENING ONE WEEK AWAY.

STORK HOVERING OVER BIXBY SLOUGH DISTRICT.

Harbor City, Latest Industrial Center of Harbor Section, to Be Launched Next Saturday—Project in Hands of Builders of Lomita and El Segundo.

Harbor City, the new townsite of W. I. Hollingsworth & Co., just north of the harbor district and adjacent to Bixby Slough, will be formally opened on April 20, upon which date the company plans a monster excursion to the property. Special cars over the Pacific Electric Railway's Gardena-San Pedro line have been chartered to convey those who will participate in this significant event.

The town lies just west of Lomita, where the Hollingsworth company has, in the short period of two years, developed a prosperous and well-settled community out of bare pastures. The property to be developed will include a large acreage as well as business and residence lots, and it is the ambition of the promoters to establish at Harbor City one of the greatest industrial centers of the harbor section.

Harbor City comprises in all 500 acres. The town site is to be laid out with wide graded streets and with cement sidewalks and curbs. Each lot will be supplied with water from a central distributing system, constructed especially for the tract. The place is ten minutes by car from the center of San Pedro.

At right-angles to the car line lies Weston street, along the course of which the eighty-foot good roads boulevard will proceed westward to Redondo Beach. This is the main thoroughfare connecting San Pedro, Wilmington and Redondo Beach, and gives a direct outlet to the Harbor boulevard to Los Angeles.

The town is a mile and a half south of the new industrial city of Torrance, where the Union Tool Company is constructing its $500,000 plant and where the Pacific Electric shops are being erected. It is the intention of the Hollingsworth company to at once take steps to provide facilities for the attraction of industries. It is freely predicted that the entire frontage of Bixby Slough will be occupied by manufacturing establishments along an area extending from Torrance to deep water within the next five years.

Bixby Slough lies only about five feet above low tide and engineers have assured the various companies who propose developing the district that the project of converting the depression into a basin for ocean-going vessels is an entirely feasible one. By the continuation of the necessary excavations about four miles north in the depression known as Nigger Slough, which itself is only a few feet above low tide, it will be possible to bring shipping to Gardena and within six miles of the present city limits. Here the engineers declare a second great basin could be created within trucking and teaming distance of the wholesale and jobbing district of Los Angeles.

[illegible] annual meeting of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency, held at Bakersfield last Wednesday, President St. Clair, for the first [illegible] submitted a report of the year's [illegible] and a detailed report was submitted by Secretary Robb. [illegible] report of the president follows:

[illegible] undertakings, in the [illegible] contracts for the sale of oil [illegible] represents a total of [illegible] barrels; the actual requirement of which, however, will probably only reach 66 per cent., or 31,-[illegible] barrels, and of this obligation approximately 25 per cent. [illegible] during this year, 70 per cent. [illegible] 1913, leaving only 5 per cent. [illegible] during the following years. [illegible] barrels at better prices than [illegible] prevailed during the past year [illegible] half (which you are justified [illegible]) the average price to the [illegible] will be materially increased. [illegible] is this so when you consider [illegible] fact that any increase in [illegible] above that which now governs [illegible], reverts almost entirely to the producer, and is only affected by the commission to be paid; transportation charges being fixed [illegible]. The discontinuance [illegible] charges, under the pro[illegible] to certificate storage oil, [illegible] increase the net returns to [illegible]. The total of this charge [illegible] year 1911 (as shown on the [illegible] statement, amounted to [illegible], or 3.39 cents per barrel. [illegible] the year your accounting [illegible] has been somewhat im[illegible] making it possible to check [illegible] transactions and render in[illegible] reports.

[illegible] statistical work has been enlarged and expanded until today I [illegible] you have the most reliable and comprehensive collection of data, dealing with the production and consumption of oil, that is compiled in this State.

While the results accomplished during the past year, particularly in the returns to the producer, have not been all that might be desired, continued loyalty to your organization in the future will justify its existence and make possible the end for which it was created—namely, the free and unrestricted movement of the product of its members to the consumer and the highest obtainable market price, unaffected by any influence save that of the law of supply and demand.

McKittrick.

IS ACQUIRING NEW OIL LAND.

GENERAL PETROLEUM COMPANY AFTER PROPERTIES.

Barneson and De Sabla Interests Buy Oil Lands in the McKittrick Field—Union and Other Big Companies Are Keeping Up Their Development Work.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

M'KITTRICK (Cal.) April 12.—The General Petroleum Company, which recently acquired the west half of section 2, 29-21, and 280 acres in the north half of section 2, 29-21, has leased the south half of section 6, 29-22, from O. C. Heck. Mr. Heck, some months ago, began drilling on the north half of his section, but suspended operations several weeks ago. The General Petroleum Company has had large quantities of material hauled to section 6, and it is thought will commence work actively as soon as the necessary buildings can be erected and one or more rigs put up.

Eighty acres in the east half of section 12 have been purchased by the General Petroleum Company from George Hayes and associates of Bakersfield.

Fred Mannell of Bakersfield has leased from F. J. Woodward of Oakland a tract of land in section 27, 29-21, on the North McKittrick front. This property is close to that of the Caneros Oil Company.

N. M. Crosett of San Francisco, secretary and managing director of the Dominion Oil Company, and Frank Forens, also of San Francisco and financially interested in the company, visited the Dominion property, in North Midway, recently. There are two wells, the combined production of which is about 360 barrels per day, on this lease. A new rig is to be erected soon.

Much material for the Universal Oil Company has passed through McKittrick en route to the property of the company in Lost Hills. Seven and one-half tons of sixteen-inch pipe were among the shipments seen one day. The trip from Taft to Lost Hills is fifty-one miles, and from ten to twelve mules compose the teams necessary for the long distance.

The Union Oil Company has ordered considerable material for operations on section 18, 29-22, seven miles from this city, on the North McKittrick front.

County Surveyor M. W. Buffington of Bakersfield has completed the survey for a new county road from McKittrick to Lost Hills, a distance of twenty-one miles. Louder D. Bell and Eugene H. Fairbanks were appointed a jury of men and have looked over the route. The line follows the present road to Olig, two and one-half miles, and then branches to the north, passing through the Belridge and other oil properties on the North McKittrick front, and in the Belridge district to Lost Hills. It is expected that work will be begun on the new thoroughfare very soon. Rights of way are being secured, and the oil companies and others interested have promised to contribute liberally toward the construction of the road, oil companies giving both money and oil.

A lofty structure [illegible] raised on a solid foundation [illegible] this is the financial ideal. [illegible] the only way to earn profits [illegible] is to keep it working. Idle [illegible] pay no dividends. That is [illegible] and manufacturers lay [illegible] emphasis on "turn over." In [illegible] the margin of profit on [illegible] is so small that it is [illegible] necessary to buy and sell [illegible] a company's capital each [illegible] to earn reasonable [illegible]. The capital in that case is [illegible] "turned over" as many [illegible] the capital is contained in [illegible] volume of annual sales.

[illegible] sales and small profits," is [illegible] second maxim. A news[illegible] or cigar store has a bet[illegible] the corner of Wall street [illegible] Broadway, New York, than a [illegible] furnaces or tombstones. [illegible] is much quicker, though [illegible] on each sale may be much

[illegible] two typical experiences re[illegible] wholesale credit man. [illegible] 1906 two small corpora[illegible] customers of his house, [illegible] established. Both corporations [illegible] the retail dry goods trade; [illegible] average gross profits on [illegible] of about 30 per cent.; the [illegible] of both were about 20 per [illegible] their sales, leaving a net [illegible] sales in each case of about

…PORATIONS WITH A DIFFERENCE.

[illegible] corporations operated in [illegible] miles apart and under [illegible] conditions; also, as will [illegible] a moment, there was a dis[illegible] in respect to the abil[illegible] management. One com[illegible] Novelty Emporium, started [illegible] worth of fixtures and a net [illegible] capital of $15,000, consisting [illegible] of goods and a small [illegible] cash. The other com[illegible] New York Store—had fix[illegible] $5000 and a net working [illegible]

[illegible] Emporium, through [illegible] and advertising "turned" [illegible] three times a year—in [illegible] made gross sales of the [illegible] approximately $45,000. [illegible] York Store turned its capi[illegible] less than twice a year—[illegible] that is, the first year of [illegible] than $30,000. How did [illegible] compare? The Novelty [illegible] netted 10 per cent. on [illegible] or $4500; the New [illegible] earned the same percent[illegible] approximately $5000. The [illegible] of earnings on the invest[illegible], figured out 23 per [illegible] the Novelty Emporium and [illegible] per cent. for the New York [illegible] difference that was due [illegible] the different rate of turn

[illegible] is not the whole story. [illegible] man has followed closely [illegible] of each company through [illegible] years. Each company, [illegible], has paid dividends of 10 [illegible] on its capital investment and [illegible] the rest of its profits back [illegible] business. In both cases the [illegible] in fixtures has gradually [illegible] so that now the Novelty [illegible] owns $8500 worth of [illegible] and the New York Store [illegible] worth. Most of the pro[illegible] gone back into increased [illegible] the rate of turn-over first [illegible] in each case has been ap[illegible] maintained.

[illegible] is that the Novelty Em[illegible] capital investment has [illegible] $20,000 to over $43,000. [illegible] five years the New York [illegible] investment has grown [illegible] to $45,000. They are [illegible] now. In five years more, [illegible] rate of turn-over per[illegible] net worth of the Novelty [illegible] Company will be about [illegible] of the New York Store

…DOLLAR MUST WORK HARD.

[illegible] man's story gives just a [illegible] great variations in profits [illegible] strength that may re[illegible] for years from apparently [illegible] in rates of turn[illegible] is good reason for the [illegible] worrying and scheming to [illegible] the volume of sales without [illegible] average stock.

[illegible] Brothers, the great whole[illegible] other house, put their ad[illegible] in these words: [illegible] secret of profit lies in [illegible]. It makes no differ[illegible] the number is one or [illegible] it isn't put to work it's [illegible] may earn a few cents in [illegible] may earn a few cents in a [illegible] one case it is doing its [illegible] other it is loafing on the [illegible] dollar you have should be [illegible] pay its board and keep. [illegible] dollars earned anything to-

[illegible] manufacturer the case is [illegible], for only a small pro[illegible] of his investment relatively is [illegible] capital—and working cap[illegible] only portion of capital that [illegible] considered in computing [illegible]. Even in his case, however, [illegible] desirable to shorten his [illegible] production, cut down the [illegible] stock that he is compelled [illegible] proportion to his sales and [illegible] his rate of turn-over. [illegible] with working [illegible] is no absolute, universal [illegible]. In the nature of things [illegible] not be such a rule, be[illegible] company may be selling a [illegible] of articles for which [illegible] steady demand, and an[illegible] company may sell only a few [illegible] demand for which is ir[illegible]

[illegible] or a manufacturer [illegible] can get along with a [illegible] stock compared to sales [illegible] company which handles [illegible] articles, as, for instance, [illegible]. With the man[illegible] company an important [illegible] length of time of pre[illegible] material can be [illegible] finished product nor[illegible], then it is not good policy ordinarily to carry in stock more than a month's supply of the product.

At a recent meeting of the New York Credit Men's Association twenty-eight statements, made by merchants in defferent trades, from Boston to Texas, each showing a working capital of approximately $10,000, were examined. The credit men had been under the impression that they could work out some definite rule as to the amount of gross sales that could be safely handled with $10,000 working capital, but they were wrong.

The annual volume of business varied all the way from $10,000 to $85,000. A clothing merchant in the South who buys on the usual trade terms, borrows no money, takes no discounts, and sells the long-winded trade, was found to be turning his capital barely once. A hustling firm of two members in a large eastern city with not quite $10,000 working capital manufactured and sold $85,000 worth of goods. This firm used its bank credit to the limit and sold only to those who take every discount. It wound up the year owing practically nothing with a good profit to show.

This last instance suggests that in finance, as in every other branch of business activity, it isn't always possible to follow all the rules at one and the same time. The firm which turned its capital eight and one-half times a year made good profits, it is true, but by highly speculative methods. If any of their large customers had failed to take his discount as the firm expected, or if the banks had suddenly curtailed their loans, the firm might have met a sudden and disastrous end. The firm kept its dollars busy through the year, but it did not keep them safe.

The wise business man does not usually travel quite so fast. In the long run he is apt to go farther than his more daring rivals. Sound judgment demands a self-imposed speed limit.

The man who keeps that thought clearly in view, while he is working to build up his sales, will not proceed too recklessly. He will find some way to reconcile the two big rules:

Keep your dollars busy.

Keep enough of them on or near the firing line.

YRAIRTE WELL FLOWS WATER.

STANDARD MAY ABANDON WORK ON THE HOLE.

First Fullerton Field Undertaking Proves a Disappointment to the Big Company—Review of Drilling Activities in the Southern Field—Orange Company's Well.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

FULLERTON, April 12.—That the Standard may abandon the Yrairte well on account of the inability to stop the flow of water is the present outlook of the termination of the first undertaking of the big company in the Fullerton field. The well has at times looked like a certain producer. Several hundred feet of oil sand was passed through and there was considerable gas pressure, but since that time water troubles have increased and so far have not been overcome. The Standard will probably make another location. Unless the water is shut off, damage by infiltration will result to the field.

The Orange No. 3 still has all the appearances of a possible gusher. The well is throwing great volumes of gas with a spray of oil over the top of the derrick. The company is preparing to handle a phenomenal flow of oil when the drill brings it in.

The Petroleum company is still in hard ground with the rotary and making slow progress. It is expected that sand will be found below this formation. Some gas has been encountered.

The production on the Amalgamated has eased off slightly. No. 4 is not doing what it did in the beginning. New work is pushed rapidly and rig No. 12 is up and drilling will ba started this week.

The Santa Fe will bring in some new wells before long, which have been on the drill for several months. The company is preparing to build new offices at Olinda.

The Delaware Union in Brea Canyon is bringing in No. 4, which looks very good for a producer of a fair quality of light oil. The company is installing a rotary on its lease.

The Industrial will sink No. 31 to deeper sand. The well has been producing. The Fisher is in hard formation, but driving ahead with the rotary.

The Standard's well on the Stern and Goodman lease is down about 3000 feet and a producer is looked for within sixty days.

PRINCES' TRUST TOTTERS IN ASTOUNDING CHAOS.

"Most Wonderful Amateur Muddle on Earth," Declares Expert Financier—Princely Management and Constant Lawsuits Lead Many Millions of Capital Into Peril—Amazing Complication of Interests.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, March 16.—Berlin financiers are waiting with bated breath for the collapse of the "Princes' Trust," the great organization for feudal finance which arose out of the estate development plans of Prince Furstenberg, the Kaiser's friend, and Prince Christian Kraft zu Hohenlohe, his kinsman.

This trust has grown rapidly, has taken in part of the estates of Prince Henckel von Donnersmarck, and gradually came to control a capital estimated at from $180,000,000 to $250,000,000. In addition to developing its own land, the trust controls real estate in Berlin and Vienna, runs the Boswau and Knauer Building Corporation, the Wolf Wertheim and Passage department stores, the Berlin New Theater, several hotels, the Levant Steamship Company, the Palestine and Trade Union banks, the Berlin General Omnibus Company and a score of minor undertakings.

Until eighteen months ago it was the Berliner's custom to gasp admiringly when the Princes' Trust was mentioned. Of late that has changed; the financial press unanimously proclaims that the trust is on the verge of collapse. That is due to the reckless amateur management of Prince Hohenlohe, to the payment of dividends when no profits are earned, to mismanagement and legal entanglements, and to what is here called "American" confusion in the relations between the different corporations composing the trust.

The Princes owned a majority of the stock in all the companies and are therefore absolute autocrats; the public has no share in the management and the omnipotent Princes do what they like. Their methods grew so reckless that their associates, the banker, Karl Furstenberg (no relative of the Prince) and Herr Friedlander-Fuld, both threw up their connection with the trust. After that affairs grew worse, and they are now in a complete state of confusion and disorganization.

The corporations composing the trust are mostly in a bad way as the result of what critics called the "financial gymnastics" of the princely organizers. The most sensational collapse is that of the gigantic Berlin Land and Building Corporation. The princes took this over as an insignificant concern and developed it in a few years into the biggest thing of its kind in Europe. It bought up city land, including the Steglitz estate of Prince Furstenberg, and prepared to make millions by selling the land for building.

The enterprise at first succeeded. Later, owing to universal over-building, the corporation could do no business, so it decided to begin building on its own account, regardless of the fact that 60,000 Berlin apartments were vacant. It built the gorgeous "Passage Department Store" in the Friedrichstrasse. To carry out these undertakings it acquired a controlling interest in the Boswau & Knauer Corporation. The Land and Building Corporation at first paid 10 per cent. dividend, and when things were at their best, part of its stock was issued to the public at 129.

Then the Princes made blunder after blunder. The Passage Department Store proved a costly failure; nobody wanted the vast apartment houses. The Princes gaily continued to pay 10 per cent. dividends, and only in 1910 reduced them to 5. The critics then exposed the fact that the corporation had not earned even that; after which no dividend at all was paid. The stock, which the public had bought at 129, fell suddenly to 30 and hundreds were ruined.

Since then the trust has been receiving blow after blow. The latest scandal is connected with its potash works. This scandal had led to the resignation of the president. The Friedrichshall Potash Works paid $2,750,000 in shares for other works which were worth much less. The directors had to admit at a public meeting that they did not know what they were doing, as they were mere mandatories of the Princes.

Another blow has been suffered through the Hohenlohe mines, which were the nucleus and origin of the trust. The Princes borrowed $8,000,000 for the development of these mines, but got them into such a state of confusion that the director of the Trade Union Bank, the financial institution mainly concerned, resigned in protest. In the minor undertakings of the trust there is also trouble, indicated by heavy falls in the stocks.

The financial press ascribes the collapse of the trust to the personal mistakes of Prince Hohenlohe, who without training, has tried to manage everything. The present dread is that the Trade Union and Palestine banks, which are mixed up with all the trust's corporations, are badly hit. That the Princes are themselves responsible for the failure is proved by the fact that the Berlin General Omnibus Company, the Levant line and the Lusatia Brown coal works, three of their undertakings, are flourishing. These are the three corporations in which the Princes have so far not meddled directly.

The complications of the different corporations are such that only an expert could unravel them. The trust started a Berlin hotel company in which a majority of the stock is held by the Theaters and Hall Corporation. The majority of this stock Knauer Corporation. The shares of Boswau and Knauer are held by the Berlin Land and Building Corporation; the majority interest of the Land and Building Corporation is held by the Trade Union Bank; and the Trade Union Bank is owned by the Princes.

The Wertheim Department Store is run by four different corporations, in all of which the Princes are interested. The result of the multiplication of corporations is tremendous waste on legal expenses, stamps, and office work. "In general," says an expert financier, "the famous Princes' trust is the most wonderful amateur muddle on earth."

Another cause of the trust's downfall is constant litigation. Several of its transactions have been quashed by the courts. It has lost a great lawsuit between the Wolf Wertheim store and a rival Wertheim store across the way, while in a still more recent lawsuit, concerning the Princes' Sea Transport Company, the trust was condemned to pay $750,000 damages.

A general smash up would not ruin Prince Furstenberg or Prince Hohenlohe, who both own vast entailed estates outside the trust. But it would ruin several thousand German investors who have been foolishly attracted by the glitter and promise of Europe's first experiment in feudal finance.

Radium a Scientific Puzzle.

[Baltimore American:] "The greatest of our scientists know little about radium," remarked Prof H. D. Blackie of the University of California, at the Emerson. "The theory of its atomic disintegration has suggested a large number of problems, some of which remain unanswered. For instance, there is a mystery concerning the nature of the ultimate product or products of the atoms of the two primary elements of radium—uranium and thorium. There is some ground, but no positive proof, that lead is the ultimate product of one, but as to thorium there is no solution.

"Even the origin of radium is unknown. We know that it is an element of intense activity and of great rapidity of disintegration, resembling its short-lived and active constitutents. The period of the average life of radium is not accurately known, but it can not be more than a few thousand years, some say 2500 years. Thus in a few centuries all the radium in existence today will be gone. What there was of it in the world, say at the time of the building of the Pyramids, must have largely vanished by this time through disintegration."

3 Months Earnings for Less Than 16 Days' Use of Your Money if You Buy Now

YOU may quickly confirm "Home Builders" claim to financial soundness, and when you do that you have removed every objection you can raise to investment in its shares.

"Home Builders" plan is essentially safe. It is unlike all of the other "similar" companies, in that it does not own, or speculate in, real estate through the purchase of it in large tracts with a view of making its profits that way. When it invests money in real estate it is as mortgagee (or on the creditor side,) as in building homes on easy payments, and upon which it makes its building profits, real estate commissions, interest on deferred payments, etc.

You will agree that turning your money often is the secret of good business. This "Home Builders" does. It has no idle money, as it might if a large share of its capital was sewed up in real estate. Out of its total resources of $1,297,226.99, it has considerably more than a million dollars out on gilt edge interest earning securities.

This is proven by the fact that its net interest revenue for last year was more than $83,000, which is 8 per cent. on more than a million. A really notable condition for this four-year-old institution is, that last year its net interest earnings alone were more than the cash dividends paid—$7,226.86 more.

Now you will certainly concede "Home Builders" management to be of a keen, clean, vigorous type when it can produce such results and you can safely entrust your funds to such stewardship.

You should make your investment before April 30th, and receive your share of the cash dividend distribution to be declared upon that date.

(70)

WHEN you consider the financial soundness of "Home Builders"—that it is of itself, safe; that whether it be large or small, its management proposes to keep it upon conservative lines, the risk investment is nil.

But you are safeguarded in another way and that is through the written guaranty given by "Home Builders General Agency."

This guaranty is an agreement to supply funds and facilities for the conversion of your shares into cash through resale, protecting against loss of principal together with assurance of at least 8 per cent. while so invested and further, providing loan facilities whereby you can raise money on your shares without selling them.

You are perhaps familiar with the record, that no one has ever lost a cent through an investment in "Home Builders" securities. We expect through good business practices to maintain that record.

[illegible] from some former con[illegible], it is possible that it is con[illegible] the most important of all. [illegible] certain that the public would [illegible] regard it, and would not re[illegible] with favor or with patience any [illegible] or other disturbance of in[illegible] for the purpose of enforcing [illegible] demand.

[illegible] right of coal miners, as of [illegible] men, to form trade unions or [illegible] organizations for their own [illegible] is not to be disputed; nor is [illegible] of such organizations to col[illegible] according to their own rules, [illegible] and fines from their members. [illegible] is a different thing to require [illegible] or other persons outside of [illegible] and with neither authority [illegible] nor responsibility to them [illegible] as collecting agents and as [illegible] officers for the enforcement [illegible] rules. We should greatly [illegible] the moral if not also the legal [illegible] of an employer, after having [illegible] to pay a man certain wages, [illegible] to withhold a portion [illegible] from him for payment to [illegible] third party whose claim upon it [illegible] may not be valid, and in any [illegible] is something with which the em[illegible] has no concern. Such a sys[illegible] would in practice make the em[illegible] a responsible party to every [illegible] which might arise between a [illegible] and any of its members, and [illegible] would lead to endless complica[illegible].

[illegible] also to be apparent to the [illegible] leaders themselves that such a [illegible] is a confession of weak[illegible]. It indicates that they have not [illegible] influence over the members [illegible] to be able to command their support [illegible] the aid and compulsion of [illegible] employers. The men must ap[illegible] be dragooned into paying [illegible] fees. We should suppose that [illegible] union managers would prefer to [illegible] their organizations on a volun[illegible] basis, and to make them so bene[illegible] to their members that the latter [illegible] be willing and glad to sustain [illegible] without being forced to do so. [illegible] the men to strike in order [illegible] themselves forced to pay dues, [illegible] otherwise they would not pay, [illegible] be one of the strangest spec[illegible] in all the story of industrial [illegible].

[illegible] OF SWITZERLAND.

[illegible] a Number of Things They [illegible] Do Without Having to Pay [illegible] Considerable Penalty.

[illegible] Junior:] When William [illegible] and Arnold Winkelreid took their [illegible] against oppression they found [illegible] of men to follow them to [illegible] or to liberty. Should a modern [illegible] leader in Switzerland attempt [illegible] up followers in arms for a [illegible] crusade he would probably [illegible] a baker's dozen. Not that [illegible] of today are not just as pa[illegible] as were their forefathers cen[illegible] ago, but that there simply [illegible] not be men to follow who were [illegible] to the spirit of fight.

[illegible], when one reads what hap[illegible] to boys who act at all like boys, [illegible] be surprised that any boys [illegible] in Switzerland after they are old [illegible] to understand what is said to [illegible], or to walk two blocks without [illegible]. Here are some of the [illegible] a boy in Switzerland may not [illegible] without something disagreeable [illegible]:

[illegible] a boy threw a stone and hit a [illegible], he is fined 3 francs.

[illegible] a boy threw a snowball and hit [illegible], he may be fined 2 francs.

[illegible] a boy call a girl "redhead," he [illegible] fined from 2 to 4 francs.

[illegible] a boy threw at frogs in a pond [illegible] being ordered to do so by [illegible] or teacher, he may be fined

[illegible] a boy threw at frogs in a pond [illegible] belonging to someone else, [illegible] may whip him or he may [illegible] 2 francs.

[illegible] a boy make a face at his teach[illegible] pictures of him on his [illegible] of him, he may be [illegible] francs and have to beg his par[illegible].

[illegible] a boy stone a dog or chase a [illegible] it is a fine of 1 franc.

[illegible] boys fight without the con[illegible] of their teacher, it is a fine of 3 [illegible].

[illegible] all count for good manners [illegible] citizenship, of course, and it [illegible] to be necessary to take offi[illegible] of such things—but boys [illegible] the world over, it does look [illegible] the only unpleasant thing [illegible] boy can do and not be [illegible] for it, is to have the measles or [illegible].

LABOR UNIONS.

ization of capital. The arrogance sometimes displayed eclipses anything that "trust magnates" would dare to exhibit.

The spectacle that is witnessed today in the United Kingdom, whose sway extends around the world and whose place among the nations has long been in the van, affords an illustration of the consequences of the irresponsible power of labor organization that is not amenable to law and public authority, as every other organized power in a State must be. At the behest of a federation of coal miners the supply of one of the chief necessities of productive industry and of the transportation and exchange of commodities for the subsistence of the people is cut off. Industries having no direct relation with coal mining are affected with paralysis, trade is prostrated, millions are forced into involuntary idleness, and whole populations in a country enjoying all the elements of prosperity, are reduced to destitution and pushed to the verge of starvation, taxing the philanthropic and charitable resources of the kingdom. Public authority struggles in vain for weeks with this ruthless power in the effort to relieve its victims and induce it to permit strangled industry and trade to resume their course. The government of a vast empire seems to be impotent before this monster, because nothing has been provided in its system of law and public administration for bringing it into subject or protecting the community from its ravages.

We cannot congratulate ourselves that this land of free institutions, and government by the people for the equal benefit of all, is not subject to a like peril. The danger may not be so immediate or so great, on account of the extent of our territory, the relative sparseness of population, the diversity of industries and interests, and a less degree of cohesion in the labor organizations; but a similar menacing spirit of arrogance and defiance is exhibited. It is seen in the obstinate stand taken by coal miners here in both the anthracite and the bituminous fields and the threats of strike if extreme demands are not complied with, a strike that will hurt others far more than the coal mining companies. There is nothing in our system of law and government to prevent that kind of outrage upon civilized society. Railroad transportation is an essential factor in the prosperity of all industries and trade and the comfort and welfare of the whole people. It is a "quasi-public service," subject to regulation, and capital cannot do as it pleases with it. But one man at the head of an organization of locomotive engineers is able to say that, if a strike should be ordered in pursuance of a vote of its members in the most important industrial and commercial area in the country, "not a wheel will turn and New York will not have a pound of food at the end of a week." "A strike," this same man is quoted as saying, "would paralyze the industries of the country. Freight could not be transported and the industries of the country would come to a standstill. The results would be too far-reaching to forecast. They can be better imagined than described." Is there in this country a power that can utter such menaces and be able to give them effect, and is there no authority to which it can be made to yield? If not, there is a perilous defect in our system of government which will have to be remedied if the system is to last.

"Dried Up" Senator Harris.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] While Col. Watkins of Tennessee was in Washington he told about the sad predicament two citizens of his State got into talking politics while traveling East on a Pullman car some years ago.

It was a hot night and sleep was impossible. They were in the smoking room and fell to talking about State affairs. While thus engaged an old, grizzled, gaunt man came in, clad as befitted a torrid night and began smoking. The two politicians kept up their talk and were regretting how poorly their State was represented at Washington. They were somewhat sarcastic in referring to the Senatorial delegation and declared that younger and more vigorous men were needed.

"Look at our Senators," was remarked. "They are played out. Bate is old and Harris is dried up and useless."

Just then the old stranger in the corner arose and with gestures of a prize fighter began to abuse and scarify the two talkers, who gaped in wonderment. When the irate old man subsided the politicians exclaimed:

"Who are you to be so upset about our conversation?"

"I am Senator Harris," the stranger replied, in tones that could be heard above the rumbling of the train "and I have a mind to throw both of you out of the window."

They had not recognized the Senator in his pajamas in the semi-darkness.

The Boston Way.

[Cosmopolitan:] Rabbi Wise, when he visited Boston for the first time, was undecided at what hotel to stop. As he wandered up Sumner street from the South Station he determined to inquire for a good hotel. So he accosted a fine appearing man who was coming toward him, confident that from such a citizen he would be sure to get the very best advice as to the choice of a stopping place.

"What would be a good place to stop at?" he inquired of the stranger.

"Just before you reach the at," was the disconcerting reply.

He Forgot the Details.

[Washington Star:] Charles Frohman was talking to a Philadelphia reporter about the importance of detail:

"Those who work for me," he said, "follow my directions down to the very smallest item. To go wrong in detail, you know, is often to go altogether wrong—like the dissipated husband.

"A dissipated husband, as he stood before his house in the small hours searching for his latchkey, muttered over and over to himself:

" 'Now, which did my wife say—hic—have two whiskies an' get home by 12, or—hic— have twelve whiskies an' get home by 2?' "

Pure Food in Ancient Rome.

[Harper's Weekly:] In Pliny there may be found an account of the manner in which the bakers of Rome were alleged to mix with their dough a white earth, soft to the touch and sweet to the taste, thus putting out a foodstuff that had weight and fine appearance, but little food value. The same writer also touches upon wine adulteration. Pliny says that not even the wealthy Roman noble could be sure that the wine he bought was pure. Indeed, the most famous wines were doctored, and wines from Gaul, generally held to be of the best, were as a matter of fact artificially colored with aloes and other drugs.

FINE TOURIST HOTEL PLANNED.

LONG-DESIRED IMPROVEMENT AT LAST IN SIGHT.

Big Hundred Thousand Dollar Hostelry to Occupy Valuable Site on North Beach—Cornerstone of Imposing Elks' Club to Be Laid During Present Month.

SANTA MONICA, April 3.—The week brought forth the announcement that Mrs. Livingston of Pasadena had, for a stated consideration of $10,000, bought North Beach frontage, upon which a $100,000 hotel of 100 rooms would be erected during the present summer season. There was much encouragement in the announcement, as it has been conceded for years and years that the one thing needed in order to bring Santa Monica into her very own was a modern hotel for the accommodation of the tourist travel. With this welcome announcement came also the beginning of work on the Elks' clubhouse, to be built on Ocean avenue near Fremont. It is expected to have the preliminaries so well advanced that the corner-stone may be laid with imposing ceremonies during the last week of the present month. The witching hour of 11 p.m. has been selected as the time for laying the big stone block. Elks from all of the cities in the southern part of the State are to be invited to be in attendance.

The corner-stone of the new High School building on Prospect Hill was laid Thursday, although the work of construction is already well advanced. The group of buildings will be imposing and already the roofs are being placed on several of the minor structures. The entire summer season will be devoted to constructive operations, street paving and the landscaping of the thirteen-acre site. Present plans are that the entire group of buildings shall be completed by the opening day of school in September, and as a penalty attaches for every day beyond that period during which the buildings shall remain unfinished, the presumption is that the contractor will not permit the work to drag. Already several of the Sundays have been taken advantage of and ordinary holidays are not given observance by the large force of workers.

CITY ACCEPTS PROFILES.

The city has accepted the profiles for the improvement of Twenty-sixth street from Nevada to San Vicente boulevard on the north, and just as soon as the work of grading and paving can be completed the north and south loops of the world-famous automobile road race course will be connected near the center by a north and south boulevard. The distance is something more than a mile and the paving will be tamped oil, covered with six inches of crushed rock. The curbs and walks are to be of concrete and the permanent improvements will be installed before these bean acres go onto the market as suburban sites.

Summer and winter homes in the tangled wildwood and sylvan scenes of Santa Monica and Rustic canyons—such are contemplated in the plans now in process of development by the Santa Monica Land and Water Company, which plans the expenditure of $100,000 in the development of the canyons. The preliminary surveys are now being made. The plan is to lay out the sheltered retreat beneath the ancient sycamores in homesites of urban character, supplied with water, electricity and all modern conveniences. The lots are to be of generous size and moderate price shaped to conform to the contour of the hills, rustic roadways and purling stream.

The building restrictions will be such that the family of moderate means can afford to maintain a home here, where there is shelter from the ocean breezes and where the soil is so rich with the accumulation of the detritus of ages, washed from the upper reaches of the canyon, that, in response to tickling by the hoe, any fruit or vegetable known to the semi-tropical zone will flourish.

Although the week was rainy, builders continued active. The number of permits issued was not large, but many plans are being drawn for acceptance and award of contracts with the return of clearing weather. The following permits have just been granted:

Lasko Cicourel, frame amusement and riding device in the Dragon Gorge, $6000; Charles P. Schermerhorn, sixteen-room, two-story flat at Bay and Trolleyway, $3000; C. J. Wilson, two-story flat at No. 132 Kinney, $1100; Santa Monica Home Builders, cottage on Eighteenth street, $1000; Santa Monica Home Builders, two-story residence on Vicente terrace, $2500; Santa Monica Home Builders, two-story residence at Fourth and Montana, $3000; J. H. Foley and F. W. Siegel, frame bungalow at No. 1508 Nevada, $1500; same builders, frame residence at No. 1524 Nevada, $1500; C. J. Wilson, frame flat of six rooms at No. 122 Kinney, $1200; W. H. Saunders, frame residence at No. 814 Utah, $1000; W. H. Saunders, frame cottage at No. 812 Utah, $1000; William Cooper, extensions to apartment-house, $4000.

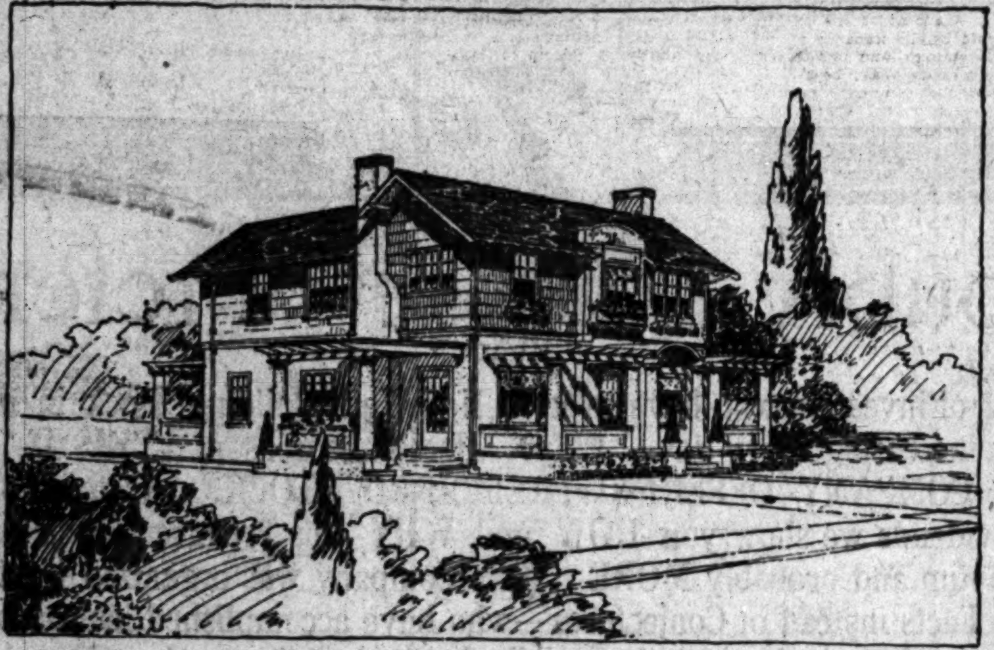
LARGE ACREAGE EXCHANGED.

Charles N. Guin reports the following exchanges: Eighty acres in San Diego county, owned by Barnstock & Staples, and valued at $1600, for lot in Highland Park Tract, Los Angeles; twenty-seven-acre farm at Fountain, Colo., owned by A. W. Gore, and valued at $8500, for lot in Riverside, owned by Will Calvert, and valued at $6000, the difference being adjusted by cash; thirty-six acres, one mile south of Cokebran, valued at $6000, and owned by H. N. Marcey, for eight-room residence, located at No. 215 North Fifth street, Cripple Creek, valued at $3000, and owned by J. H. Taber, the difference being adjusted by cash; two lots at Colorado Springs, valued at $10,000, and owned by A. B. Tuthill, for fifty-acre eucalyptus grove at San Luis Obispo, owned by C. E. Moore.

TO OPERATE EXTENSIVELY.

The James R. H. Wagner Company reports that the big 320-acre tract which it recently put on the market near Inglewood is selling in a highly satisfactory manner. The tract is south of Inglewood and adjoins Hawthorne. It is reached by the Hawthorne car line. Arrangements are now being made for the various improvements to be put on the land. The Wagner company's operations in this section will be quite extensive. In addition to this 320-acre piece now on the market they will handle 810 acres lying just west of Hawthorne. This property was recently purchased by the Land Owners' Company.

Attractive House for West End Residence Site.



Twelve-room dwelling planned by Thomas Franklin Power for F. G. Wood.

SUGGESTS THE COLONIAL.

Handsome Wilton Place Home Will Have Wealth of Classical Detail. Wide Terrace Across Front.

An attractive dwelling of classical detail will be erected by F. G. Wood on Wilton Place from plans just completed by Thomas Franklin Power. The house, which will contain twelve rooms in all, will represent a cost of about $12,000.

The place will occupy a ground area of 55x69 feet. The first-story exterior will be of plaster, with shakes of a seal brown color above. The trim will be in white. A pleasing feature will be a ten-foot brick-paved terrace across the entire front of the house. The entrance will have a charm of its own, consisting as it will of a vaulted hood flanked on either hand by a pergola.

The interior will be finished after colonial models and will be in white enamel, the doors being of mahogany. The floors will be of quartered oak. The vestibule will open into a broad hall, the feature of which will be a sweeping mahogany staircase leading to the upper landing. A large triple window will provide light.

The living-room will be 18x25 feet in size and will have an ornamental ceiling, with wainscoting extending to the cornice. The dining-room will be 14x17 feet in size and will open into a terrace.

ARLINGTON SQUARE SALES.

Emil Firth reports sales in Arlington Square to Elizabeth Naumann, Ella E. Bottomley and E. F. and Susan Kelton. Each bought a hundred-foot lot on Arlington avenue, paying $1900. Two other lots, one on the corner of Arlington and Rodeo road, and the other at the corner of Thirty-ninth street and Second avenue, were sold for $1200 each, to Newton Van Zandt and A. L. Wodehouse. Other recent transfers were as follows: Mrs. Bertha E. Armstrong, Joseph Yellin and D. Goldberg, each boght fifty feet on Arlington avenue, for $950; David Devine, fifty feet on Second avenue, for $925; W. H. Nicholas, fifty feet on Second avenue, for $900, and H. W. Francis, forty feet on Third avenue, for $750. Most of these purchasers, it is stated, have bought for immediate improvement with bungalow homes.

THE M'CARTHY TRACTS.

Among the week's building permits was one issued to the McCarthy Company for a two-story brick building with cream-pressed brick front on the east side of San Pedro street, between Seventh and Eighth streets. The building will be 60 feet front by 120 feet deep to an alley in rear. The construction will be concrete foundation and brick walls, with fireproof metal windows set with wire glass and metal window frames. The second floor will contain thirty-three rooms, all of which will have running water and with outside air and light. The lower floor will be divided into stores. The McCarthy Company has also started several bungalows to be built on its addition No. 1 to the Greater Los Angeles tract, Seventy-first street, near Main street, and is getting out plans for other bungalows on Fifty-first and Fifty-second streets in its Normandie-avenue Square tract.

presented by the sample will answer for fuel purposes, and it is a fact that similar coal from the Mt. Diablo range of mountain and geographically near your find has been mined, shipped, and used satisfactorily for fuel purposes on both sides of the Bay of San Francisco and as far south as San Jose, Cal., but the low price of crude oil for use as fuel proved to be the only cause why the lignite mines shut down.

"Bituminous coal can be referred to as pseudomorph after anthracite; heat and pressure burned out some of the hydrogen and compacted the mineral. Anthracite and bituminous coals cover wide stretches of country, while the lignites rarely continue to as much as fifty miles."

Lignite possesses two distinct textures and resemble the two textures which apply to cannel coal and bituminous; one breaks up in cubes and plates, while the other is of massive form and conchoidal in fracture. "There are spots on this globe where a big peat bog is peat on top and good lignite on bottom, and thus lignite is the coal of the quaternary as well as the tertiary formations. . . . In general the coal lands of California are so low a grade as to be unable to stand in competition with fuel oil. As a consequence many of the mines have suspended operations. From time to time reports have been made of a better grade of coal in Stone Canyon in the southeastern part of Monterey county. (See bulletin No. 385, United States Geological Survey by Ralph Arnold.) One of the most important results of the various tests for the better utilization of the fuel resources of the country is the demonstration that producer gas for power purposes can be made from all grades of bituminous coal, lignite and even peat. The results of these tests point conclusively to the substitution of producer gas plants and gas engines for the generation of power in place of the wasteful steam engine in general use at the present time. . . . Another field of investigation which promises to have a distinct bearing on the better utilization of our coals is that of briquetting, and the present condition of the briquetting industry is summarized by Edward W. Parker in a paper entitled, 'Condition of the Coal Briquetting Industry of the United States.'"

We have received so many inquiries relating to lignites of California that it is well to state that the Stone Canyon product is true bituminous coal; while the greater per cent. of the other coals of California are of the varieties lignite or "sub-bituminous." "Mineral Resources of the United States, Nonmetals, 1909, P. 193 et seq., subtitle California," shows a most interesting account of the coal deposits of the State, and we regret that space will not permit a further reference thereto. Numerous tests are being made in California on lignites chiefly to the end of by-products, on which topic we hope to publish further facts later.

Lepidomelane.

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—Q.: The samples herein come from Dehesa, Cal. To me they are of so peculiar formation that I can only refer to them as probably vanadium sulphide. Please advise as to the properties and values of the samples?

G. C. M.

A. The sample is a variety of uniaxial mica and mineralogically named at the subheading. It is a confusing sort of mineral, but it carries no vanadium. It occurs in small six-sided tables, or as "an aggregation of minute opaque, micaceous, scales, united in granulolaminar masses. Basal cleavage perfect. Opaque and raven-black or translucent and leek-green. Luster adamantine inclining to vitreous. Streak mountain-green. Hardness 3; specific gravity 3. Before the blowpipe the mineral turns to a brownish color and fuses to a blackish magnetic globule; with borax a glass bead is obtained of a greenish color, and the mineral is "easily soluble, in hydrochloric acid, with separation of silica in the form of the crystalline scales of the mineral."

Refikite.

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) March 21.—Q.: Sample of coal from the Gallup section of New Mexico. What is the name of the white substance in the coal? What is its composition? L.

A.: Sample named at sub-heading. Approximate composition: Carbon, 78; hydrogen, 11; oxygen, 11; percentage respectively. "Refikite melts at 180 degrees Fahrenheite." It is soluble in boiling alcohol, and disappears altogether in a weak, boiling solution of potash.

Smelted Iron.

PASADENA, March 22.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of mineral I would like to have analyzed. Is it of any value? What does it contain? This sample was found just as I send it to you.

C. S. H.

A.: We do not doubt your good faith in submitting the sample, because you are manly enough to give your name. The sample is a weathered slug or key to parts of an (probably) old-time California "rocker," and you have found its nesting place.

Beryl.

SAN DIEGO, March 22.—Q.: Sample was taken from a small ledge of rock in which it occurs in individual specimens, loose, and in cemented forms with the rock. Is it apatite crystal?

M. G.

A.: Better examine closely the matrix from which you obtained the sample, as there is a possibility that much of the ledge matter is massive beryl.

Amianthus.

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—Q.: I have five prospects seven miles northwest of Mojave, Cal. On one of the claims I run across the kind of material that I send you samples of. What is it? Has it a value?

T. J. S.

A.: The samples are a white, fine quality variety of asbestos, and it usually occurs in serpentine formations. If you find a sufficient tonnage of the substance there will be no difficulty in finding a ready market for the product and at a good price.

Psilomelane.

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you a sample of something which I found, with many more like it, near Owens Lake. I take it to be fossilized bones of some kind. Please tell me about this.

J. T.

A.: The sample is named at the sub-heading. It is a variety of manganese ore in botryoidal form; iron-black in color; of submetallic luster; brownish-black and shining streak; brittle; flat-conchoidal in fracture; hardness 5.50; sp. gr., 4.30, and carries over 70 per cent. proto-peroxide of manganese. Nearly all soluble of hydrochloric acid, and yielding fumes of chlorine.

No. 2 is low grade orthoclase (potash feldspar.) No. 3 is a fairly good bluish "ball-clay" used in the clay-porcelain industry. No. 4, yes. No. 5 is pegmatite (graphic granite.) Pegmatite is made up of quartz and feldspar.

A Poor Showing.

SANTA BARBARA, March 24.—Q.: By same mail and under separate cover I am sending you four samples from ground that has been prospected by drill and drifting and located north of Shasta. From the grass roots the gravel panned not over 5 cents to the yard, and from cores at eight and ten feet, 20 cents, and again 5 cents, respectively, at the depths stated. The showing varied all the way down to thirty-nine feet when I probably struck a pocket. Then I determined to drive a tunnel so as to intersect the prospect at thirty-nine feet and the result is shown by the concentrates marked No. 1. Sample No. 2 is part of the core at twenty-four foot depth. No. 3 is rock from the wash and I would like to know the nature of this rock. No. 4 is from the hanging-wall, what sort of rock is it? I shall be guided by the answer you may be pleased to give me.

W. M.

A.: It is hardly fair to put up a proposition on which we are expected to give you advice on a placer which we have never examined and to expect practical aid by testing a few samples. It would appear, however, judging from the samples, that you are either very much discouraged by the venture or that you have sent samples supposed to represent a placer, and which samples are so foreign to a good prospect that practically all of the samples can be duplicated in the coal-bearing area of Pennsylvania. Sample No. 1 "concentrates?" The stuff is simply arsenopyrite (arsenical pyrite.) No. 2 is impure argillaceous limestone. No. 3 is a hard trap rock known among the coal-miners of Maryland and Virginia as "Nigger head rock." No. 4 is limestone. Placer? (Huh!)

CLIFTON DISTRICT.

NEW SMELTER PROJECT.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

CLIFTON (Ariz.) April 11.—Rapid progress is being made in preparation for the site of the new Arizona Copper Company's smelter below this city. The cost of the smelter is to be paid by the issuance of $2,500,000 in debentures, and two-thirds of the issue already has been subscribed within the company, mainly at its headquarters in Edinburgh, Scotland. The past year has been a very profitable one for the company, the best in its twenty-eight years of operation. During the year the profit was $205,000 over that known the previous year, though the output sold at a generally lower price. This profit mainly came through bettered methods of operation and reduction and a still further reduction is expected through the operation of the new works. The output per month is now held around 3,000,000 pounds of bullion.

Last week a two-mile tunnel of the Arizona Copper Company was completed to Metcalf, starting from a shaft at No. 6 concentrator. The work had been from both ends and the center joined almost exactly. It is probable that the tunnel will be continued on to the Coronado property and that it will carry a large part of the company's concentrating ores.

TUCSON DISTRICT.

SHANNON GETS PROPERTY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) April 12.—The well-known Three R mine in Patagonia district, Santa Cruz county, is reported sold to the Shannon Copper Company of Clifton, for $500,000, to be paid the owners, R. R. Richardson and A. E. Crepin of Patagonia. The property was visited last week by N. I. Amster, president of the Shannon and of the Arizona Commercial Company of Globe, and J. W. Bennie, manager of the Commercial Company's property. The Shannon already owns several properties in Cochise county, carrying ores of value in the smelting processes of the reduction plant at Clifton.

High-grade shipping ore has been found on the 300 level of property at Courtland owned by the Leadville Mining Company. A number of Courtland properties are shipping ore and there is hope that the camp will be one of the best producers of the Southwest, even though it does not come up to the visions of the promoters who lately worked up such a boom for the locality.

The shaft of the Commonwealth Extension Company at Pearce is now down about 160 feet, a few feet south of the ore body, which is to be cut by a drift at 150 feet of depth. The ore was encountered at 116 feet in the shaft, but trended toward the north.

Ben Daniels, late United States Marshal of Arizona, has sold his Elephant Head mine to the New State Mining and Reduction Company of Topeka, Kas., represented by its president, A. C. Lewis. The new owner already has started development.

The illustration in this announcement shows the reproduction of actual receipts, representing over $80,000 sales in West Adams Park before the property was really on the market.

EMPEROR'S UNCLE OF EIGHTY-FIVE JOYRIDES IN GIFT AUTOMOBILE.

Next to the Veteran Monarch Himself, Archduke Rainer Is the Best Loved of the Hapsburgs—Spartan Life of Royal Couple—Archduke Rises at Half Past Five for Garden Walk Before Breakfast.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VIENNA, March 30.—Today in and around the Austrian capital may be seen the eighty-five year old uncle of the Emperor, Archduke Rainer, renewing his youth in a magnificent automobile. It is new joy to him in more ways than one, for it was a present from his relatives on his diamond wedding the other day—and it enables him to cover long distances without much physical exertion.

Of all the celebration offerings, this car has proved the most successful in the eyes of the Archduke. The children of the various Archdukes and Archduchesses are happy in the bags of five thousand crowns they each received from his wife, the Archduchess Marie Catherine, at the festive gathering, and the stallkeepers in the Naschmarkt, the last and greatest of Vienna's open air markets, are still delighted with the reception of their delegation sent to the Archducal palace to congratulate the royal pair. But there is a keener zest still in the enthusiasm with which the Archduke has taken his new car.

With the single exception of his nephew, Emperor Franz Josef—himself only four years the junior of his uncle—no member of the imperial family of the Hapsburgs is so generally beloved. Archduchess Marie is scarcely less popular than her husband but unfortunately she has been in indifferent health for some years past and is less seen in public. The imperial couple live in an extremely simple way. They have a big palace in the Wieden, surrounded by extensive gardens in which they both find a great deal of pleasure. Then they have a delightful summer residence at Baden, fifteen miles outside Vienna, where they live outdoors as much as possible. They are both great believers in fresh air and drive out in almost any kind of weather.

Archduchess Marie Catherine,

Whose diamond wedding to the Archduke Rainer was celebrated recently.

At eighty-five the Archduke still manages to rise at half past five in the morning, but this is an hour and a half later than his nephew, the Emperor. Summer and winter alike, unless the weather is very bad, he takes an early walk in the gardens and returns to breakfast with the Archduchess about half past seven. He is content with just a glass of milk at this time, but his wife takes either tea or coffee with rolls—no butter. After this frugal meal the Archduke proceeds to enjoy the morning papers, for he is a great newspaper reader. He takes the keenest interest in the world's happenings and appreciates especially a good editorial or special article. After finishing the papers he receives the household officials and attends to all the business connected with the administration of the palace and his estates.

The Archduke is a wealthy man, for he has outlived so many of his imperial relatives that in recent years he has succeeded to some substantial heritages. Not the least part of his work is the investigation of appeals for assistance, for the Archduke's charities are generous and widely distributed.

After all this business is finished the Archduke takes another walk in the gardens, or if the weather is bad reads to his wife, who is obliged to spend most of her time indoors. Very frequently he will visit some studio, for he takes the greatest interest in art and knows all the really important painters and sculptors in the city. And he is even more interested in science, having been for many years the active president of the Imperial Academy of Sciences. He delights especially in the society of scientists and receives many of them in his palace, entertaining them at luncheons and dinners. The success which the academy has attained is largely due to his influential and energetic support.

At half past twelve the first real meal of the day is served. It is very simple, and many a Viennese business man eats a much more elaborate and expensive repast. A light entree, one kind of meat, cakes and fruit—strawberries whenever possible—make up the meal, with generally one glass of light white wine. Then the couple go for their afternoon drive in a half-open landau. Usually they go to the Prater, remaining out an hour and a half or so. Afterwards they enjoy a social time with their household suite, with whom they dine at half past five. Dinner is not very much more elaborate than lunch. Soup, an entree, meat and light pastry comprise the whole menu. Coffee is served very rarely.

Almost every evening the Archduke may be seen in the theater, or rather in the Imperial opera, particularly whenever there is an Italian work or something by Beethoven or Mozart. If anyone tells him of a good play he always goes to see it. In Wagner opera he prefers "Lohengrin," "Tannhauser" and "The Flying Dutchman." As to the composer's other works, he calls them "higher mathematics in music." The Archduke goes to the opera quite alone, always walking there and back when the weather is fine.

A very simple apartment is the bedroom of the imperial couple; indeed it might be that of an ordinary Viennese family. The furniture is all in wood, consisting only of beds, wardrobes, chairs and tables. The most important article in the room is a small spirit lamp. Teh Archduchess is frequently disturbed by a cough in the night, and the Archduke, without calling any servants, gets up himself and makes her some soothing tea, prepared beforehand and only required to be heated.

Most of the summer is spent at the villa in Baden. The Archduke goes to the station alone and buys his ticket like any ordinary traveler. He wants no reserved compartment, but gets into the first one which has room and there he enters readily into conversation with any fellow passenger. This easy sociability is the more remarkable because the members of the Austrian imperial family as a rule hold themselves entirely aloof from outsiders, even from the aristocracy. The famous Vienna Jockey Club, one of the most exclusive clubs in the world, frequented by the highest nobles in the monarchy, has no archduke on its list of members; nor do any of them ever go there. The late King Edward was the oldest honorary member of the club and always played cards there when he came to Vienna.

The Archduke is as charitable as he is genial and his wife is no less so. They have never had any children, but they take the greatest interest in all children's charities. Never did a poor friendless child appeal to them for aid in vain. Probably ten thousand petitions at least for assistance are received at the Rainer palace every year. Every one is carefully investigated and the deserving ones are always generously relieved.

Especially interesting are the friendly relationships which have existed for many years between the Archduke and the old women stallkeepers in the "Naschmarket." The market lies directly on the way from the Rainer palace to the town, and the Archduke never passes there without many respectful greetings from these women. Quite often one of them will go and kiss his hand saying "How do you do, Mr. Archduke?" In Austria everybody with the single exception of the Emperor—and Empress when there is one—is addressed as Mr. or Mrs. It is Mrs. Archduchess, Mr. Count, Mr. General, Mr. Doctor, Mr. Baron, Mrs. Baroness and so on.

The Archduke has always shown the greatest interest in the welfare of these market women. They have a hard time, exposed to rain and snow and wind and sunshine, from early morning until dusk, although some of them have the compensation of accumulating quite snug fortunes. They live frugally and work hard and it must also be confessed that they are usually ready to get the best of an inexperienced buyer, not alone in prices but also by palming off inferior fruit or vegetables.

But they dare not try on these tricks with the ordinary Viennese housewife, for she would go at once to the Market Commissioner with her complaint. This official rules the market with an iron hand and has very full powers of dealing with tricky or dishonest stallkeepers. If the case is at all serious he usually inflicts a fine ranging from two to ten dollars, and in very serious instances, where the offender has been punished before, she may be deprived of her stall altogether. Whenever any of these unfortunate persons find themselves in any kind of trouble they are very quickly flying to their "Mr. Archduke."

Archduke Rainer,

Who at 85 is renewing his youth in a magnificent gift automobile.

Hence it was that the venerable Archduke and Archduchess had no sincerer diamond wedding congratulations than from the "Frauen von Naschmarkt."

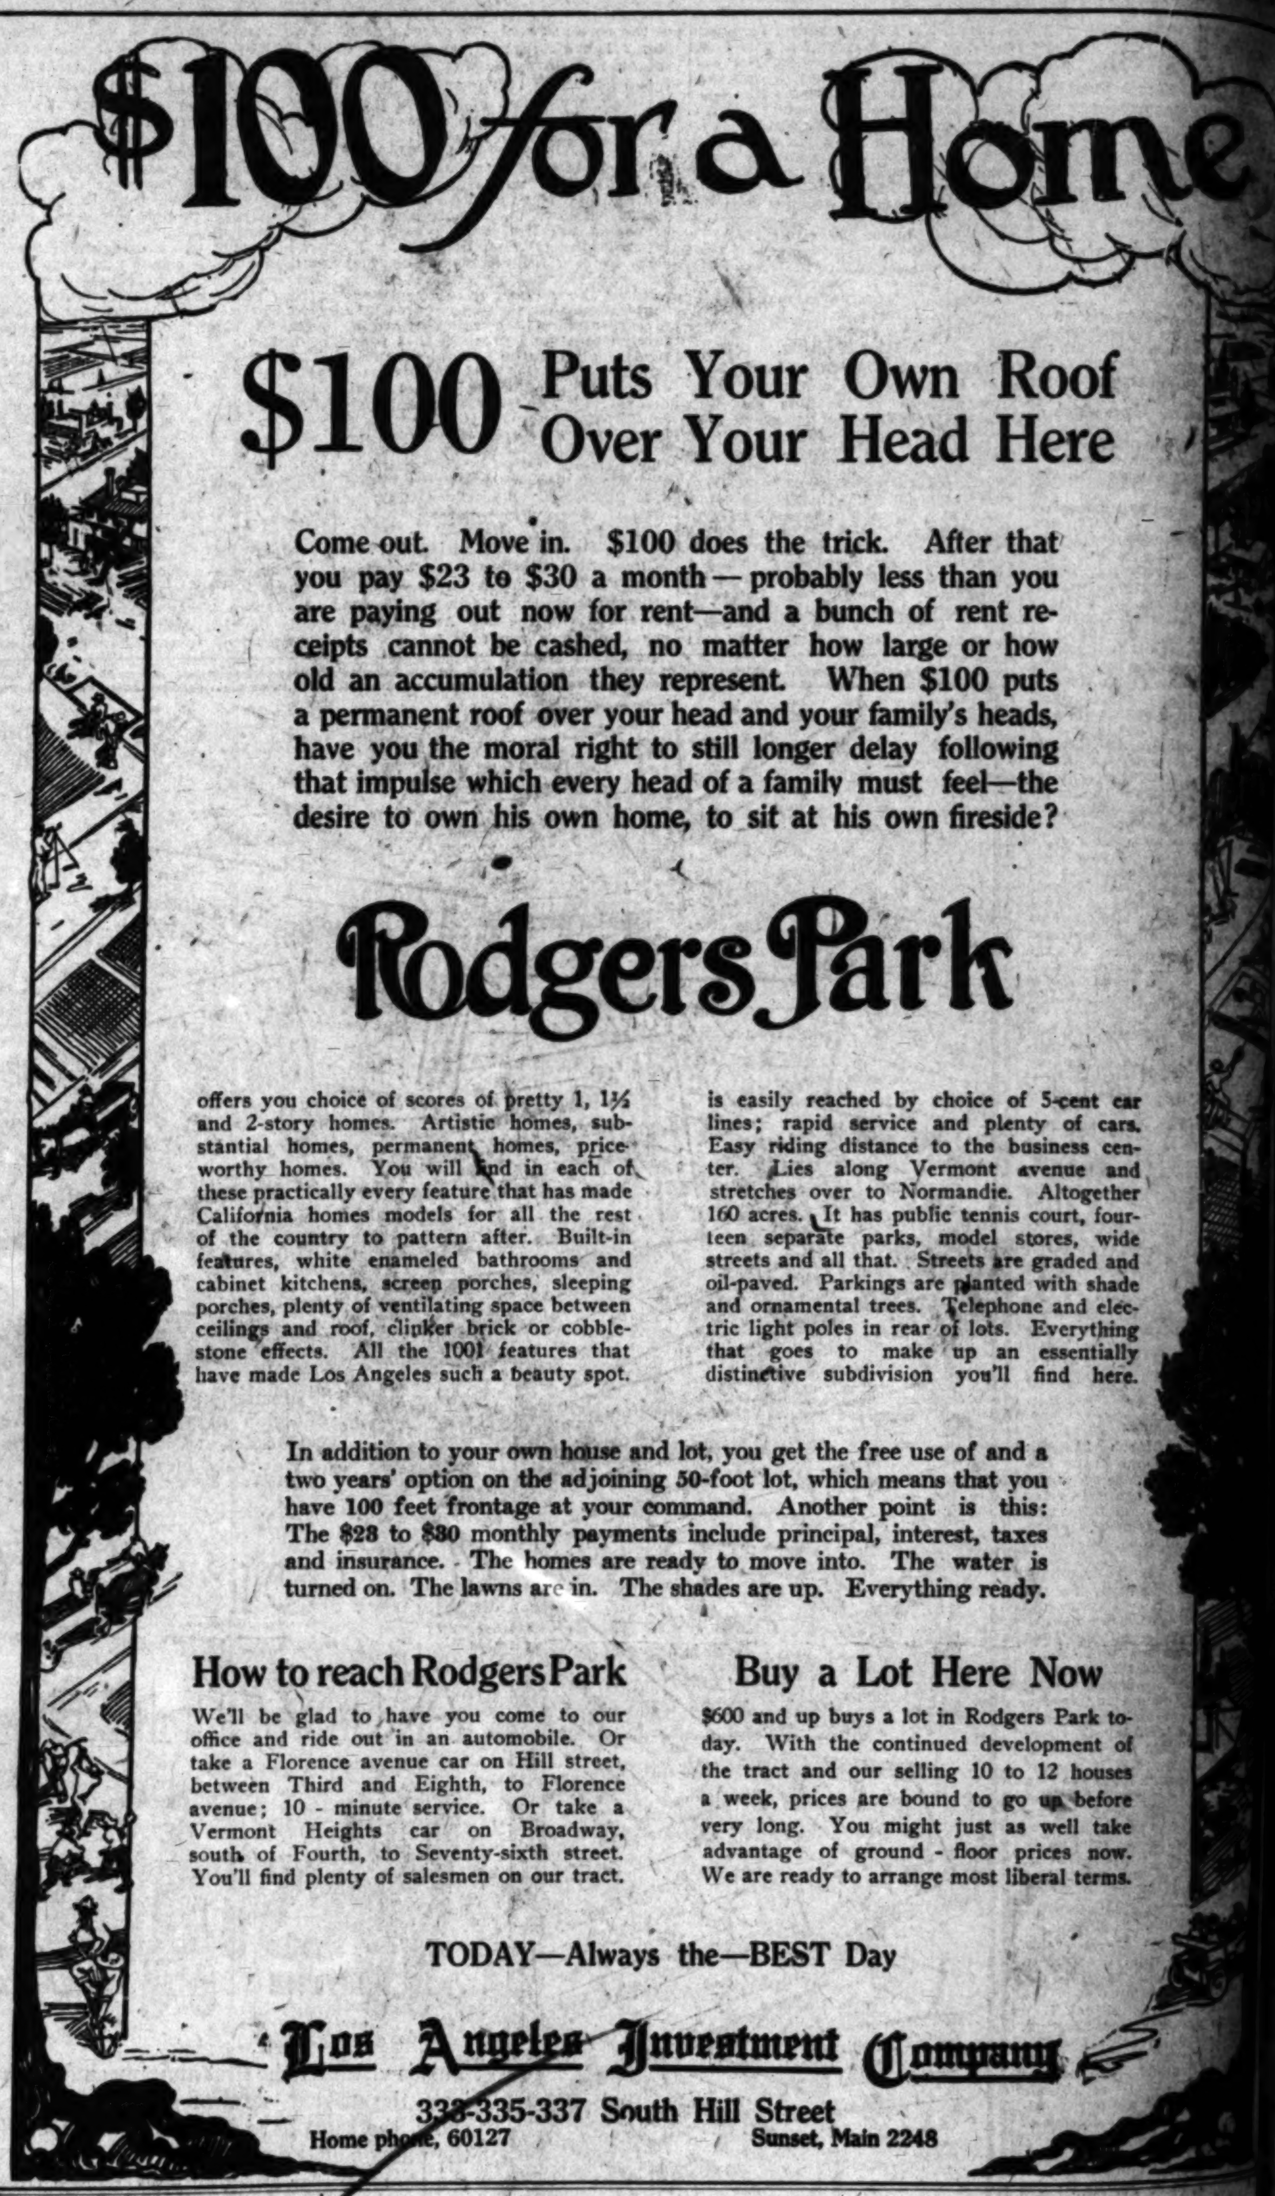
A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Because of the wonderful growth shown in the first annual report of the Western Building and Investment Company, of which Strong & Dickinson are selling agents, the directors of the company have announced that as soon as a remaining issue of 30,000 shares has been sold the stock will be temporarily taken off the market. At the end of the first year's business an audit shows that the assets of the company are $688,094 with surplus and undivided profits of $69,588. In twelve months 108 houses have been built and sold and forty-five more are nearing completion. Plans are being rushed for forty additional homes in the Southland Park tract. The year's sale of stock amounted to $475,000, according to the company's report.

The Western Building and Investment Company owns considerable acreage at Vermont and Figueroa streets and this land is soon to be converted into a model home community.

Our Savage Ancestry.

[Chicago Journal:] We are shocked every now and then at some fearful outburst of savagery, forgetting that but yesterday our ancestors were cannibals, drinking each other's blood. The origin of the two buttons on the backs of our coats recalls the days of chivalry when every gentleman wore his sword. But how about the buttons on the coat sleeve at the wrist? They were first worn in front of the sleeves, and were placed on uniforms to prevent soldiers from wiping their noses on their wrists. Civilization has scarcely taken two steps from savagery.



$100 for a Home

$100 Puts Your Own Roof Over Your Head Here

Come out. Move in. $100 does the trick. After that you pay $23 to $30 a month—probably less than you are paying out now for rent—and a bunch of rent receipts cannot be cashed, no matter how large or how old an accumulation they represent. When $100 puts a permanent roof over your head and your family's heads, have you the moral right to still longer delay following that impulse which every head of a family must feel—the desire to own his own home, to sit at his own fireside?

Rodgers Park

offers you choice of scores of pretty 1, 1½ and 2-story homes. Artistic homes, substantial homes, permanent homes, priceworthy homes. You will find in each of these practically every feature that has made California homes models for all the rest of the country to pattern after. Built-in features, white enameled bathrooms and cabinet kitchens, screen porches, sleeping porches, plenty of ventilating space between ceilings and roof, clinker brick or cobblestone effects. All the 1001 features that have made Los Angeles such a beauty spot.

is easily reached by choice of 5-cent car lines; rapid service and plenty of cars. Easy riding distance to the business center. Lies along Vermont avenue and stretches over to Normandie. Altogether 160 acres. It has public tennis court, fourteen separate parks, model stores, wide streets and all that. Streets are graded and oil-paved. Parkings are planted with shade and ornamental trees. Telephone and electric light poles in rear of lots. Everything that goes to make up an essentially distinctive subdivision you'll find here.

In addition to your own house and lot, you get the free use of and a two years' option on the adjoining 50-foot lot, which means that you have 100 feet frontage at your command. Another point is this: The $28 to $30 monthly payments include principal, interest, taxes and insurance. The homes are ready to move into. The water is turned on. The lawns are in. The shades are up. Everything ready.

How to reach Rodgers Park

We'll be glad to have you come to our office and ride out in an automobile. Or take a Florence avenue car on Hill street, between Third and Eighth, to Florence avenue; 10-minute service. Or take a Vermont Heights car on Broadway, south of Fourth, to Seventy-sixth street. You'll find plenty of salesmen on our tract.

Buy a Lot Here Now

$600 and up buys a lot in Rodgers Park today. With the continued development of the tract and our selling 10 to 12 houses a week, prices are bound to go up before very long. You might just as well take advantage of ground-floor prices now. We are ready to arrange most liberal terms.

A REAL CONVERSATION.

BY KEBLE HOWARD.

([illegible] to Sir Arthur Pinero.)

[illegible] anything else? Another [illegible]

[illegible] nothing else, thanks. You've [illegible] quite enough already, you extravagant boy.

[illegible] Shall we stroll, then?

[illegible] Yes, let's stroll—and look at [illegible]

(They stroll.)

[illegible] What lovely malmaisons! [illegible] too gorgeous for words! [illegible] Would you like some?

[illegible] Oh, you mustn't! They're [illegible] expensive!

[illegible] That's all right. Come in.

[illegible] Yes, sir? Shall I make [illegible] a bouquet for madam—just [illegible] for madam to wear?

[illegible] That will do nicely.

[illegible] That will be nineteen [illegible] sixpence, sir.

[illegible] How perfectly adorable of [illegible] They really are too [illegible] for words!

(They stroll.)

[illegible] Oh, that's the perfume Carrie [illegible] dressing-room last night—[illegible] She wouldn't tell me [illegible] the cat! I must just [illegible] and ask the price.

[illegible] Well, we don't sell it by [illegible] bottle, madam. The price [illegible] shillings the case of [illegible]

[illegible] Oh, what a shame! I did so [illegible] Carrie, and I can't [illegible] case of three!

[illegible] I think we ought to score [illegible] Let me have the box.

[illegible] very naughty of you, Archie [illegible] I shall pay you [illegible] Saturday, of course.

[illegible] That's all right.

(They stroll.)

[illegible] Will you wait a minute while [illegible] in here. I won't be five [illegible]

[illegible] I come in with you?

[illegible] if you like, but I thought [illegible] bore you. . . . I want some [illegible] long white kid.

[illegible] Certainly, madam. The [illegible]

[illegible] Five and three-quarters.

[illegible] This is an excellent [illegible]—beautifully soft—[illegible] make.

[illegible] I like those. How much [illegible]

[illegible] Eight-and-eleven the single [illegible] madam; but it's a great saving [illegible] by the half-dozen. We [illegible] the half-dozen at forty-nine-[illegible] That's a great reduction, [illegible]

[illegible] of course it is, but I can't [illegible] more than one pair today. I'll [illegible] one pair, please.

[illegible] have the half-dozen. [illegible] up, please, will you?

[illegible] Certainly, sir.

[illegible] Archie! I forbid it! I'm [illegible] with you—I really am.

[illegible] Can I show madam anything? [illegible] Some silk stockings? We have a new line here—just come in. These are very superior to any of our previous stock.

She: Aren't they lovely! But it's no good getting really good stockings; they wear out so quickly.

Shopgirl: You wouldn't find these wear out, madam. It pays in the end to get the best. I can guarantee these against two pairs of inferior quality

He: How much are they?

Shopgirl: These are fifteen shillings the pair, sir. We have them at half a guinea, but these are really the better bargain.

He: Just put three pairs with the gloves, will you?

She: I'll never bring you out with me again—never! No! It's no good saying anything! I'm really cross! (They stroll.)

She: I must just look in here a minute to try on some shoes. They've been waiting for days and days. . . . Yes, those are very comfortable. Send them at once to this address, will you?

Shopman: Certainly, madam. Has madam an account?

She: No. That'll be all right. I'll look in one day next week.

Shopman: I'm sorry, madam, but our terms are strictly cash. I'm afraid I couldn't—

She: How annoying! I particularly wanted to wear them tonight! Why didn't you tell me that you wanted cash when I ordered them?

He: I've got plenty of change. You can fix up with me later.

She: Well, if you wouldn't mind. I really must have them for tonight.

He: That's all right. What's the damage?

Shopman: Three guineas, sir. Thank you, sir. The receipt, madam.

She: How stupid of those people, making me look such a fool! I'll never go there again! It almost looks as if I took you in there on purpose!

He: Rubbish! (They stroll.)

She: Just a second. Did you ever-ever-ever see such a ducky little pendant? D'you see? That round one with the diamonds! That's the sweetest design I've ever seen!

He: Let me give it you, Vi! Will you? Do!

She: Certainly not! I wouldn't dream of it! Come along at once!

He: But do let me! I should love to!

She: Nonsense! You know I never accept presents from men!

He: Just this once! Let me ask the price, anyhow! Will you?

She: Well, you can ask the price, but I won't have it. I couldn't!

Shopman: Twenty-five. Quite correct, sir.

IN THE CAB.

She: It was naughty of you, Archie, but very, very sweet! I wish I could afford to give you something!

He: You can.

She: I can't. I've nothing to give and no money to buy anything.

He: What I want doesn't cost anything. It's only a kiss.

She: Archie!

He: Won't you? Just one?

She: Certainly not. I never thought you were that sort of man. But you're all alike. If a girl goes out to lunch with you and lets you buy her a few little things, you take it for granted that you can make love to her! It's too bad! Just because we have to earn our living on the stage! I never thought you were like all the rest!

He: I'm awfully sorry! I won't ask you again!

She: That's a dear! And you will take me and Carrie down to Brighton on Sunday as you promised?

He: Of course. Bye-bye. See you on Sunday.

LATER.

Her Mother: Oh, yes, it is lovely! And what nice gloves and stockings! And that scent you wanted. . . . you didn't let him make love to you, my dear?

She: What d'you take me for!

Ready Wit of the Irish.

[Portland Oregonian.] To illustrate the ever-ready wit of the Irish the following story was told at a banquet held recently in the Commercial Club:

An Irishman on his way home at night was in the habit of cutting through a cemetery, in order to shorten the distance. A group of his friends evolved a scheme to have some fun at his expense. Accordingly they found a sunken grave, across which his path lay, dug it out and covered it with boards in such a manner that he must fall into the yawning cavity.

The Irishman came along and everything happened as per schedule. While he was still squirming about in the bottom of the hole, striving to extricate himself, three of four of his friends, attired in white sheets and other ghostly accoutrements, suddenly made their appearance. Pat was frightened out of his wits and almost fainted when one of them said:

"What are you doing in my grave?"

The tone was sepulchral. It made the Irishman's hair stand almost on end, but he could not forgo a witty retort.

"Faith, and what are you doing out of it?" he asked.

Formation of Plurals.

[Brooklyn Eagle:] An eminent English newspaper, in an unguarded moment, used the word "panjandra" as the plural of "panjandrum." Its readers began to assail it, pointing out with learning and a reasonably charitable spirit that "panjandrum" was not a Latin word, and could not form its plural as Latin words ending in "um" do. One man eloquently declared, "Why, if 'a' were the plural for all words ending in 'um,' we should say 'pla' instead of plums."

Hardly a Gentleman.

[London Chronicle:] "Gent" is an abbreviation which has never been accepted by polite society, as a witness appearing before Justice Wightman once found, to his cost. He was testifying to the excellent character of the defendant, and among points in his favor remarked that he was "an independent gent." "An independent what?" interrupted Judge Wightman. "A gent, my lord," repeated the witness. "Oh. I understand," repeated the judge. "That's something short of a gentleman, isn't it?"

Whittier Acres

SELF-SUPPORTING SUBURBAN HOMES FOR CITY MEN

Are you living in a home that supports you—or in a home that you support? The difference between the two is one of dollars and cents. It affects your pocketbook and the fullness of your purse means more of the comforts of life you want. The "Back to the Land" movement today is getting its greatest number of recruits from the ranks of the business and professional men of the cities. In times past rural "joys" were more or less of a myth—Because the lands were far remote from cities and business centers. Now, with later methods of subdivision you can have your acre farm or fruit ranch within a short car ride of the business centers. You can enjoy the bracing and invigorating car rides night and morning out through green fields and flowered hills to your own principality where you are boss and where the element of profit making adds charm to this form of existence.

WHITTIER ACRES ARE close to Los Angeles—the "Metropolis" and Whittier, the home of the orange and lemon. Whittier is a lovely little suburban city of 8000 population, which nestles near the foot of the Puente Hills—only a few miles away is the broad Pacific Ocean. The homes of prosperous fruit growers, intensive farmers and city business men are intermingled everywhere. You cannot realize the charm of living in a beautiful fruit-growing community. Better try it! Home Owners in Whittier Acres have every advantage of city life. Schools, churches, stores—no pioneering.

Now, Mr. City Man, don't live all your life with the chain of artificial existence around your neck. Make the break now—Get out close to Nature. Hear the birds sing—Enjoy the invigorating air—Have your cow and chickens and fresh milk, butter and eggs. Raise vegetables and, to cap the climax raise oranges, the luscious fruit of profits.

Whittier Acres appeal alike to business men, professional men, colonists, settlers, intensive farmers and home-seekers generally, who want one of the finest suburban investments in Southern California. There is not much of this fine land, especially suitable for lemon growing, but it's all good. Every tract is sold planted.

Whittier Acre Home Tracts comprise 2½ and 5 acres. Roads graded. Cement water pipes. Every tract planted to oranges or lemons. Plenty of water—only 12 miles from Los Angeles—26 minutes from Los Angeles by trolley. Prices right—easy terms. If you don't want to live on your land, we will take care of it at cost.

Take car at Pacific Electric Depot, Sixth and Main streets, for Los Nietos any time Sunday. Buy round-trip ticket for 45c. Autos waiting to show you the property.

The HAND of OPPORTUNITY

DATES!

No greater opportunity was ever held out to the investor than is offered now, when date culture has ceased to be a doubtful experiment and has become a certain, profit-producing industry.

We have a ranch of 480 acres situated in the Coachella Valley, midway between two Government Experiment Stations, on which thousands of date palms are already growing. We wish to plant the entire ranch to dates. There is an opportunity for you to join us and share our profits, and we suggest a careful reading of this advertisement as the first step toward an ultimate visit to our office and a talk with us about general conditions on our property.

U. S. Government Methods

Have proven beyond all doubt that in Coachella Valley there can be produced dates which will equal the finest Algerian varieties.

We shall follow the methods which the Government, at its Experiment Stations, has found most successful. We shall seek and obtain the advice of the Government experts in every step of our date culture. We shall get as good results as they have obtained, if not better.

We offer for sale a limited amount of stock in this company at $1 a Share

It will pay dividends of

200% a Year

What We're Doing Now

We have horses and mules and twenty or thirty men hard at work planting date trees. We have developed 250 miner's inches of water. We are raising hogs and grapes and barley and alfalfa enough to pay dividends of 8 per cent. in a year. When this entire ranch is planted to date trees, 50 to the acre, when each date tree is bearing 200 pounds of fruit a year, there will be a net profit from the ranch of $1000 an acre, practically half a million dollars for the entire property.

COMPANY PLANS THOUSAND HOMES

Town of Torrance to Be Put on Map at Once.

Employees of Tool Concern to Design Own Houses.

Initial Outlay for Dwellings Given at Million.

With blue prints of the new townsite street and railway plans completed, and with contracts let for the paving, sidewalking and curbing to a total of $500,000, the Dominguez Land Company, which is building the new town at Torrance, is ready to begin the construction of 1000 homes for the employees of the factories and industrial enterprises that are to be built this year.

H. H. Sinclair, general manager of the company, has returned from a trip to coast points to study housing conditions, and to obtain the latest information in regard to the construction of model homes. As a result of this work the 800 employees of the Union Tool Company will be the first residents of the new city to be considered.

A circular letter has been addressed to each employee of the Union Tool Company, asking him to arrange an interview with the architects of the Dominguez Land Company, with the result that each man will be allowed to plan his own home. When built the houses will be either for rent upon easy rentals, or may be purchased by the employees themselves on easy terms. Not only will the terms be made upon an equitable basis but the Union Tool Company is preparing to stand behind its men in the purchase of their new property, according to a statement made yesterday by one of the officials.

The fact that the Union Tool Company will take some 800 men to Torrance, while the barrel factory will take practically one hundred more, makes, with the families of the employees, a fair-sized city to start with. Some idea of what the ultimate population may be is shown by the fact that the Pacific Electric's new shops may employ as high as 1400 men, while the automobile truck factory and the traction plow factory's pay roll will be composed of hundreds of additional men.

It is to the housing of these men that the company is now giving its attention, and it is stated that the first batch of homes constructed will cost in excess of $1,000,000.

This will bring the total expenditures planned for Dominguez close to the $8,000,000 mark. The folowing are some of the items that enter into this total, the figures being provided by the Dominguez Land Company:

Estimate of the cost of a four-mile ship canal from the west basin of the harbor to Nigger Slough (const. not financed) ...	$3,000,000

GREATEST WIRELESS TOWER.

Near Completion at Ft. Myer—Is the Most Powerful as Well as Most Spectacular Aerial Plant.

[Washington Star:] Work has been commenced on the last of the three towers that will constitute the great wireless station of the Navy Department back of Ft. Myer. This big tower that is now starting toward the sky will be 600 feet high, forty-five feet higher than the Washington Monument, and set on ground that is almost as high as the top of the monument itself.

The station, when completed, will consist of three towers and a generating plant. Two of the towers are only 450 feet high. When the three towers are completed the aerial will be spread in a great network between the tops. It will be not only the most powerful wireless station in the world, but the most spectacular from a layman's standpoint.

The sending range of a wireless station varies so much with weather conditions that are little understood that it is hard to predict the average reach of the station. It probably will be good for 2500 or 3000 miles, but there will be few stations that under average conditions can reply to it at that range, though they may pick up messages from it. It will be able to reach many warships in the Atlantic that cannot reply to its messages for lack of range.

It is intended now to put a station of similar power half way across the continent, probably, Ft. Leavenworth, and a third on the Pacific Coast. In this way it will be possible to keep the Navy Department in touch with American warships almost anywhere.

The Navy Department is now working on a duplex system of transmission that will enable two messages to be sent simultaneously from the station. This achievement is well in sight. It is possible that this may even be extended to multiplex.

Making a Bequest Sure.

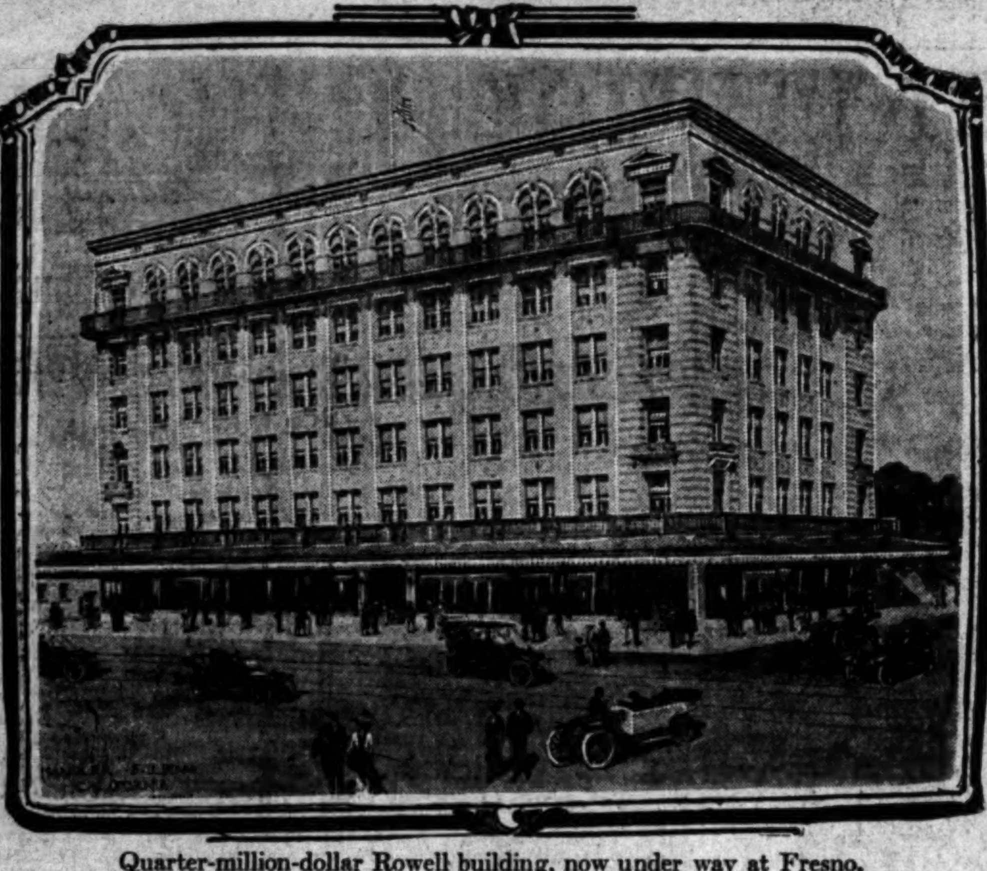
[The Argonaut:] An aged merchant was very ill. He sent for the family lawyer. "I wish," began the sick man, as the attorney stood by his bedside, eager to catch every word as it was uttered.

"Yes?" answered the lawyer, hastily scribbling.

"All my property and estate to go to my eldest daughter. I wish to die firm in the knowledge that the property is assured to her," continued the merchant, with eager excitement.

"Of course—of course!" fussed the attorney.

"Would it be asking too much," hesitatingly asked the dying man, "to suggest that you should marry her?"



Quarter-million-dollar Rowell building, now under way at Fresno.

Metropolitan.

FINE BLOCK FOR RAISIN CITY.

ROWELL BUILDING AT FRESNO TO BE MODERN.

Will Occupy Site of Old Pioneer Mansion—Structure Will Be Sif Stories High and Fireproof—Department Store, Offices and Club to Be Accommodated.

FRESNO, April 13.—Construction work on the six-story Rowell building to be erected on the corner of K and Tulare streets, opposite the Courthouse Park, is well under way, and it is thought that the structure will be completed in about ten months. The Rowell building will cost in the neighborhood of $225,000, and will be modern in every respect, and will give Fresno the distinction of possessing one of the finest office buildings in the State. The site is high ground and is diagonally across the street from the government building. The site has been the home of Dr. Chester Rowell, Fresno's Mayor, for the past thirty-seven years, and is one of the old pioneer points of interest.

The building will cover an area of 75x150 feet, and will be practically fireproof. The structure is being erected by the Rowell-Chandler company, of which Dr. Rowell is the president, and W. F. Chandler vice-president. The board of directors includes also Milo Rowell, Dr. W. T. Barr, and M. K. Harris.

The plans and specifications for the exterior of the building are being prepared by Architect Edward Foulkes of San Francisco. Other contracts will be let as the building progresses.

The two front sides of the building will be of light colored pressed bricks, while the rear walls will be of reinforced concrete. The design, though simple, calls for enough decorations and variations to make it very attractive. The exterior is broken first by a marquise, or sun shelter porch, over the first floor, as is to be found on almost every building in Fresno. Above the fifth floor a metal balcony again breaks the monotony of the exterior.

The windows of the sixth floor will be of French design and will open onto the top of the balcony.

The first floor of the structure is to be occupied by a large department store, and the upper floors will be turned into offices, while the sixth floor will be used by one of the commercial clubs of the city. One of the peculiar features of the building is that one floor will be used entirely for physicians' offices, and another for attorneys' offices. Two air courts will extend from the first to the top floor and two elevators will transport the tenants to their offices. There will be about thirty-five offices on each floor.

STRANGE BET ON BONAPARTE.

Member of English Parliament Had to Surrender a Guinea a Day for About Three Years.

[Baltimore American:] "One of the most curious bets I ever heard of was made in England a hundred years ago," said Angus McGregor, an attorney of Edinburgh, Scotland, at the Belvedere.

"The wager was between a knight, who was also a member of Parliament, and a clergyman, for in that day it was not considered scandalous for dominies to put up their money on sporting propositions. It is but fair to the preacher, however, to say that the other man did the bantering, and this was the knight's singular offer: That if anyone of a crowd present would put up 100 guineas (something over $500) he would give to such person one guinea a day during the remainder of the lifetime of Napoleon Bonaparte.

"In making such an extraordinary offer he evidently thought the great Corsican had but a few days to live. Before the others in the company could recover from the shock of the strange proposal the clergyman shouted out that he would accept the terms and then and there the wager or deal was consummated, there being witnesses to the act of the minister in putting 100 guineas into the challenger's hands.

"A splendid bet it was for the reverend gentleman, but a miserably poor one for the other, who had to surrender a guinea every day and this he continued to do for the better part of three years. Along toward the close of 1814 the knight wearied of his losing game. As you Americans say, he began to have cold feet. At first he tried to beg off, but the parson would not listen to his entreaties. A bet was a bet he contended, and the fact that he was ahead to the tune of some 900 guineas made him not in the least compassionate. Boney might live a good while longer and that daily revenue was very sweet.

"As a last resort the knight refused to pay any longer, and the parson brought suit before a judge. Eloquent and learned counsel spoke on both sides, but it must have been that the advocate for the defendant knight produced the most convincing arguments in telling the jury why his client should not be made to pay any longer.

"In the first place, said the lawyer, his client had not in the beginning made the bet seriously; it was a sort of jocular proposal, but once being made the proponent was too game to back out. Secondly, it was contrary to public policy to give legal sanction to such a bet. Napoleon was Britain's most dreaded foe and for a British subject to have a procuring interest in prolonging the enemy's life was a horrid and untenable thought. The jury took the same view and freed the knight from further payments."

TIPPING THE MOTORMAN.

New Method of Speeding up a Belated Car Originates in the National Capital.

[Baltimore American:] "This is a new tipping scheme that I saw practiced in Washington last Sunday for the first time," said George Paul Eddy of Minneapolis, at the Howard. "A friend and myself boarded a P-A-Y-E car marked 'Union Station' just in front of the New Willard Hotel. We were extremely anxious to get the B. & O. flyer that left for Baltimore at 5 p.m., but realized that we would probably fail, as the margin of time was short.

"'How long does it take you to make the station?' inquired my companion of the conductor.

"'About fifteen minutes,' he replied.

"Our watches showed it then lacked only thirteen minutes of the hour.

"'But say,' resumed the conductor, "if you were to mention it to the motorman it might happen that he could beat the schedule by a couple of minutes. I have known him to shake up this car pretty lively when he was in a hurry.'

"'Thanks for the suggestion,' said my friend, handing the man a Carolina perfecto.

"A minute later I saw a gentleman and the motorman engaged in conversation of an earnest nature, and presently I saw the motorman smile a broad smile as his right hand sought his pantaloons pocket. Then I knew something was about to happen that would cause us to make our train. Something did happen, for the way that electric car sped along Pennsylvania avenue was a caution. It was a quiet day and at an hour when few people were on the streets, but I noticed that several citizens who wanted to ride didn't get aboard that particular coach. One strapping fellow shook his fist at the motorman and called names, but the abused one merely grinned and kept up his speed till we reached our goal, fully four minutes ahead of time. 'It was only a dollar tip,' said my fellow-traveler, as we settled into our seats just as the train pulled out, 'and it was dirt cheap considering what we gained.'"

HOLLAND IS SINKING.

The People are Not Excited About It, as They are Used to Manipulation of the Land They Live On.

[Baltimore Star:] One of the noted engineers of Holland, Mynheer Blaupot ten Cate, recently sounded a note of alarm to his countrymen in stating that the whole country of Holland is slowly sinking. The intrepid Hollanders, it is safe to say, are not unduly exercised about it. Mynheer ten Cate based his observation on the subsidence of the old Roman buildings and on the sinking, to the extent of more than a foot in two centuries of certain low-lying plains in the neighborhood of the Zuyder Zee. The sinking of the sites of old Roman buildings is common all through Europe. An old Roman street that ran through London is now eighteen feet below the normal level, while in Italy the streets and highways that once echoed with the tread of the Roman legions have sunk in many cases just as deep. The doors of churches built only a few hundred years ago that were approached by flights of steps are now level with the pavement in many parts of France, Italy and Spain. The territory comprising the kingdom of Holland suffers no more, therefore, in this respect than other European countries. Indeed, the Dutch people can afford to look upon the subsidence of the ground with the greatest unconcern. They are quite used to a manipulation of the land they dwell on and control it in a manner unknown to any other people on earth. Most of modern Holland, especially around the Zuyder Zee and in the southeast, was swamp and morass and much of it was the bottom of the sea. Bravely they built their dykes, pumped out the water, and created miles and miles of farm land that for fertility can nowhere be surpassed. The saying that the Dutch have taken Holland is really a scientific truth. They have to a large extent literally made their own country, and they need not be frightened at the alarming observations of one of their engineers.

BLACK CAT MASCOT.

Cincinnati Firm Believes There's Something in Superstition and May Kill Cat With Kindness.

[Cincinnati Times-Star:] Never say there is no luck in a black cat. For months a well-known real estate firm in the Fifth avenue region had been doing just a rent-paying business. Then, one day, a black, rib-showing, dejected black cat paused on the threshold and licked his chops, and looked in.

"Kitty, kitty," said the junior partner. Tom came in. The junior partner sent the office boy to the nearest restaurant to get a saucer of milk. That night Tom curled up on the junior's desk, and next day the latter made a $400,000 sale.

"Mere accident," said the firm's most expensive salesman. "Pooh. Ridiculous superstition. Here, kitty."

So he won Tom's transitory affections with liver and honeyed words. It got so that he couldn't come in the office without Tom sharpening his claws on the legs of his new $70 suit. But the high-priced salesman didn't complain. He got his reward, for after a time he made the best sale he'd turned off in a year. The managing partner lined his waste basket with silk and carelessly threw catnip under his desk, and in other fashions shamelessly catered to the sensual appetites of that stray feline. Tom began to observe him on a Monday. Before Saturday of that week the managing partner had sold a summer hotel, which had been a drug on the market for two years. Apart from these sales the general business of the office increased largely from the day of Tom's entrance.

"I've heard that care would kill a cat," said the managing partner. "But say, is there any danger to dear old Tom if we overfeed him?"

PAN AMERICA.

Looking for Business.

[Christian Science Monitor:] Trade between the United States and the rest of the world has been largely a matter of sending goods or raw products across the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans. Glance at the steamship map and you may see the marked routes for traffic leading east and west. There are not absent, of course, other lines indicating more devious courses across the Atlantic, for Europe and South America have for years kept close company, and from Liverpool and Hamburg and Mediterranean ports there have been regular steamship connections in plenty. Routes between European seaboards and cities like Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires, therefore, show diagonally upon the map.

If plans now under way mature, then it will not be long before north-and-south ocean traffic will appear to a much greater extent than is now the case. New Orleans interests and Brazilian and Argentine financiers are contemplating a steamship service which will cut almost directly north and south. Except that it will be necessary to make use of the Panama Canal—and even here the course is vertical—the steamer which will leave New Orleans must point its nose almost directly south on the east coast of the northern continent as well as on the west coast of the southern in order to reach Santiago and Valparaiso. If the destination is Rio de Janeiro or Buenos Aires the course naturally will still be in the main north and south, in spite of the great sweep to the eastward.

The State of Louisiana has taken a great step by voting exemption and privileges for fifteen years to steamship companies that will operate from the ports of that commonwealth. Sidney Story, vice-president of the Mississippi Valley, South American and Orient Steamship Company, has just returned from South America, and he declares that his proposed company will benefit to the extent of $1,500,000 in the fifteen years through the new law of Louisiana.

"Across the Atlantic" and "across the Pacific" have long been the principal terms expressive of ocean routes, but the promised north-and-south steamship development brings to the new commercial era something additional by which the entire maritime world may profit.

Brazil Aiding Industry.

[St. Louis Globe Democrat:] The government of Brazil is becoming paternal at a rapid rate, and is taking many measures to help private enterprises to build up the country.

The special committee of the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies has been studying the rubber question with a view to suggesting what measures should be taken to avert what looks like impending disaster. The conclusions of the committee take the form of a bill to be laid before Congress, the main lines of which are as follows:

Exemption from import duties on all utensils and material to be used in extraction of seringa, caucho, manicoba, and mangabeira. The provision of prizes for persons establishing new plantations of the abovementioned rubber trees. The founding of experimental and demonstration farms for the growing of seringa rubber in the Acre Territory and in the States of Matto Grosso Amazonas, Para, Maranhao, Piauhy and Bahia, and of manicoba and mangabeira in Piauhy, Ceara, Rio Grande do Norte, Pernambuco, Bahia, Minas Geraes, Sao Paulo, Goyaz, Parana and Matto Grosso.

These farms will give free instruction and free seeds to all interested in rubber culture. Government will also give a grant in aid of a maximum of $130,000 (American currency) to any person or persons installing the first factory for the purification of seringa rubber which will reduce the various qualities to one uniform and high-grade type for export. A factory for this purpose will be erected in Manaos and another in Para. A grant of $33,000 will be made for a similar factory for the purification of manicoba and mangabeira, while $160,000 will be given to the first factory installed for the making of rubber articles in Manaos, Belem, Bahia and Rio de Janeiro. To obtain this favor the factory must have a capital equivalent to four times the value of said grant.

Immigrant hotels on the most modern lines will be established at Belem and Manoas and at convenient spots in the Acre Territory and in the Amazon Valley. The hotels will be maintained by the Union.

Products of Paraguay.

The products of Paraguay are of so valuable a kind that the world, it would seem, can never get enough of them. Cattle raising has assumed great proportions. Dried beef and extracts of meat are among the articles resulting from this industry. Exports are constantly increasing. The great establishments for meat export in Argentina have found the Paraguayan cattle especially handy when the home product has not been fully available, and there is, besides, something about the Paraguayan grazing lands that makes them superior.

Paraguay grows oranges in abundance, and the groves are often uncultivated, although they continue to yield plentifully. These oranges are in great demand in Argentina, where tons upon tons are used for the purpose of feeding hogs. It is not improbable that this valuable fruit may, before long, enter into competition with fruits of a similar kind that are welcome on the breakfast tables in countries less blessed with semi-tropical offerings.

Such timbers as quebracho, curupey, lapacho and urundey may sound strange in the ears of those who know not of these splendid wood products of the Paraguayan forests. But to the builder and the cabinet maker they carry something that identifies them with both solidarity and beauty. There are also large quantities of cedar. Some of the finest dyes are obtained from certain Paraguayan plants. The fibres enter largely into the lace-making, which, from the arrival of the first Spaniards, has continued to be a native industry unexcelled in Spanish America.

Argentine Republic.

[New York Times:] Data compiled by the Director-General of Statistics of Argentina, show that the trade movement of that country for 1911 was less favorable than 1910. Argentina's total foreign trade amounted in round numbers in 1911 to $667,000,000, a decrease of $32,000,000 as compared with 1910, a comparison which, however, does not fully indicate the extent of the falling off in exports. Total exports during the year were $313,000,000, a decrease in value of $46,000,000, while imports increased by more than $14,500,000, to $354,000,000, making an excess of imports over exports of $41,000,000.

The population of the republic continues to increase. At the close of last year it was 7,080,000, a gain of about 1,000,000 in five years. The expansion incident to this increase and the development of natural resources is largely responsible for the unfavorable balance of trade.

During 1911, for instance, there were 2485 miles of new railways built, bringing the country's total mileage up to 18,652, with a capital invested of $1,158,000,000. This compares with 12,833 miles in 1906, with an investment of $670,966,063.

The area available for agricultural purposes in the country is estimated at 270,000,000 acres. Of this only about one-seventh is actually under cultivation, but there has been an enormous increase in the pastoral wealth of the country in recent years. This is indicated in the figures covering live stock in the country at the end of 1911, as compared with 1908. Cattle numbered 33,484,188, compared with 29,116,625; sheep 77,303,517 compared with 67,211,754; horses 2,911,085 compared with 750,125, and pigs, 1,824,550, compared with 1,403,591. These figures gain in importance from the fact that in Germany, Switzerland, France and other European countries there has been a decline in live stock amounting to about 80 per cent. in the last ten years. The annual consumption of meat per habitant in the republic is estimated at 282 pounds, compared with Australia, 245 pounds; United States 154 pounds; Great Britain 104 pounds; Canada, 88 pounds; France 73 pounds; Belgium, 68 pounds, and Italy 26 pounds.

The articles showing the greatest increase in the value of imports into the country were building materials, the gain amounting to nearly $4,400,000, followed by stone, glass, and pottery, with $2,200,000; foodstuffs, $2,100,000; oils and fats, $1,920,000; articles for locomotion, $1,700,000, and wood and manufacturers, $1,660,000. There was a decrease of nearly $3,800,000 in the value of textile goods

RANCH BEAUTY CHARMS TOURIST

Day Ride Over the Riverside Country Captivating.

Beautiful Homes Are Nestled in Bower of Delight.

[illegible] English Folk Enjoy Paradise on Earth.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Having just returned from a visit to Riverside, The Times will not be able to get any satisfactory work out of me until I have relieved my feelings of some bubbling eulogies. [illegible]

Riverside is adorable.

I guess one of the secrets of Riverside's charm is that the population includes many fine English people, who have been in California long enough to shed some of their English [illegible], and to acquire many of the captivating of the American attitude. A perfectly delightful combination.

One of the first things that won my heart was the canal, which wanders through the streets lazily, [illegible] up to the car track, around the [illegible], under picturesque bridges, [illegible] all the way with [illegible] trees.

The Riversiders tell one how [illegible] carried through his [illegible] more than twenty years [illegible] the capital from England [illegible] American optimists to [illegible] encouragement. And how [illegible] was responsible for the [illegible] of the first contour orange [illegible] (that means, planting over [illegible] down dales, instead of on [illegible]) although he has never [illegible] reaped the financial benefit of [illegible] and foresight.

[illegible] took me for a wonderful auto ride, beginning at beautiful [illegible] avenue, which is to Riverside what Park Lane is to London. [illegible] Arlington, one sees the great [illegible] recently acquire by the Janss Investment Company, and another by [illegible] & Dickinson, all part of that [illegible] El Sobrante property, owned by [illegible] Land Company.

Everywhere rolling hills covered in [illegible] bearing orange trees, from [illegible] the perfume of the newly formed blossoms is quite intoxicating. [illegible] ranch as beautiful as the [illegible] can contrive to make it, with [illegible] of gay roses, borders of state[illegible] trees, and gigantic palms at [illegible].

[illegible] avenue (and, of course, [illegible] Windsors, Osbornes, Balmorals and Sandringhams—all the [illegible] of the British royal residences [illegible]) is another beautiful [illegible] leading to the Victoria Golf [illegible] Victoria Hill on the right is [illegible] the famous sights of the town. [illegible] right up to the summit with [illegible] orange trees, at the top one [illegible] upon a riot of flowers and an [illegible] summerhouse for the enter[illegible] to rest in. From [illegible] one obtains a most entrancing [illegible] of the very best scenery [illegible].

[illegible] below is the residence of Mr. [illegible] Martin Chase, the popular [illegible] The Chases and Riverside [illegible], Ethan Chase, who [illegible] his eightieth birthday re[illegible], and his three sons being [illegible] with having done more for [illegible] than any other family. [illegible] the National Orange Com[illegible] through whose beautiful orange [illegible] we also drove.

"This ranch is particularly interesting," said my friends, as we passed [illegible], and I learned that it [illegible] to no less a celebrity than [illegible], of tennis fame. Then [illegible] belonging to W. B. McDon[illegible], the Speich and Pedley [illegible] followed by that of M. E. [illegible], who was recently the host of [illegible] Viscount Leveson[illegible], Lord Fitzherbert and the rest [illegible] polo peers.

Then came the Eugene Daly ranch. [illegible] Daly is the well-known sports[illegible]. Another celebrated ranch [illegible] F. Boughn, the newspaper [illegible], who has a monopoly of newspaper delivery in Riverside, who [illegible] about in an automobile, and [illegible] the town in proper subjection.

[illegible] Spencer Schwarz is a society [illegible] owner. The next place we [illegible] upon was that of Backstrand [illegible], who own a large tract. [illegible] this was an immense lemon [illegible], owned by Lieut. Holden. The [illegible] were a wonderful sight with [illegible] happy loads, and 32,000 boxes [illegible] said to have been shipped from [illegible] ranch alone last year.

[illegible] H. Ball's ranch, we came [illegible] F. D. Hudson's grove, which ad[illegible] the Riverside Orange Company's [illegible], upon which a large army [illegible] were at work. From thence [illegible] Herbert Fraed's groves and [illegible] the wonderful Sandringham [illegible].

[illegible] the roads had been curving [illegible] out of densely planted orange [illegible], but up on Sandringham [illegible] a wonderful view burst upon [illegible], Cucamonga, Grayback [illegible] Mountains all con[illegible] to the grandeur. There [illegible] 115 acres in the heights, [illegible] the owners, F. D. Hudson and [illegible] Holden, are making of it a per[illegible] of beauty. Forty-six [illegible] are already planted with young [illegible] and lemon trees and two ranch [illegible] in which the help lives at pres[illegible] are made veritable pictures [illegible] and flowering shrubs in [illegible].

[illegible] so attractive is the place be[illegible] that there are shrewd suspicions in Riverside that the bachelor [illegible] are preparing to shed their [illegible] at no distant date. Sandringham also has the advantage [illegible] basins for the canal, so [illegible] everything lends itself to scenic [illegible] at this most favored spot.

[illegible] here one drives through the [illegible] mountain roads of Van Buren [illegible] another very beautiful spot [illegible] by the Riverside Trust Company. While I was lost in ecstacy over [illegible], my friends were admiring [illegible] which they assured me were [illegible] engineering achievement, [illegible] a long series of S's round the [illegible], each curve bringing a new [illegible] vista to view.

[illegible] a fine ranch owned by some [illegible] merchant, we came [illegible] avenue, a fairyland of [illegible] and on past the Weedon [illegible] another belonging to [illegible] Hamilton of Ottawa, Can. [illegible] to came to Lincoln Heights [illegible] gave America a look-in [illegible] to the Tetley and Merri[illegible] and rolled on through [illegible] hedges and tropical [illegible].

[illegible] owned by Simms, Pearson, [illegible] left behind in turn, and [illegible] came to the Redmayne property, owned by the famous polo player. A quaint little house is hidden amongst the cypress trees and flowers in a quiet corner, and investigation discovered the sauciest bathing tank, where it is said the fortunate owner is wont to luxuriate in warm weather.

Now we were down in the valley again, whizzing through giant trees and past the great groves of Messrs. Speich and Green, who are said to be the largest independent shippers. Mr. Green is also distinguished as the father of one of the prettiest girls in Riverside, Miss Elizabeth.

Then I was called upon to admire the Prenda packing-house, owned by the Riverside Trust Company, the largest in all California. While I have every respect for it, it did not appeal to me as much as the fascinating rose hedges that border the Rumsey ranch. When Mr. Rumsey died last year it was a genuine loss to Riverside.

Hawarden drive next, and the lovely Irving, Myine and Malloch ranches, each vying with the other in beauty, white Cherokee roses and ragged robins contesting for first place in loveliness. Mr. J. Merriman's house is a show place, having been designed by his brother, Harold Merriman, the noted eastern architect, who also owns a ranch and house here.

We drove to Robert Henderson's ranch. Mr. Henderson still prefers horses to automobiles and regards motorists with considerable misgiving. So we drove very slowly and unostentatiously past here, admiring his beautiful place as we went. Then came the Brinsmead ranch, (Brinsmead's pianos) and the smaller groves owned by Mr. Low, Mr. Arnold, and several others, and up the Victoria Hill, already described and owned by a lucky person called Cassidy.

After this the Monte Vista tract, owned and populated by the Childs family. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Childs, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Childs and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Childs, all have charming houses here, the latter a young bridal couple of a few weeks standing.

Other large ranch owners whose groves were visited for my delight were the 200 acres of Messrs. Pattee and Lett, Mr. Lett known as Riverside's first shipper, and Mr. Pattee as a celebrated western golfer and poloist.

Mr. and Mrs. Rubey have recently bought one of the older ranches on Magnolia avenue and are making it a veritable show place. The latest addition to excite Riverside's envy is about half a mile of electric lights up either side of the avenue leading to the house, making a most imposing effect at night.

We saw in turn the L. C. Waite ranch, the Arlington Fruit Company's great tract, and Lyman V. W. Brown's place. The latter, the son of Judge Brown, is one of the original settlers. Then there was the 900-acre grove of James Mills, who is also manager of the Arlington concern. Then, of course, I had to see the world famous Indian school, which almost forms a little town of its own.

Riverside is also immensely proud of a certain new schoolhouse that is in course of erection—I had it pointed out to me with painstaking regularity from every possible point of view in the town!

NATURE STORIES.

[Harper's Weekly:] Nearly all animals are better swimmers than man and take to the water naturally, while he has to learn to propel himself. The rhinoceros and hippopotamus are wonderful swimmers and divers, while the Indian elephant crosses great rivers with heavy loads. The elk and the reindeer are first-class swimmers. The elk keeps his head above water and crosses directly from bank to bank to avoid turning. The reindeer, on the other hand, turns as often as he likes, keeping his head only a little above the surface. But of all swimmers of all climes the best, though not the swiftest, is the polar bear, who passes half his time in the water swimming and diving. His swimming power is nothing short of miraculous if it be remembered that the water in the regions he frequents is invariably cold and that cold is normally prohibitive to good swimming. There are bears that can swim from forty to fifty kilometers without great effort.

One of the swiftest swimming animals is the squirrel. A sportsman on one occasion, having at hand a squirrel born in captivity, which had never seen water, wanted to see if it could swim, and took it with him in a rowboat to the center of a lake. The squirrel turned toward the bank, head and paws above the water, back and tail underneath it, and began to swim so rapidly that it was with the greatest difficulty that the man recovered it when it neared the shallow water near the land. It is said that even many non-aquatic birds will swim like ducks if an attempt be made to drown them.

Dog Mothers White Chickens.

[Kansas City Journal:] Martin Swift of Great Bend, who started in early this season to raise incubator chickens, has had a novel experience providing them with a foster mother. A little white dog that had been a pet of the family for years volunteered to fill that office, and formed the habit of crawling into the basket with the chicks at night and keeping them warm. It so happened that all of the chicks hatched heretofore were white, and the dog showed considerable affection for them. But when a new hatch came off, the other containing a number of black ones, the dog refused to do duty. When the black chicks were removed to another basket, the dog went on the job at once.

Record Work by a Hen.

[Chicago Inter Ocean:] What is said to be a record size for eggs produced by White Leghorn hens in the United States is an egg found today by Mrs. R. M. Boyd, a chicken fancier of Racine, Wis. The egg measured eight and one-half by six and one-fourth inches and is said to be larger than any egg on record for this particular species of fowl.

May Drink Coffee.

[Nebraska State Journal:] Columbia University has been making a practical demonstration of the effects of coffee upon the human system. The results will furnish good news to people who want to drink the fragrant cup and yet fear to enjoy it because they have been told of its poisonous qualities. In brief the Columbia report is that used in moderation coffee is "not only safe" but beneficial, and increases capacity for labor without any after effect of depression and lassitude." The amount to be used is an individual matter. In some cases a cup a day is indicated. In other cases it may be taken as freely as water, without noticeable interference with the regular bodily functions. And there are people to whom it appears to be an active poison. Each person must decide for himself, after due experimentation, what is best for his particular case. Sweeping advice in this matter is more likely to be misleading than helpful.

LABOR COSTS ON RAILROADS.

SERIOUS SIDE OF DEMAND FOR INCREASED WAGES.

The Forty-two Million Dollars Increase Last Year Was Accompanied With a Forty-one Million Decrease in Net Earnings, and Now Comes Another Demand.

[New York Journal of Commerce:]—The railway managers of this country are wrestling with the problems of requests by various classes of trainmen and other employees for increased pay, on the grounds of increased cost of living, etc. Now, the same reasons set forth by the employees for greater pay is at once a very good reason why railways cannot readily grant any class of employees an increase at this time, as will be readily seen by the facts presented below.

The same economic laws which are forcing prices of foods higher are also at work increasing the cost of materials, fuels, etc. In the end the third great interest, the general public as consumers, pays all the costs of higher costs of living, higher wages, higher taxes, with decreasing tendency in share of the profits of railways as investors.

First, let it be kept in mind that there are about 1,600,000 railway employees in round numbers in the United States. There were 2000 miles more road operated in the year 1911 than in 1910, with about 31,000 less employees, but the employees in 1911 received almost $42,000,000 more in wages than the previous year.

The average increase per annum in net earnings has been about $50,000,000 in the past, but in the year 1911 the net of railways fell off nearly $41,000,000, or about the amount of the increased wages to labor.

There are about 400,000 names on the stockholders' lists of the American railways. The nine billions of bonds outstanding (bonds are debts of the stockholders in fact) are held by individuals, savings and other banks, insurance companies, estates, etc., and it is estimated that forty millions of the American public are directly interested as investors in the American railway system, either as stockholders or bondholders individually or through the money they have deposited in banks, paid into life insurance companies, etc., which is invested in the bonds of the various railways.

While 1,600,000 employees of the railways received in 1911 the sum of one billion and five millions of dollars in wages, the forty millions of investors received in interest on bonds the sum of approximately 400 millions of dollars, and stockholders or the real owners of the properties received in dividends about 300 millions of dollars.

In other words, the labor received about 35 per cent. of the total gross earnings of all railways for its time, as employees, while the forty million people, as bondholders and stockholders, who have invested more than fourteen billions of dollars in the railways as private individuals, received in interest on bonds about 16 per cent. of the gross earnings, and the stockholders about 10 per cent. of the gross earnings.

If any man of wealth—and wealth represents in the end the savings of some one living or the accumulated savings of one's ancestors—should offer any ordinary man a sum sufficient to set the party up in business, each to take half of the profits of the business, it would be jumped at with alacrity by the ordinary man of ability, but without the capital necessary to go into business.

It would seem, therefore, that the public at large, consisting of the forty millions of investors, the railway employees and the other fifty millions of farmers, wage earners, etc., are vitally interested in any future increases of the railway employees, because they must foot the bills on all items.

The above statements show just what this nation's population as railway employees and investors received out of the railway machine as a whole in money values direct, but the whole population received as its share of the operation of this 250,000 miles of steel highways, which puts every man in touch with every other man, in various ways, for the sum of two billion eight hundred millions of dollars, the movement of almost a billion people on average trips of thirty-three miles, and the movement of almost a billion tons of freight, express, mails, etc., an average of 249 miles for each ton of goods moved.

The public also received more than 100 million dollars in rebates, so to speak, in the shape of taxes paid by the railways as a machine. This sum represents nearly 5 per cent. of the gross earnings.

After paying wages of more than a billion dollars, interest and dividends, taxes and costs of materials, the railways as a machine had a surplus of about 7 per cent. of the gross earnings, most of which was invested in the properties in the shape of additions, betterments, etc.

It has been figured out by the most eminent railway statisticians that it cost the railways in the five years, 1906 to 1910 inclusive, 41 per cent. more than in the previous five-year period simply to maintain the railway machine intact, to renew what was destroyed in service, depreciated or became obsolete. This cost for the five years covering 1910 was three and a half billions of dollars.

At the same rate of 41 per cent. increase for the five years, 1911 to 1915 inclusive, it will cost close to five billions of dollars to maintain the present railway system on as efficient a basis as in the five years ending with 1910, before considering additions, etc.

With the demands of labor, the increasing costs of materials, the need for larger terminals, more tracks and equipment, rising taxes, and the continual suspension of increase in rates proposed by the railways to meet the decreasing tendency in net, it is time for thinking men in control of business organizations, labor unions and in government offices, to go rather slowly about raising wages, suspending rate increases where justified, increasing taxes, passing compensation bills, passing arbitrary train crew bills, safety appliances, etc., until it can be clearly determined what commerce can bear further.

In the dull business times the past year the railway surplus of equipment has been the lowest ever known in similar periods of the year. Business is slowly mending. And it is also true that there are many cases where rates should be adjusted as between commodities, markets and cities, etc.

The time for reckoning is here now to those who fully appreciate the underlying forces playing on the transportation facilities of this country. The business man, large and small, is just as deeply interested as to how these complex questions are to be settled, where the new capital is to be secured, how railways are further hobble-skirted, etc., as the railway employee, manager or investor.

Out of the forty-three State commissions with various degrees of control over the steel highways, and the Interstate Commerce Commission, there are probably not as many men as one can count on his fingers who have been trained by actual experience on the railways to look at these questions from the broadest economic basis but are rather imbued with the theoretical ideas of idealists, of transportation from the standpoint of a lawyer, an engineer, a politician, or from some other single basis.

The railway as a machine is more than the question of tracks, cars, motive power, wages, rates, etc. It is the blood vessel system of the nation, and like that in the human body no one vein can be cut, choked or removed from any cause without injuring the circulation of the nation's commerce. Whatever causes of trouble now exist on the American railway system are the complex result of mistakes of practically every person in the nation, and no class can escape the effect of the slightest injury to the nation's steel streets. It is a business problem, and must be handled in a business way, without permitting sentiment, sympathy, politics, labor, capital, shipper or any other one class to bring pressure on the problems, except from the broadest possible economic standpoint, without more difficult problems arising, whether mistakes are made through ignorance, sentiment or cupidity. The whole American people must sink or swim together in this transportation puddle.

W. P. DEPPE.

An Inventor's Penalty.

[London Chronicle:] Unbreakable glass, for which there might be a demand just now, was invented nearly 2000 years ago, according to Petronius and Dion Cassuis, though Pliny casts doubts on the story. An artist appeared before Tiberius with a cup of glass which he dashed violently on the ground. It was neither broken nor cracked, but merely dented, like a piece of metal. Then the man produced a mallet and hammered the cup back into its proper shape.

Tiberius, however, asked whether anybody else knew the secret, and "No," had him instantly beheaded. The emperor feared that such glass would terribly depreciate the value of the precious metal.

CROWDS ARE NO PROOF.

Not Always in Sympathy With the Speaker as Roosevelt Found Out By Investigation.

[Baltimore Star:] The old, tried and experienced politicians are not in the least worried over the reports that large crowds are attending the meetings being held by Col. Roosevelt in his recent flying trips through the West. They remember the vast assemblages that greeted Bryan when he first ran for President, and how people, misled by the immense numbers that gathered at every stopping place, not only fooled the McKinley leaders, but made Bryan himself believe that the country was literally on fire for him.

Col. Roosevelt does not take the great crowds that gather now to hear him talk as meaning that they are for him or will ever vote for him. To quote Col. Roosevelt himself on this subject, he said in a recent talk that when he was young in the habit of touring the country and talking from the rear end of a car platform, he, too, was astonished at the great crowds that gathered at every place. Even at little stations, where there was hardly a house in sight beside the station or depot, the crowd seemed to be as large as at good-sized [illegible] or villages.

At last, continued the colonel, I resolved to investigate for myself, and leaving the car, after I had spoken and someone else was talking, I mingled with the crowd and got talking with men on the outskirts. I asked one man if he had ever seen such a big crowd as this at this place before. He replied: "Oh, yes, once." I asked him when and his answer was: "When Bryan spoke here." This was a sort of crusher to my vanity, but I asked another question and it was if he had ever seen a bigger crowd here. The old man quickly replied "Yes, once." In answer to my question when that was, the native replied, "About a year ago, when there was a breach of promise case on in the Courthouse in the morning and a circus in the afternoon," and the colonel concluded his story by saying, "Do not permit yourself to be deceived by the size of the crowds, which turn out to hear any public man speak."

LOOKING FOR DEATH.

BY JOSEPH KEATING.

Griff flashed his pit-lamp over the face of the seam, looking for a spot where he could cut a ton of coal without getting it mixed up with two tons of rubbish. This lower side was the firmest part of his stall. Yet even here little stones dropped on his knuckles and took the skin off. That did not matter.

With the broadside of his bottom man-drill he sounded the coal. A peculiar glitter appeared on its face under his pit-lamp. It shone like a well of brass and rang as he touched it as clearly as a solid rock.

"Like an anvil," said Griff, very bitterly, listening to the sound.

He swung the big mandril for fifteen minutes. The shivering roof let fall a shower of small stones. No impression seemed to be made on the coal. He might as well have tried to cut through the side of an ironclad to get at coal lying in its bunkers.

"She's looking nastier than ever," Griff assured himself.

He was kneeling in front of the seam, his lamp raised to examine his abnormal place, his ineffective mandril lying against his thighs. The uplifted light flung long shadows of a forest of slender posts supporting the roof; at least, they sought to have supported it, but small bits of clod dropped continually around him in a harmless, but inconvenient fashion. That was the worst of bad top. Not all the trees of the jungle could keep it really intact.

His lamp left the lower part of his body and the ground in deep shadow. It illuminated his worried face and naked torso, and the yellow rays glistening on sweat mingled with black dust covered his breast, shoulders and features with patches of brilliant polish.

"No good here. Try higher up a bit," he advised himself.

He moved away up along the face, dragging his bottom mandril behind him, panting, perspiring, bent almost double under the low roof, his lamp attached to the middle of his belt, and throwing moving shadows of the roof props as he wound in and out among them.

Half a dozen yards outward just beyond the posts, his light reached an iron tram, half empty, waiting for the coal Griff could not cut.

His attack with the mandril at this spot brought down as much coal as would fill a curling box and twice as [illegible] clod.

He put aside his mandril and began to separate stones from coal, which wasted much time, and although he began resignedly, Griff was undoubtedly swearing before he finished. It took longer to pick out the stones than to carry the coal to the tram, and as only filled coal brought any pay he cursed the unprofitable abnormality of his stall. Half the day had been already worked for exactly 20 cents and the percentage, and as the dramatic motive of Griff's existence was the providing of bread and cheese and boots for three small boys and two smaller girls, with a possible new dress for Mrs. Griff to go to chapel in on Sunday, his desperate resentment against 20 cents was as dignified as Hamlet's father's ghost.

"Well, p'raps she's a bit better the upper side," he suggested, with the return of optimism which comes of a thoroughly profane outburst, and he rose from his knees. "I must get a bit of coal to fill a couple o' trams or I'll be 'shamed to take my pay home to the missis."

To reach his upper side was an interesting adventure. A whole mountain of fallen roof filled the center of Griff's road. Some day he might hope to clear it and timber the roof properly and make his place safe. At present a mysterious cavern hung over the peak of the mountain. Up there he knew that very likely explosive gas sat silently brooding in the dark hole. His lamp rays ascended the slope, but the uppermost peak remained hidden. He skirted its slope, carrying his mandril, passed between the hill and his half-empty tram, and reached the upper side—a nasty, dark cut where no air current passed, because Griff's road was the extreme tip of workings, and the wind that came up from the lower side blew against the fall and went out along the long tunnel to the return.

Under the usual preliminary flash of his lamp by way of examination the coal looked dull, lusterless and flimsy. Griff's road had accumulated all the ills of abnormality. Down the lower side the coal was hard and the roof soft, whereas the reverse would have been a much more tolerable arrangement. In the center his top would not remain up at all; while at the upper side both coal and top had achieved an equal degree of rottenness. A myriad of posts stood under the clod; yet the roof seemed to be falling like a black cloud dropping over tree tops.

The first swing of his pick brought down a fair amount of coal, but it became dust when it touched bottom, and at the same time a fall of clod took place immediately behind him. When the dust cleared a little Griff carefully re-examined the roof.

"I don't like the look of her," he said; "better put a post close in."

But Griff's lamp suddenly changed from a yellow gleam into a ghostly blue and seemed to be swallowed up in a frightful ball of fire.

"The gas has got her," Griff said, and he wondered if there was going to be an explosion, or if he could arrange the difficulty in a more pleasant fashion.

He quietly put down his mandril and, staring at the expanding blue flame, crept cautiously toward the lamp. He had hung it on the lid of the new post to shed light on his labor. He could not tell exactly where the gas had come from so suddenly. There might have been too great an accumulation up in the cavern above the fall of roof, and it had stealthily descended when the dust he had made choked the upper side and made it practically airless. Gas always filled the holes where no air circulated. Or it might have come when the coal fell. It was difficult to say.

Griff raised his hand to take the lamp out of the danger zone. That was a particularly daring thing to do. The slightest careless move might disturb the gas and it would burst. Griff's face in the ball of blue fire looked ghastly. If the gas exploded his face, his nose, his teeth would be blown into the cavern behind him, and his kids and Mrs. Griff would not know whether he was a man or a blasted stump of a tree. On the other hand if he ran away and left his lamp hanging there the blue flame around it might grow so big that it must burst and rush out along Griff's road or down through the lower side and kill many men and little boys.

He did not want that to happen. His experienced fingers crept through the flame, delicately touched the lamp, gripped it very firmly, loosened it from the lid and lowered it very, very slowly, for the gas chiefly clings to a roof, like a cloudbank to a red sunset, and if you can pull a lamp down toward the ground you may draw it out of range.

But no such luck seemed to be in Griff's upper side. The cut had become full of gas, and although he lowered the lamp until he was bent double the blue flame still clung to it. He decided to retreat backward to his roadway and bring his lamp with him. Nerve and courage were necessary.

Holding the lamp outstretched, his eyes staring, he began to move, but as he had no guide his backward crawl was stopped by the hill of stones, and in trying to avoid this he found himself retreating between the coal and the hill, where there certainly was no outlet, and in his difficulty he stumbled.

Instantly the disturbance increased the size of the blue fire alarmingly. Griff lowered himself flat upon his breast on the ground, holding his lamp well, and began to creep back like a worm, finding his way out with his toes and pushing himself along with his free hand as if it were a single oar paddling a boat stern end forward.

He was quite successful, and by the time he reached his half-empty tram his lamp was shining a bright, pleasant yellow once more. He had got it clear of the gas. He rose first to his knees, then to his feet and allowed his light to shine on the tram.

"I don't know when you'll be full," he said to the tram. "If I look for a bit of coal in this place it's like looking for sudden death. There's coal here, all right, but it'll take a cleverer collier than me to fill it."

Norwood, one of Cincinnati's suburbs, is experimenting with motor fire apparatus.

Big Land Opening

Tuesday, April 16, 1912

The well-known Dunlop Ranch, four miles East of the business center of Redlands and within three miles of schools, high schools; within two miles of the Electric car line, and within two miles of the S. P. and Santa Fe Railroads at Crafton, will be opened to farmers, fruit growers and investors, in 5, 10 and 20-acre tracts. All old Californians know this famous Ranch for its wonderfully rich soil, as well as for its ample water supply. The East end of this tract is a very deep peat soil, full of decomposed vegetable matter, excellently adapted to the growing of Pears, Peaches and all deciduous fruits, as well as Potatoes, Sweet Potatoes, Tomatoes, Cantaloupes, everything in truck, alfalfa and Walnuts. Part of this Ranch is bringing now a yearly rental of $30.00 an acre from truck farmers.

Tomatoes grown here during January, February and March, usually bring from 10c to 15c a pound on the Los Angeles Wholesale Market. We have a sample of Irish Potatoes, harvested here in May, 1911, that is still in almost perfect condition. We say without fear of contradiction that here is the richest land in Southern California, and we know that all old Californians will uphold us in this statement.

You can buy this wonderfully rich land at the opening price of from $350 to $400 an acre. One miner's inch of water goes with every five acres. Water is owned by the land.

There is nothing you can put your money into as a farming or fruit-growing proposition, or as an investment, that will equal this opportunity we are offering you here. We urge you to join us on the above named date and make your selection of any sized tract that you may see.

EL SEGUNDO

"THE CITY THAT MUST BE BUILT"

New Acreage Addition

While all the development work is going on in and around this wonderful Refinery "City That Must Be Built," why don't you look ahead and invest in acreage which you can later subdivide into town lots.

El Segundo's record since the opening, eight months ago, has been a genuine surprise to many. They did not believe it possible such a change could take place in such a short time. The business district has over 25 buildings, and almost a hundred dwellings have been erected.

It's the man with the acreage that makes the money. You can figure it out yourself. Out of one big El Segundo acre you can cut SIX LOTS. It is this subdividing that brings profit to buyers of acreage.

EL SEGUNDO Acre farms are proving very popular for those who want to get out in the near-by suburbs, and enjoy life on their own country estate. The El Segundo market requires a large amount of chickens and eggs. Why don't you go into the poultry-raising business at EL SEGUNDO?

The story of "The City That Must Be Built" is an interesting one. Ask us for details. Then take "Del Rey-Redondo" car from Hill street station. Cars leave every 30 minutes.

Tom Jones says [illegible] will take on a few boys before [illegible] Rivers, and would be [illegible] if he did not. Ad, no [illegible] how good he says he feels, [illegible] know just how good he really [illegible] himself, and will not, until he [illegible] tried out. It is a clever [illegible] Levy's part to hold out for [illegible] until the Fourth, and if he [illegible] with it, he will pull off one [illegible] stunts in matchmaking. [illegible] Billy Nolan made Joe Gans [illegible] the ring at 133 in fighting [illegible].

[illegible] that Tom Jones has said on [illegible] Levy will never get away [illegible]. While this clause has been [illegible] the articles of agreement, it is [illegible] to have a line drawn [illegible] before they are signed.

[illegible] wants to meet Willie [illegible] the 4th of May at 133 [illegible] ringside. If Ritchie ever [illegible] ringside he will not be fit [illegible] and it would not be [illegible] of a tryout for Ad. Wolgast [illegible] better to pick some tough [illegible] fighter who could make [illegible] and be strong. The dis- [illegible] short, and if Ad can go as [illegible] possible for him to go for [illegible], he can feel pretty sure [illegible] all right. Either that or [illegible] fellow without a punch [illegible] would be a [illegible].

[illegible] is the best boy in that [illegible] Wolgast must be at his [illegible] he made him. One hundred [illegible] thirty-three pounds, ringside [illegible] Rivers will be a catch [illegible] is also very confident [illegible] beat Ad. This, too, will [illegible] in his favor. He is every [illegible] a hitter as Wolgast and [illegible] it to his fights. He is [illegible] and stronger every day [illegible] older, and three months [illegible] going to make him more [illegible] than ever. Rivers is also [illegible] faster than Ad.

[illegible] thing Wolgast had on [illegible] he was taken sick was [illegible] and ability to take a [illegible] being hurt. This must [illegible] to be a lot in his favor [illegible] contest. But the question is, will Wolgast be as good as he was before the operation.

Rivers could not have met Wolgast at a more opportune time than the coming Fourth of July. Ad is meeting Rivers in his own home, where he was born and lived. The fight takes place during the warmest time of the year in this country; and will have no affect on him. Wolgast will be compelled to be away for some time to meet some of the boys that he intends to fight, and will return during the warm weather.

While Ad is pretty well used to this climate, Rivers will have a decided advantage over him in this respect.

By July Rivers will no doubt have to train to make 133, but it will be just enough to get him into better condition than he ever was in his life. Neither will he have the worrying on his mind that Wolgast will have until he thoroughly tries himself out. Ad is a game and cool fellow and not given much to worrying, but just the same, the thoughts of coming back and possibility of losing his title at this particular time is not going to do him any good. Rivers has all to win and nothing to lose, and has the chance of his life to be the next champion of the world this coming Fourth of July.

The referee question will, I believe, be a hard one to decide. Tom Jones says he will not have Charlie Eyton, Joe Levy says that Tom will not pick the referee that he wants. "I am looking after Rivers and will have my say in the matter," says Levy. Jones in the past has favored Jack Welch.

Levy has not committed himself as to who he will agree to, but as long as Welsh is Jones's choice, Levy will, if he follows the usual custom in such matters, object. There will no doubt be a lot looking for the job, but who is it going to be?

It is a sure thing that Eyton will never referee if there is the slightest objection to him. He has said many times that he never would referee a fight for any one unless he was the choice of both men, and he will surely keep his word.

Wolgast's strong point is the rough work at close quarters, and while he is a fair fighter, he likes a referee who is not too quick at breaking men apart.

Rivers's style is more on the shifty order, and there is no doubt that the referee question will not be an easy one to decide.

She:—Jim, I'm to get an electric.

He:—Bully for you, Sis. Which car will you get?

She:—The prettiest one that's made, Brother, and the finest.

He:—A pretty motor car, Sis! Why, they are all pretty. What you want is a car which can get somewhere on a charge.

She:—Aren't all electrics alike?

He:—Only the upholstery, Sis, and the wheels. In point of service they differ widely. One car will travel fifty miles on a charge, another a hundred. One car is often out of order, another is always in commission.

She:—Well, I want my car to go as far as anybody's and to be ready when I want it.

He:—You're right about that; and you also want a car which won't eat Daddy out of house and home with its cost of upkeep. What you want is a Baker.

She:—Why do you think?

He:—I don't think. I know. When an electric has the mileage record of a Baker and stands up year after year without repairs, you can bank on it for service. Get a Baker—that's the way it looks to your big brother.

Last Words.

THE MARATHON NEARLY HERE.

Some Advice for New Men on First Time Out.

Runners Should Be Careful During Last Week.

Directors Meet Today for Final Arrangements.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

The Times Marathon is just five days away and by this time next week we will know who is the best cross-country runner in the south and who of the old-time "Vets" can come back and who of the rising generation have coming possibilities, in fact, there will be a lot of things settled. We will know whether Peter George, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, or Charlie Swigget of the University is the best long-distance runner here. We will also know which team of runners is the best and if the Indians are still as good at the running game as they were in the days of yore.

There are a great many athletes in this race, who have never before been in open competition, and they are asking what to do during the last week of training. Now we will try and drop a few hints to them, but of course, the veterans, who have been running for a number of years need not think that anything stated here is aimed at their particular style of getting into condition, they have been through the mill and know the ropes.

Now for the dark horses or those who are making their first attempt in regular organised athletics. This week should be devoted to careful training, but not to any terribly hard work, one long run, either Monday or Tuesday, should be enough of the road work before the race, if any are in the pink of condition; do not take the hard run, but go easy for one or two miles at a nice little jog trot. The grind should be finished by this time.

If in good condition at the end of the week, only take a walk on Thursday and on Friday forget the race altogether, only remembering it Saturday morning. For the new ones just out, don't get scared, nobody is going to laugh at you and we do not expect you to break any world record, just finish as fast as you can and within the time limit, and we will be ready to say, well done. If this is your first time out, run to get experience, and make the best possible showing and when the race comes off next season, you will be a veteran, ready to hit the trail and know just what you are going to do.

EAT WITH CARE.

Now a word of advice as to the eating and other matters of this nature, which have to do with the wind and condition. This week, try and not drink anything with your meals and leave the rich pastry alone, these things tend to shorten the wind. Of course, the smoking and drinking of stimulants are not to be thought of, they are bad at any time and worse now. Another thing about eating, make the meals regular and always get up from the table just a little hungry, it will keep you trim and not overload the stomach.

If possible, get someone of your friends to give you a rub every day, from now till the day of the race, as have the muscles of the legs and abdomen in the best of condition, take time by the forelock and don't get a cramp in the race, they hurt and will put you out of the running.

Now for the actual work on the road, during the week just before the race. In the first place do it in the afternoon, for it is in the afternoon that the race is going to come off, and if you run in the morning you will get your vitality worked up at its highest pitch in the forenoon of each day and when it comes to Saturday afternoon, you will feel a little groggy for the event.

Being in good shape, do not try any long runs, as has been stated before, but take a little spin each day and walk a lot during the day, possibly to and from work. Make these runs of not more than two miles, and on Wednesday and Thursday only, cover about a mile. It will not hurt to take a few short sprints during the earlier part of the week, say, of about one block, this will give you that burst of speed to bring home the bacon for the Gen. Otis cup, on the last leg of the course.

RELAX MUSCLES.

In running, try and keep all the muscles relaxed and run in the form that is the most natural to you, don't try and get the form of some famous runner, it took him long training seasons to work it out, and it probably fitted him and it might not fit you, be natural, and that is about the best advice in the world.

Friday afternoon take a walk of about one or one and a half miles, and then get a good sleep, in the morning keep off your feet as much as possible and don't worry about the race or the other fellows, they are just as nervous as you are, and are just as afraid of you as you are of them and their records.

Now, I want to tell the young fellows who are just starting in a race of this kind for the first time, where the public eye will be trained on the field. As you are getting ready for the race, a weak feeling will attack one of the most important things is to your knees, and you will think that you are going stale just before the race. Nothing of the kind, it is only the old solar plexus kicking up, and when you line up on the mark and get started, you will forget your knees and feel the results of all your training. This knee thing comes to every runner when he is starting out, and it is only the seasoned veterans who can get ready for the race on the crucial day without a tremor.

This will about do for the training end of the story and in parting, the subject we would say; go to it, don't drop out, finish, and never be weary in well doing.

BIG ENTRY LIST.

The entry list now stands at 120, ranging from boys 12 years of age, to old athletic veterans of 65, all out to run over the course and show the public that outdoor America is there a million. We have Indians, Greeks, Italians, English, Americans, soldiers and college athletes all lined up for the struggle, and it bids fair to be one of the greatest athletic events ever staged in the West.

There will be a meeting of the Marathon directors this morning at the office of The Times, No. 531 South Spring street, at 10:30, and all are urged to be present, as there are several matters of vital importance to the race to be settled, as the time for the big day draws near. All the checking captains are also requested to be present and find out what will be expected of them on the day of the race.

If the day is bright, the members of the Southern California Athletic Club may be taken over the course on a trial spin. There are eighteen runners training for the race under the colors of the club, and as the team is to be composed of eight men, the best will be chosen for the race itself. It looks like big times were upon us. What ho! Warder, let the port cullis fall!

Fighting Chance.

CALIFORNIA HAS BULGE ON STANFORD TRACK MEN

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 8.—One week from next Saturday the biggest college athletic event of the Coast spring season is to be held on Stanford oval, when the track squads of the Cardinal and Blue and Gold will hook up in their nineteenth annual struggle. Stanford men concede that they have only a fighting chance for everything that is in it and it is probable that, whoever wins, the loser will only be a few points behind the victor.

Last year California gave the Cardinal the worst beating it has ever received in track. This year, however, Stanford appears to be stronger in nearly every event than it was last year and California has lost several of its best men, among them Dowd, the veteran half-miler.

With Capt. Tom Coleman of Los Angeles, McKee and Campbell, in the century dash, Stanford believes it has a trio of sprinters that will be able to make a clean sweep in the event. Fiu Woods, at California, is a 10 1-5s man, but the three Stanford men have been caught at better time this season. Coleman has run the distance in even time, and McKee and Campbell have traveled the course between 10s. and 10 1-5s. Coleman and McKee also look good for the first two places in the furlong event. Campbell does not run the 220 event, as he is needed in the 440-yard race and low hurdles. McKee is one of the best sprinters that has ever attended Stanford. Until last year he had not worn a spike. Experts believe that before he finishes his college course he will even excel the consistent and top-notch performances of Coleman, who is undoubtedly the best sprinter that Stanford has turned out, at least for many years.

"JACKRABBIT" CAMPBELL.

In the 440 Stanford will have Campbell, who is good for 51s., or better; "Pop" Taylor, who won the event in the intercollegiate meet last year, and who "came through" in the Santa Clara meet Friday and won the race in 51 1-5s.; Millsap of Pasadena, who is good for 52s., or better, every time he starts, and Wallace and Needham, who always finish close up with the bunch. California concedes that Campbell is entitled to first, on past performances.

In the half-mile, Stanford has Bonnett of Riverside, and Murray, two-minute men, and a horde of athletes who can do better than 2m. 4s. But 2m., or better, will be necessary to win the race, and Bonnett and Murray, and possibly Gard of Glendora, are the mainstays. In the mile Murray and Fletcher are traveling close to 4m. 30s. Whether they will be able to beat Wood, the crack California miler from Whittier, remains to be seen. In the two-mile, Crabbe of California ought to beat either Price or Dodge of Los Angeles, the Stanford grinders, as he has covered the eight laps in less than 10m., and the Cardinal men have not done better than 10m. 7s this season.

As usual California probably will make a cleanup in the hurdles that will offset Stanford's expected grab in the sprints. Kern has not been doing better than 16 1-5 seconds in the high timbers and that is too slow for the Blue-and-Gold artists. However, in the low sticks, Stanford is much stronger. Kern has done 25 2-5 seconds, and Campbell is less than a second slower. It would not surprise the Cardinal rooters if Kern polishes off the low hurdles in 25 seconds, which should be close to winning time.

Smith, Worthy and Shaw are fair hurdlers, but it is not likely they will show against the Blue-and-Gold cracks.

In the field events, California appears to have the advantage. Although Woolley and Alderman are throwing the hammer close to 155ft., which is the intercollegiate record, Shattuck of California is better, and if Stanford takes second it will be lucky. With Rice and a couple of other crack shot putters, California threatens to shut the Cardinals out of the shot put and a third place would look good to Stanford. Horine, who holds the world's record in the high jump, should have no trouble in taking first, although last year Eddie Beeson of California tied him at 6ft. 3in. This year, however, 6ft. 3in. is easy for Horine. "Cap" Finney is Stanford's next best man. He does 6ft. 1in., which is the best mark of Taylor, California's hope.

In the broad jump, Allen of California, winner last year, is the best at either university. Kresinger, the California captain, is almost as good as Allen, which means that Morrison, Stanford's best man, may only get second or third. In the vault, Vaille of California has done 12ft. 1in. Miller of Stanford has reached 12ft. It is likely that he will reach 12ft. 2in. during the next week. Peake of Los Angeles and Miller both cleared 11ft. 9in. in the Santa Clara meet, Friday. The outcome of the vaulting event is as uncertain as any of the competitions. Miller won last year at 11ft. 8in.

The relay teams, as usual, will include the pick of the sprinters. Stanford always has a crack team. This year, with Campbell, Coleman, Taylor, Millsap, McKee and Wallace to choose from, there is no doubt that the team will be able to hold its own.

What Will Your Car Cost You—After You Buy It?

Did you ever think of that?

Service is a big item in modern automobile buying.

What Kind of a Guarantee Have You Got?

Some manufacturers guarantee "for life." That's like a health insurance which expires when you're sick. It sounds pretty and is worth nothing.

The Studebaker guarantee is full and complete. It stands for a year. You can understand that; you can bank on it. Remember, too, that a year covers the hardest part of a car's life. By the second year you know how to treat it. And with a Studebaker car its life is practically a matter of the care you give it. Take care of it and no limit can be named to its endurance.

What Will Parts Cost You?

We mention this gently because with many of our competitors it is a tender point. Their theory too often is, HOLD UP THE OWNER. So it is common knowledge that it costs three or four times as much to buy most cars part by part as it would to buy them assembled. But every Studebaker part is listed at its proportionate cost in a complete car plus but a small percentage for handling.

Studebaker Parts Price Lists are the most complete and convenient on the market and, so our dealers tell us, the most convincing argument we can give them. Our Parts Price Lists convince the prospective owner. A Studebaker buyer is assured of continual fair dealing. Go to our dealer and investigate.

Finally, How Quickly Can You Get New Parts?

Suppose they had to come a few hundreds or thousands of miles while your car lay idle. You, of course, would have to wait. Not so with Studebaker cars. Most of our 2000 dealers carry parts and in almost every State in the Union there are Studebaker branch houses, with full parts supplies. Thirty-six branches in all—and it requires but two or three days at the most to get any part you need.

That name STUDEBAKER tells the whole story. It stands for square dealing. Rely on it. Your father did; so can you.

Call and see our line.

E.M.F. IN SERVICE FOR YEARS.

Life of Machine Is Remarkable and Bullet Keeps Plugging Along Merrily.

To determine the accurate mileage which might be said is the limit to the life of an automobile, the Studebaker corporation some time ago picked a car for this purpose, which was in the service of George W. Hanson, manager of the E.M.F. Atlanta company. The machine was called the "Bullett" E.M.F. "30" and at that time boasted a mileage of 73,000.

The car during the last year has been kept steadily moving from one branch of the company to another into several different States, in use by the firm's traveling men. It has been through Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Kansas and other States, and everywhere the car is watched with interest by the motor enthusiasts who know of the test which the car is being put through.

The car was recently ordered to South Bend, where the sixtieth anniversary of the Studebaker corporation was celebrated and while there passed the 100,000 mark. After leaving South Bend the "Bullett" will be taken to its old home in Atlanta. The car has participated in numerous races at State and county fairs and it is said is still in a good condition as to machinery, although the body shows plenty of signs of wear.

Army Aviator Killed.

PARIS, April 13.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Lieut. M. H. A. Boncour of the Twenty-seventh Infantry Regiment, was killed today in an aeroplane accident. He was making a flight near Bar-le-Duc, 125 miles east of Paris, when he fell from a great height while passing over Lamont.

His aeroplane collapsed and the body of the aviator when found in the debris was almost unrecognizable.

An examination showed that Lieut. Boncour's eyeglasses were covered with frost and it is supposed this prevented him from seeing that he was flying directly into a thick forest until too late.

GIANTS RELEASED.

NEW YORK, April 13.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The New York Nationals tonight released Infielders Bues and Stock and Pitcher Munsell to Buffalo.

BATTLING CHICO HAD CLASS.

George Blake, the two referees that handled these farces.

It was an insult to their ability as referees to be asked to referee such poor contests.

Howard Morrow won a decision from Bert Fagan after six rounds of the poorest slugging and rottenest boxing that ever took place, outside of the Herrick-Mantell contest. During the seventh round Joe Levy threw up the sponge as a signal of defeat. While the contest was a better one for action than the Herrick-Mantell contest, there was no more class shown. It was simply rotten. I have seen amateurs, both in San Francisco and Los Angeles, that could stop both without ever getting out of the ring. It was a case of slug, slug, all the time, and nothing else.

The preliminaries were little better. We had a sample of three quitters and five game fellows out of four fights.

The first preliminary started with Bob Monroe and Babe Davis. This was a joke. As soon as one got hit he would either cover up or run away. The decision finally went to Monroe. He succeeded in knocking Davis down once and after six rounds of an imitation of a fight, Monroe was given the decision.

CHAMPION QUITTER.

The second preliminary was between Bob Graham, a willing novice, and Jack Barry, the champion quitter of Southern California. Barry knocked Graham down once and wanted to tear his head off, but Bob came back with the gameness and made the champion quitter quit good and cold. Graham simply outgamed Barry. Bill Huddy, who was in Barry's corner told him that if he quit he would hit him over the head with a bottle. This did not feaze Jack; he had enough and he knew it.

When Graham knocked him down after a hot mix up, he stayed on the floor, and Bill Huddy nearly had a fit. He ran around to the side of the ring and told Barry to get up which he refused to do, and was counted out.

Battling Chico and Young Pico was the event of the day. They fought six fast and hard rounds. Pico was a willing and game little fellow and was always willing to fight, which he did all the time, but Chico was too clever for him and won a well-earned decision. Chico showed more class than all the rest put together.

The main event was farce as far as fighting knowledge was concerned. Fagan entered the ring with a patch over his lip and another over his right eye. The one over his right eye was a bluff. Bert got his lip cut through last Thursday afternoon, while boxing with Sol Burns and was in no condition for a twenty-round fight. Neither he nor Morrow showed any class and after six and a half rounds of rotten slugging and boxing, Morrow was given the decision. They had better cut out all the rest of these middleweights. Morrow is a promising fellow, but should learn to box before he is given any more fights.

CELTIC WIN SCOTISH CUP.

Celtic won the Scottish Association Cup at Glasgow on Saturday by defeating Clyde two goals to nothing. There were 50,000 spectators present. Celtic scored a goal in each half.

Milwaukee team owners have started a movement for the repeal of an ordinance passed some months ago, after much hard work on the part of the Milwaukee Automobile Club, requiring that white lights be displayed on all vehicles left standing in the street during the night time.

There was enough to keep the fans awake at all times but the day was a bad one for peek-a-boo waists and ice cream clothes. The cold wind slowed the players and actually made them make some errors. There will be something better today if the sun shines.

SEALS FATTEN UP ON HEAVER THOMAS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, April 13.—The Seals had nothing to do but walk today when Blaine Thomas took the mound for Sacramento for the first time in the Coast League. Mohler and Raftery found him for singles and then three free passes forced in two runs. Baum was sent to the rescue but forced in another run with a walk before he warmed up. These three runs were enough to give San Francisco a 3-to-0 victory over the Senators.

Only one of the locals went beyond first, Swain negotiating third on his double and Miller's long fly. Jess Baker held the locals to three scattered hits and Baum held the Seals to four hits, but the gift runs of the first frame were all that the visitors needed to win their second of the three games thus far in the series. YOUNG AVIATOR HURT.

Falls Fifty Feet Into Mud and Is Crushed in Debris of Wrecked Machine.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ALAMEDA (Cal.) April 14.—Flying against a southwest wind in a Curtiss biplane over the Alameda marsh at 11 o'clock this morning, Silas Christofer, a young aviator of No. 1528 Sherman street, lost control of his machine which dropped a distance of fifty feet into the mud and was crushed to pieces throwing the birdman from his seat and crushing him in his left side. Christoferson is 24 years old and came here three weeks ago under contract of a San Francisco firm.

THE KAISER'S CHARACTER.

While Hasty in His Judgments, He Is Quick to Realize His Failures and Make Amends.

[The Strand:] There is much that one cannot help liking in the character of Wilhelm II, and it is those who know him best who best appreciate him. Imperious and autocratic to a degree he undoubtedly is, and he has a will of iron that hates to be diverted from its purpose. He is also extremely hasty in his judgments as much as in his actions. No one is more quick to realize his failures, however, than he is himself, and he has been known after a heated outburst to go to the minister or official who provoked his wrath almost immediately afterward and offer his apologies, and agree that a different course from what he had at first demanded would possibly be the wisest. An apt case in point is the famous telegram that His Majesty sent to the late President Paul Kruger upon his defeat of the raiders under Dr. Jameson. It is asserted by those who were about the German and British courts at that time that the Emperor was heard within a day or two, and when he had had time to consider fully the possible seriousness of the action, frequently to express regret that he had ever allowed himself to put pen to paper on the subject, and it is stated that the Emperor at once wrote very fully to Queen Victoria on the matter, reiterating his regrets and explaining the circumstances that led up to the dispatch of the wire.

INSIDE HISTORY OF MAIER BOWLING EXPERTS.

Breakers of Coast Record.

Eddie Maier's team. Top row: C. Smith, E. Shay, B. Lustig. Bottom: C. Turner, A. E. MacKenzie.

EDDIE MAIER, the enterprising president of the Vernon Baseball Association, not only has a first-class baseball team but also boasts of one of the best bowling quintettes in the country.

The Maier bowling experts have a walk away in the Southern California League and have broken several Coast records during the present tournament. Ten hundred games have been common with them and they have amassed a total of 44,053 pins in forty-five tournament games, an average of 2937 per match, or 979 per game which is a Coast record, and so far as the writer knows a world's record for a like number of games played on seven sets of alleys.

On February 8 they toppled 3149 pins in a match with the Cosmopolitans on the Majestic Alleys, which broke the former Coast record for a three-game team total by 151 pins. In this match Alf. MacKenzie, the Maier anchor man, hung up a new Coast record for an individual three-game total, knocking over 738 pins, an average of 246, beating the former record of 735 which was held by his teammate, Ernest Shay. Besides this 3149 three-game series the Maiers have bowled four series over the 3000 mark, six over 2900, five over 2800 and only one in the 2700 column.

In the recent Western Bowling Congress meet, this team won third money, bowling one pin short of 2800. In this match Captain Lustig was badly out of form and bowled seventy-five or one hundred pins under his average. A word about the men who compose this record-holding organization would not be amiss:

SOME INSIDE DOPE.

Carey Smith, who leads off for them, is the youngest player on the team in bowling experience. Carey throws a very speedy cross-alley ball and because of this fact has been nicknamed "Cannon-ball" Smith. He is a good strike buncher and while low man on the team, has an average of 183. "Bun" Lustig rolls second and captains the team. "Bun" is one of the most consistent pin smashers in the State and for the past three seasons has finished either second or third among the individuals. He rolls a cross-alley twist ball that is a great strike getter and seldom draws splits. Lustig is a hard worker and does not know what the word "quit" means. Ernest Shay, who follows Lustig, is the present Southern California champion and bids fair to repeat as he leads the present tourney. However there is a pretty race on between him and Turner, his teammate, but 19 pins separating them. Shay is one of the best that ever faced the maples and only recently gave Jimmy Blouin, the national champion, a big scare in a seven-game match, Shay winning the most games while Blouin won on pin totals by a small margin. Shay is to the Maier team what "Happy" Hogan is to the Vernons.

Clarence Turner shoots fourth on the team and has hit the timber for a 201 average.

Turner won the Southern California championship in 1911, and is fighting it out with Shay for the 1912 honor. Clarence comes from Chicago where they turn out the best bowlers in the world. It was there he learned the game. He is one of the best spare bowlers on the Coast and it is doubtful if he has an equal in the West as a "split-spare-getter."

MAC A WONDER.

Alf. E. MacKenzie rolls anchor for the team and this old war horse has made them all sit up and take notice this season. He has clouted "Louie" for a 198 average and has done his best bowling when it was most needed. "Mack" is a strike-buncher if there ever was one, and he has pulled many a game out of the fire by putting three crosses in the last frame. He is general manager for the team and is now planning on taking them to Vancouver for the 1913 meet of the Western Bowling Congress.

Besides holding the present Coast record for high three-game series, MacKenzie, with Mrs. H. C. Scott as a partner, also holds the world's record for mixed doubles.

The averages, high game, high three-game series for each player on the Maier team follows: Smith, 45 games, average 183; high game, 230; high series, 638. Lustig, 45 games, average 196; high game 244; high series 642. Shay, 45 games, average 201; high game, 264; high series, 735. Turner, 45 games, average 201; high game, 267; high series, 688. MacKenzie, 45 games, average 198; high game, 267; high series, 738.

Cardinal Crews.

STANFORD OARSMEN WIN RACES FROM WASHINGTON.

OAKLAND (Cal.) April 13.—Stanford University came off the victor today in both the varsity three-mile boat race and the freshman contest. The races were rowed on the estuary, the finish being made at the Western Pacific Railroad. Partisans of both the Blue and Gold and the Cardinal thronged the banks of the estuary and cheered their respective crews. The varsity race was the first event and was contested by California, Washington and Stanford. In this the line-up was as follows:

California—Bow, S. Malatesta, 24 years old, weight 168 pounds; No. 2, A. Eaton, 22, 162 pounds; No. 3, J. Halbert, 21, 168 pounds; No. 4, R. Shaw, 22, 182 pounds; No. 5, R. Maynard (captain,) 21, 195 pounds; No. 6, M. Lee, 21, 175 pounds; No. 7, C. Denham, 20, 180 pounds; stroke, D. Hardy, 21, 185 pounds; coxswain, T. Hutton, 21, 105 pounds.

Washington—Bow, E. Taylor, 21 years old, weight, 150 pounds; No. 2, B. Will, 20, 152 pounds; No. 3, W. Ruggles, 23, 173 pounds; No. 4, H. Waller, 22, 173 pounds; No. 5, L. Wright, 21, 178 pounds; No. 6, R. Pullen (captain,) 25, 176 pounds; No. 7, W. Morgan, 23, 165 pounds; stroke, N. Wright, 23, 145 pounds; coxswain, A. Campbell, 19, 125 pounds.

Stanford—Bow, R. Olmstead, 22 years old, weight, 160 pounds; No. 2, C. H. Beal, 23, 160 pounds; No. 3, C. Smith, 23, 178 pounds; No. 4, F. B. Watkins, 23, 174 pounds; No. 5, R. F. Duryear, 22, 180 pounds; No. 6, R. H. Seward (captain,) 24, 175 pounds; No. 7, F. Wickham, 20, 176 pounds; stroke, J. Partridge, 21, 188 pounds; coxswain, F. L. Garena, 22, 110 pounds.

The start was excellent and the athletic oarsmen in each crew bent to their oars with a will. Stanford gradually forged ahead and crossed the line half a length in the lead of Washington, with California limping a full three lengths to the rear. Time, 16m. 10s.

The freshman event was contested by California and Stanford, as the authorities of the University of Washington had refused to permit the freshmen of that institution to take part in the race. The line-up was as follows:

California—F. D. Halbert, bow, 152 pounds; R. E. Merritt, No. 2, 163½ pounds; C. Z. Sutton, No. 3, 160 pounds; H. Hardy, No. 3, 193 pounds; B. T. Rocca, No. 5, 167 pounds; R. N. Hallner, No. 6, 180 pounds; L. C. Moorehead, No. 7, 180 pounds; Davis, stroke, 158 pounds; R. H. Hope, coxswain, 121 pounds.

Stanford—R. D. Sinclair, bow, 165 pounds, J. S. Jeffers, No. 2, 165 pounds; G. A. Jacomini, No. 3, 172 pounds; E. B. E. Wolford, No. 4, 175 pounds; G. E. Haggert, No. 5, 182 pounds; F. E. Here, again, the Stanford men proved their superior prowess as they did in the previous event, but it required all their mettle to win the victory, which they did by a good length and a half. Time, 12m. 48s.

The day was an ideal one for the races and the water was as smooth as could have been wished for.

Teacher Made a Hit.

[Boston Post:] A young woman who presides over one of the kindergarten schools of Cambridge appeared at her desk recently attired in a new close-fitting skirt. With no thought other than the conducting of her regular routine work the teacher went about her duties. She noticed, however, that one of her charges was paying little attention to his work, but following her with his eyes wherever she chanced to go. Approaching the little fellow with the intention of ascertaining the trouble, she said, "Well, Tommy—" Before she could go any further the youngster shook his boyish head and said, "Say, teacher, that's a classy skirt you've got on!"

CONDE JONES DEFEATS STARS AT SAN GABRIEL.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

San Gabriel Golf Team.

In the upper row are Harry Cole, George Cline, Conde Jones and Frank Wade. Below are H. N. H. Woodcock, F. O. Wood, R. L. Tatum.

CONDE JONES proved himself the hero of yesterday's golf at the San Gabriel Country Club, winning with the fine score of 1 up, against a large field, which included many of the first-class players. His handicap was only one stroke, so that he would have been the winner in any case on a gross or net score.

Conde Jones is a player of long experience in California, whose name appears on many cups of three and four-year-old date, but for a year or two he was unaccountably off his game (unless courtship and marriage will explain the sad defection.) It was at the championship tournament at Annandale that he first showed conspicuous signs of a return to form, and at the invitation tournament in March he continued the good promise, winning his flight and making several highly creditable scores. In the team matches, too, he has proved a valuable asset, while at Redlands he was a very creditable representative of his club.

Yesterday he showed off from the very outset, for they played the old nine holes, with which he is most affectionately intimate. He certainly played a brilliant game, achieving a 78 with the utmost apparent ease.

J. B. Elliott won second place with 1 down and 3, with four competitors for third place—Morris Phillips of Redlands, G. E. Potter of Santa Barbara, Robert L. Tatum of San Gabriel and S. S. Parsons of the Los Angeles Country Club, who all finished 3 down. Elliot's handicap was 6, Phillips, 2; Potter, 5; Tatum, 1, and Parsons, 3. The four thirds settled the matter with an appeal to impartial fate—to the victor the spoils.

There were quite a number of 4 downs—the shining list including such stars as G. S. Armstrong (plus 1,) F. H. Edwards (scratch,) George H. Schreider (1,) Albert Dill of Redlands (2,) T. S. Jefferson (6,) and C. O. Alkire (2.) Needless to say the two last named were considerably elated to find themselves in such distinguished company.

Norman Macbeth (plus 2,) finished 5 down, so I really have not the slightest excuse for mentioning him.

Among the also-rans were Edward Tufts, Alexander McKiegan (who bears his responsibility with such a brave smile,) J. L. Kerril, C. H. Knappe, Jack Jevne, Walter Cosby, Arthur Braly and L. T. Bradford, all of the Los Angeles club. H. T. Fish, De West Hughes, F. D. Tatum, Joseph Ball and C. S. Byington, all of the Annandale Club. M. E. Ginn of Redlands, Ross Hickox, H. N. H. Woodcock, C. F. Atkinson, Judson Smith, J. A. Bell, P. A. Howard, G. E. Harpham, W. C. Brode, G. M. Purcell, J. K. Winston, A. T. Jergens, Wells Smith, C. D. Bricker, W. H. Bacon, H. Jevne, B. M. McCausland, James Parker, L. T. Killian, P. A. Coon, D. A. Gardner, W. Salisbury and George Cline.

Today the league match between Riverside and San Gabriel will be played on the latter's links. The Riverside men will be H. G. Pattee who probably plays H. N. H. Woodcock; Martin Chase, who probably plays Conde Jones; R. D. Osborn, Dr. E. B. Howe, E. N. Hillego, F. D. Hudson, and Dr. Girdlestone.

BEACH BOYS WINNERS.

Made Good Their Claim to Leadership in County League by Fourth Straight Win.

The Long Beach baseball team made good their claim to the leadership of the county league by taking the boys from Pasadena High into camp by the score of 6 to 4.

This makes the fourth straight win for the beach lads and they look like sure champs. Ross Middough pitched great ball, holding the Crown City boys to three hits.

Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Long Beach	6	6	1
Pasadena	4	3	2

Batteries—Long Beach—Middough and Wilcox; Pasadena—Hayes and Launirie.

GILLIGAN BOUNCED.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Pitcher Gilligan of the Portland team was suspended five playing days for refusing today to leave the box in the third inning of the game here against Oakland, after he had been heavily hit. He became abusive and an umpire escorted him from the field.

NATIONAL PORTRAITS.

All of the Speakers of the House of Representatives, Except One, Hang in the Gallery.

[Washington Star:] Among the most interesting features of the Capitol are the numerous paintings of departed statesmen and events of importance in our national history. In the wide gallery back of the House of Representatives are portraits of the various Speakers of the House. The likeness of each Speaker is hung in this hall of fame upon his retirement from office.

With a peculiarly reminiscent and yet pleasant smile, Uncle Joe Cannon glanced up at the portraits of some of his predecessors a few days ago and remarked: "I wonder if it was right to wait so long to hang some of them."

The portrait of every Speaker can be found there, with but one exception. The missing face is that of Nathaniel Macon of North Carolina, who was Speaker from 1801 to 1807. Macon was a modest, unassuming man of simple manners, attired always in the coarse homespuns of the day, although an exceptionally able official. A lover of horses and cattle, he entered the pedigree of his own blooded stock in his family Bible. Macon never posed for his picture. Although every effort has been made to discover a portrait of him, the search has been without avail.

A service of barely five minutes in the Speaker's chair won for one man a space on the wall of this gallery. Schuyler Colfax, Speaker of the House, was elected Vice-President and took the oath of office the 4th of March, 1869. On the morning of that day Colfax resigned the Speakership, and Theodore M. Pomeroy of New York was selected Speaker for the remaining few minutes of the session.

The picture of Thomas B. Reed was painted during the last year of his term of office. When it was shown to him he looked at it closely. He noticed the protruding lips, the florid complexion, the heavy, flabby cheeks and massive neck.

His eyelids partly closed and his countenance grew cold. Slowly, and with his inimitable drawl, he commented:

"I hope that my dearest enemy is satisfied now."

Of the many portraits from life in the Capitol the most valuable is one of the Gilbert Stuart pictures of Washington. There are two pictures of Washington by Stuart. One of these is familiarly known about the Capitol as "False-tooth Washington." Back of this lies an interesting anecdote of the first President. Washington is said to have had the first set of false teeth manufactured in America. They were made in Baltimore, and so pleased was the Father of his Country with the improvement they made in his facial contour that he straightway ordered his portrait painted. This is one of those seen in the Capitol. It might be remarked that these teeth were not a perfect fit, since it is declared that they rattled so badly while he was reading his inaugural speech when first elected President that he could scarcely be understood.

One of these Stuart portraits of Washington cost the government $5000. This is the most expensive portrait in the Capitol. However, other pictures in the building have been infinitely more expensive. For instance, the great "Battle of Lake Erie" at the turn of the Senate staircase, showing Commodore Perry leaving his flagship at the height of the battle, cost $30,000.

These pictures in the Capitol are frequently cleaned, restored and reframed. For this purpose the pictures are removed from their frames. Great pads of blotting paper are spread out on the surface prepared for the operation. These blotting pads are then thoroughly soaked with oil. The picture is laid with its back on the pads while weights are placed on its face. The oil is slowly absorbed by the picture and the colors gradually brighten up.

No-Rim-Cut Tires
10% Oversize

Decide Which Tire

Will you have tires that rim-cut, or tires th never can?

Will you have oversize tires—10 per cent ext capacity—or tires just rated size?

Some 200,000 motor car owners have ch the Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tire.

Those men have found that these patent t cut tire bills in two.

Outsell All Others

Here is a tire which, in the last two years, has come to outsell all others.

Over one million have gone into use. Some 200,000 separate users have tried them.

The resulting demand for No-Rim-Cut tires has become the sensation of Motordom. Our sales today are three times larger than one year ago.

After 13 Years

This No-Rim-Cut tire is the final result of our 13 years spent in perfecting tires.

It marks the zenith in pneumatic tires. We never can hope to improve it.

This patent type—which we control—is built so that rim-cutting is ended forever.

It is built, in addition, 10 per cent oversize, to save the bl outs due to overloading.

No Extra Pric

Rim-cutting occurs, as sta tics show, with 23 per cent the old-type tires. The ne type tire—the No-Rim-Cut saves that loss entirely.

And 10 per cent oversize the average car, adds 25 p cent to the tire mileage.

These two features toget mean an average saving of per cent. Yet No-Rim-Cut now cost no more than o standard tires.

Think these facts ov men who buy tires. You wi why most men now demand th

COST OF ELECTRIC TRACTION.

Expense of Equipment at Present Time Makes Important Water Power for Generating the Current.

[Cassier's Magazine:] The equipment of a power house is a very expensive undertaking. In but few localities is water power available, and in the majority of cases a steam generating plant is necessary. To this must be added a vast amount of costly apparatus for the regulation and distribution of the current in the quantity and manner required. It is here, then, that costs must be reduced. It has been repeatedly said that power plants are expensive and inefficient; and while this assertion may be too general and not wholly in accordance with the facts, it is certain that improvements must be made before railways can be induced to regard electrification more favorably. The cost of electrical equipment at the present time is little short of prohibitive, and it is in this matter that a [illegible] must come if electric power is to become available for railway [illegible]. There is no reason why a [illegible] designed electric locomotive should break down if properly [illegible] and carefully handled. It is possible, however, that the [illegible] power may give out, and the consequences of the failure of current supply on a busy railroad are [illegible] to be permitted. Something [illegible] done to provide against such a contingency. The safety of [illegible] must also be considered and the [illegible] ability of accident reduced to a minimum.

Not Sobs of Sorrow but Tears of Joy.

About 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, just after the first performance of the Sells-Floto Circus commences, those who are watching very closely will notice a gentleman come through the grand entrance, standing in a chariot and driving before him a donkey and a diminutive elephant. He will closely resemble a celebrated national character variously known as Meodore, the Big Stick, My Policies, the acme of intellectual handsprings and generally speaking a quaint consolidation of battle, murder, love, death, and fireworks.

Away down the hippodrome track a ring such as that used for pugilistic encounters will be pitched. Bwano Tumbo will pull his team up when he reaches it and doffing his "Ruff-Rider" hat, will "cast it in the ring."

Eh-hu! Loud and continued applause from a crowd of attendant satellites, rigged up to represent G. Peencho and other more or less celebrated conversationalists.

But immediately thereafter a stout individual can be seen making a dignified progress toward the ring. He regards it intently while an amused expression passes over his jolly countenance. Then, with exceeding deliberation, he kicks the hat out of the ring, tears up the stakes, cuts the rope with his jack knife, and throws the remainder after the retreating forms of Meodore's forces.

Hear 'em cheer now! Ah-ha! It's a good old dyed-in-the-wool Republican yell. Whoop! Whoop! Tiger!!!

The fat man passes along and another figure appears, a clean-shaven man. He, too, has an attendant. It's a houn' dog. Brethren ye gotta' quit kickin' that houn' dog aroun'. Every Democrat who has voted for the wrong man for the last twenty years and tossed his franchise down the political rathole, is on his feet with one of those old-time yells: Yip, Yip, Let 'er Go! They're all from Missouri. They've got to show us. Yi-Yi-Glory-Glory-Glory, More Glory, Hallelujah!!!!!!

This is just one of the many novelties presented by the famous forty clowns of the Sells-Floto Circus. A clown who doesn't keep abreast of the times gets lost in the shuffle, and this circus is probably the best clown in the world today. Those who have already seen the performance in Southern California say that as a joy-producer it is the best thing that has come along. Something happening every minute. If it doesn't these clowns make it happen.

A suffragette number, staged by the inimitable Jerry Clayton, Jimmy Rutherford and Shorty Maynard, brings down the house, especially in localities where the franchise has been more recently bestowed upon the fair sex. Then the clowns give a travesty on the Mexican revolution. They capture a prisoner, load him into a cannon, and shoot him out of it. This number partakes of the nature of a thriller and is presented by such noted clowns as Horace Webb, George Brown, Ab Johnson, Jack Harris and Frank Stout.

The bride-elect is another funny offering. She is made to dance on the wedding-breakfast table and then pulled clear to the dome of the tent. Then there is the airship, the clowns' fire brigade and specialties enough to suffice for twenty old-time circuses.

The Sells-Floto Circus will arrive from San Diego at an early hour this morning. As soon as the three special trains can be put on the siding the paraphernalia will be taken to Prager Park. It will remain here three days. A parade will be given tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, going over the regular circus route.

WHITTED BREAKS RECORD IN BIG STATE PREP MEET.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Citrus Union High 28; Palo Alto 14; Occidental Academy 13; Pomona High 10; Riverside 8; Modesto 7; Ukiah 6; Sutter Union 6; Berkeley High 6; Paso Robles 5; Cogswell Polytechnic 4; Berkeley Preparatory 3; Stockton 3; Santa Rosa 2; San Jose 1; Mission High 1.

Whitted, the star athlete of Azusa, broke two world's interscholastic track records in the big "prep" meet that was run off on Stanford Oval today. He ran the 120-yard event in 15 2-5 seconds and the furlong race in 25 1-5 seconds. His record in the high sticks was made in the morning in the trial heat. In the afternoon against a wind he won the race in 15 3-5 seconds, which is one fifth second faster than the previous world's high school mark. Whitted's performances were the sensations of the meet. "Dad" Moulton, the Cardinal trainer, believes the lad will be able to better Kraenzlein's figures in the events.

Whitted won more points than any other competitor in the meet. In addition to walking away with the hurdle he took second in the broad jump.

Citrus Union High outclassed the field. It was a big day for the Azusa lads and also for all the Southern athletes. Last year Los Angeles High, Orange High and U.S.C. Academy made a sweep. Today the south made another clean-up and the men who did the work hailed from Citrus Union, Occidental Academy, Pomona High and Riverside.

ANNIN OF OXY.

"Bill" Annin of Oxy took first in both the mile and half mile run. "Stonewall" Jackson, the negro sprinter off Azusa won the hundred and four hundred and forty-yard dashes. Kerrick of Riverside was first in the broad jump and second in the pole vault. Nichols of Pomona High took a brace of firsts, in the pole vault and high jump. Hendrick of Citrus Union won the hammer throw.

The Citrus Union athletes not only won the meet hands down, but captured the coveted relay cup. Here Whitted and Jackson again shone, each outstripping his rivals. There were seven teams entered in the relay which was a five man affair.

Jackson might have broken the Stanford "prep" record of 50 3-5 seconds in the four forty, but he outstripped his opponents and loafed for the last twenty yards. At that he registered 51 1-5 seconds.

In the hundred he made 10 1-5 seconds against the wind.

KERRICK AND NICHOLS.

Kerrick and Nichols were the lone entries of their respective schools and they shone in the large field. "Bill" Annin's victories were clean cut. In the mile he defeated Chapman, a much touted athlete from Santa Rosa, who was "doped" to win easily. In the half mile, "Bill" nearly got lost in the pack at the start, but he extricated himself and led the twenty men to the tape.

Jackson tied the Stanford "prep" record in the century. Whitted put two marks on the blink and High of Modesto in the elimination heats in the morning put the shot 49 feet 10½ inches breaking another record. The discus record of 110 feet 9 inches that was made by Pyle of Pasadena four years ago was broken by Ernst of Paso Robles, who registered 118 feet 10½ inches.

WHERE SOUTH SHONE.

Although the number of entries in the meet was not the largest that has ever appeared here, the average performances were of higher class. In every event there was a strong bunch. Jackson and Whitted stood head and shoulders above the horde.

In the sprints, distances, hurdles, jumps and vault the southerners were supreme. The only first places they did not win were in the shot put, furlong, sprint and discus.

The sun shone brightly in the morning, but in the afternoon it was cloudy and chilly and a slight rain fell. Several high school bands added to the excitement in the bleachers. Oakland High, which entered a full team, did not get in a point in the meet.

Oxy was nosed out of second place by two third places, which "Pally" High grabbed in the closing events.

Whitted's marks were duly certified by the officials and will be submitted as world's records to the National Interscholastic Board.

QUEER FOOD SALE.

Remnants From Palace and Hotel Tables Are Sold Daily in the Markets of Paris.

[Business:] "Twelve mounted dragoons sat at the gate of the Elysee palace one afternoon as I passed with a friend. 'The President is giving a banquet to the King of Bulgaria,' said my guide, a long-time resident of Paris. 'Tomorrow morning at 9 we must visit the Hall of Jewelry at Halles Centrales.'

"Now the Halles Centrales is the great central market of Paris; possibly the most scientifically arranged and largest general market in the world. But a market of produce—how could it have a jewelry hall, and if so, what did it have to do with the King of Bulgaria? I was soon to find out.

"At 9 the next morning we were two of a great crowd massed against a large, closed door in one of the pavilions of the Halles Centrales. Our route through the market had been along the broad central avenue which traverses the buildings from the east to west.

"We had seen the gerat vegetable trucks arriving from outside of the walls of Paris, piled high with vegetables, all carefully washed and arranged in layers; rows of carrots, of beets, of parsnips, etc., making of the moving truck a most attractive picture.

"'Under the market,' said my friend, 'are huge cellars, twelve feet deep and divided into over 1000 compartments, accessible to an underground electric freight service—but here the door opens.'

"The crush that followed reminded me strongly of one that I participated in on Oxford street, London, some months earlier. Then it had been a special sale of ostrich plumes—I felt curious as to what I now should see.

"The large room was set with long tables, each covered with innumerable paper napkins placed side by side. Each napkin had a few articles of prepared food on it. Apparently it was a huge delicatessen shop. Then I looked more closely and saw that the portions of food were strangely mutilated—a mutton chop would not be complete; one corner had been neatly trimmed off.

"Nor was it alone on its serviette—with it was a spoonful of peas, a part of a baked potato, a little dab of jelly and half a roll. Next to it was a portion consisting of a chicken wing with one tip gone, a few scalloped potatoes, half a stalk of celery and a mere suggestion of marmalade. Each portion had a price tag; that of the chop, 40 centimes (8 cents;) the chicken wing, 45 centimes. Further on was a small part of a very small bird that carried with it the suggestion of a cold bottle.

"'You see before you,' said my guide, 'the remains of Belshazzar's feast—he is called the King of Bulgaria now, but it is the same. That chop may have been toyed with by some fair queen; the missing tip of the chicken wing possibly took the King's mind from matters of state for a moment or two. Of one thing be sure, that nothing from President Fallieres's plate is here, for that gentleman was brought up to pick the bones clean.'

"'Surely they didn't leave all this?'

"'Oh, no. Besides the remains of the Palais Elysee banquet are the contributions from the large hotels and the fashionable restaurants. All Paris contributes to this—all Paris except the Latin quarter, which is here to buy. Your landlady is here, so don't turn up your nose at this for something from here will reach you in tonight's dinner.'

QUALITY UNCHANGED

Performance is the factor behind the success of FISK HEAVY CAR TYPE Tires. Their rapidly increasing sale is due to the verdict of the car owners who, once using them, buy again for their own cars and recommend them to their friends. You are urged to inquire among many Fisk Tire users because we can present no stronger argument than the every day service Fisk equipment is giving. MILEAGE AND DIRECT REPRESENTATION combine to make the only service that really interests any buyer. It is THAT SERVICE upon which the success of Fisk Tires is founded.

The Fisk Tube is the Pure Para Tube which accounts for the slightly higher prices at which it is sold. The initial increased expense is slight—the resulting additional service makes it a far better buy than any one of the many compounded tubes sold at a lower figure. We had but one choice—to lower our present standard and compound our tubes or to hold the present construction at a slightly higher price. We have decided in favor of quality with its final economy to every buyer.

A STEWART

Speedometer adds immensely to the pleasure and safety of automobiling

The Stewart is the most efficient speed indicator manufactured. It never makes a mistake; never misses a second to the hour or an inch to the mile; others may cost more but they cannot do more.

Four out of every five speedometers in use are Stewarts.

The plants that make the other 20 per cent haven't the same facilities; haven't the same production; so they can't manufacture as well or as cheaply.

Stewart Speedometers are built the strongest and last the longest.

Magnetic principle, employed in 85 per cent of all speedometers, making possible the use of slow moving parts; no wear; ball and jewel bearings; beautiful workmanship; remarkably accurate; 100,000-mile season odometer; 100-mile trip register, can be set back to any tenth of a mile; positive drive; no springs; unbreakable flexible shaft; drop forge swivel joint that will outwear car; noiseless road wheel gears.

FLYNN THINK'S JOHNSON LAZY.

Hopes to Win Through Black Man's Carelessness.

Believes Champion Will Not Be In Good Condition.

Jim's Friends Assert That He Has Real Chance.

Jim Flynn's remark that popular opinion of a fighter's ability, or expert opinion either, can be safely disregarded is not without its truth. The public has been on the wrong side of nearly every big contest in the past decade; as for the experts, did Jim Corbett ever pick a winner?

Attell, Nelson, Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Corbett, Sullivan—all were favorites when they went the long road. Except in the instance of Jim Corbett, however, it was the case with all the men named of the pitcher that went to the well once too often. The defeated ones had gone back, but the public had to see its idols fall before it could believe their overthrow possible.

Corbett was still in his prime when Fitz reversed him, and it is one of the few instances in which a title holder at his best has been defeated. For the most part champions decay through neglect of themselves or through advancing years; then comes defeat at the hands of a husky youngster and the question whether the new title holder was superior to the beaten champion at his best remains a matter of dispute.

The Johnson-Flynn fight may see the same thing transpire. But the argument against this is strong, for in Flynn we have no young and improving man opposed to an old and declining veteran. Flynn is within a year as old as Johnson, and has been battling almost as long. The effect of age and promiscuous living may land quite as severely on him as on Johnson.

If Johnson wants to retain his title, however, he is making a serious error in not getting down to work. The mistake that beat Jeffries, want of boxing, can defeat John Arthur, too, for Johnson has not fought in two years. It isn't a mere matter of physical condition—Jeffries showed that. Jeff was in good physical condition, but his eye and hand and foot would not answer to his will as of yore.

Johnson will have two years' rust to get out of his system, and if he goes into the ring another Jeffries for want of boxing practice, even Flynn will beat him.

Knowing how to do things is not everything—it's the ability to execute what the mind advises that spells champion in anything. And that means hard and constant work.

Johnson has three months in which to overcome the idleness of two years. Can he do it?

That he may not be able to is the hope of the Flynn contingent.

SIMPLEX MAN'S ADVICE.

We Must Take Better Care of Our Retail Trade, Says Factory Man Who Should Know.

According to John G. Dale of the Simplex Automobile Company, one of the greatest mistakes made by the American manufacturer is that of not taking proper care of their retail customers. Those who have made it a rule to maintain and build up a direct relation between the factory and the user are in the strongest position today, and this policy promises to be of even greater importance in the future.

"Manufacturers maintaining this policy are becoming to a greater extent patrons of imported materials for certain parts and of various foreign methods of construction," said Dale, in speaking of the subject. "The Simplex is a good example of this. Since 1902 we recognized the value of Krupp steel in building and have used the material ever since. Through our European connections we are kept in touch with the latest and most attractive designs of the popular foreign make cars and we adopt new models as they are created. The Simplex cars are guaranteed for one year against defective material and workmanship. A popular innovation among our customers is in the service department and will let them consult our designers for suggestions and advice."

BRUSH WINS IN FUNNY TEST.

Outstrips All Horse-Drawn Vehicles in Rural Delivery Run in East. Cost Is Less.

A test to prove the efficiency of an automobile over a horse and wagon was made recently on one of the R. F. D. routes leading out of Eldorado, O. The car used for the test over this route, which is twenty-six and one-quarter miles, was a Brush runabout. The run was made in two hours and thirty-five minutes, and there were one hundred and twenty-five stops.

The carrier, who has for some time covered the route, has been keeping two horses which cost him about sixty cents per day, took about six hours to make the run with one horse and wagon. The automobile made the run without a stop of the motor and at a cost of 14 cents for gasoline and oil. By using this means as a conveyance a saving in time of three hours a day can be made and the route may be turned into a money making scheme as well.

GET YOUR PASS.

About June 1 important new regulations will go into force abolishing the use of the foreign triptype except for visits to a single country, and replacing it by an international customs passbook. Instead of having to make a separate deposit for each country about to be visited, the motorist will deposit the highest amount of any one country. Every time he crosses the frontier the fact will be recorded on his passbook by the customs authorities, and he will not be admitted to a new country until he has been discharged from the one he has just left. This will make it possible to cross and recross the frontiers any number of times with the certainty that the correct discharge always will be obtained, for the new officer will send the holder back if he has neglected to have his papers stamped and signed when coming out of the adjoining country.

Jack Skelly's List.

GREAT CHAMPIONS OF PAST TWO CENTURIES.

"I DON'T really believe there is, in this country at least, an absolutely correct record of all the heavyweight champions since the days of Tom Figg," said Jack Skelly, thumbing the leaves of his old Fistiana and Boxiana histories.

"By carefully going over both books and other records, however, I think I can give you a very complete record of the big title-holders from 1719 down to the present day—possibly the most correct ever printed.

"You know Figg was the first real orthodox big title-holder in England to introduce science and cleverness into the game. He also formed a set of boxing rules governing all contests in the ring. He was a very popular sporting man, and soon induced the wealthy followers of the game to erect a vast building in London, something like Madison Square Garden, New York, where all classes of fight fans enjoyed many fistic bouts, at a regular scale of prices. Figg's show bills around the town read as follows:

"'Tom Figg, master of ye noble science of self-defence, on ye right hand in Oxford Rood, near Adam and Eve Court. Teaches gentlemen also ye use of ye broodsword and gives public exhibitions in ye art of self-defence.'

"Tom Figg enjoyed his reputation as champion of England from 1719 until 1734, when George Taylor became the title-holder. Then followed Jack Broughton (1740,) Jack Slack (1750,) Bill Stevens (1760,) George Meggs (1761,) Bill Darts (1764,) Tom Lyons (1769,), Harry Sellers (1777,) Bill Harris (1780,) Tom Jackling, alias Johnson (1785,) Daniel Mandoza (1792,) John Jackson (1795.) Jackson, by the way, was the son of a wealthy London builder, and a man of considerable education. Many of the most prominent men in the ring in those days were gentlemen's sons, who did not consider they were lowering themselves in society by openly entering the ring.

"Then came Jem Belcher, a descendant of the renowned Jem Slack (1803,) followed by Hen Pearce, the game chicken, (1805;) John Golly, afterward Member of Parliament, (1808;) Tom Gribb, who received a non-transferable belt and cup, (1809;) Tom Spring, receiver of four championship cups, (1824;) Jem Ward (1825,) Deaf Burke (1833,) Bill Bendigo (1839,) Ben Caunt (1841.) Bendigo again became champion by defeating Caunt (1845.)

"Perry, the Tipton Slasher, claimed the championship after defeating Paddock, and Bendigo retired (1850.) Harry Broome beat Perry (1851;) Perry again claimed the office after Broome forfeited to Perry. Broome retired from the ring (1853,) but came back and was defeated by Tom Paddock (1856.) Tom Sayers then became champion, after Paddock retired, by defeating Perry.

"Now we come to the first invasion of American fighting men in England. In 1860 John C. Heenan fought Tom Sayers in England and won; but he did not receive the honors, as the British mob cut the ropes to save their champion, and the affair ended in a wrangle. The honest sportsmen of England tried to square matters by presenting both the American and English champions with a belt. But the belt given to Heenan was not paid for and he had to return it. Sayers retired after this disgraceful affair, and Tom Hurst, the 'Staleybridge Infant,' claimed the title (1860.) Jem Mace defeated Hurst, and became the champion (1861.) Tom King beat Mace and claimed the belt, but declined to meet Mace again, and the latter at once assumed the title (1863.) Mace really held the championship of England up to 1880, against all comers, when he retired. In 1885 Jem Smith claimed the title by defeating Jack Davis. Charley Mitchell, later called himself the boxing champion of England, when he met John L. Sullivan.

"At present the English championship is in a much-confused condition, Bombardier Wells, Gunner Moir and several others claiming the title.

"Now let us review the American champions. Tom Hyer, who defeated Yankee Sullivan in 1849, was the first of our heavyweight title-holders. John Morrissey was the next big champion (1853,) John C. Heenan followed Morrissey (1860.) Then came Joe Coburn, who defeated Mike McCoole for the title (1863;) Jim Dunn, who beat Bill Davis (1865,) Mike McCoole claimed the title by defeating Davis (1866,) and Aaron Jones (1867,) Dunn having retired. Tom Allen claimed the title after defeating Davis (1869;) Mike McCoole again claimed the title after getting a queer decision over Allen (1869.) Jem Mace and Joe Coburn met in two questionable draws for the international championship (1871.) Joe Goss claimed the title after defeating Tom Allen (1876;) Johnny Dwyer defeated Jimmy Elliott for the championship (1879.) Paddy Ryan was recognized champion of America after his defeat of Joe Goss (1880.) Ryan lost the championship to John L. Sullivan, February 7, 1882, when the latter knocked Paddy clean out in nine rounds with bare knuckles, under the old London rules, which were the conditions fought under in all the heavyweight championship battles up to Sullivan's victory over Ryan.

"On September 7, 1892, Jim Corbett defeated the popular John L. Sullivan at the great fistic carnival at New Orleans, where I fought George Dixon for the world's featherweight championship. Corbett held the big title until he met Bob Fitzsimmons at Carson City, March 17, 1897, when he was defeated in fourteen rounds. Fitzsimmons lost the championship to Jim Jeffries June 9, 1899, in an eleven-round battle at Coney Island. In 1905 Jeff retired. On July 5, 1905, Jeffries refereed the battle between Marvin Hart and Jack Root. Hart knocked Root out and Jeff immediately presented the championship to the winner. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien in 1906 assumed the title. The next year (1907) Jack O'Brien and Tommy Burns met at Los Angeles and Burns gained a decisive victory over O'Brien and at once proclaimed himself the champion of the world. He went to England and defeated the best heavyweights abroad. Then he made his way to Australia, where, after much newspaper fuss, he was matched to meet the present title champion, Jack Johnson. They fought in the big arena at Rush Cutter's Bay, December 26, 1908. Johnson was too big for Burns and outclassed him from the start to the fourteenth round, when the police stopped the mill and the referee decided that Johnson was the winner on points, and had won the world's heavyweight championship.

"So you see the old game of boxing has been going on for almost two hundred years in a regulated, systematized order. Of course, gladiatorial contests between trained gladiators run back several thousand years, but I think the records of the modern prizering show more honest, manly contests than those of the ancient arena, when brave men were slaughtered for the amusement of the Roman Emperors and others. Under our new boxing rules we have made the game an almost harmless sport, and I expect the manly art will progress and continue for hundreds of years after we are all under the green sod and the names of the best gallant champions of the ring will always be remembered as the heroes of their day."

PLAYING GAME FROM BENCH.

and second bases. Mowrey, the red-headed third baseman, came to the bat.

"Murray's playing too near center field for this fellow," remarked McGraw to some of the players on the bench.

Hardly had he said it when Mowrey shoved a long fly to right field which soared away toward the [illegible]. Murray started to run with speed for the ball. For a minute it looked as if he were going to get there, and then it just tipped his out-stretched hands as it fell to the ground. It amounted to a three-base hit and won the game for the Cardinals by the score of 2 to 1.

"I knew it," said McGraw, one of whose many roles is as a prophet of evil. "Didn't I call the turn? I ought to have gone out there and stopped the game and moved Murray over. I blame myself for that hit."

That was a game in which the St. Louis batters made three hits and won it. It isn't the number of hits, so much, as when they come, that wins ball games.

Frequently, McGraw will stop a game—bring it to a dead standstill—by walking out from the bench as the pitcher is about to wind up.

"Stop it a minute, Meyers," he will shout. "Pull Snodgrass in a little bit for this fellow."

The man interested in statistics would be surprised at how many times little moves of the sort have saved games. But for the McGraw system to be effective, he must have working for him a set of players who are taking the old look around for orders all the time. He has a way of inducing the men to keep their heads up which has worked very well. If a player has been slow or has not taken all the distance McGraw believes is possible on a hit, he often finds $10 less in his pay envelope at the end of the month. And the conversation on the bench at times, when men have made errors of omission, would not fit into any Sunday-school room.

During a game for the most part, McGraw is silent, concentrating his attention on the game, and the players talk in low tones, as if in church, discussing the progress of the contest. But let a player make a bad break, and McGraw delivers a talk to him that would have to be written on asbestos paper.

Arthur Wilson was coaching at third base in one of the games in a series played in Philadelphia the first of last September. There were barely enough pitchers to go around at the time, and McGraw was very careful to take advantage of every little point so that nothing would be wasted. He feels that if a game is lost because the other side is better, there is some excuse, but if it goes because some one's head should be used for furniture instead of thinking baseball, it is like losing money that might have been spent. Fletcher was on second base when Meyers came to bat. The Indian pushed the ball to right field along the line. Fletcher came steaming around third base and could have rolled home safely, but Wilson, misjudging the hit, rushed out, tackled him, and threw him back on the bag. Even the plodding Meyers reached second on the hit and McGraw was boiling. He promptly sent a coacher out to relieve Wilson, and his oratory to the young catcher would have made a Billingsgate fishwife sore. We eventually won the game, but at this time there was only a difference of something like one, and it would have been a big [illegible] to have seen that run which Wilson interrupted across the plate.

KEEPING A PLAYER DOWN.

McGraw is always on Devore's hip because he often feels that this brilliant young player does not get as much out of his natural ability as he might. He is frequently listless and often, after a good hit, he will feel satisfied with himself and fan out a couple of times. So McGraw does all that he can to discourage this self-satisfaction. "Josh" is a great man in a pinch, for he hangs on like a bull dog, and instead of getting nervous, works the harder. If the reader will consult past history, he will note that it was a pinch hit by Devore which won the first world's series game and one of his [illegible], combined with a timely bingle by Crandall, was largely instrumental in bringing the second victory to the Giants. McGraw has made Devore the ball player that he is by skillful handling.

The Giants were having a nip and tuck game with the Cubs in the early part of last summer when Devore came to the bat in one of those pinches and shot a three-bagger over third base which won the game. As he slid into third and picked himself up, feeling like more or less of a hero because the crowd was announcing this fact to him by prolonged cheers, McGraw said:

"Gee, you're a lucky guy. I wish I had your luck. You were shot full of horseshoes to get that one. When I saw you shut your eyes, I never thought you would hit it."

This was like pricking a bubble, and "Josh's" chest returned to its normal measure.

Marquard is another man whom McGraw constantly subjects to a conversational message. Devore and Marquard room together on the road, and they got to talking about their suite at the hotel during a close game in Philadelphia one day last season. It annoys McGraw to hear his men discussing off-stage subjects during a critical contest because it not only distracts their attention, but his and that of the other players.

"Ain't that room of ours a dandy, Rube?" asked Devore.

"Best in the lot," replied Marquard.

"It's got five windows and swell furniture," said Devore.

"Solid mahogany," said McGraw, who apparently had been paying no attention to the conversation. "That is, judging by some of the plays I have seen you two pull. Now can the conversation."

Devore went down into Cuba with the Giants, carrying quite a bank roll from the world's series, and the idea that he was on a picnic. He started a personally conducted tour of Havana on his first night there and we lost the game the next day, "Josh" overlooking several swell opportunities to make hits in pinches. In fact, he didn't even get a foul.

"You're fined $25," said McGraw to him after the game.

"You can't fine me," said Devore. "I'm not under contract."

"Then you take the next boat home," replied the manager. "I didn't come down here to let a lot of yellow-colored Cubans show me up. You've got to either play ball or go home."

Devore made four hits the next day.

USING SIGN LANGUAGE.

In giving his signs from the bench to the players McGraw depends on a gesture or a catch word. When "Dummy" Taylor, a deaf and dumb pitcher, was with the club, all the Fletcher came [illegible] around third base and could [illegible] home safely, but Wilson, [illegible] the hit, rushed out, [illegible] and threw him back on [illegible]. Even the plodding Meyers [illegible] second on the hit and Mc- [illegible] boiling. He promptly sent [illegible] out to relieve Wilson, and [illegible] to the young catcher [illegible] made a Billingsgate fish- [illegible]. We eventually won the [illegible] but at this time there was [illegible] difference of something like [illegible] it would have been a big [illegible] to have seen that run which [illegible] interrupted across the plate.

A PLAYER DOWN.

[illegible] is always on Devore's hip [illegible] he often feels that this bril- [illegible] young player does not get as [illegible] out of his natural ability as [illegible]. He is frequently listless [illegible], after a good hit, he will [illegible] satisfied with himself and fan [illegible] of times. So McGraw [illegible] all that he can to discourage [illegible] self-satisfaction. "Josh" is a [illegible] in a pinch, for he hangs [illegible] a bull dog, and instead of [illegible] nervous, works the harder. [illegible] reader will consult past his- [illegible] will note that it was a pinch [illegible] by Devore which won the first [illegible] series game and one of his [illegible] combined with a timely bin- [illegible] by Crandall, was largely instru- [illegible] in bringing the second vic- [illegible] the Giants. McGraw has made [illegible] the ball player that he is [illegible] handling.

[illegible] Giants were having a nip and [illegible] with the Cubs in the early [illegible] of last summer when Devore [illegible] the bat in one of those [illegible] and shot a three-bagger over [illegible] which won the game. As [illegible] into third and picked him- [illegible] feeling like more or less of [illegible] because the crowd was an- [illegible] this fact to him by pro- [illegible] cheers, McGraw said:

"[illegible] a lucky guy. I wish [illegible] your luck. You were shot [illegible] horseshoes to get that one. [illegible] I saw you shut your eyes, I [illegible] you would hit it."

[illegible] was like pricking a bubble, [illegible] "Josh's" chest returned to its [illegible].

[illegible] is another man whom [illegible] constantly subjects to a [illegible] message. Devore and [illegible] were together on the [illegible] and they got to talking about [illegible] at the hotel during a [illegible] in Philadelphia one day [illegible]. It annoys McGraw to [illegible] men discussing off-stage [illegible] during a critical contest be- [illegible] it not only distracts their at- [illegible], but his and that of the other [illegible].

"[illegible] that room of ours a dandy," [illegible] asked Devore.

"[illegible] in the lot," replied Mar- [illegible].

"[illegible] got five windows and swell [illegible]," said Devore.

"[illegible] mahogany," said McGraw, [illegible] apparently had been paying no [illegible] to the conversation. "That [illegible] by some of the plays I [illegible] you two pull. Now can [illegible] conversation."

[illegible] went down into Cuba with [illegible] carrying quite a bank roll [illegible] world's series, and the idea [illegible] was on a picnic. He started [illegible] personally conducted tour of Ha- [illegible] the first night there and we [illegible] the next day, "Josh" [illegible] several swell oppor- [illegible] to make hits in pinches. In [illegible] didn't even get a foul.

"[illegible] fined $20," said McGraw [illegible] after the game.

"[illegible] can't fine me," said Devore, "[illegible] under contract."

"[illegible] take the next boat [illegible]," replied the manager. "I [illegible] down here to let a lot of [illegible] Cubans show me up. [illegible] to either play ball or go [illegible]."

[illegible] made four hits the next [illegible].

LANGUAGE.

[illegible] his signs from the bench [illegible] McGraw depends on a [illegible] catch word. When [illegible] Taylor, a deaf and dumb [illegible] with the club, all the players learned the deaf and dumb language. This medium was used for signing for a time until smart players like Evers and Leach took up the study of it and became so proficient they could converse fluently on their fingers. But they were also great "listeners," and we didn't discover for some time that this was how they were getting our signs. Thereafter we only used the language for social purposes.

Evers and McGraw got into a conversation one day in the deaf and dumb language at long range, and "Johnny" Evers threw a finger out of joint replying to McGraw in a brilliant flash of repartee.

Every successful manager is a distinct type. Each plays the game from the bench. "Connie" Mack gives his men more liberty than most. Chance rules for the most part with an iron hand. Bresnahan is ever spurring his men on. Chance changes his seat on the bench, and there is a double steal. "Connie" Mack uncrosses his legs, and the hit and run is tried.

Most managers transmit their signs by movements or words. Jennings is supposed to have hidden in his jumble of jibes some catch words.

The manager on the bench must know just when to change pitchers. He has to decide the exact time to send in a substitute hitter, when to install another base runner. All these decisions must be made in the batting of an eye. It takes quick and accurate judgment, and the successful manager must be right usually. That's playing the game from the bench.

McGRAW SAYS HE HAS LIVE ONE.

Arthur Bues, the youngster secured by the New York Giants from the Seattle club of the Northwestern League, showed such brilliant work during the last few days of the National League champions' final training that Manager McGraw has sent broadcast the word that he expects Bues to become one of the greatest stars in the game.

Bues lammed the ball in the Northwestern League last year to the tune of .352, and he smashed the home-run record of the league to smithereens. While with Seattle he was used in the infield, but McGraw has used him also in the outfield this spring, and it is expected that there is where he will eventually be shunted into the team when one of the veteran trio—Devore, Snodgrass and Merkle—eventually "breaks."

Bues is a young giant. He stands 5ft. 11in. tall and weighs 184 pounds. He is 23 years old and Milwaukee is his home town. Bues both bats and throws right-handed. He has a way of leaning all his weight against the ball when he hits and this accounts for the many long smashes to his credit.

CHESS NOTES.

P. R. Ruth has won against R. A. Hazen in the final round of the second Southern California correspondence tournament, in which the scores now stand as follows: Pearsall, won 2½, lost ½; Ruth, won 2, lost 0; Asher, won 1½, lost ½; Hazen, won 1, lost 2; Woodbury, won 0, lost 4. Holt and Smith are still to be heard from in the first round, either or both being yet able to qualify for the finals.

Upon the suggestion of Portland officials, the pending Y.M.C.A. California correspondence tournament will be extended so as to admit Oregon and Washington members, thus making the affair a contest for the Pacific Coast correspondence championship of the Y.M.C.A. It is probable that a superior medal will be provided in addition to those donated by B. A. Small for the California section and State winners and similar trophies for the players of the northern States, the greater trophy to be contended for in a final round between the respective State champions.

Oregon has already offered to provide her own medals, but Washington is yet to be consulted. Entries are now being made with Conductor C. F. Pierce, Los Angeles Y.M.C.A., who will match the players of each State into sections, conducting the whole schedule simultaneously. No entry fee is required and the competition appeals to student members, some of whom hesitate about entering the trophy contests open to all players, through distrust of their own abilities. The Los Angeles organization is arranging for an exposition of the game by Rev. E. B. Adams, former captain of the Yale chess team, who will also deliver an address to young men in which the effect of the game in mind and character building will be observed.

Spielmann is being credited with the greatest performance in the San Sebastian master's tournament, though finishing half a point behind Rubenstein, the winner. He had achieved winning positions with Leonhardt, Niemzowitsh and Rubenstein, but, probably owing to the long strain of two continuous tournaments, failed to see the perfect continuations. His games are said to be breezy, full of combinations and frequently brilliant. These qualities are too rare in these days of pawn grabbing masters. Spielmann is young and may yet outrank all European experts in power and record.

To place the motor car thief on the same plane as the horse thief will be the intent of a city ordinance about to be introduced in Milwaukee, Wis., and later in the State Legislature by the Milwaukee Automobile Club. At present the Wisconsin laws provide a maximum penalty of fifteen years for horse stealing, while the maximum penalty for stealing a motor car is a fine of $50 or thirty days in jail.

The 25-Year Car

By R. E. Olds, Designer

Reo the Fifth

Is the only car based on 25 years spent in car building.

In those 25 years I have created 24 models, and have watched their performance with tens of thousands of owners.

I have also kept in touch, since the start of this industry, with all that other men have done.

Here is the final result—my finest creation—the best that I can do.

How I Watch It

Never was a car so watched in the making as I am watching this. The prestige of a lifetime is staked on it.

In this car we insist on utter exactness, regardless of time. Parts are ground over and over.

Steel for this car is all analyzed, so we know its exact composition. Each car gets a thousand inspections.

The margin of safety in every part is extreme. We old designers know the need for that.

I use roller bearings—Timken and Hyatt—instead of the usual ball bearings. In no part is cost considered.

The carburetor is doubly heated—with hot air and hot water—to deal with low-grade gasoline.

Unusual Beauty

The car is immensely impressive. It is long and roomy. The wheels are large, the car is over-tired. We avoid all the petty economies.

The body is finished in 17 coats. The lamps are enameled. Even the engine is nickel trimmed.

There is deep upholstering, made of genuine leather filled with hair.

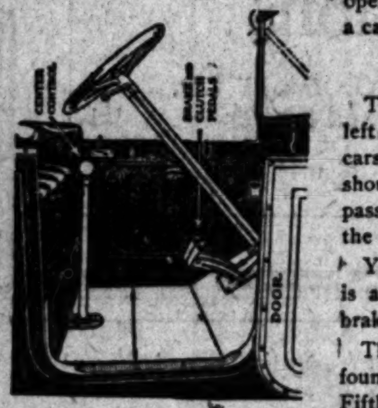
At twice the price no car could offer more comfort or more class.

The Center Control

No Side Levers

The best new feature of the year is brought out in Reo the Fifth.

It is this center control, shaped like a cane handle. All the gear shifting is done by moving this lever less than three inches in each of four directions.



There are no side levers—neither inside nor outside the door. So the entrance in front, on either side, is clear.

Both brakes are operated by foot pedals, one of which also operates the clutch. Never was a car so simple in operation.

Left Side Drive

These features permit of the left side drive, as in electric cars. The driver sits, as he should sit, close to the cars he passes and on the up side of the road.

Yet his gear shifting lever is at his right hand, and the brake pedals right before him.

This ideal arrangement is found today only in Reo the Fifth.

$1,055 Too Low

The only point which does not meet my approval is this initial price. I believe it too low to continue.

It is based on the present low cost for materials, on enormous output, on ideal conditions.

This price I regard as a passing sensation. It is subject to instant advance. Under average conditions, it would be impossible.

But Reo the Fifth will always sell lower than any other car in its class. We have a model factory, modern equipment, enormous capacity. And we have the experience.

We are not over-capitalized—have no bonded debt. And we save about 20 per cent in the making by confining our output to only one chassis.

Thus the best car I can build is being sold at this moment for $1,055.

1,000 Dealers

Reo the Fifth is shown by dealers in a thousand towns. We will tell you the nearest when you write for our book.

This book shows the various styles of bodies. It pictures every detail. It enables comparison with all other cars. It is the most popular book of the season.

New Idea.

YACHT RACES ENTIRE WEEK.

Sunset Club Has Unique Plan for Coming Season.

All Contests Will Be Pulled Off at One Time.

Lovers of Sport to Have More Time for Cruising.

BY STINSON JARVIS.

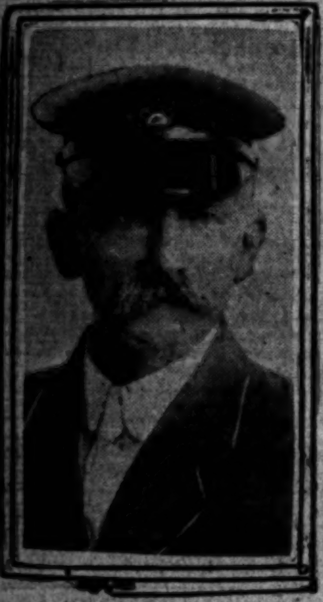
Members of the Sunset Yacht Club are looking forward to a jolly summer on the water, but they will not carry out their programme in the usual way with races during all the months from May to September. The commodore of this club, Alexander J. Mitchell, stated yesterday that a new method will be tried this season. He then explained the reasons for the new idea.

"Most of our men find it difficult to get away from their work when contests are scheduled for odd days through the season, but they all are able to take their vacations at times to be arranged beforehand," he said.

"After consultation at a general meeting, I will name one special race week, in which nearly all the chief contests of the season will be pulled off.

"Most of the crews in Sunset Yacht Club are wholly composed of amateurs and in previous years it has sometimes happened that a good boat's performance was rather damaged by her having to sail shorthanded. For the quick handling of balloon jibs and spinnakers, racers must have their regular trained crews. The new idea will allow every member to arrange to take his vacation during the race week. In this way every racing yacht will be supplied with her full crew and she will be pushed to the limit.

"Another advantage is that all the Saturday afternoons and Sundays can be used for cruising. Some men are too tired at the end of the week to tackle the strenuous work at the sheets and halliards on racing vessels, and they need the rest that the usual week-end cruises can supply. Some of these cruises will be started in fleet formation, and there will doubtless be some good pictures taken when all get away together on the one gun."



Commodore A. J. Mitchell, Commandant of the Sunset Yacht Club.

MITCHELL DONATES CUPS.

Commodore Mitchell's flagship is already in commission. This is the sixty-foot auxiliary yawl called the Yankee Girl, a most comfortable cruiser that was built at San Diego two years ago for Mr. Fred Dorr. Several alterations have been made by Mr. Mitchell, the auxiliary engine having been moved farther aft to improve the yacht's trim. On the race-days the owner generally gets down out of his stately flagship to take the stick of his racing sloop Columbine, whose record on the watery arena it too well known to require comment.

Mr. Mitchell gives handsome commodore cups every year and does everything to advance the best interests of the sport along this coast. Recently, when he attempted to resign on account of poor health the club simply wouldn't listen to him, and it looks as if the members had nailed the commodore's flag at the truck of the Yankee Girl for good and all.

FESTIVITIES GALORE.

During the race-week there will be a dinner every night at the Virginia Hotel, Long Beach which is the headquarters of the club for dinners and festivities. The races are always started in front of the big hotel, whose balconies and roofs supply a grand stand of the de luxe kind.

This club annually gives good prizes. This year the eight cups to be donated winners are valued at about $800. These include the Commodore's cup, the Virginia cup, the perpetual trophy given by a local newspaper, the club cup for ocean sailing race from San Diego to Long Beach, the club cup for motor boat race from San Diego to Long Beach, and others. All these, except one are take-home-and-keep cups, and they represent more money value in out-and-out gigt for the advancement of the sport than has been previously offered on this coast.

In last summer's contests, several races were won by Morgan Adams in his 60-footer Mah-pe. The Aeolus, of San Diego, won the hundred mile ocean race from Point Loma to the Virginia Hotel and the Vagabond, of the same city, won the motor boat contest on the same course. The motor boat Mary A. owned by the Ahrens brothers of San Pedro, captured two cups, defeating the swift little Campbell owned and run by Joe Fellows.

MILLION DOLLAR SHANTY.

The Sunset Yacht Club enjoys the satisfaction of having no debts. The members did not build a lock-house for their dunnage and light sails, and they use the Virginia as their clubhouse. There is no trouble about meals or service, because the meals are going along all the time, whether the yachtsmen appear or not, and these lucky sea dogs have the use of a million-dollar shanty that did not cost them a cent. A yachting magazine recently said editorially that this was a new scheme that was well worth imitation in a hundred localities.

The anchorages of the club fleets are in the basin near Seaside, just inside the lifting bridge of the Salt Lake railway. The entrance is lined with piers which run out far into the ocean and is dredged to admit the deepest yacht at low tide. The cars from the city run down to the locker-house, and members can be clear away to sea on their yachts within an hour after leaving their city offices.

Repair Work.

GOOD ROADS BOOST READY.

ALCO MAN GIVES SANE ADVICE ON UPKEEP OF HIGHWAYS.

Automobile Equipment, Which Will Include All the Necessary Apparatus for Road Maintenance, Is Advocated—Quick Transport of Men Is Item for Consideration.

William P. Kennedy, supervisor of the Alco transportation bureau of the American Locomotive Company, was recently appointed as an expert, by the Department of Agriculture to design something suitable as a needed equipment for the maintenance of public highways. In his report to Logan Waller Page, director of public roads, Kennedy strongly advocates the use of the motor truck for this purpose. The fact that $142,000 was spent in one year for road construction has made evident the importance of taking care of these roads.

"The object to be accomplished," says Kennedy in his report, "is the development of an automobile equipment which will include all the apparatus and facilities necessary to efficiently employ a repair gang of eight men in the maintenance of road surface over one hundred miles of roadway, or more, as the working conditions will permit.

"This equipment is to be capable of making quick transport of men and their necessary working outfits between headquarters and the various places along the road where repairs are necessary. The equipment to carry, as well as the men and apparatus, enough road repair material for a number of quick repairs in isolated places, when these are not extensive. Where extensive repairs are necessary and require much material the equipment is to be flexible enough to provide for rapid conveyance of stone or other material from a distant supply station to the place of operation."

REGAL FOR SANTA MONICA.

Anthony Ready for Light Car Race and for Speed Dashes on the Motordrome.

Roscoe Anthony expects to have his Regal "30" racer, which he will drive in the Santa Monica road race May 4, in commission by Wednesday of this week.

For the past month the young driver has been working this speeder up from a stock car taken off the Regal floor, and now has a real dangerous-looking racer to put in the light car event.

After taking the car out of the shop, Anthony will spend much time developing speed and working out over the boards of the motordrome, as well as covering the course of the great race.

The light car events are attracting more attention this year than ever before, and much interest is being shown in the little Regal.

CHALMERS TROPHY.

Committee Is Chosen to Handle Cup Which Is to Be Given to Baseball Hero in East.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of the commissioners for 1912, to act on the Chalmers Trophy Commission. The appointments were made by Ben Mulford, Jr., who has again accepted the position as chairman. All the well-known baseball experts who served on the commission last year have accepted the appointment for 1912, the single exception being Detroit, where H. G. Salsinger of the Detroit News comes as the only new member.

Hugh Chalmers says the competition of last year appeared to have been of sufficient interest among baseball fans, major league players and baseball writers to warrant the following out of the original plan to establish a baseball hall of fame. The commissioners expressed themselves as pleased to accept the reappointment for the coming season, and to serve in perpetuation of the Chalmers trophy, and in building up of the hall of fame.

Those who will be members of the commission are Harry P. Edwards of the Plain Dealer, Cleveland; John B. Foster, Evening Telegram, New York; J. C. Isaminger of the North American, Philadelphia; Tim Murnane of the Globe, Boston; J. S. Jackson of the Post, Washington; I. E. Sanborn of the Tribune, Chicago; Jack Ryder of the Enquirer, Cincinnati; M. F. Parker of the Globe-Democrat, St. Louis; C. B. Power of the Gazette-Times, Pittsburgh; Abe Yaeger of the Eagle, Brooklyn; and H. B. Salsinger of the Detroit News, Detroit. The award of 1912 will be the same as last year, two Chalmers cars, to be given to the two men, one in the National League and one in the American League, who are selected by the commission as being the most valuable man to their respective teams.

MOTOR CAR MAINTENANCE.

Large Amount of Floor Space Set Aside for Use of Automobiles—To be Operated on Percentage Basis.

The Motor Car Maintenance Company will move into its new home on East First street about May 1. The growth of this company's business has been so rapid that the concern was forced to move to larger quarters in order to take care of the business which has been worked up, mainly through the efforts of the manager, Bert Chapman.

The new quarters will be suited to the maintenance of commercial cars which the company cares for exclusively. Each vehicle will be run over a pit. There is space for eighty-four cars on the floor of the new building and the company now has a list of sixty-seven trucks and delivery wagons, which are under care.

A feature of the service is the percentage basis on which the cars will be maintained. A night service will also be featured, whereby a car will be run out in the morning after having been gone over during the night.

A daily report will be given to each owner, showing the labor, condition of the car and the driver's report. The new building of the company is of concrete and brick, with 200 feet of frontage on First street, and 120 feet deep. There is 24,000 feet of floor space.

The total production of crude rubber for the year ending June, 1910, was between 85,000 and 90,000 tons, while for 1911 it was increased to from 86,000 to 93,000 tons, most of which was used for tires.

There IS a Difference in Electrics

¶ Don't think that all electrics are the same.

¶ In outward appearance—in paint—in upholstery—in varnish—yes!

¶ But don't buy any car until you know that it is MECHANICALLY right.

¶ You CAN'T get $3000 worth ot CAR for LESS MONEY.

Most Electrics are sold to ladies.

Most Electrics are BUILT to sell to them.

Most manufacturers seem to think a woman doesn't understand the MECHANICAL construction—or CARE to know about it.

¶ So they satisfy them with paint and upholstery.

BUT—It's the MOTOR, the CONTROL, the strength of construction, the DESIGN that gives service—not the paint and whipcord –

¶ So we say to YOU—

Don't be fooled by outward appearances—get at the facts—

Study the features UNDER the car.

See what you are BUYING—what you are getting for your money—

¶ If EVERYONE knew the excellence of Rauch & Lang cars as WE do—there would be no OTHER CARS sold.

Our new exclusive Electric Service Station No. 2, in the center of the Wilshire District, will be open next week.

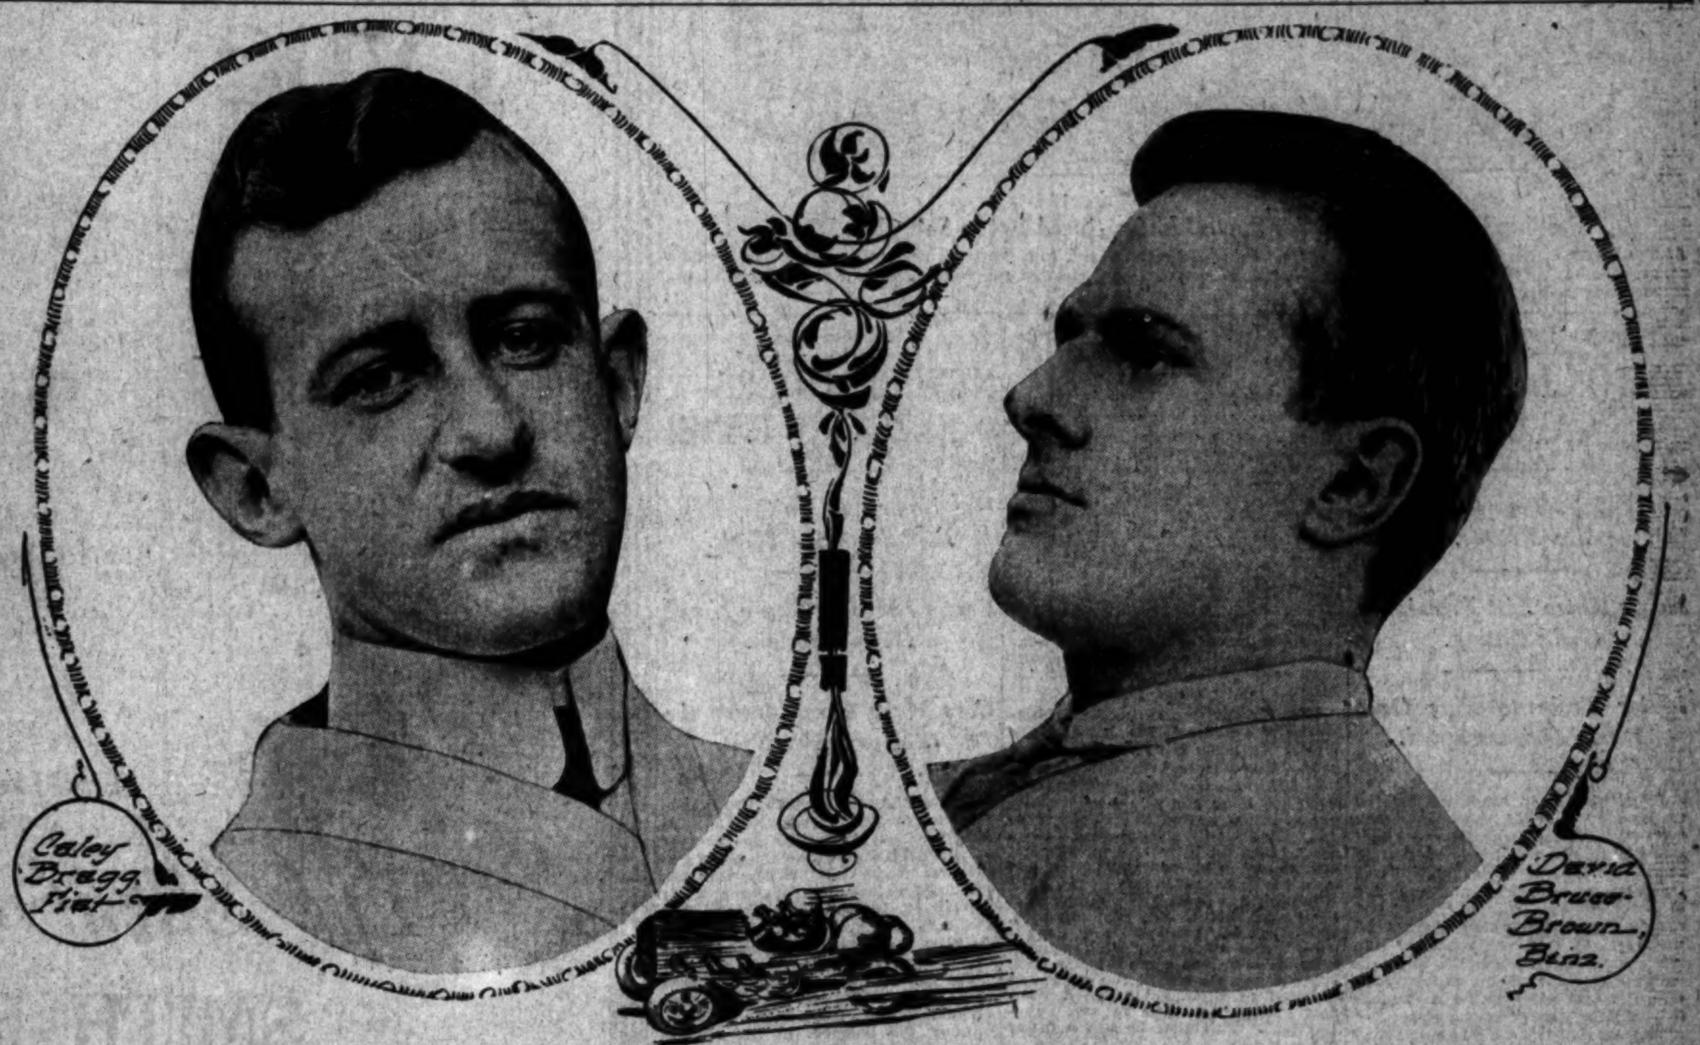
THE BEST MOTOR PILOTS IN SANTA MONICA RACE



Two of the Speed Giants Who Are Matched for World Record Breaking Road Race at Santa Monica, May 4.

David Bruce Brown, winner of the Savannah Grand Prize, and Caley Bragg, who defeated Barney Oldfield. This pair of dare-devils, the Millionaire Bragg from Pasadena and College Boy Brown from the East, are to start in a field which will include Oldfield, Ralph de Palma and Ralph Mulford, the greatest list of racing pilots ever gathered for any speedfest. Each is training for the race of his life on the fastest course on earth.

Grand Prize.

COLLEGE BOY BROWN AND CALEY BRAGG MATCHED.

Barney Oldfield Counts the Cost and Decides to Try Conclusions With Ralph de Palma on Fastest Course on Earth—World Record the Prize of This Speed Duel Between Ralph Mulford and Other Daredevils.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

CALEY BRAGG, the noblest Roman of them all, and one of the greatest motor racing pilots on earth, is to lock arms with David Bruce Brown at Santa Monica Saturday, May 4. These two champions are both mere lads, but they have had the experience of veterans.

Both are wealthy. Neither has entered the Santa Monica road race to win the $10,000 prize, but for the honor of being champion road driver of the world. They will fight harder for the big trophy than for the fat purse. Bragg has the giant Fiat and Brown the monster Benz.

Unassuming in his manner, willing to don a suit of overalls and mix with the mechanicians, Caley Bragg wins the heart of every motor enthusiast. He never boasts of anything he has ever done. When he trimmed Barney Oldfield on the Motordrome he was the first to shake hands with the former speed king, and this minute he is one of the loudest in praise of the prowess of Oldfield.

Though he has won notable victories and is in the van of all motor drivers, Bragg is a slight youth, about 135 pounds, is 25 years old, and is not robust. He has the brain of a wizard and uses his head every minute. True, he did not have the strength to crank his motor in the Savannah Grand Prize race last year, but he was in the running every second, and his wits made him a contender until Brown crossed the line in his Fiat, a winner.

Pitted against Bragg is a big college boy who would make an excellent end on the Harvard football team. He has the brain of a seer and the muscle of a Hercules. Compared with Bragg, he is a giant in stature, and in weight. He tips the scales at 186, even, when stripped to his racing togs. He has chosen a Benz, the big 200-horse-power giant, and one of the fastest cars on earth.

FIAT VS. BENZ.

When Starter Fred Wagner fires the gun that will send this pair away, the motor world will sit up and take notice. It is to be the greatest duel ever carded on any road. Never before in the history of motor racing has the public had such an opportunity to judge between two such stars.

Who will win? Honors are even when you consult the dopester. Caley has just as much right to cross the tape first as Brown. Caley has a Fiat that is the equal of any car on earth. He has the strength to drive a 300-mile race and the grit to step on the throttle just hard enough to keep in the van of all drivers.

World records are almost certain to be smashed and it is a cinch that the man who beats either Bragg or Brown will have to drive into a world record to turn the trick. No less an authority than Barney Oldfield, who will drive Eddie Maier's big Fiat, says in order to win at Santa Monica he must beat David Bruce Brown.

OLDFIELD WISE.

Barney Oldfield knows what he is up against. He is not bragging for one minute. Remember, Oldfield is not on a track. He is out on the road, and when Maier's Fiat is sent away, the "Select Kid" will have to romp some to beat either Bragg's Fiat or Brown's Benz.

Counting the cost carefully, Barney has consented to try his luck against the world's best drivers. He will go into the Santa Monica road race cognizant of the facts in the case. He knows he has no cinch

There are those who say Oldfield will win. There are many others who are sure he will lose. Oldfield is the wisest man of them all. He admits that he has no cinch and he knows this is to be a battle royal. He is not pitted against men on a mile track. He must go out against the world's foremost drivers who are trained to the pink of condition.

Now, here is the handicap. Oldfield has been out of the game for a year. Though he is in wonderful condition, he is out of training as a racer. This means much. When he jumps into the Fiat he must take things easy. If Oldfield decides to drive his head off he will lose. Here is a chance to watch how well Barney can use his head.

DE PALMA ALSO.

Ralph de Palma in a Mercedes is the fourth man of this mighty quartette who is to be pitted in the battle for world honors. He is one of the greatest drivers on earth and for the first time in the history of motor racing in the west the daredevil Italian will meet Barney Oldfield.

Think of four such men sent away to a speedfest that means a world record to the winner, a fat purse and a handsome cup! That is a prize worth striving for and, believe me, every one of those drivers will fight. De Palma knows what he is up against, but he also knows how much he stands to win if his Mercedes should cross the line a winner on Saturday, May 4.

Now, there is another man who must be reckoned with—Ralph Mulford, who won the Vanderbilt cup race in a Lozier. He will pilot a Knox this year. This car, report says, is a hummer. It is as fast, so the men in the East claim, as the Lozier which Mulford piloted to such a sensational victory. If this is true, look out for Mulford Saturday.

CLEAN MEN.

The top-notch American drivers, Ralph Mulford, David Bruce Brown, Ralph de Palma, Caleb Bragg, and, in fact, all who are in the front rank, are clean-living men of high character and intelligence. They are studious, thinking men and not the rattle-brained, reckless daredevils the press agent pictures them. What appears sometimes to the public as recklessness is a confidence due to a knowledge of the construction of the machines they are driving, a perfect judgment of distances and speed, and that rare quality, perfect poise. Nothing can "rattle" them.

An idea of the careful, painstaking character of these men may be gained by watching Mulford at his work assembling the six-cylinder Knox he has purchased for the Santa Monica race. All the cars he has ever driven he has first assembled himself—every nut, bolt and cotter pin—with the assistance of Billy Chandler, the mechanician who rides with him in every race. He subjects every strain-

MIDDLEWEIGHTS IN ROTTEN FIGHT.

FAGAN-MORROW FRACAS ONE AWFUL JOKE.

After a Rough, Tiresome, "Boob Fight" of Seven Rounds, Fagan's Seconds Throw Up the Sponge and Save the Spectators the Agony of Witnessing Any More of It.

BY HARRY CARR.

About the worst boxing match ever staged in the civilized world was that between Bert Fagan and Howard Morrow at Vernon yesterday.

It was so bad that it was almost miraculous. It was so bad that it was more creditable to have lost it than to have won it.

Bert Fagan earned that greater honor: he lost.

While it lasted the fighting tactics of both men were remarkable. Fagan kept running around the ropes like an invalid chicken looking for a hole to duck through. Occasionally, he would feebly jump at Morrow. Being some distance from the ringside, I can not state positively whether or not he said, "Boo" when he jumped; but I hope that he added that one touch of ferocity.

When he thus leaped, Mr. Morrow sometimes pounded him rudely on the gloves, the elbows, the top of the head or some other convenient place.

Finally the audience, which consisted of a disgusted handful of people, booed itself hoarse, and Fagan's seconds threw a towel into the ring.

I guess that Uncle Tom McCarey, searching for a middleweight champion, is on a hopeless hunt. In the words of the poet, "there ain't no sich a thing." Happily, Uncle Tom has better things in store for us.

Fagan is one appalling joke, as for Morrow, by consulting a time card, he will discover that there are eight or ten perfectly good trains leaving for the East every day. If he will only take one of them, we might learn to forget this in time.

Mr. Van Court, our war correspondent at the ringside, still has the strength and courage to add a few sad words on the details of the fight.

Van's Candor.

BATTLING CHICO ALONE HAD CLASS.

MORROW AND FAGAN INSULT TO REFEREES.

Preliminaries Showed the Yellow in Three Quitters—Fagan Made a Wretched Showing and Morrow Wasn't Much Better—It was a Rotten Slugging Match.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

Battling Chico, the little Mexican sparring partner of Joe Rivers, won two decisions out at the Vernon Arena yesterday afternoon. Chico should be hailed as the champion of the middleweight class. This little Mexican showed more class, in knowledge, hitting and experience in the fighting game than all the contestants that appeared at Vernon. I felt sorry for Charlie Eyton and

FRANK CHANCE HAS PLAYED LAST GAME.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CINCINNATI, April 13.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frank Chance played his last game as a regular Cub today against Cincinnati. He would not have played today if there had been a game, but intended to try out Heine Zimmerman on first base and will do so Monday, in St. Louis.

It is not likely the manager will appear in a game again except in a desperate emergency. This decision was reached this morning after a conference between Chance and President Murphy, during which the manager told the magnate that the old trouble with his head was bothering him again almost as much as last season.

President Murphy advised Chance to immediately quit active playing and to manage the Cubs from the bench until he felt better. That was the solution reached, but everybody concerned, including Chance, believes his active career on the diamond is ended after twelve years of brilliant and honorable connection with the game as a great player.

President Murphy agreed with the manager and declared Chance's services to the team were too valuable to be jeopardized by continuing in the game at the probable cost of quick and serious results.

This explains the practice Zimmerman has been getting on first base lately.

OXY TIGERS BEAT U.S.C. BALL TEAM.

BONE-HEAD PLAYS CAME AT CRITICAL MOMENTS.

Absence of Tony Foss, Captain, Proved a Severe Handicap to the Hapless Trojans—Some Awful Baseball Told the Rest of the Story.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

The Oxy Tigers celebrated the opening of the Southern Intercollegiate baseball season yesterday afternoon at Baer Park by mauling the U.S.C. Trojans all over the lot and then some, the final score was 4 to 3, but the University was badly beaten at that.

The whole story can be summed up in the statement that U.S.C. went "Hog Wild" on the bases and in the field, piling up bone head plays that were very costly at critical times. On the other hand the Tigers played Fine Fielding by Carlisle and Hosp Is Feature.

BY GREY OLIVER.

Vernon, 6; Los Angeles, 2.

Tit for tat.

Angels beat Vernon the first day and Vernon beat the Angels the second game.

Nothing to it yesterday. No use trying to beat Gray. Might not be able to win many games with Washington, but he made the Angels look like 2 cents in what might be called a dumb game. Looked rather dumb compared to what they had the day before, for there was none of that three-hour-and-more stuff. All the folks seemed tired.

Only thing novel was the appearance of Joe Berger at short, and he is there. Real live one. Thows funny to first, but he gets the ball there before the runner, and that's all he's hired to do. Couldn't do much in the hitting line, for when he did manage to slap Dolly on the wrist he couldn't get the ball by Brashear.

Pretty good for a strange man to get off the train one day and get into a real game the next, but Berger did it, and he will probably be a fixture at short.

All of them were weak on the swats, for both Gray and Tozer heaved fairly good ball. Dolly allowed but four scattered hits in the first seven innings, and then in the eighth was touched for three and made a wild pitch. That's when the locals got their two runs.

Tozer had a bad time in both the fourth and sixth, but he appeared to be in for a beating and couldn't get away from it.

All the fans seemed to feel it in the air that the Tigers would win, and no one was surprised when they picked off two runs in the fourth inning. With two out, Burrell, Brown and Gray singled in succession, and Burrell and Brown scored.

Burrell opened the sixth with a bouncing infield single that he beat to first and advanced when Reams juggled Brown's grounder. A moment later Tozer tried to catch Burrell off second, but made a wild heave and Len dashed to third and scored when Carlisle hit to left. A scratch single by Bayless put Brown on third and all three runners scored when Patterson doubled to the center fence over Daley's head. That was all.

Daley flew to center in the eighth and then Berger beat out an infield bounce to Gray. Dolly made a wild heave of this to Patterson and Berger ran on to second. Heitmuller's fielder's choice caught him between second and third and then Laird walked. Singles by Metzger and Driscoll scored Heitmuller and Laird.

Beautiful fielding by Hosp, Brashear and Burrell was the feature of the game and one of the best things was Carlisle's fine running catch of Bolas's foul far back of third base.

Metzger was the real thing in the

AUTO CLUB RUN CALLS MANY.

Three Days' Tour to Lakeside and Return.

Large Entry List Promises a Great Outing.

Motor Train to Pass Over Route Uninterrupted.

Everything is in readiness for the three days' tour of the Automobile Club of Southern California to Lakeside and return, which will start from the club headquarters at Eighth and Olive streets, tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

At a late hour Friday night word was received that the roads of the route were in fair condition, and notwithstanding the recent heavy rains, the run promises to be a banner event in the history of the club.

Secretary S. C. Geary has arranged with the officials of the various towns along the route to allow the motor train to pass through uninterrupted at a speed of twenty miles an hour.

It is expected that the motorists will arrive in San Diego late in the afternoon, and the evening will be spent at the Hotel del Coronado, where reservations have been made for the entire party.

A stop will be made at Del Mar, on the way down, where the manager of the Stratford Inn will serve a luncheon. At this point, members of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce will meet the local club members and escort them into the southern city.

The run to Lakeside will be made the following morning and the return will be over the inland route.

The following members will make the run:

C. W. Brashear and five, H. A. Orrison and five, E. L. Alpaugh and four, F. E. Yerxa and four, S. L. Briggs and six, E. R. Osborn and four, E. E. Henderson and four, Ed R. Arnasisteen and four, B. G. ABOUT GOOD ROADS.

R. F. Yoakum, chairman of the San Francisco Executive Committee and Board, has made arrangements with the office of public roads of United States Department of Agriculture to send a good roads special train over the entire 'Frisco system. It will require four especially equipped cars to carry this unusual exhibit. There will be exhibited models of every type of road construction, from the sand-clay and gravel roads to the most expensive type of bituminous-macadam; also miniature road machinery and rock quarries in operation, as well as the most improved types of bridges and culverts, in construction.

BROWN AND BRAGG MATCHED.

taking part to most severe tests, scrapes in the bearings of his engine, makes the adjustment of carburetor and magneto to his satisfaction, and then seals them so they cannot be changed. When he enters a race he knows every part of his car is in its place because he has put it there. He starts with the confidence born of knowledge of his work. As Chandler puts it: "After Ralph and I get through with the assembling and put our O. K. on the car we drive, I feel as safe riding at ninety miles an hour in a race as I do driving in Central Park well within the speed limit."

OUR OWN MEN.

Now for our own men. Bert Dingley on a Simplex is the hope of the West. He looks good and is making good. His car is here and, though Bert has not succeeded in getting 120 miles an hour out of the racer, the Simplex has moved fast enough to win. The car can average seventy-eight miles an hour and that is fast enough to win, provided Bert can keep the machine in the going.

Dingley has figured as a racing pilot for years. He is still a young man. Hard luck has perched on his standards many times, but this year it looks as if he can come into his own. Dingley has the nerve, the sense and the grit to win. He made a wonderful race last year in the Pope-Hartford. This year he has a faster car.

Teddy Tetzlaff in the Fiat is a man we must watch and watch carefully. His experience in the last Santa Monica road race, where he threw away his chance for first place, has made him a wise young owl. He is spending every minute on his car. Teddy says little. He realizes what driver's luck means and is practicing.

BUICK THERE.

He will not go into the race certain of victory, but he will start with the realization that he is up against the world's best. He has counted the cost and any man who does that must be reckoned with as a possible place man. Let Tetzlaff alone to figure out his own race and it would not surprise me to see him romp home with a world record tucked snugly under his Fiat sweater. He knows what he is going after and he is ready to take a desperate chance to win first honors.

Now, the light-car race will be a great contest. The two Buicks have been entered and this week it is expected that a score of other cars will come into the lists. Louis Nikrent has chosen the midget Buick. He has averaged seventy miles an hour with this little machine. Look out for the Buick in the Santa Monica road race, which starts Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

TRUCK MAN ON LONG TOUR.

Plans to Visit Many Eastern Cities in Interest of Commercial Car Business.

Gleeson Murphy, vice-president of the General Motor Truck Company of Detroit, has been making a tour of the larger eastern cities that he might hold important conferences with the different eastern selling representatives of his firm. He is beginning an educational campaign for the benefit of every salesman and manager connected with the organization. His idea is to have each one fully acquainted with the responsibility, permanency, and manufacturing scope of the General Motor Company, and he will give a series of talks at each place visited.

After Murphy has completed his round of visits he will be followed by expert engineers in both gasoline and electric field, who will discuss this subject and give such technical information as will enable the salesmen not only to become more proficient in talking the various models made, but will give him a better understanding of transportation problems as they effect individual companies.

The Service system will also be discussed and the engineering corps will be followed by representatives of the sales department and other business authorities, who will discuss branch management and salesmanship. This series of talk will enable the men to better understand the different branches of the business as well as place the General Motor Company agents in a position to talk of transportation problems intelligently.

MOTOR FIRE FORCE.

The first real step toward motorizing the entire fire and police forces of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been taken. The director of the Department of Public Safety has prepared advertisements for bids on six combination chemical and hose trucks, five motor patrols, one tractor for a fire engine and two motor roadsters for the use of the superintendent and the assistant superintendent of police. It is said that within four months the apparatus will have been secured and placed in use.

Factory Men to Give a Novel Demonstration.

Cars Make Good Across the Waters in Far East.

One of the new arrivals, the Flanders electric, is attracting considerable attention. It was shown on the floor of the Lord Motor Car Company for the first time last week, and the colonial type was greatly admired. It is claimed by H. A. Stevenson, the Flanders factory representative, that the electrics will give eighty-five miles to a charge.

Stevenson is in town after a week spent with the Flanders agency in San Francisco, and is optimistic over the outlook for business in the electric vehicle line in Los Angeles. San Francisco automobile circles have been stirred the past week, said Stevenson, by the sensational hill-climbing performance of the Flanders electric in climbing the steep grade known as "Fillmore Hill." Fillmore street is so steep that cables have to be used for pulling the street cars to the top of it as it is too steep for trolley cars. It is a hill that the powerful gasoline cars have to "open up and beat it" to get over in second gear. The Flanders electric floats up Fillmore Hill with the silence of a ghost.

An interesting exhibit in the shape of a Flanders "cut-away chassis," is on its way, showing the rear axle and entire rear construction, cut open, exposing in plain view the new Flanders motor, connected direct to the rear axle, and showing the famous "worm gear drive" in action. This exhibit is promised for Los Angeles in the near future.

FAST WORK.

One evening last week, while J. A. Darling was delivering a lecture on the construction, operation and maintenance of the Flanders electric to a class of salesmen in the office of the Lord Motor Car Company, the meeting was slightly interrupted by the arrival of a party of visitors to see the Flanders electric out in the showroom. "I excused one of the lads," said Stevenson, "to go and wait on the visitors and show them around. In about five minutes the visitors had departed and a check with a signed order was laid on the table. 'Did you sell something I asked?' 'No, sir, they just bought it—that Flanders electric blue broadcloth job on the floor.'."

C. Piquette Mitchell, manager of the foreign department of the Flanders Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of the Flanders electric, has recently shipped demonstrating cars to their three latest places where dealers have been appointed. They are Palestine, the Holy Land; St. Petersburg, Russia, and Christ Church, New Zealand. Mitchell states that he expects a large business from these new territories

ACROSS THE SEA.

According to the foreign-department manager, they are doing a splendid business in electrics with two countries that have not taken to American-made gasoline cars. These are Germany and France. While several European countries are large buyers in American cars, Germany and France have stayed in the background.

The Flanders electric, Colonial, made a strong appeal to European taste and is popular there. It is acknowledged abroad that America leads in all branches of electric development and in electric vehicles we are admitted to be in advance of all other countries. In several of the German cities gasoline cars are not allowed on the streets on account of the noise and smoke, and the electric with its silence and freedom from smoke and oil is rapidly growing in demand.

Another feature of the Flanders electric that appeals to the European trade is the worm drive. While we were the first to adopt that form of transmission in this country, it has been much in favor abroad for a number of years. Its absolute silence and other advantages over chains and gears are rapidly becoming more appreciated here at home.

If none of the special devices are obtainable a method which is commonly adopted is the well-known one of screwing another nut tight against the first nut, so that the arrangement locks one nut against the other.

Poppet-Valve
Motor Faces the Setting Sun

The Knight-type engine is the coming type. The evidence is overwhelming.

Its only critics are the makers of poppet valves. And they know that all of their arguments can never long stem this invasion.

When a man once rides in a Stearns-Knight car, over all sorts of roads, no poppet-valve motor can ever meet his requirements.

When a man once feels this luxury of motion, the old types are ended for him.

Each Stearns-Knight owner is winning new converts. Wherever he goes men marvel at his car.

This is going on in every section of the world. And the time is fast coming when men won't buy a high-grade car with a lesser engine in it.

When the best cars in the world discard poppet-valve motors, others must come into line.

When ten thousand owners find delight in their Knight-types, thousands of others will soon find it out.

Every great maker sees the writing on the wall.

Look into this matter when you buy a car for a long-time investment. Ask yourself this question:

Shall I be among the first with the new type or among the last with the old?

Peerless 1913

Peerless Motor Cars for 1913 are ready for immediate delivery. By this earlier production of the new models, purchasers are afforded a full season's enjoyment of the highest expression of motor car ideals.

Three Sixes

There are three six-cylinder sizes to meet requirements for moderate, intermediate or high power.

"38-Six" "48-Six" "60-Six"

Each motor possesses all "Six" characteristics and advantages in the degree that has made Peerless Motor Cars famous.

Long Stroke Motors

The stroke in the smooth-running, vibrationless Peerless motors is unusually long. In the "48-Six," for instance, the stroke is ½ inch longer than in any other American "Six" of similar rating. Peerless motors, therefore, possess to an unusual degree the long stroke advantages—flexibility, greater power and smoother action at low speeds.

Cylinder dimensions: "38-Six", 4" x5½"
"48-Six", 4½"x6"
"60-Six", 5" x7"

Peerless Bodies

The Peerless 1913 bodies are unequalled in beauty. The lines are straight or gently curving; and free, clean exterior surfaces permit the finest effects in painting. Extra tires are carried below the line of the parapet and chair seats in the tonneau fold out of sight. The closed top, snugly held, continues the gradual elevation of the parapet at the rear. Seats of unusual width afford the greatest roominess and comfort for the passengers.

Dynamo Lighting System

A factor in the unapproached completeness of Peerless Motor Cars is the Dynamo Electric Lighting System. It is installed on every car as a part of the standard equipment.

Heat Treated Steels

Right selection of steels and proper heat treatment of them, increase the strength and durability of a motor car, add to economy of maintenance, and enhance the security of the passenger. The Peerless heat-treating department maintains a distinct leadership in this new and important phase of motor car building.

Easy Riding Qualities

In the Peerless Motor Car you can ride all day without fatigue. The wheelbase of the 1913 Peerless is unusually long. This, and a proper distribution of car weight and load, minimize the effect of road inequalities.

YOUNG TAKES HELM FOR THOMAS COMPANY ON COAST

A. M. YOUNG, manager of the Santa Monica road race, has come into his own. After a fight, which has been waged for two years against odds, the man who handled the big race so successfully last year has accepted the position as head of the Thomas branch, and will be in full charge of the Thomas Motor Car Company of California.

The position means that Young's operations will embrace the entire Coast. He has opened headquarters in the handsome home which formerly housed the Locomobile at Eleventh and Hope streets. Here is to be established a distributing point for the high-grade cars, and Young, after the Santa Monica road race, will divide his time between this city and San Francisco.

Following the visit of F. R. Humpage, president and general manager of the Thomas Motor Car Company, Young accepted the position which places him in active charge of Thomas operations on the Pacific Coast. This is not an easy job. It demands every minute of his time, and he already has selected the force with which he expects to do real work.

"It has long been my desire to represent a high-grade car," said Young yesterday. "Now I have the opportunity to show what I am worth, and I am going to the bat right. If I fail it will be my fault, as I have taken the full responsibility for directing the operations of the Thomas factory in the West. There is enough for us to do here. We must find just how to do things right.

"Every attention possible will be given to Thomas owners. My aim is to be to establish a clientage of satisfied owners, and the Thomas service will be strictly high grade. Now is the time to get into action right. We have lost many opportunities, but it is not too late to change for the best.

"Our new quarters suit me. We have room to operate. The salesroom floor is one of the best in the city and our offices are right. We have a chance to meet the Thomas patrons and to treat them as they should be treated. We will welcome all complaints, if there are any, and agree to give a hearing to every man who has a kick coming. Let us just get into action right and there will be no kicks of any kind."

The salesforce of the Thomas branch has been organized, and L. A. Pratt is to be salesmanager. The garage and repair shop is to be equipped with the latest down-to-date machinery, and William M. Lloyd will be superintendent of the service department.

machine is still in active service at the present time at the Arbon plant. It was first used to carry embroidery machines over the Alps in 1894. This means that the truck had seventeen years of hard service and has easily endured the knocks and strains of continuous service during these years in a way that proves the depreciation factor of 15 per cent., which most users of trucks figure, is very much exaggerated. It is said that the original Saurer is in a condition to carry loads over the steep mountain grades as ably as when it was first manufactured.

The same company claims that the Mack truck, built in Brooklyn in 1900 at the original plant by Mack Brothers Motor Car Company, and being a sight-seeing machine built for Isaac, Brooklyn, and used by him in Prospect Park, has passed through a number of user's hands, and for several years was used as a passenger-carrying vehicle in some of the larger eastern cities. About four years ago this same bus sold to a firm in Tuscon, Ariz., and was converted into a freight-carrying machine. After seeing twelve years of actual service it is still in active commission. The International Motor Company claims that a number of Mack trucks manufactured in the first years of the present century can be seen in operation in New York City, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other large cities in the East.

BIG TRUCK ORDER.

C. W. Stream, coast representative International Harvester Company, is with the local branch factory in a line of International Harvester Company trucks. Mr. Stream has placed twenty-two car loads of these trucks on the Pacific Coast since February 14.

Automobile dealers of Davenport, Rock Island and Moline have organized a Tri-City Association.

KISSEL KAR, ON OCEAN TO OCEAN TRIP, LEAVES YUMA.

EMIL ROGASNER of Hollywood, an enthusiastic automobilist and incidentally a Kissel Kar owner, is on his way to New York in the Kissel "50" touring car with a party of friends.

Word was received yesterday that the party had left Yuma and the car was in perfect condition. Rogasner went fully equipped for desert travel.

On the first stretch of the journey, some bad roads were encountered and several times it was necessary for the overland touring party to build mats of logs in order to get over bogs, but the car always made good and the party arrived at Brawley on schedule time.

After covering Arizona and stopping in several New Mexico cities, where the owner of the car and one of his companions have business interests, the route will be followed to New York.

When the Kissel Kar enthusiast first spoke of making an ocean-to-ocean tour, his friends thought it a joke, but when word was received from the party in Arizona, it was understood that he meant to go through.

Longest Tour.

HORNED TOAD BRAVES DESERT.

Ford Conquers the Sands of Arizona.

Graves Near Death on Ties Over Raging Gila.

Ford Man Rescues Little Lambs in Wilderness.

B. L. Graves, manager for the local Ford branch, is back from the longest tour in which a Ford has ever figured in the West. He has completed a run of 2200 miles, which took him through the larger cities and some of the smaller ones in Arizona. He crossed the Gila River on the railroad ties and drove to Prescott through a blinding snow storm.

Undismayed by the obstacles which confronted him Graves jumped into the little "Horned Toad" and started over the roads where many a man would have given up in despair. The car looked just as good when the trip was over as it did before he started from the local Ford salesroom.

Averaging 130 miles a day for the entire seventeen days of this trip Graves established a record for the little twenty-horse-power car. He reached Phoenix soon after the pathfinding car, sent out to route the course for The Times car, and he says the entire city is ready to give The Times ocean-to-ocean pilot the right kind of a greeting.

From Los Angeles Graves drove to San Diego and then through the Devil's Canyon to El Centro. From El Centro he was forced to cross the boundary line into Mexico. He followed the route of the last Phoenix road race. He reached Yuma, where he spent some time with the Ford agent, and then left for Phoenix.

From Phoenix Graves drove to Tucson and thence to Nogales. He reached the borderland and then returned to Tucson. His next stop was at Douglas. Then he drove northward again to Wilcox. He found the roads in only fair condition as far as Solomonville. He has an excellent idea of road conditions in Arizona.

From Solomonville he drove to the San Carlos reservation. There he spent some time with the Indians, but incidentally the tour was almost finished at this point. The roads were fierce. The Gila River was running bank full. Graves was in a dilemma. He must cross to the San Carlos Indian reservation or tour back about 300 miles.

ON THE TIES.

Bill Pratt, the mechanician on the trip, was told to take his bearing. Bill came back with the unwelcome news that the only way to cross the river was on the narrow strip of railroad ties. Graves was equal to the occasion. He started the little Ford over the sleepers, but found that in the middle of the stream they were several feet apart. He was forced to shut off the motor.

In the middle of the bridge, with the surging Gila River below him, and with the prospect of a train dashing him into the stream any minute, Graves and Pratt lugged at that little car and finally snaked it across the river. The train came just after Graves reached the Indian camp. There was no way to flag the train and it would have dashed him to almost certain death if it had struck him while the car was on the long bridge.

After leaving San Carlos Graves drove to Globe and thence to the Roosevelt Dam where the spectacular part of the trip was commenced. He camped one night beneath the mighty rock pile where so many acres of water are impounded. Then he drove to Mesa and back to Phoenix.

ALMOST FROZEN.

From Phoenix Graves took an entirely new course and sent the Ford up to Prescott through the Copper Basin. Here he was given a warm reception in spite of the fact that he had driven through a snow storm, the fiercest in years. One of the funny stunts of this trip came on the run across the grade 8000 feet in the air. Bill Pratt thought he was frozen to death.

The trousers of the intrepid mechician became frozen stiff. With a yell that would have made a Comache Indian blush, Bill leaped to the motor, started the engine and climbed on the radiator. No more shoveling for Bill. He stayed on the hood until Graves had shoveled the snow away in order to make it possible to reach Prescott.

LITTLE LAMBS.

From Prescott Graves drove to Seligman where he discovered a herd of wild antelope. Then he sent the car through to Kingman and the Needles. Then he crossed the line into California and passed through Barstow to the El Cajon Pass, into San Fernando and home again.

His trip marks an epoch in the small car annals. The Ford was driven places where it was thought a 20-horse-power car could not be sent. The "Horned Toad" made good every minute. Graves has a map of the trip and interesting data for those who are contemplating a tour through Arizona.

One of the incidents of the trip came when Graves discovered two little lambs bleating by the roadside. They had been deserted by the shepherds who were driving a large flock of sheep to one of the ranges. Graves picked up the lambs and carried them forty-two miles to the nearest ranch, where they were cared for.

Across the Water.

DON LEE OFF FOR LONDON TOWN ON SHORT VACATION

DON LEE, the popular Cadillac agent for California, will be in London today, and tomorrow the California motor dealer will be treading the boulevards of Paris.

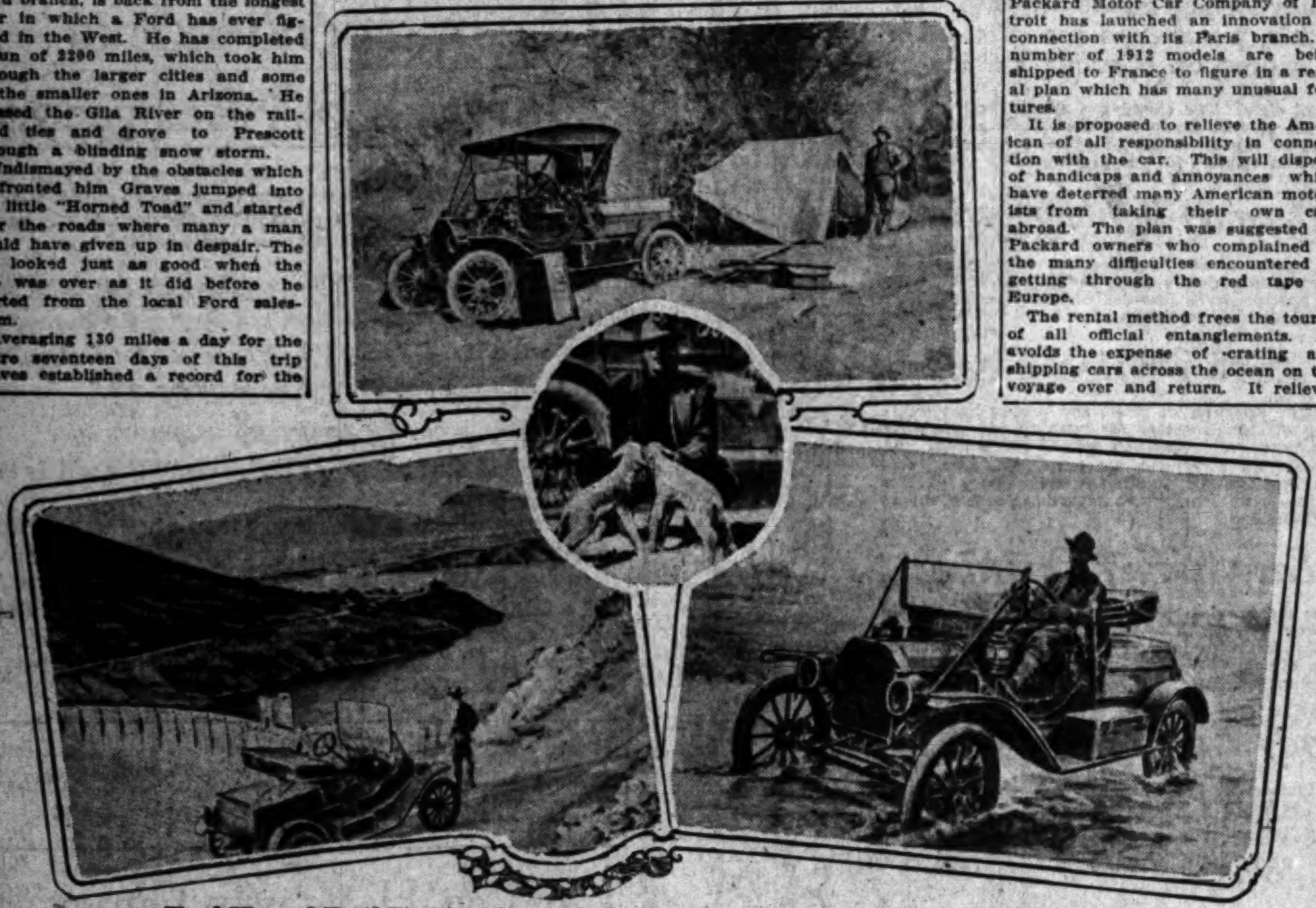
This announcement will come as a big surprise to Lee's many friends, who saw him riding about the city such a short time ago.

Lee went from here to the factory in Detroit, and after spending a week there, went to New York. There a lengthy report of Cadillac business during the past two weeks was sent to Lee, and when he learned that the additional allotment of 150 cars given to California would soon be snapped up he decided to take a vacation, which he will not have another chance to take for another year.

The Cadillac agent has left his branches in capable hands, and as the trip will be a flying one, he will be back in Los Angeles during the early part of May.

Lee will study motor conditions abroad, and will visit the large Cadillac branch in London. The Cadillac is almost as popular in England as it is in California.

Lee wants to see Paris, and will hurry to the French capital. He is accompanied by Mrs. Lee, and their son, Tommy. They will undoubtedly do all the motoring their short stay will permit.



Ford Horned Toad Bucking the Highways and Byways of Arizona on its New State Tour.

Above is the camp established by B. L. Graves of the local Ford branch, who drove the twenty-horse-power car over 2200 miles. On the right is Graves in the Gila River. In the center two little lambs found by Graves on the desert, and on the left the Ford has just reached the Roosevelt Dam, where Graves and his mechanician, Bill Pratt, camped for one night beneath the big buttress where such a large volume of water is impounded.

Here's a Plan.

KING DRAG FOR REPAIR WORK.

HIGHWAYS COULD BE WHIPPED INTO SHAPE IN SHORT ORDER.

Suggestions for Active Campaign for Roads of Southland Made by Man Who Knows Many Things Concerning Problems Which Interest Those Who Favor Good Roads.

Judge J. T. Ronald, president of the Pacific Highway Association, is among the good roads enthusiasts who are in favor of the use of the King drag for temporary improvement of dirt highways. He has spent a great deal of time investigating highway improvement, not only in this country, but in foreign countries also. His recommendations are, therefore, entitled to some consideration. In many instances, throughout Eastern States, groups of three or four farmers have constructed a drag and use it in front of their farms. It can be used on several miles of road.

"While we have a great many more road materials in the Pacific Coast States than in the Middle West States, there is no reason why the King drag should not be used as effectively as it has been in such States as Iowa, where the cost of proper road material is prohibitive and some sort of plan had to be devised to utilize material on hand," said Judge Ronald. "The Central West States have by continual dragging built up a system of excellent roads at practically no cost at all.

"The dragging should be done immediately after a light rain. These drags can be constructed simply. The Federal Bureau of Public Roads, under the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture, will supply any one with complete specifications for building one of these drags. The cost of construction, including labor, will not exceed seven or eight dollars and in many cases can be done for half that sum."

CADILLAC ON THE MOVE.

Diamond Rubber Company Former Quarters to be New Home of the Stylish Cars.

Tomorrow will be moving day at the Don Lee company. The sales and office force will move from No. 1220 South Main, the present home of the Cadillac, to the building formerly occupied by the Diamond Rubber Company on the opposite side of the street and in the same block.

The new place will be used for the display of new cars and in the rear will be the used car department. The old building which has been the home of the Cadillac for so many years will be used as a garage and service building.

This move is only temporary until plans can be completed for a new Cadillac building. Don Lee's forces have been badly cramped in the one building and it was absolutely necessary that additional room be secured.

PACKARD HAS NOVEL PLAN.

Nineteen-Twelve Cars to Be Shipped to Europe.

There to Be Used for Convenience of Tourists.

Original Packard Is Still Humming Peacefully.

To stimulate European touring the Packard Motor Car Company of Detroit has launched an innovation in connection with its Paris branch. A number of 1912 models are being shipped to France to figure in a rental plan which has many unusual features.

It is proposed to relieve the American of all responsibility in connection with the car. This will dispose of handicaps and annoyances which have deterred many American motorists from taking their own cars abroad. The plan was suggested by Packard owners who complained of the many difficulties encountered in getting through the red tape of Europe.

The rental method frees the tourist of all official entanglements. It avoids the expense of crating and shipping cars across the ocean on the voyage over and return. It relieves the traveler of the necessity of making customs arrangements at the port of entry and at every frontier. The indemnity insurance is provided for, and the marine risk is eliminated. Driver's licenses are arranged for in all countries included in the itinerary. The Paris branch furnishes gasoline and oil and assumes all responsibility for repair parts and tires.

The most attractive routes are mapped out and then the tourists follow their own inclinations. Hotel accommodations are arranged in advance. In short, the traveler gets the benefit of an experienced organization which has made a study of eliminating all difficulties and annoyances in connection with motoring abroad.

OLD PACKARD.

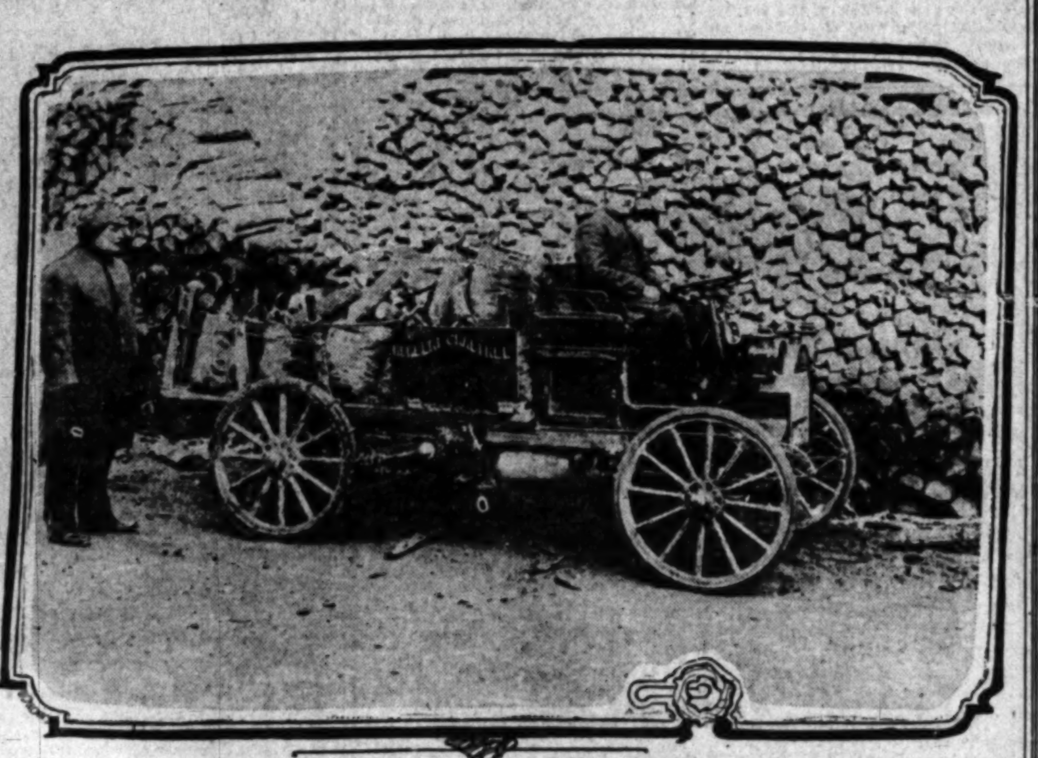
The Packard Motor Car Company announces C. E. Morton as the traveling representative of its sales department, with headquarters at the factory. He will devote much of his time to southern territory.

On the last day of March the Packard Company shipped twenty-seven motor carriages and twenty-three trucks. The value of the day's shipments was about $200,000.

With several months of the 1912 season still to run, the Packard Motor Car Company has closed out its line of "six" runabouts, "thirty" phaetons, coupes of all sizes, "six" and "thirty" limousines and landaulets. A limited number of "isx" touring cars and phaetons, "thirty" runabouts, and touring cars, and "eighteen" open cars remain to be sold.

The original Packard car, the first motor vehicle built by J. W. Packard at Warren, O., has been placed in the reception-room of the Detroit factory alongside a 1912 phaeton which was exhibited at various shows during the past winter.

The New York Motor Truck Club has made arrangements to accommodate 500 vehicles at its annual motor-truck parade, on April 13. Last year 300 were in line, and the day was rainy.



Reo Truck Loaded to Capacity and Ready for a Hard Pull Up Any Hill.

This is the low-priced commercial runabout which is making such a hit with the merchants in Los Angeles and Southern California because of its staying powers. Herbert Crabtree is at the wheel of the truck, which he says does not owe him a cent after more than six months' use. The Reo, he says, has paid for itself.

—We don't believe any man can give away $20 gold pieces for $15 every day in the year—honestly.

—We're not running a Tailoring Department or an advertising department to do acrobatic stunts with prices. We will permit no "flim flam," "folderol," or "flubdub."

—Just $25 suits for $25, $35 suits for $35, $45 suits for $45. And so on, "dollar for dollar" values—and—

"The Satisfaction of Our Customers"
—that's it, we want to sell you your Summer Suit—but we would rather not sell you than not satisfy you.

"Look Before You Leap"

—Why not visit the Third Floor and let us show you these Dollar for Dollar Suits we are making?

—Monday will not be a bit too early—

—It will pay you to see these $25 suits for $25, we've been talking so much about.

—They're worth talking about, because they're worth wearing and because men are buying them.

—The value in them can be seen just as plainly as Bullock's electric sign can be seen from Bullock's Roof Garden.

—They're worth $25—maybe some would say they were worth more than $25—but we're not saying it.

—We're building a Tailoring Department on the Third Floor that men can depend upon.

—We're making just as good suits as we can make to sell at the prices we ask for them.

[You can delay too long in buying that Summer Suit. This is just a reminder.]

THIRD SOLID TRAIN-LOAD OF BUICKS ARRIVES TO-MORROW

Has amused and deceived the American public for years—And the idle and misleading PAPER estimates of a year's business advanced by some of our envious competitors to offset the impression made by the vast volume of BUICK business, can very properly be classed among such stunts as pulling a rabbit from the hat of the gentleman in the first row. We can't blame them for attempting to steal BUICK thunder, because it is a foregone conclusion that the California public is going to ask WHY it is necessary to supply the demand for BUICK cars in trainload shipments.

GEESE BAGGED FROM CLOUDS.

Harris Oil Man Gets Limit and Then Some.

Loads Four Hundred Pounds of Birds in Peerless.

Hunting on the Sacramento River Is Thrilling.

Shooting honkers on the fly, with a Peerless limousine to carry home the game, was the experience of L. L. Lockhart, of the firm of Chanslor & Lyon, who has just returned from Sacramento. A bag of 110 big geese was secured during the shoot and every bird was killed on the fly. The game weighed over 400 pounds and the big white geese proved excellent eating.

A. W. Harris, of the Harris Oil Company, was the man who also enjoyed the fun and his son, 16 years old, went with him. The decoys were wild geese. The birds were turned loose in a wire enclosure and with wings clipped swam gracefully around in the water while the hunters waited in the blinds forthe wild birds, which were flying in clouds overhead.

According to Lockhart the sport was most exciting. The big geese would whirl above their heads and then sail down toward the water only to be bagged by the eager men with the guns who shot them in scores. One young woman of the party shot five geese and Jack Harris bagged twelve. He had such an enjoyable time that he decided to have three of the birds mounted as a memento of his trip.

PEERLESS LOADED.

The hunters reached the ranch house at about 2:30 o'clock and preparations were made for the hunt. The live geese, to the number of 158, were selected and loaded into wagons. Then the Peerless limousine was driven down to the duc kponds and the rifles were unlimbered and made ready for the slaughter.

Thousands of birds circled above the party. The air seemed alive with the game. Then the decoys were turned loose and the hunters soon lost themselves in the blinds and the fun commenced. It was an exciting afternoon for the men and equally exciting for the young woman and the boy.

The geese flopped down into the water in large numbers. It proved one of the greatest hunts of the season. The chicken-wire pens in which the wild decoys were turned loose were soon plentifully sprinkled with the birds which had been shot out of the clouds.

The hunt was enjoyed eight miles from Rio Vista, a town on the Sacramento River. Harris told his friends that he had shot curlew and sand peeps back in Rhode Island, but this hunt proved the experience of his life. He was most eloquent in his talk of the game preserves and would be willing to enjoy another such outing.

NIMROD LYON.

When Phil Lyon, of the Chanslor & Lyon Company, heard ofthe fun the Harris oil man had enjoyed he was ready to pack his grip and leave for the northland at once. If there is anything Phil likes better than hunting ducks it is to hunt geese.

Now Lyon is somewhat of a hunter himself. He has been out in the club preserves every year and has secured many limits. The story of the hunt for the wild geese proved a hummer the sound of which was most pleasing to Lyon, who says he can shoot twice as well as his partner, Waller Chanslor, who has become such a strong booster for the ocean-to-ocean highway.

NEW NATIONA STIR AMONG

THE first of the new National models to reach the Pacific Coast are due to be unloaded this morning, and Manager Earle Y. Boothe expects to have them on display in the salesroom throughout the day and all next week.

The new cars were reported within a short distance of Los Angeles yesterday and the railroad company promised to have them ready for the showroom floor early tomorrow.

In the first carload is one of the new four-passenger toy tonneau roadster types and one of the five-passenger touring cars. The model will also be offered in a two-passenger roadster and a seven-passenger touring car.

The Nationals have caused a decided stir throughout the East and on the strength of catalogue pictures and advices received from the East a large number of local people have ordered cars in advance of the first shipment. Manager Boothe states that a great many people have been holding off until the first of the new cars arrived and within the next week he expects to book at least two dozen orders.

The new Nationals have a 4½ by 5-inch motor. It is built along the general National lines, which means that the speed it will develop is limited only by the condition of the road and the driver's ability to handle the car. Seventy-five miles an hour, it is claimed, will be easy for the new Nationals.

The toy-tonneau type and the touring cars will have a wheelbase of 128 inches, and the roadster 120. They are extremely stylish in design and have that low rakish appearance demanded by the seeker of the down-to-date car.

The left-hand drive and center lever control is also a feature which is meeting with popular favor. This leaves the gear-shifting lever and the emergency brake where they can be handled with the right hand and yet permits the passengers to alight on the right side without climbing over a wheel and a couple of levers. In America the left-hand drive is proper on account of the rules of the road and the only objection to the left-hand steer has been the position of the levers on the left-hand side. The National company has solved this.

People who have never driven at all will, of course, notice no difference and even the man who has driven on the right side for years finds a couple of days' driving all that is necessary to become accustomed to the opposite side. A driver can handle the car as easily from the left side as the right and for the women who either

Big Business.

GREAT RECORD FOR FACTORY.

Studebaker Plant Sets High Mark for March.

E.M.F. and Flanders Cars Made by Thousands.

Concern Still Behind in Its Allotment to Agents.

All records for manufacturing automobiles were broken during March by the Studebaker corporation, whose Detroit factory produced an almost equal number of E.M.F. "30" and Flanders "20" automobiles, to the combined value of $4,276,000—a figure far in advance of anything ever before attained by any of the world's motor car builders.

Across the Detroit River, at Walkerville, Ont., the Studebaker Corporation of Canada was increasing this record by an output marketed at $325,000 more. The grand total for the month's work was, therefore, exactly $4,601,000.

This record was set despite the fact that a freight car famine was prevalent in Detroit throughout the month, rigidly limiting the number of automobiles which could be marketed daily. But for this handicap, the value of the March Studebaker product would have been increased by at least $500,000.

In addition to the month's record the Studebaker plants also established a new figure for one day's shipments. On March 30 a total of 374 new motor cars were loaded at the Studebaker sidings and started on their journey to the salesrooms of ninety-eight Studebaker branches and dealers in the United States and abroad.

Despite the setting of these world's records for production, the Studebaker plants closed the month as far behind orders as at the start of the sprint. This makes it almost certain that production in April will surpass that of March, even though the latter month contains one more day.

BIG JOB.

As a manufacturing achievement, aside from its interest to motorists and students of business conditions generally, the Studebaker feat is of great importance. To produce more than four and a half million dollars' worth of goods in twenty-six working days is a labor so immense as to stagger imagination, particularly when the article of manufacture is a creation as complex as a motor car.

To make the feat possible the Studebaker organization had to lay its plans for many months in advance. Unusual quantities of raw material had to be secured and stored, for there must be no shortage of even an unimportant nut or bolt when production is being speeded up. For some departments there was no rest, during the entire month. Day and night the great steam hammers pounded away incessantly, and the case-hardening ovens where the special steels are treated were never allowed to cool. Some of the machine shops toiled incessantly.

General Manager Gunn allows nobody to question whether or not the March record can be broken in April. He is confident that the 13,000 workmen in the twelve Studebaker plants have only hinted at what they can really accomplish. The only element of doubt is the supply of freight cars. If enough of these can be secured, dealers in the United States and Canada will be enabled to turn over to waiting customers a round $5,000,000 worth of cars made complete in the Studebaker shops during April.

VISIT RAMBLER PLANT.

Students Go All Through Big Factory on Tour of Inspection And Learn Much.

The Rambler factory at Kenosha, Wis., had as visitors, fifty students of the engineering department of the Northwestern University. They were accompanied by members of the faculty. They made a tour of the factory and studied the machine and learned how the different parts of the Rambler car are made. They arrived at the plant before 9 o'clock a.m., and remained until the whistle blew for the noon hour. They visited every department and made a close inspection of the various sections that go to make an automobile plant.

Because of the nature of their work the students have a good knowledge of the principles of motor-car construction. After their tour of inspection each was convinced that the Rambler factory is complete in every detail. While the students were attentive and examined the automatic machinery and asked questions about the transmission and the engine, they talked with foremen and with shop-hands, and it is hard to tell just what interested them most. They all left with the opinion that the Rambler car is built of the best that money can buy.

For touring some sort of a dust coat or slip-on is essential to comfort. A number of coats designed for this service are to be found in the supply stores, among which may be mentioned the English slip-on, the gaberdine and the rubberized raincoat. White polo coats are very popular for spring wear.

MOTOR SALON HOLDS THRONG.

Conwell Makes Big Hit With Handsome Cars.

Maxwell and Columbia Models Gems of Southland.

One Week More for Auto Show in Valley Towns.

J. S. Conwell, manager for the United Motor-Los Angeles Company, distributors for Maxwell and Columbia cars, has completed his first week of what promises to be a successful auto tour. Late-model cars are on dress parade today after having been shown in Pomona, Riverside and Redlands, where they made a great hit.

In spite of the rain, crowds have been given a chance to visit a motor salon for nothing. This week another opportunity will be granted the farmers and their friends. The cars are finished in the latest 1912 styles and look especially stylish. Conwell is taking personal supervision of the tour. The Knight motor is attracting much attention.

Conwell is well satisfied with the success of the auto show which he has been conducting the past week through the towns of Southern California.

The Maxwell-Columbia show was held at Pomona first and the attendance for the two days was exceedingly large. Conwell states that the enthusiasm and interest displayed by the people of Pomona proves it to be one of the principal motor centers. The commercial progress of the town is demonstrated by the interest of the business men in motor trucks. The Sampson, built by the United States Motor Company, was kept moving every minute of the show demonstrating its abilities as a first-class commercial car.

The Columbia sliding-valve Knight motor, which is clearly illustrated in the exhibit with a full-size working model, attracts much attention and was constantly surrounded by motor enthusiasts who were taking this opportunity of seeing the inside working of the Knight principle.

The Maxwell line, which included five models, from the runabout to the touring car, already has many friends in Pomona, but still there were quite a number of orders taken for immediate delivery. Leaving Pomona at 4 o'clock Wednesday the procession of ten passenger cars and two commercial vehicles drove to Riverside, where the whole of Friday was spent exhibiting the Maxwell-Columbia motor show.

FAST RUN IN REGAL.

B. H. Cass drove a Regal "35" from Los Angeles to Victorville last week, and clipped three minutes off the running time of the train. Two companions, who were driven to the train in the machine, were surprised to find their friend in the Regal waiting for them as they stepped to the platform of the Victorville station.

NEW NATIONALS CREATE STIR AMONG ENTHUSIASTS.

THE first of the new National models to reach the Pacific Coast are due to be unloaded this morning, and Manager Earle Y. Boothe expects to have them on display in the salesroom throughout the day and all next week.

The new cars were reported within a short distance of Los Angeles yesterday and the railroad company promised to have them ready for the showroom floor early tomorrow.

In the first carload is one of the new four-passenger toy tonneau roadster types and one of the five-passenger touring cars. The model will also be offered in a two-passenger roadster and a seven-passenger touring car.

The Nationals have caused a decided stir throughout the East and on the strength of catalogue pictures and advices received from the East a large number of local people have ordered cars in advance of the first shipment. Manager Boothe states that a great many people have been holding off until the first of the new cars arrived and within the next week he expects to book at least two dozen orders.

The new Nationals have a 4¾ by 5-inch motor. It is built along the general National lines, which means that the speed it will develop is limited only by the condition of the road and the driver's ability to handle the car. Seventy-five miles an hour, it is claimed, will be easy for the new Nationals.

The toy-tonneau type and the touring cars will have a wheelbase of 128 inches, and the roadster 120. They are extremely stylish in design and have that low rakish appearance demanded by the seeker of the down-to-date car.

The left-hand drive and center lever control is also a feature which is meeting with popular favor. This brings the gear-shifting lever and the emergency brake where they can be handled with the right hand and yet permits the passengers to alight on the right side without climbing over the wheel and a couple of levers. In addition the left-hand drive is proper in support of the rules of the road and the only objection to the left-hand drive has been the position of the door on the left-hand side. The National company has solved this.

People who have never driven at all will, of course, notice no difference but even the man who has driven on the right side for years finds a couple of days' driving all that is necessary to become accustomed to the opposite side. A driver can handle the car as easily from the left side as the right, and for the women who either drive or ride as passengers the left is the only side for the steering post.

The new cars are beautifully finished and Manager Boothe will leave them on the floor for several days for exhibition purposes. Demonstrations will be booked in the order of applications.

SELF-STARTING TEST.

Something new in the form of a contest which will involve self-starters is the latest, a challenge having been issued by a self-starter manufacturing company for a match from Chicago to Boston and return for $5000 a side, the loser to be the one whose self-starter fails to keep the machine going. It is insisted that the batteries and wires be removed, the cranks taken off and the crank hole sealed. The cars carrying the rival self-starters in the contest must be of the same make and model. If a six-cylinder it must have an engine of at least 5-inch bore, and if a four, one of 5¾.

TENNESSEE HIGHWAY.

Progress is being made on the Tennessee highway from Memphis to Bristol. The project was started less than two years ago. At first it was suggested that an attempt be made to build the road in one day, but this was found to be impractical, as the road is 602 miles long. About half of the highway is completed, and work is now going on in fourteen counties. Within another year the road will be in a passable condition, but it will require several years to bring the entire route up to the standard of uniformity that has been set.

GOSSIP ALONG GASOLINE ROW

BY BERT SMITH

Joseph R. Drake, treasurer of the Hupp Motor Car Company, spent Friday of last week with M. C. Nason, the local Hupp agent. He is the right kind of a man. He has just completed a novel trip around the world in a little Hupmobile and his experiences on that tour are worth hearing. Wish he could tell what he knows of the Far East to the automobile men some evening! He was forced to leave for the Hupp factory in Detroit on Friday. He has promised to give an account of the journey and it will be well worth reading.

M. C. Nason is a celebrity. If you can persuade him to tell you how he was entertained by royalty in England not long ago you will enjoy the story. He hobnobbed with the dukes, the lords and ladies and had a high old time at a midnight ball. He met the Prince of Wales and several marchionesses and came out of the ordeal looking flushed and handsome, but he carried off the honors as well as the Duke of York, only he was the Count from Los Angeles during the ordeal.

Earl Y. Boothe, of the National Motor Car Company, has a job on his hands this week. The new Nationals are here and he expects to conduct an automobile show of his own. There is work enough for ten men, but the local manager must do most of it himself. While he is arranging the display the cars are being examined carefully by a large number of prospects who have waited a long time for the machines.

E. Roger Stearns is planning another stunt. That trip to Ventura with the road pirate from Mexico was not to Roger's liking. Well, let's try and satisfy the Stoddard-Dayton man. His name has not appeared in print for months. Now that he has decided to be active again we had better get in and help him to make the right kind of a noise. He knows how.

Wild Bill Ruess has the trout fever. He caught the limit, all eleven pound beauties, and promised all his friends plenty of fish. If Bill had given away even half the fish he promised he would have distributed 10,000 pounds. Bill is a hunter and a fisherman who always gets what he goes after. He is in the limelight once more with the six-cylinder Pope-Hartford ready for business. The cars are here.

Warren Vance is now negotiating for the sale of his large stock range in Wyoming. This 7000-acre track lies in a desirable section and is well stocked. The senior member of the Vance-Canavan Company plans a trip to the ranch this summer, but he may have to visit the range after it passes out of his hands.

When Vance gets into action as a rancher he will have a chance to rest. He has been kept hustling every minute during the past month and says there is little chance for him to take a vacation before July. Following his trip into Mexico, when he roughed it for ten days and fought the sands for six days, Vance says he has a rest coming.

One of the latest requests for information concerning the organization tour of The Times car on its ocean-to-ocean trip comes from El Paso, where the road builders are anxious to get the latest reports from President John S. Mitchell. The El Paso route is one that would take the cars through a populous district and through some large cities. It is worth considering.

The latest device is the power pump; and when one enters upon a discussion relative to the actual value or merit contained in such equipment, his mind naturally reverts to the pump attracting most attention up and down "gasoline row." That pump is the Rohrbacher Company's "Little Wind Jammer."

By means of a gauge that is attached to the rubber hose it is possible to tell at all times just what the air pressure is, and in two or three minutes the tire is filled. Then when the gauge shows the desired pressure, a turn back of the little knob, the friction wheel becomes disengaged and the pump stops. It is not necessary to stop your engine or even slow it down; the motorist need not raise the hood or dive into the machinery; just detach the hose from the tire valve and the car is ready to go on its way again.

The Rohrbacher Automatic Air Pump Company has factories at Portland, Chicago, and New York and are known as the largest manufacturers of power tire pumps in this country. Their California sales department is located at corner of Pico and Olive streets, Los Angeles, where they have a working exhibit and are giving constant demonstrations to large crowds.

Leon T. Shettler got off a good one at the Los Angeles Athletic Club yesterday. Stanley Smith has the dinner habit about once a day. The Stearns-Knight man met Leon T. yesterday and the Apperson agent proposed a parade for the Vernon team.

"Let's see, Stanley," said Shettler, "you get that fellow who bought that Stearns-Knight"—but Shettler could not proceed. Stanley's jaw dropped and he looked the picture of dejection. Stanley had just finished telling his hearers that his sales for the present month are twenty-seven. Then to think of Shettler making such a break.

Coming back, however, Stanley said: "Yes, let's get him and we'll have that fellow to whom you sold that Apperson a year ago. Only come to think of it he'd be so mad by this time that he would queer the procession." Then they both went to dinner.

John Wiese is charitable. Two sweet-faced girls asked him to purchase tickets at $1 per, to a charity ball yesterday. Wiese flipped a $5 coin on the table and was given a ticket. He got his ticket and also received four other pasteboards in change for the five. He just grinned and said nothing.

In the Stewart piston gas saver, Los Angeles can boast of another article which has won a national popularity. The Halliwell Brothers, who control the Pacific Coast for this gas saver, are equipping many cars, and several of the agents of the leading makes have contracted to have all machines equipped with the Stewart.

A gas saver not only gives a car additional speed and power, but it will regulate the supply of gas and air to such an extent that additional mileage will be secured.

It has now been tested out on almost every make sold in Los Angeles and the results in some cases have been amazing.

The Halliwell brothers have opened a vigorous advertising and selling campaign throughout the Coast and all the branches are pushing this useful attachment.

George Bentel of the Coleman and Bentel Company returned from the East last week. He went to New York, Boston and other centers. He spent several days at the Simplex factory, and also visited the Shawmut tire plant and saw this high-grade tire in the manufacture. He is more enthusiastic than ever over the Shawmut, and says this will be his tire leader from now on. Bentel is the Simplex agent on the Coast, with the exception of the Southern California territory, and says this will be the biggest year the Simplex has ever had. Things in the East never looked better, according to Bentel. In all branches the spring business was opening up well and the dealers reported good business.

John S. Wiese, the popular manager of the United States Tire Company's Los Angeles branch, left last night for San Francisco. He expects to spend a couple of days with C. A. Gilbert, the western district manager, and upon his return will make a round-up of the Southern California trade. The United States Tire Company has just closed an agency contract with George S. Hulings, son of Gen. Hulings of Pennsylvania. Hulings is well known in Los Angeles, and will open his San Diego place within the next week. Charles Orland has been added to the local force of the United States Tire Company as office manager, succeeding H. W. Heasley. Orland is one of the old G. and J. crew in San Francisco, and is thoroughly familiar with the tire business on the Coast.

"I guess there isn't a chance to have a tire contest," said W. D. Newerf, the Coast agent for Miller tires. "For two weeks I have issued an open defy to all makes to meet the Miller in any kind of a test to prove the merits of the different tires, but not a single dealer has offered to take me up.

"A contest before impartial judges to show the wearing qualities of the various makes would be one of the most interesting contests it would be possible to hold and surely the motoring public would be deeply interested.

"This will be my last talk on the question of a tire contest. If nobody wants to enter such an event I will let it go at that.

"But I will add that any time any dealer wants to start a test of this kind I will be there with the Miller."

C. W. Stream, Coast manager for the International Harvester Company, is with the local branch installing a line of trucks. Stream has placed twenty-two carloads of the commercial cars since February 14, and says the business on the Pacific Coast, as far as his firm is concerned, is still in its infancy.

Three first places and a track record broken was the coup pulled off by Charles Handy in a Velie racer at the Vallejo track races Friday. He won the five-mile free-for-all in 4m. 32 3-5s. from a large field of other fast cars. The news of the victory was received yesterday by P. A. Renton, the local agent, from Max Rosenfeld, the Bay City man, who is making a clean sweep in the north.

Present Arms!

The drill team of the Sierra Madre public school is becoming quite an important body out in the foothills. The boys are getting real swelled up over the prospect of their uniforms which they are to begin wearing in a very short time, and over the fact that they are to lead the march in the flower festival parade to be held in Sierra Madre April 20. At the last business meeting of the Flower Festival Committee, Instructor Mead secured enough money to get uniforms for all the boys who are unable to purchase their own.

Basketball.

Although the baseball season has opened for the Y.M.C.A. boys, it does not stop the basketball players of this Young Men's Christian Association from putting their new league into action April 19, with games between the Alerts and Spartans, and Trojans and Wasps. This league is comprised mostly of the same bunch that formed last year's league. They have gained much experience from last year's competition and better and faster games are expected to be played during the coming season.

Baseball.

Echo Park and Recreation boys trotted out on the diamond for a rival game Thursday afternoon. The Echo boys took their rivals by surprise when they walked off with the game by a score of 8 to 5. The hitting was good by both teams, but Echo placed a few out of the reach of the losers.

Boxing Lessons.

Recreation center is starting a social club to teach boxing from a scientific standpoint, under the management of Mr. Blessick. Anybody who wishes to learn to box should take advantage of this unusual opportunity.

Bowling.

The Two-men Bowling League finished up at the Y.M.C.A. alleys with a game in Murray's favor with a total of 875, which the other player succeeded in getting a total of 713. This was the end of a long series.

The Consolation Bowling League held their last game on the 12th of April which resulted in champion honors for Holbrook who scored 829. Mayer got a score of 782. These games were also rolled off on the Y.M.C.A. alleys and keen competition as well as good bowling was exhibited by this league.

Don't Worry.

The Don't Worry Club of the Y.M.C.A. boys' division and the managers clashed in a game of indoor ball that resulted in the boys' defeat by a score of 13 to 7. Although the managers are considerable older than the boys, they showed much activity in pushing the sphere out into the diamond as well as fielding and running the bases.

Hoover-street Meet.

Despite the squally weather a large and enthusiastic crowd of youngsters entered the Hoover-street meet Friday afternoon. LeRoy Patton of the senior division and Howard Stassforth of the junior crowd, each won twenty-nine points in their separate divisions, tying for The Times offer of an eight-day free vacation at Catalina Times Camp this summer.

Some boy visitors and onlookers from Berendo school manifested a keen interest in the contest and a group of fair co-eds were also in attendance to see their schoolmates compete.

Although no unusual records were made, yet the boys in all the events were pretty evenly matched. The shorter sprints were hotly contested and in both the junior fifty and junior hundred the winner barely took the tape from the second boy. The boys were enthusiastic in regard to the vacation trip offered and a chorus of thanks was sent after the Times representatives for the ribbons and the trip.

Times Track Meet.

The home meet of the Times Camp series was held at the San Pedro-street school last Monday afternoon. Young Edgar Buriton, a husky son of the sunny South, won the first honors, and annexed the eight-day vacation trip to the Times Camp.

Buriton lives at No. 713 East Fifteenth street. He scored twenty points by winning all four of the running races, the fifty-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 100-yard dash, and the 352-yard dash. Shea took the high jump and Atchinson put on a sprint and won the broad jump and the shotput. Following are the results:

Manual Arts.

The Manual boys are certainly a progressive bunch when it comes to athletics. After the most successful athletic season they have had in their brief history, they are planning for more fields to conquer next year. They have elected Verne Chamberlin as captain of the Rugby football team for next year, and will start preliminary practice as soon as the baseball season is over.

The Manual Arts school developed some bright individual "stars" this year on the track. Tietsworth in the mile has only one superior in the South, in the interscholastic division; he being young Beebe of Anaheim. The "dark horse" trotted out at the Y.M.C.A. a week ago.

Indoor Baseball.

The Recreation Center team surprised the Brass Polishers when they ran off with a game of indoor ball that was supposed to go to the latter. The game's score was 13 to 7, and although Recreation outclassed them in every respect, the Brass Polishers fought hard for first place.

Basketball.

Downey took the plum when they met Recreation Center on their home grounds in a fast game of basketball which ended with a score of 8 to 7. Downey fought hard for the victory and just got it by a free throw.

Amusement.

The Recreation Center Gymnasium Club gave a very pleasant evening to relatives and friends last evening when they opened the hall doors to them for a dance and maypole celebration. Refreshments and music were rendered by local promoters of the Gymnasium Club, and the evening was spent in jollity and fun.

Sparring.

Matty Schilz and Peo Pedraitia shook hands for a three-round sparring bout at the Recreation Center grounds, and sparred for points. Great fun was enjoyed throughout the evening. On the Saturday of this month a boxing tournament will take place for the boys to see who is the best mitt artist of Recreation Center.

Baseball.

Although it has rained considerable this week it has not postponed the Recreation Center team's games in the least. They met the Hazard team and beat them by a score of 7 to 5. The game was fast and exciting at times. Hazard has a coming team and will defeat their opponents yet.

DREYFUSS AGAIN DREAMS SWEETLY.

Reiterating his statement that the Pirates look better than since 1903, President Dreyfuss declares that he is still of the opinion that Pittsburgh will win this year's pennant.

"There is no other club with the pitching staff that we can boast of," he said. "We have eight men in condition—eight high-class men, any one of which can be depended upon to deliver the goods. No other club can show more than half this pitching strength.

"Then our batting strength will be increased; Miller will fill a long-felt want at first; Donlin will shine in right—in fact, every position will be well cared for, and we will have high-class subs for each department. There will be no repetition of last season's experience when we found ourselves up against it without Wagner, Wilson or Clarke in the game."

"How does Clarke figure the chances?" was asked. "What does he think of the club and its prospects?"

"Clarke doesn't like to guess, but I know he is very much pleased with the outlook. In fact, he believes things are too good to last—he is afraid something will happen. He believes, I know, that our club is going to be in the running all the time, and is especially elated over the pitching and batting strength."

MUST GO TO BED.

Manager Wolverton of the Highlanders says there is one rule that is going to be strictly enforced this year if it ever has been. That rule requires the players to be in their rooms at the hotel by 11 o'clock at night. Wolverton is a firm believer that an athlete needs sleep to be good on the field the next afternoon. A special officer will be carried to see that the boys are saying their nightly prayers at this hour.

Christy Mathewson's STORIES OF THE BIG LEAGUERS

PLAYING THE GAME FROM BENCH.

THE bench! To any fans who see a hundred big league ball games each season this is a long hooded structure from which the next batter emerges and where the players sit while their club is at bat. It is also the resort of the substitutes, manager, mascot and water cooler.

But to the ball player it is the headquarters. It is the place from which the orders come, and it is here that the battle is planned, and from here the moves are executed. The manager sits here and pulls the wires, and his players obey him as if they were manikins.

"The batteries for today's game," says the impire, "will be Sallee and Bresnahan for St. Louis; Wiltse and Meyers for New York."

"Bunt," says McGraw as his players scatter to take their positions on the field. He repeats the order when they came to the bat for the first inning, because he knows that Sallee has two weaknesses, one being that he cannot field bunts and the other that a great deal of activity in the box tires him out so that he weakens. A bunting game hits at both these flaws. As soon as Bresnahan observes the plan of battle he arranges his players to meet the attack; draws in his third baseman, shifts the shortstop more down the line toward third base, and is on the alert himself to gather in slow rollers just in front of the plate. The idea is to give Sallee the minimum opportunity to get at the ball and reduce his fielding responsibilities to nothing or less. There is one thing about Sallee's style known to every big league manager. He is not half as effective with men on the bases, for he depends largely on his deceptive motion to fool the batters, and when he has to cut this down because runners are on the bases his pitching ability evaporates.

After the old Polo Grounds had been burned down last spring we were playing in St. Louis at American League Park one Saturday afternoon, and the final returns of the game were about 19 to 5 in our favor, as near as I can remember. We made thirteen runs in the first inning. Many spectators went away from the park talking about the slaughter and a runaway score, and so on. That game was won in the very first inning when Sallee went into the box to pitch, and McGrow had murmured that mystic word, "Bunt!"

The first batters bunted, bunted, bunted in monotonous succession. Sallee, not yet in very good physical condition, because it was early in the season, was stood, up to this point, upon his head by this form of attack. Bresnahan redraped his infield to try to stop this onslaught, and then McGraw switched.

"Hit it," he directed the next batter.

A line drive whistled past Mowrey's ears, the man who plays third base on the Cardinals. He was coming in to get a bunt. Another followed. The break had come. Bresnahan removed Sallee and put another pitcher into the box, but once a ball club starts to hit the ball it is like a skidding automobile. It can't be stopped. The Giants kept on and piled up a ridiculous and laughable score, which McGraw had made possible in the first inning by directing his men to bunt.

The Giants won the championship of the National League in 1904, and the New York fans gave the team credit for the victory. It was a club of young players, and McGraw realized this fact when he started his campaign. Every play that season was made from the bench, made by John McGraw through his agents, his manikins, who moved according to the wires which he pulled. And by the end of the summer his hands were badly calloused from pulling wires, but the Giants had the pennant.

When the batter was at the plate in a critical stage he would stall and look to the "bench" for orders to discover whether to hit the ball out or lay it down, whether to try the hit and run, or wait for the base runner to attempt to steal. By stalling, I mean that he would tie his shoe or fix his belt or find any little excuse to delay the game so that he could get a flash at the "bench" for orders. A shoe lace has played an important role in many a big league battle, as I will try to show later on in this story. If it ever becomes the custom to wear button shoes the game would have to be revised.

As the batter looked toward the bench, McGraw might reach for his handkerchief to blow his nose, and the batter knew it was up to him to hit the ball out. Some days in that season of 1904 I saw McGraw blow his nose during a game until it was red and sore on the end, and then another day, when he had a cold in his head, he had to do without his handkerchief because he wanted to play a bunting game. Until his cold got better, he had to switch to another system of signs.

During that season, each coacher would keep his eye on the bench for orders. Around McGraw revolved the game of the Giants. He was the game. And most of that summer he spent upon the bench, because from there he could get the best look at the diamond, and his observations were not confined to one place or to one base runner. He was able to discover whether an outfielder was playing too close for a batter or too far out, and rearrange the men. He could perhaps catch a sign from the opposing catcher and pass it along to the batter. And he won the pennant from the bench. He was seldom seen on the coaching lines that year.

Many fans wonder why, when the Giants get behind in a game, McGraw takes to the bench after having been out on the coaching lines inning after inning while the club was holding its own or winning. Time and again I have heard him criticised for this by spectators and even by the players on other clubs.

"McGraw is 'yellow,'" players have said to me. "Just as soon as his club gets behind, he runs for cover."

The crime of being "yellow" is the worst in the big leagues. It means that a man is afraid, that he lacks the nerve to face the music. But McGraw and "yellow" are as far apart as the poles, or Alpha and Omega, or Fifth avenue and the Bowery, or any two widely separated and distant things. I have seen McGraw go on to ball fields where he is as welcome as a man with the smallpox and face the crowd alone that, in the heat of its excitement, would like to tear him apart. I have seen him take all sorts of personal chances. He doesn't know what fear is and in his bright lexicon of baseball there is no such word as "fear." His success is partly due to his indomitable courage.

There is a real reason for his going to the bench when the team gets behind. It is because this increases the club's chances of winning. From the bench, he can see the whole field, can note where his fielders are playing, can get a peek at the other bench, and perhaps pick up a tip as to what to expect. He can watch his own pitcher, or observe whether the opposing twirler drops his throwing arm as if weary. He is at the helm when "on the bench," and, noting any flaw in the opposition, he is in a position to take advantage of it at a moment's notice, or, catching some sign of faltering among his own men, he is there to strengthen the weakness. Many a game he has pulled out of the fire by going back to the bench and watching. So the idea obtained by many spectators that he is quitting is the wrong one. He is only fighting harder.

A PIRATE AND HIS SHOE STRING.

The Giants were playing Pittsburgh one day in the season of 1909, and Clarke and McGraw had been having a great guessing match. It was one of those give-and-take games with plenty of batting, with one club forging ahead and then the other. Clarke had saved the game for Pittsburgh in the sixth inning by a shoe string. Leifield had been pitching up to this point, and he wasn't there or even in the neighborhood. But still the Pirates were leading by two runs, having previously knocked Ames out of the box. Doyle and McCormick made hits with no one out in our half of the sixth.

It looked like the "break," and McGraw was urging his players on to even up the score, when Clarke suddenly took off his sun glasses in left field and stooped down to tie his shoe. When he removes his sun glasses that is a sign for a pitcher to warm up in a hurry, and "Babe" Adams sprinted to the outfield with a catcher and began to heat up. Clarke took all of five minutes to tie that shoe, McGraw violently protesting against the delay in the meantime. Fred Clarke has been known to wear out a pair of shoe laces in one game tying and untying them. After the shoe was fixed up, he jogged slowly to the bench and took Leifield out of the box. In the interim, Adams had had an opportunity to warm up, and Clarke raised his arm and ordered him into the box. He fanned the next two men, and the last batter hit an easy roller to Wagner. We were still two runs to the bad after that promising start in the sixth, and Clarke, for the time being, had saved the game by a shoe string.

McGraw, who had been on the coaching lines, retired to the bench after that, and I heard one of those wise spectators, sitting just behind our coop, who could tell Mr. Rockefeller how to run his business but who spends his life working as a cclerk at $18 a week, remark to a friend:

"It's all off now. McGraw has laid down."

Watching the game through eyes half shut and drawn to a focus, McGraw waited. In the seventh inning Clarke came to bat with two men on the bases. A hit would have won the game beyond any doubt. In a flash McGraw was on his feet and ran out to Meyers, catching. He stopped the game, and, with a wave of his arm, drew Harry McCormick, playing left field, in close to third base. The game went on, and Wiltse twisted a slow curve over the outside corner of the plate to Clarke, a left-handed hitter. He timed his swing and sent a low hit singing over third base. McCormick dashed in and caught the ball off his shoe tops. That made three outs. McGraw had saved our chances of victory right there, for had McCormick been playing where he originally intended before McGraw stopped the contest, the ball would have landed in unguarded territory and two runs would have been scored.

But McGraw yet had the game to win. As his team came to the bat for the seventh, he said:

"This fellow Adams is a youngster and liable to be nervous and wild. Wait."

The batters waited with the patience of Job. Each man let the first two balls pass him and made Adams pitch himself to the limit to every batter. It got on Adams's nerves. In the ninth he passed a couple of men, and a hit tied the score. Clarke left him in the box, for he was short of pitchers. On the game went to ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen innings. The score was still tied and Wiltse was pitching like a machine. McGraw was on the bench, leaving the coaching to his lieutenants. The club was still waiting for the youngster to weaken. At last, in the thirteenth, after one man had been put out, the eye of McGraw saw Adams drop his pitching arm to his side as if tired. It was only a minute motion. None of the spectators saw it, none of the players.

"Now hit it, boys," came the order from the "bench." The style was switched, and the game won when three hits were rattled out. McGraw alone observed that sign of weakening and took advantage of it at the opportune time. He won the game from the bench. That is what makes him a great manager, observing the little things. Anyone can see the big ones. If he had been on the coaching lines, he would not have had as good an opportunity to study the young pitcher, for he would have had to devote his attention to the base runners. He might have missed this sign of wilting.

McGraw is always studying a pitcher, particularly a new one in the league. The St. Louis club had a young pitcher last fall, named Laudermilk, who was being tried out. He had a brother on the team. In his first game against the Giants, played in St. Louis, he held us to a few scattered hits and gave us a terrific battle, only losing the game because one of his fielders made a costly error behind him. The papers of St. Louis boosted him as another "Rube" Waddell. He was left-handed. McGraw laughed.

"All I want," he said "is another crack at that Buttermilk, after what I learned about him this afternoon. He can't control his curve, and all you fellows have got to do is wait for his fast one. He gave you that fight today because he had you all swinging at bad curve balls."

Laudermilk made another appearance against the Giants later, and he made his disappearance in that game in the fourth inning, when only one was out to be exact, after we had scored five runs off him by waiting for his fast one, according to McGraw's orders.

THE TEAM THAT ABUSED ITS LIBERTY.

After winning the pennant in 1904 by sitting on the bench, keeping away from the coaching lines, and making every play himself, McGraw decided that his men were older and knew the game, and that he would give them more rein in 1905. He appeared oftener on the coaching lines and attended more to the base runners than to the game as a whole. But in the crises he was the man who decided what was to be done. The club won the pennant that year and the world's championship. The players got very chesty immediately thereafter and the buttons on their vests had to be shifted back to make room for the new measure. They knew the game and had won two pennants, besides a championship of the world.

So, in the season of 1906 McGraw started with a team of veterans, and it was predicted that he would repeat. But these men, who knew the game, were making decisions for themselves because McGraw was giving them more liberty. The runners went wild on the bases and tried things at the wrong stages. They lost game after game. At last, after a particularly disastrous defeat one day, McGraw called his men together in the clubhouse and addressed them in this wise:

"Because you fellows have won two championships and beaten the Athletics is no reason for you all to believe that you are fit to write a book on how to play baseball. You are just running wild on the bases. You might as well not have a manager. Now don't any one try to pull anything without orders. We will begin all over again."

But it is hard to teach old ball players new tricks, and several fines had to be imposed before the orders were obeyed. The club did not win the championship that year.

When McGraw won the pennant last season, he did it with a club of youngsters, many of them playing through their first whole season as regulars in the company. There were Snodgrass and Devore and Fletcher and Marquard. Every time a batter went to the plate, he had definite orders from the "bench" as to what he was to attempt—whether to take two, or lay the ball down, or swing, or work the hit and run. Each time that a man shot out from first base like a catapulted figure and slid into second, he had been ordered by McGraw to try to steal. If players protested against his judgment, his invariable answer was:

"You do what I tell you, and I'll take the blame for mistakes."

This coming season he is confronted by much the same problem as he faced in 1906. He has a club on his hands which has won a championship, and the players think rather better of themselves than they did at the beginning of last season. But he has had one experience of the sort, and he told me only the other day in Marlin, as he was watching his men work:

"I'm going to be stricter than ever this season, Matty. There will be no repetition of the blow-up of the season of 1906. Everything that is tried will be by my orders and fines will be imposed for breaking them. If any pennant is lost through bad baseball, I will be the little fellow who lost it."

One of McGraw's laments is, "I wish I could be in three places at once."

I never heard him say it with such a ring to the words as after Snodgrass was touched out in the third game of the world's series in the tenth inning, when his life might have meant victory in that game anyway. I have frequently referred to the incident in these stories, so most of my readers are familiar with the situation. Snodgrass was put out trying to get to third base, on a short passed ball after he had started back for second to recover some of the ground he had taken in too long a lead before the ball got to Lapp. McGraw's face took on an expression of agony as if he were watching his dearest friend die.

"If I could only have been there!" he said. "I wish I could be in three places at once."

He meant the bench, the first base coaching line, and the third base line. At this particular time he was giving the batters orders from the bench. It was one of those incidents which come up in a ball game and have to be decided in the drawing of a breath, so that a manager cannot give orders unless he is right on the spot.

THE ADVANTAGE OF A NON-PLAYING MANAGER.

It is my opinion that it is a big advantage to a team to have the manager on the bench rather than in the game. Frank Chance of the Chicago Cubs is a great leader, but I think he would be a greater one if he could find one of his mechanical ability to play first base, and he could sit on the bench as the director general. He is occupied with the duties of his position and often little things get by him. I believe that we beat the Cubs in two games in 1909 because Chance was playing first base instead of directing the game from the bench.

In the first contest Ames was pitching and Schlei catching. Now, Schlei was no three hundred hitter, but he was a good man in a pinch and looked like Wagner when compared to Ames as a swatter. Schlei came up to the bat with men on second and third bases, two out, and a chance to win or put us ahead if he could make a hit. The first time it happened, McGraw unfolded his arms and relaxed, which is a sign that he is conceding something for the time being.

"No use," he said. "All those runners are going to waste. We'll have to make another try in the next inning. They will surely pass Schlei to take a chance on Ames."

Then Overall, who was pitching, whistled a strike over the plate and McGraw's body tightened and the old lines around the mouth appeared. Here was a chance yet.

"They're going to let him hit," he cried joyfully.

Schlei made a base hit on the next pitch and scored both men. Almost the same thing happened later on in the season with men on second and third bases and Raymond, another featherweight hitter, pitching. It struck me as being an oversight on the part of Chance on both occasions, probably because he was so busy with his own position and watching the players on the field that he didn't notice the pitcher was the next batter. He let Schlei hit each time, which probably cost him two games.

The Giants were playing St. Louis at the polo grounds in 1910, and I was pitching against Harmon. I held the Cardinals to one hit up to the ninth inning, and we had the game won by the score of 1 to 0, when their first batter in the ninth walked. Then, after two had been put out, another scratched a hit. It looked as if we still had the game won, since only one man was left to be put out and the runners were on first

MIKE IS STRONG FOR SOUL SAVING.

"Me for the soul-saving business," said Mike Donlin when he read in the papers that Billy Sunday, an ex-Pirate, had cleaned up $17,000 in a six weeks' evangelistic campaign in Wheeling, W. Va.

"I've quit the stage, you know," continued the vaudevillian, "but I'm still looking for something easy, and I believe I could make good as a preacher. I wouldn't need to improve my morals much, either, to fit myself for the work."

Then the heavy-hitting outer gardener talked in a more serious vein about Sunday, and criticised his critics. According to Mike's logic the man who is eminent in his profession, whatever it may be, is entitled to bigger remuneration than the man of mediocre ability, and judging by results there is only one Billy Sunday."

"I wish him luck," said Donlin. "I believe he's doing a lot of good, and I am glad that he graduated from baseball into the ministry. It's no reflection on baseball."

FOR THE FARMER.

Iowa is first, last and always an agricultural State, and its prosperity always has depended and always will depend on the farmers. It is for this reason that the prediction that the present season will break all records in the motor car business in Iowa is made. For the farmer in Iowa has just come to a full realization of the everyday value of a motor car. Of the 10,000 cars sold in the State last year it is known that fully 60 per cent. went on the farms. At the present time there are 37,000 cars in the State, and it is estimated that between 18,000 and 20,000 cars will be sold during this season, if the present outlook makes good.

JOHNSON TO QUIT NEXT LABOR DAY.

Jack Johnson has admitted that he would retire from the ring on Labor Day. This startling piece of news was given to O'Rourke when the New Yorker paid the champion a visit.

Jack declares he is willing to meet all hopes, but that the fights must all be scheduled before September 2. O'Rourke at the meeting made Johnson an offer of $30,000 to box Sam Langford ten rounds in New York, which Jack accepted.

GRIFFITH SLIPPING.

Clark Griffith says that if he had not been signed to manage the Washington club he would have made application to President Tom Lynch of the National League for a job as umpire in order to get even with Hank O'Day for some of the past grievances.

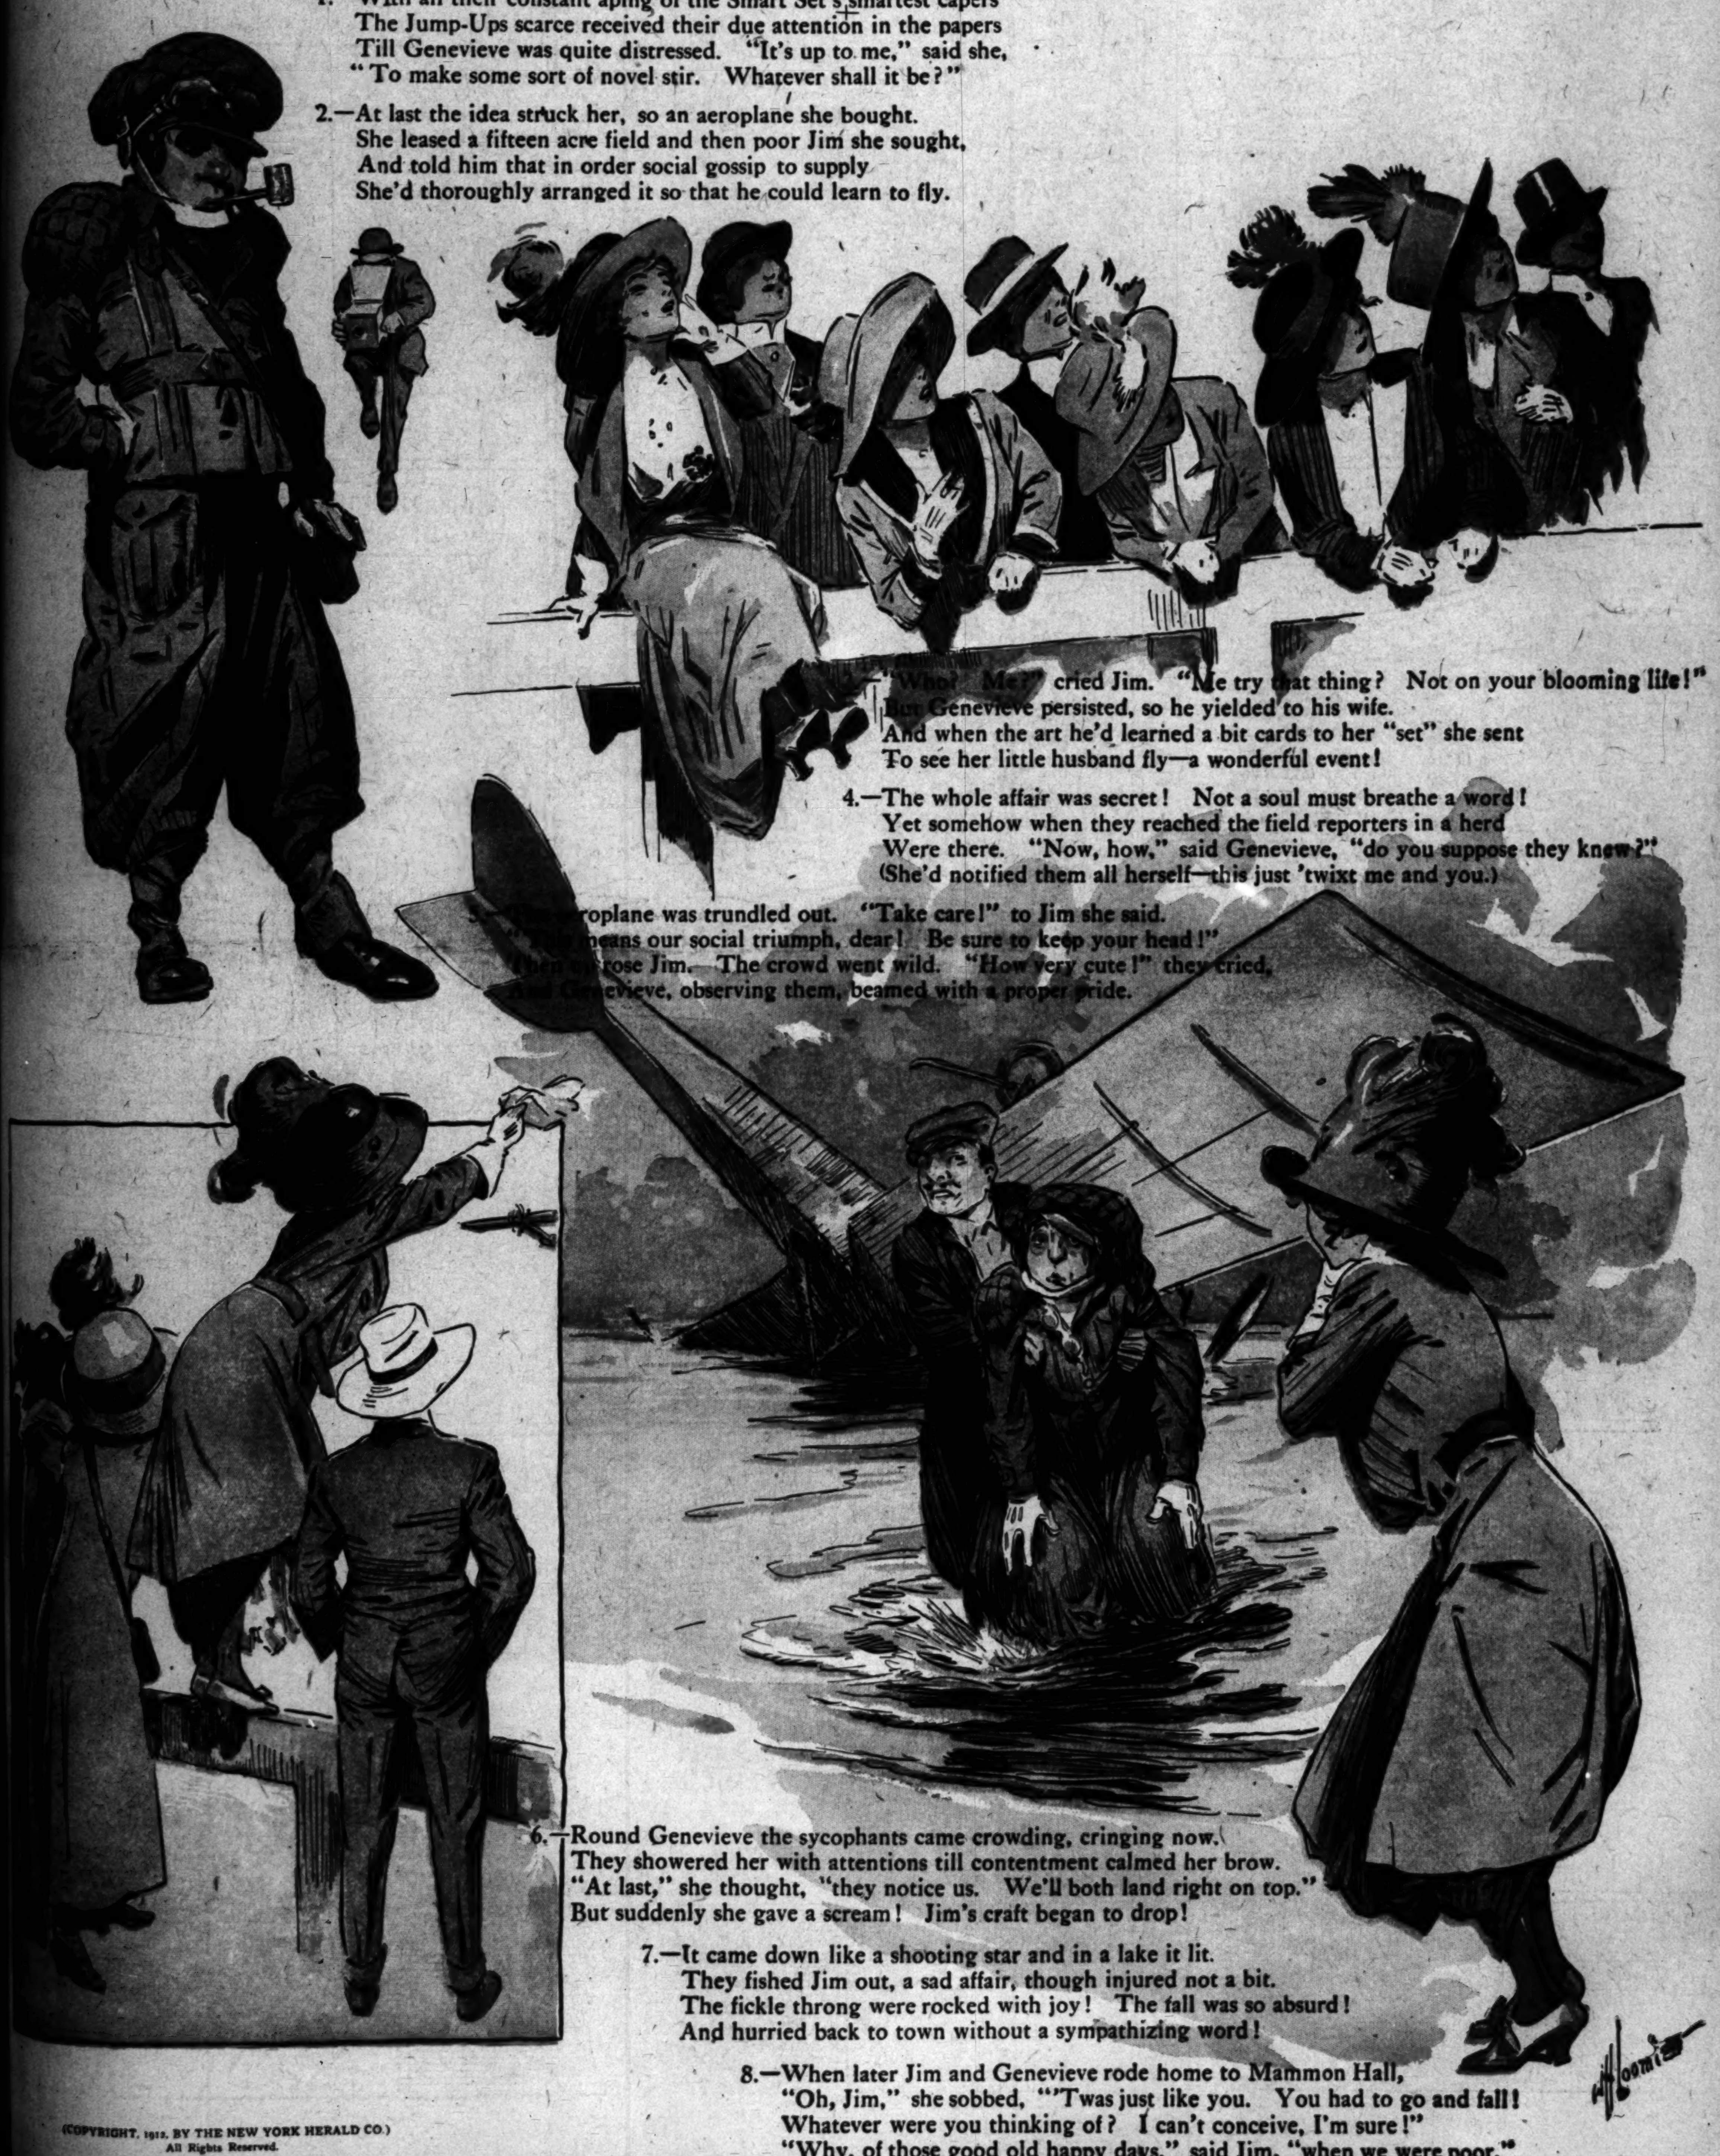
THE JUMP-UPS

VERSES BY PAUL WEST
DRAWINGS BY WM. H. LOOMIS



1.—With all their constant aping of the Smart Set's smartest capers
The Jump-Ups scarce received their due attention in the papers
Till Genevieve was quite distressed. "It's up to me," said she,
"To make some sort of novel stir. Whatever shall it be?"

2.—At last the idea struck her, so an aeroplane she bought.
She leased a fifteen acre field and then poor Jim she sought,
And told him that in order social gossip to supply
She'd thoroughly arranged it so that he could learn to fly.

3.—"Who? Me?" cried Jim. "Me try that thing? Not on your blooming life!"
But Genevieve persisted, so he yielded to his wife.
And when the art he'd learned a bit cards to her "set" she sent
To see her little husband fly—a wonderful event!

4.—The whole affair was secret! Not a soul must breathe a word!
Yet somehow when they reached the field reporters in a herd
Were there. "Now, how," said Genevieve, "do you suppose they knew?"
(She'd notified them all herself—this just 'twixt me and you.)

5.—The aeroplane was trundled out. "Take care!" to Jim she said.
"This means our social triumph, dear! Be sure to keep your head!"
Then up rose Jim. The crowd went wild. "How very cute!" they cried,
And Genevieve, observing them, beamed with a proper pride.

6.—Round Genevieve the sycophants came crowding, cringing now.
They showered her with attentions till contentment calmed her brow.
"At last," she thought, "they notice us. We'll both land right on top."
But suddenly she gave a scream! Jim's craft began to drop!

7.—It came down like a shooting star and in a lake it lit.
They fished Jim out, a sad affair, though injured not a bit.
The fickle throng were rocked with joy! The fall was so absurd!
And hurried back to town without a sympathizing word!

8.—When later Jim and Genevieve rode home to Mammon Hall,
"Oh, Jim," she sobbed, "'Twas just like you. You had to go and fall!
Whatever were you thinking of? I can't conceive, I'm sure!"
"Why, of those good old happy days," said Jim, "when we were poor."

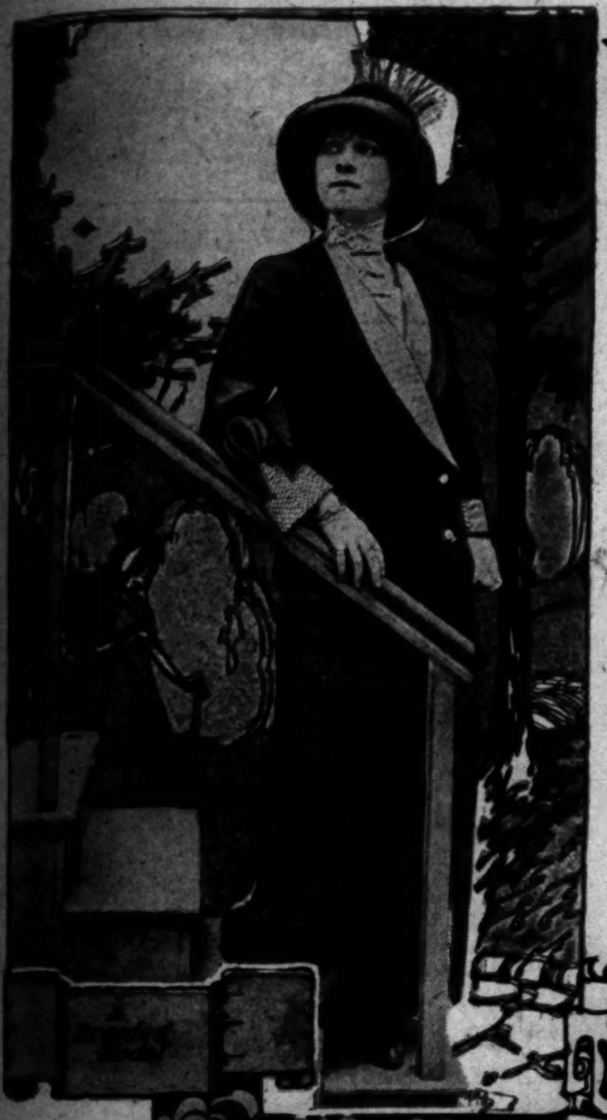
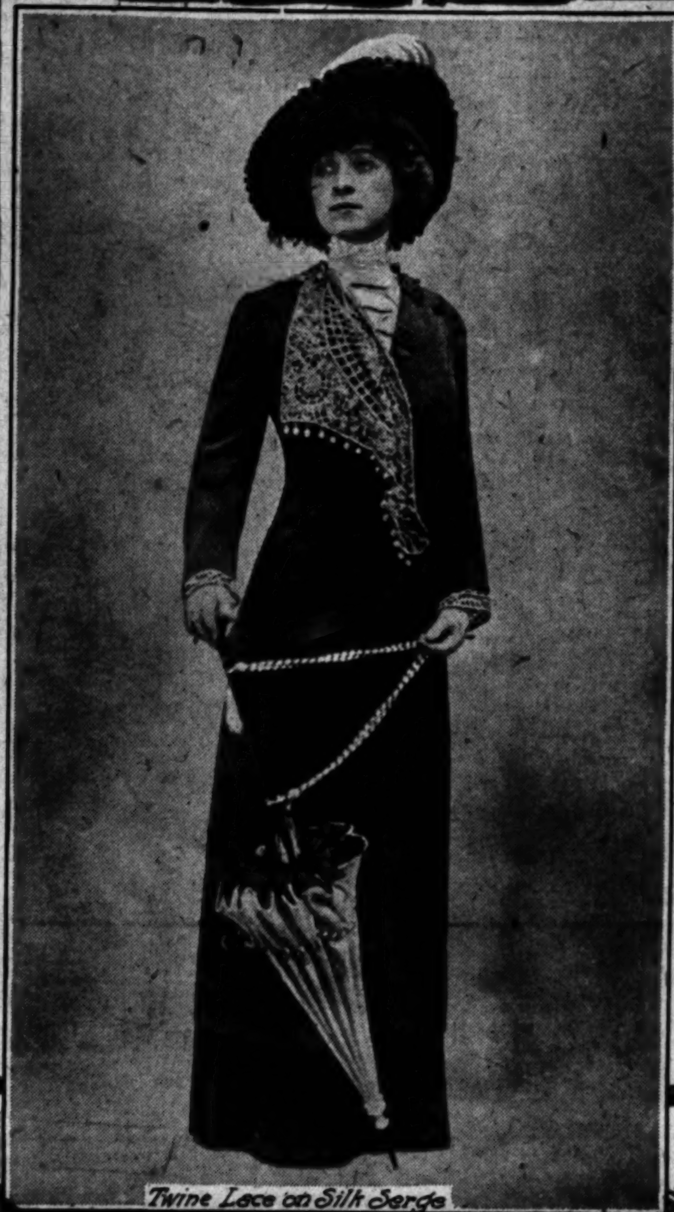
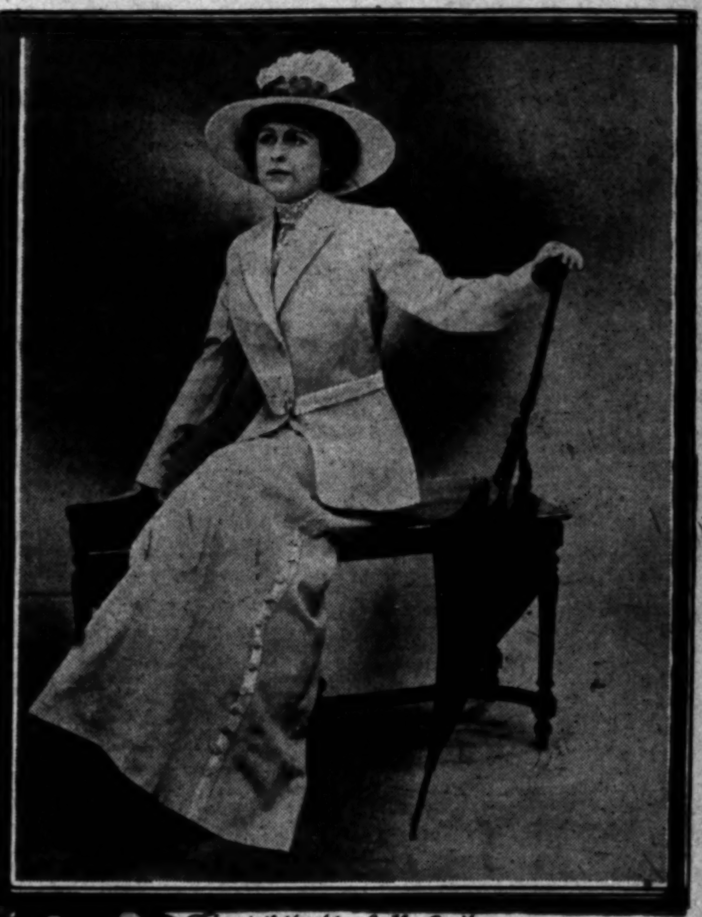
WALKING SUITS OF SERVICE-ABLE SERGE





Twine Lace on Silk Serge



The White Norfolk Suit

THE ukase of the Paris rulers in the world of fashion was given to womankind with a thought for modish and practical results. Serge, durable, inexpensive and attractive, is the favored fabric for spring walking suits. It is exploited by every designer abroad, and is favored by every sensible woman in America. There is a cry for the light-weight fabric that has been successfully answered in the models represented on the page.

What is more chic than the suit of checked cloth combined with black satin? Its coat is a single-breasted model, trimmed with a round collar of silk and black-and-white buttons. The sleeves show wide cuffs of black under curved lines of the cloth. The overskirt is of cloth trimmed with buttons and simulated buttonholes. There are no side seams, by the way, on the French jacket, the perfection in fit being obtained by darts that extend down from the shoulder seams.

White serge holds a prominent part in the play. It will be worn during spring and summer. It can be obtained in elaborate afternoon costumes, or in simple style as pictured in the seated model. The cut is a modified norfolk. The fastening in front is above the waist line, a narrow stitched belt emphasizing the line. Side seams on the skirt are trimmed with buttons and cord. New sleeves have fullness at the elbow and tightly fitted cuffs, cut in one with the rest.

There is a decided vogue of dark-blue serge. It is shown in combination with copenhagen blue on the deep rever and the attached silk undersleeves. The cutaway jacket fastens under one button. A girdle and sash of serge is worn with the suit. The sash ends drop at one side, with buttons and embroidery in bright blue for decoration.

Heavy twine lace is used for a single rever and for subcuffs on the suit of silk serge in a rich shade of golden brown.

There are buckles of material placed on the plain side. A slashed overskirt falls over a deep hem, with side pleats that are pressed flat, but give ease in walking. The sleeves are the regular coat model.

Braid, in fine soutache form, is used on white cloth to form the trimming of another dark-blue model. The long revers have narrow bands on them, and the cuffs and skirt show inset panels and strips. Otherwise this model is plain. There is a binding of braid on the coat that is new and gives a tailored effect.

The cutaway jacket is one of the features of the spring styles. In the last model it is shown with a scalloped edge bound in braid. The single-breasted fastening is buttoned under four small jet buttons. The long coat sleeves show a modified cuff line and the revers, just for a change, are quite shallow. The tunic also is scalloped and bound with braid.

Truly, the practical and the beautiful have been combined for women by the arbiters of style. The serge suit is demanding praise and adoption from every well-dressed woman. There is no question about its receiving a well-deserved favoritism.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

THE SMALL, SWEET COURTESIES OF LIFE.

THIS phrase has passed into general use with little thought of its origin on the part of those from whose lips it slips glibly.

William Wirt, an eminent Virginia lawyer and orator, the author of "The British Spy" and other works, including a "Life of Patrick Henry," was one of the most accomplished and courtly men of his day—the early part of the nineteenth century. In a letter to his daughter he admonishes her not to neglect or undervalue "the small, sweet courtesies of life." He is generally accredited with the authorship of the saying. Being a scholar he doubtless knew it to be a quotation and took it for granted that his daughter was familiar with it. Lawrence Sterne, who died four years before Wirt was born, wrote in his "Sentimental Journey."

"Hail! ye small, sweet courtesies of life! for smooth do ye make the road of it!"

I quoted some time ago the saying of a wise old gentlewoman:

"We can walk around bowlders. It is the pebbles in the path that make us stumble."

Always and everywhere the world over we are taught the same story: It is the Littles of our daily walk and conversation that count in the sum of life, just as surely as the alphabet makes up language and letters.

"Have you ever noticed how much oftener one hears 'Thank you!' on the other side of the Atlantic than in our own country?" remarked a returned tourist. "I confess that I miss it, now that I am at home again. I fell into the habit myself," he added with a half-ashamed laugh, "and I find myself almost an eccentric on this account. I wouldn't have believed there is such a difference in the matter of little courtesies—even between England and the United States, if I had not seen it for myself."

Experience in Courtesy.

If I had thought the stricture captious, an incident that occurred a day or two later, in my own experience, might have modified my judgment.

Escorted by a member of my own family I boarded a street car so close upon the "rush hour" that every seat was filled. A man sitting near the door arose and offered his place to me. In accepting it I said—as it seemed to me naturally: "Thank you! you are very kind!"

My escort had raised his hat in acknowledgment of the courtesy and also thanked the stranger. As I spoke he glanced at me as if surprised—why I could not guess. Leaning down from the strap to which he hung, a few moments later, he said in my ear:

"Do you know, I have not heard a woman thank a man for surrendering his seat to her for at least six months? It struck my ear as a sentence in a foreign tongue."

Since when I have made careful note of the number of times that I have seen a woman thank the man who gives up his seat in a public conveyance to her and stands while she sits at her ease. Again and again it is a gray-haired man who resigns his corner to a young girl. Once in perhaps twenty times she thanks him—usually flippantly, as she might speak to a boy of her own age. One girl declined to deprive a feeble old man of his seat, coloring prettily as she said: "Thank you ever so much! But I am not going far and I don't mind standing!"

I could have given her my place and kissed her besides, had not conventionality forbidden the expression of admiration and affection. I did murmur "Thank you," as she took her stand in the aisle at my side. She colored again and smiled. I have wondered since if she had the least idea why I thanked her. The exercise of "small, sweet courtesies" was evidently habitual.

* *

Sagacity of a Child.

Suffer one more illustration:

Many years ago I was spending the summer in a country village where the children had a range of embowered street and breezy common. My little ones were out of doors from morning until night and made new acquaintances daily. Noticing that my 6-year-old girl had a way of pairing off with one particular playfellow near her age, I questioned her as to the speech and behavior of her new comrade:

"I am quite sure her mother is a lady," was the shrewd reply. "For Elvey says, 'Thank you!' when I pick up something she has dropped, and 'I beg your pardon!' when she doesn't understand what I say, and 'Excuse me!' when she treads on my foot or runs against me when we are playing."

Further acquaintance proved the sagacity of the conclusion. Elvey was an unexceptionable associate. As was apparent to her quick witted playmate, she wore her "manners" so easily that home training and daily practice were advertised by them.

The smallest child among us has learned early in life the answer to the stock question: "What is the little word that makes everything easy?"

Were I to write the Home Catechism for children of all ages (and their parents!) I would put two words instead of one, and the second would be "Thank you!" We sin against Christianity and humanity when we make the paths of friend and neighbor pebbly. We instinctively step out of the walk upon the grass edging it when the foot strikes a pebble. If the Golden Rule is an active principle in our minds, we pick up the pebble and toss it away lest it may "offend" the foot of the next passenger. We may not know who it will be. Perhaps a friend; more likely a stranger—there is a remote possibility that an enemy may stray in that direction. In any case the wayfarer is your brother. Don't leave the pebble there!

Practice Must Begin Early.

In the family the practice of the "small, sweet courtesies" should be insisted upon as earnestly as the duty of washing the face and brushing the teeth. The mother who refuses a toy to the baby who can say "Please!" and will not; and who takes it away when he will not say "Thank you!" after he gets it, is laying the foundation of true breeding. The mother who turns back from the door of the breakfast room the urchin who bursts into the family circle without bidding any one "Good morning!" or sends the girl from the table who speaks crossly to brother or sister, sacrifices present comfort for the abiding good of the offender.

The biographer of a good man who went to his reward some years ago, wrote: "The charm of perfect manners was natural to him. It went with him like an 'aura.' Every one with whom he came into communication felt it."

It was my blessing to know intimately the family of that perfect mannered man. He never laid aside the "aura." He thanked the servant who blacked his boots, and lifted his hat to the laundress in meeting her on the street. His gentle courtesy failed not in his intercourse with the youngest child in his home.

"To know him is a liberal education in fine breeding," said a college boy who had spent weeks under the hospitable roof.

Yet this man never lectured upon behavior at home or abroad. He lived the small, sweet courtesies.

"I used to run to the door when I saw him coming down the street," said the village blacksmith after the translation of the thoroughbred to the changeless land, "just to have him say as he drove by—'Good morning, Mr. H.! I hope you are all well at home!' And if it so happened that he had heard of anybody in the family that was ailing, he would rein up his horse and ask after that one. He never forgot who it was and what ailed him or her."

* *

Home the Place to Start.

Breeding, like much-slandered charity, must begin at home and maintain there a perpetual scholarship. Mme. Recamier, the most beautiful and most gracious woman of her age and country, was asked "how she became so elegant in carriage and manner." Her answer is historical:

"By conducting myself in solitude as I would in public."

There should be no déshabillé manners in the home, so far as gentle consideration for the happiness and comfort of others is concerned. A man who fails to rise from his lounging chair when his wife enters must not complain when his sons, grown to young manhood, forget "company manners" so far as to sit still while fashionable visitors stand. Example is more potent and lasting than precept.

Prof. Brander Matthews of Columbia university told his English literature classes that he could go through them—numbering as they did, hundreds of young men—and pick out without fear of mistake students who had come to him from what he called "reading families."

"Rely upon it, young gentlemen, there is nothing in the curriculum of any institution of learning that makes up to the student for the lack of an intellectual atmosphere in early life."

It is doubly true that no refining agencies, brought to bear upon the underbred man or woman, can compensate for the want of home training in the amenities of daily living.

One "Made," the Other "Grew."

When a girl I was sorely puzzled to put into words my appreciation of the difference between two men, high in public esteem, of equal eminence in their profession, which was the same, and in social rank.

"Both are gentlemen, I suppose," I mused slowly. "But there is an unlikeness I feel, but I can't analyze it."

To which a man of years and experience in the world's ways responded:

"M. was made. H. grew!"

The fostering influences of the home nursery on the graces told in each stage of his "growth." There is as much difference between the gentleman who "grows" and him who is "made" as between hand-made garments and the product of the slop shop.

We have scores of books upon "social usages" and "etiquette." The etiquette of the home is far more important than that regulating society or court. And from this center radiates the power that establishes the status of the community. The child who is instructed in the practice of the small, sweet courtesies, by the time he can run alone, and is kept up to his duty in the observance of them until he is his own legal master, will never be supercilious. The gentlewoman who knows her proper, and assured position in society respects it and herself too purely to lower either by incivility. It is the tempered steel that bends without fear of breaking.

The woman of birth and breeding who thanks the policeman for helping her over the crossing, or the conductor who holds out a strong hand to assist her in getting on the car, recognizes an obligation to him which she is not ashamed to confess. Innate gentlehood will not allow her to fail in the duty she owes it to herself, if not to him. The paid official feels the better for the tribute. If he be the right sort of man he is more careful of the comfort of other passengers because this one has testified that she appreciates his responsibility and respects his office.

Gentleman Always Considerate.

It is the boor—and the low thoughted boor at that—who struts in the middle of the road, yielding the right of way to none, and kicking pebbles under the feet of other pilgrims, instead of knocking them out of the track.

All unconsciously "Elvey's" playfellow gave the countersigns of the real élite of earth. The mother who had trained her child in the duties of consideration for the welfare of her associates and courteous deference to their rights may have been a day laborer's wife. At heart she was a lady.

"I doff my hat to no man!" boasted a purse-proud vulgarian.

"No," said a bystander quietly. "The president always does, you know. But of course the two cases are utterly dissimilar."

"I think he is a gentleman," was the verdict of a plainly dressed woman in leaving the crowded elevator of a big business building. "He stepped back to let me pass out of the elevator before him and raised his hat."

Whereupon her companion in unintentional sarcasm, "guessed he must be a foreigner. Our men are too busy to pay much attention to minor matters of etiquette."

She voiced the plea of the business man, when confronted with the facts of his notorious laxity in the outward signs of the inward grace of good will to men. It is as unworthy of him as it is untrue. [illegible] too busy to be polite when it is to [illegible]terest to curry favor with [illegible] nature of fine quality [illegible] broad and just views, [illegible] values of that which "[illegible] road of life."

"I WAS glad to see your defence of the humble tripe. In addition to what you say of its merits I may add that the French, who eat quintities of tripe, claim that it is a specific for rheumatism.

"I inclose the two recipes called for in the article to which I refer. They are genuine French repices:

"TRIPE A LA CREOLE—Two pounds of pickled tripe, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one onion—or if preferred, a bit of garlic, one green pepper, and one-half a tart apple, half a cupful of tomatoes, two mushrooms (these may be omitted if you like), one cupful of boiling water, one tablespoonful of flour, flavoring to taste.

"Put the butter into a saucepan, add the onion chopped fine, the pepper, seeded and chopped fine; the mushrooms, peeled and sliced; the tomatoes, strained; the flour and the salt.

"Simmer for two minutes. Cut the tripe into inch and a half pieces. Put into a cloth and press to remove the moisture; add the cup of water, and cook all together gently for half an hour.

"Serve hot with a border of boiled rice.

"TRIPE A LA MODE CAEN.—(This dish is not confined to Caen. It may be found all over France in the market, where for a few sous, a jar may be bought, ready to heat and serve.)

"Assuming that the tripe has been properly cleaned and washed (not pickled), cut two pounds into ribbons an inch wide and three inches long. Cut a quarter of a pound of bacon into dice; bone a calf's foot, cut into six pieces and cook with the bacon until half done, stirring to prevent burning.

"Next put into a saucepan with the tripe ten tiny onions, two carrots cut into dice, three cloves, a blade of mace, half a dozen sprigs of parsley, and a gill of brandy. Salt and pepper to taste. Over all pour one quart of veal stock.

"Simmer for half an hour, then turn into an earthen jar with a cover (or a brass jar will do). Bake until thoroughly done. Remove the parsley, skim off the fat, and serve in the jar—known in France as a 'marmite'—hot!

"This dish may be cooked over a gas plate with the flame turned low, if it is not convenient to use the oven.

"MRS. J. W."

The dishes you set before our imaginations have the true French flavor, and the mention of the brass "marmite" adds to the effect. The tripe à la creole appeals to the American taste more strongly than the Caen delicacy. The brandy seems incongruous to our way of thinking. In the hands of a French "cordon bleu" it probably deserves the distinction it has gained. We thank you for the gracious and satisfactory manner with which you responded to our request.

In our quest for economical and savory dishes tripe should come well forward and be cordially recognized by the lovers of the varied in home fare.

Best of Plum Pudding.

"You add to the recipe given for plum pudding made with gelatin a query that smacks of doubt in its excellence. It is with pleasure that I write of my trial of the formula and that it proved delicious. It has the flavor of steamed plum pudding and is more easily prepared.

"I thought you might like to know of the successful test. C. B. S."

You are right in thinking that I would be pleased to hear that the (to me) novel combination turned out well. It is kind in you to relieve the slight uncertainly that hung in my mind.

To Prepare Alligator Pears.

"Will you kindly let us have a recipe for preparing alligator pears for the table?

"MRS. H. K. M."

The pears are made into a salad, fashionable in cities in which the "so-called" pear may be procured. Pare the fruit with a sharp knife; cut into cubes and arrange in a glass salad dish with a good French dressing poured over it. Some prefer mayonnaise. If this be used, make it with lemon juice instead of vinegar, and serve the salad upon individual plates, passing the mayonnaise with it.

Present High Prices Avoided.

"Next week my bill of fare will vary, particularly as to meats.

"I laid in apples and potatoes in the fall for the winter. So I do not have the present high prices to pay. One pound of butter serves me two weeks, and I use but six eggs in the same time. I can fruit when it is in full season and put up catsups, jellies, jams, etc., in summer. I use more butter and eggs when they are cheap than I do just now when they are so dear. An eight pound sack of flour will last for two weeks for baking twice a week. The fat for frying and shortening for bread dough is dripping—clarified—from the pork roast.

"For everything that was eaten and drunk last week our bill was exactly $3.50, and we had all we wanted to eat and drink. At no time does my weekly bill exceed that amount. MRS. F. D."

No. 2 is from Chicago—a good thousand miles away from our notable housewife who challenges our wondering admiration by adding the plain sewing of the family to the general housework. Few can boast truthfully of that!

"After 'Nora' has tried 'Practical Housemother's' menu of hamburger steak and corned beef ask her to try the following. It is based upon prices in Chicago and vicinity and in the most expensive month of the year, January, 1912.

"I bake my own bread, cake, and pie, and can my own vegetables and fruits except such as I buy fresh from day to day. I buy a fifty pound bag of flour for $1.49 on sale. I get twenty pounds of sugar for 95 cents. We think we live pretty well and do not pinch in economizing.

Prices in Various Localities Differ.

Our correspondent appends a list of foods and prices which I have examined carefully. I have not room for them here, were it expedient to print them. I believe her to be conscientious and exact in estimating the cost of living in her particular household. I confess myself unable to do the like in mine. For example, she paid 15 cents for four rib chops of lamb. I find myself charged upon last week's bill with six of the same—and over against the item 62 cents. For four and one-quarter pounds of roast beef she paid 60 cents. I have not paid less than 24 cents per pound for roasting pieces in a year. For months together the average for choice cuts is about 26 cents per pound.

I mention these discrepancies because women have written to me from various parts of the country protesting against my seeming indorsement of the "tales told by housekeepers who either prevaricate or write, without having counted the cost of living, or for the sake of seeing themselves in print, giving impossible bills of fare at impossible prices, it would seem, for the express purpose of making other women's husbands 'go for them' because they can't feed their families upon next to nothing at $4 a week."

Perhaps this wee scrap of my own experience may be a drop of comfort.

Do your best, dear fellow homemaker and let who will do better.

Next week we return to our former line of menus for family meals. I say nothing of what they cost. Our territory is vast and prices dip or soar with change of latitude. A woman writes to me from Virginia that turkeys may be had for 18 cents a pound. I am thankful that, as my butcher told me yesterday "they are unusually low for the season. In fact, they hold at Christmas prices—30 cents a pound. By rights, they should have touched 35 or 36 by now!"

Recipe for Hassenpfeffer.

"I send herewith my recipe for German hassenpfeffer, as requested by 'Inexperienced.' in a late issue of the Helping Hand:

"HASSENPFEFFER.—Cut an onion fine and cook it to a yellow brown in hot lard. Stir a tablespoonful of flour into cold water and add enough boiling water to make plenty of gravy. Stir into the saucepan salt to taste, a pinch of cloves, a fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, a few bay leaves, butter the size of a walnut, and two or three tablespoonfuls of vinegar.

"Cut up a rabbit as for fricassee and stew in this gravy until it is tender, but not broken to pieces. When the dish is ready to be taken up add a tablespoonful of sugar and a glass of wine. It is then fit to be served. IDA M. H."

Another queer dish in the sight of the native cook. All the same, I can comprehend that it may be relishful, and an agreeable change from the monotony of winter and early spring fare.

The wild rabbit—the "old hare" of the south, whatever his age—is comparatively little known to the average cook of the middle and eastern states. Yet it has capabilities that when discovered give it an honored place upon the family board. Made into a brown fricassee it bears a marked resemblance in taste to the aristocratic guinea fowl. So marked, that a finical young woman who "wouldn't touch rabbit for the world," ate it at a friend's table under the impression that it was a salmi of guinea fowl, and enjoyed it heartily. A pair of young rabbits "barbecued"—that is, smothered in a covered roaster and basted liberally while cooking with butter and water, then served with a sauce piquante of vinegar, butter, a dash of French mustard and of cayenne poured over them—is esteemed a savory breakfast dish "down in old Virginia."

A wise household economist writes to me of her surprise that none of the women who have sent in menus for family living upon $4 per week have introduced rabbits into their compositions.

"There are four of us in the family," she reports. "My husband, my son—a schoolboy of 15—a maid of all work, and myself. A pair of rabbits for which I paid 75 cents, made three dinners for us. For the first day we had a brown stew with the addition of 5 cents' worth of fat salt pork. Then, as it was cold weather, I skipped a day, and brought forth on the third a savory rabbit pie. No bottom crust, but a thick biscuit dough to cover the surface. I put a dozen balls of dough, the size of big marbles, into the pie. They made it go further. Then I let another day go by before dishing up the left overs of gravy, bits of meat and crust, garnished with French fried potatoes, for dinner. Altogether the meat for the three dinners—pastry included—did not cost a dollar. And each representation of the brace of bunnies was pronounced 'good' by us all.

"Of course, to avoid sameness, one must exercise ingenuity, but I find it great fun—this sort of 'masquerading'—as my John calls it."

That woman is a culinary artist, who must have French blood in her veins. May her tribe increase!

Corner of Much Help.

"I am a young housekeeper (married but six months), but I have found our corner to be of much practical help. This is especially true of the recipe for beef chop suey and that for apple sauce cake (no eggs).

"With the addition of half a cupful of currants and half as much each of citron and chopped nuts, it may be made into an excellent fruit cake and keeps even better than an ordinary fruit cake.

"I keep a strict account of all expenses and find that we can run the kitchen well, including tea and coffee, milk, eggs, and butter, on $5 per week. There are but two of us to feed.

"Spaghetti, dried beef—with gravy—soups, dried beans, corn and peas (canned), and beef loaf are some of our inexpensive dishes. MRS. T. B. S."

I welcome you to the Helping Hand. The infusion of young blood is an impetus to our co-workers. And this you bring.

Peanut Brittle.

"I saw a request for peanut brittle in the corner and hasten to offer one for which I can vouch.

"PEANUT BRITTLE.—To two cups of roasted, shelled, and skinned peanuts allow three cups of sugar, a piece of butter the size of a hen's egg, and a scant teaspoonful of salt.

"Cook sugar, butter, and salt together until the sugar is fairly melted, then stir in the peanuts and spread upon a buttered platter.

"CHOCOLATE CREAMS.—Stir into a tablespoonful of cream enough powdered sugar to thicken it. Flavor with vanilla, roll into balls, and lay upon buttered paper to harden.

"Melt half a square of bitter chocolate, dip the balls into it, and thrust a nut into the center of each. Set in the air to harden.

May I set the example of [illegible] the modus operandi of the [illegible] recipe asking if there may not be [illegible] that for peanut fudge? Would a big [illegible] spoonful of butter melt [illegible] sugar sufficiently to make it [illegible] when cooked? "Will you accept from my store of [illegible] tical recipes rules for making two cakes, one of which may be called a 'brunette,' the other a 'blonde.'

For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

A NARCISSUS CENTERPIECE

"I DON'T blame Narcissus for falling in love with himself if he was that good-looking," a clever woman, who loves her mythology as well as her embroidery, said when she saw this design. A portion of the whole centerpiece is shown. When [illegible], disregard the extra part that I have "thrown in" for good measure and as the quarter repeats, one whole one being shown in the design sketched above.

Use either white or tan linen, and work in white silk or cotton, with perhaps yellow for the centers if you would add a bright touch of color.

Again let me call your attention to the little amount of work required to complete this design.

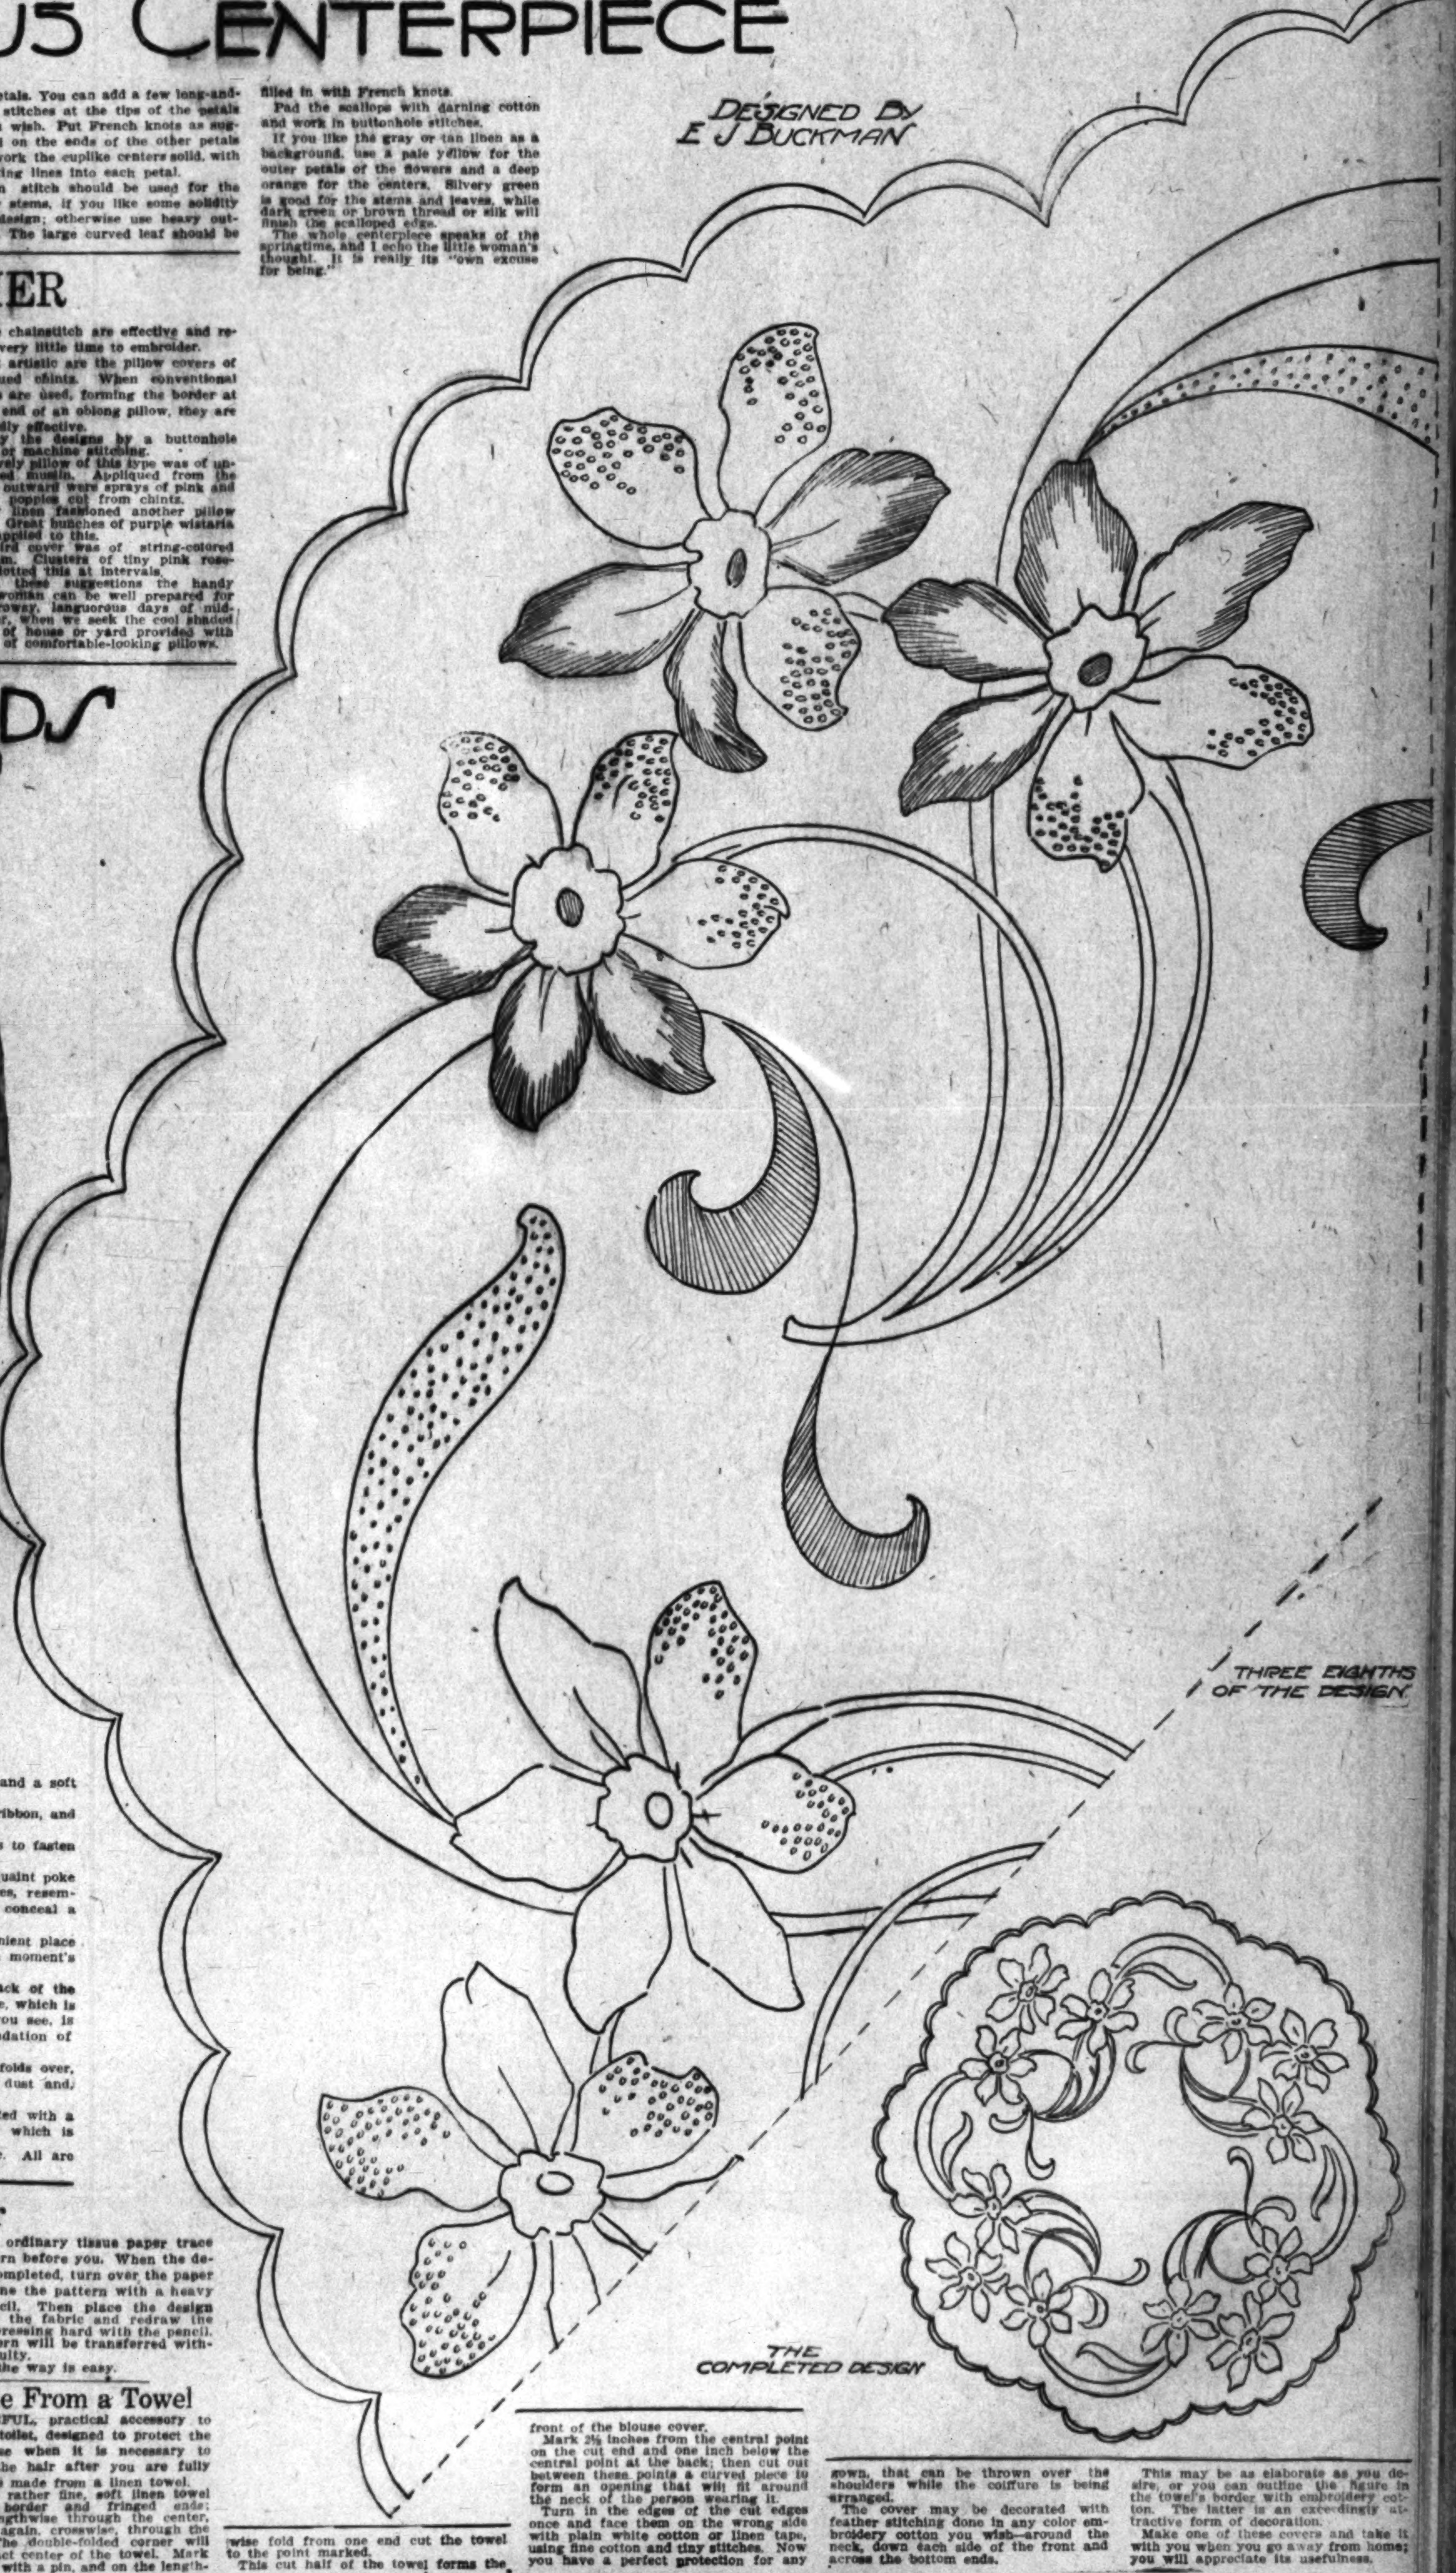
Heavy outlining will do for some of the petals. You can add a few long-and-short stitches at the tips of the petals if you wish. Put French knots as suggested on the ends of the other petals and work the cuplike centers solid, with radiating lines into each petal.

Stem stitch should be used for the flower stems, if you like some solidity in a design; otherwise use heavy outlining. The large curved leaf should be filled in with French knots.

Pad the scallops with darning cotton and work in buttonhole stitches.

If you like the gray or tan linen as a background, use a pale yellow for the outer petals of the flowers and a deep orange for the centers. Silvery green is good for the stems and leaves, while dark green or brown thread or silk will finish the scalloped edge.

The whole centerpiece speaks of the springtime, and I echo the little woman's thought. It is really its "own excuse for being."



DESIGNED BY E J BUCKMAN

THREE EIGHTHS OF THE DESIGN

THE COMPLETED DESIGN

PILLOWS FOR SUMMER

THE woman who is on the alert for bargains during the spring sales will find many remnants of cretonne and washable materials suitable for making covers for the summer pillows.

It is far better to remove the covers of silk and tapestry and replace with washable covers. When fall comes the more elaborate covers are fresh and ready for winter use.

For the bedrooms, sheer linen or lawn covers are practical. Everything should be dainty, clean and cool-looking in the summer.

The pillow may first be covered with [illegible] to match the decorations of the room.

A ruffle edged with narrow lace makes a dainty finish to these pillows.

If you desire them to be more elaborate, embroider the corners or set in medallions of lace.

For the summer house or hammock, where hard wear is demanded, crash or linen covers are best. These are made perfectly plain, allowing enough material to form a border around the pillow.

When fragrant pillows are desired by women living in the country, sweet grass, rose leaves, blossoms, clover blossoms and new-mown hay may be utilized.

After the sweet rest-giving odor leaves these pillows, it is an easy matter to refill them, if the case is made with a buttoned opening.

Twenty and twenty-two inches square are good sizes for summer use. The oblong pillow, so popular at present, may be thirteen inches wide by twenty-five inches long.

The lingerie covers should not have too much work upon them. The design should be simple and done with heavy mercerized cotton.

Cross-stitch, darning, outline and double chainstitch are effective and require very little time to embroider.

Most artistic are the pillow covers of appliqued chintz. When conventional sprays are used, forming the border at either end of an oblong pillow, they are decidedly effective.

Apply the designs by a buttonhole stitch or machine stitching.

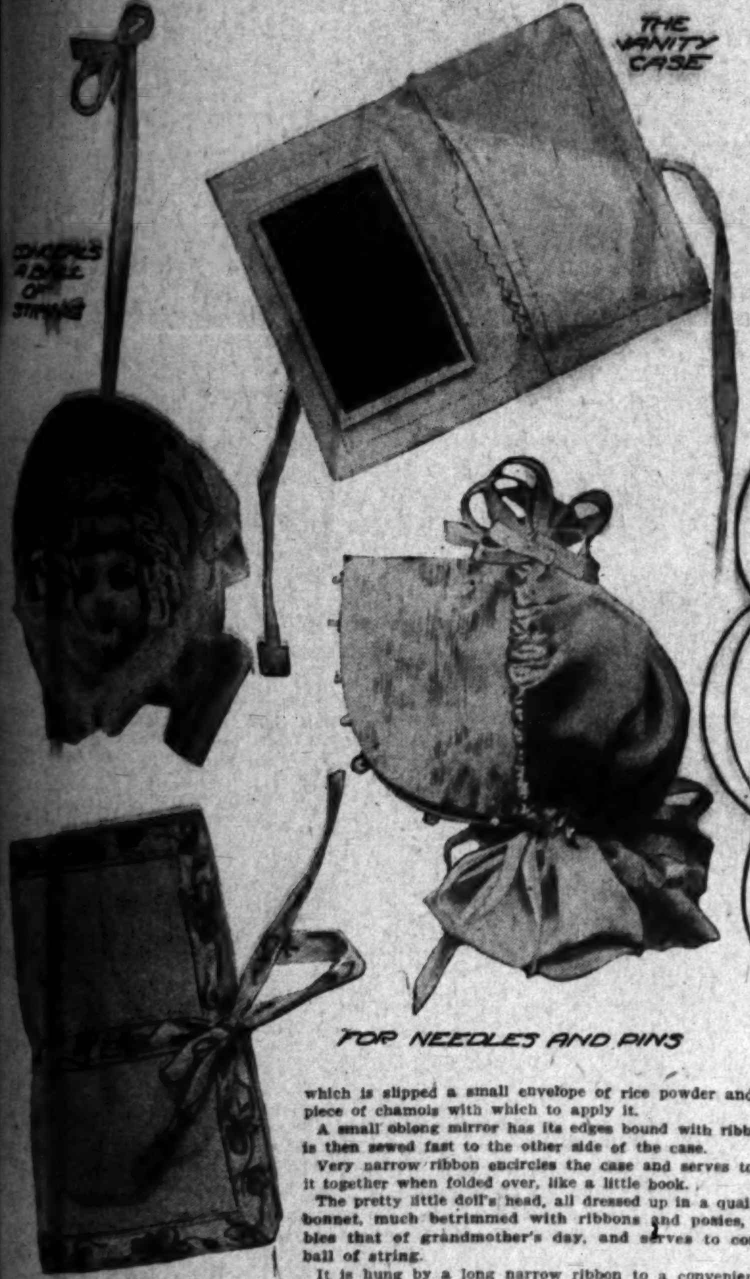
A lovely pillow of this type was of unbleached muslin. Appliqued from the center outward were sprays of pink and yellow poppies cut from chintz.

Gray linen fashioned another pillow cover. Great bunches of purple wistaria were applied to this.

A third cover was of string-colored gingham. Clusters of tiny pink rosebuds dotted this at intervals.

With these suggestions the handy needlewoman can be well prepared for the drowsy, languorous days of midsummer, when we seek the cool shaded nooks of house or yard provided with plenty of comfortable-looking pillows.

MADE FROM ODDS AND ENDS



THE VANITY CASE

CONCEALS A BALL OF STRING

FOR NEEDLES AND PINS

HANDKERCHIEF CASE

FOR the woman who is looking for unusual but dainty gifts, we give suggestions for pretty ribbon novelties that can easily be made at home.

A combined pincushion and needlebook looks for all the world like a miniature sunbonnet. The brim is made of a double piece of flexible cardboard covered with flowered ribbon in blue and white shades.

Both pieces are then whipped together or buttonholed with blue floss silk. Crown and ruffle are of pale blue satin shirred on and caught up with bows of narrow blue ribbon.

All around the edge of the crown glass-headed pins are placed conveniently for use.

When the little ribbon bow which holds the bonnet together is untied, there are revealed two small pieces of flannel tacked inside the brim; and in these are all sizes of needles, with a bodkin needle and several long embroidery needles also. It is truly a dainty gift for the busy needlewomah.

A useful little vanity case is made of ribbon. Just the proper size to slip in the purse or handbag.

For this, wide satin ribbon is selected and two pieces of it, with a flat bit of cotton wadding laid between, are stitched together on the edge.

On one side, extending almost halfway down, another piece of ribbon is stitched to form a small pocket, into which is slipped a small envelope of rice powder and a soft piece of chamois with which to apply it.

A small oblong mirror has its edges bound with ribbon, and is then sewed fast to the other side of the case.

Very narrow ribbon encircles the case and serves to fasten it together when folded over, like a little book.

The pretty little doll's head, all dressed up in a quaint poke bonnet, much betrimmed with ribbons and posies, resembles that of grandmother's day, and serves to conceal a ball of string.

It is hung by a long narrow ribbon to a convenient place on milady's dresser, or near her desk, where at a moment's notice she can find cord to tie up packages.

The ball of string is, of course, held in the back of the bonnet, and one end hangs out through a tiny hole, which is buttonholed around with silk. The bonnet, as you see, is made of a piece of brocaded satin, over a foundation of cardboard.

For the traveler is a case made of ribbon that folds over, holding six handkerchiefs, protecting them from dust and, best of all, keeping them together.

The case is simply a square of wide ribbon fitted with a pocketlike lining, interlined with cotton wadding, which is sprinkled with sachet.

Not one of these pretty things is hard to make. All are useful and dainty.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Surely the way is easy.

Made From a Towel

A USEFUL, practical accessory to the toilet, designed to protect the blouse when it is necessary to arrange the hair after you are fully dressed, is made from a linen towel.

Select a rather fine, soft linen towel with a border and fringed ends; fold it lengthwise through the center, then fold again, crosswise, through the center. The double-folded corner will be the exact center of the towel. Mark that point with a pin, and on the lengthwise fold from one end cut the towel to the point marked.

This cut half of the towel forms the front of the blouse cover.

Mark 2½ inches from the central point on the cut end and one inch below the central point at the back; then cut out between these points a curved piece to form an opening that will fit around the neck of the person wearing it.

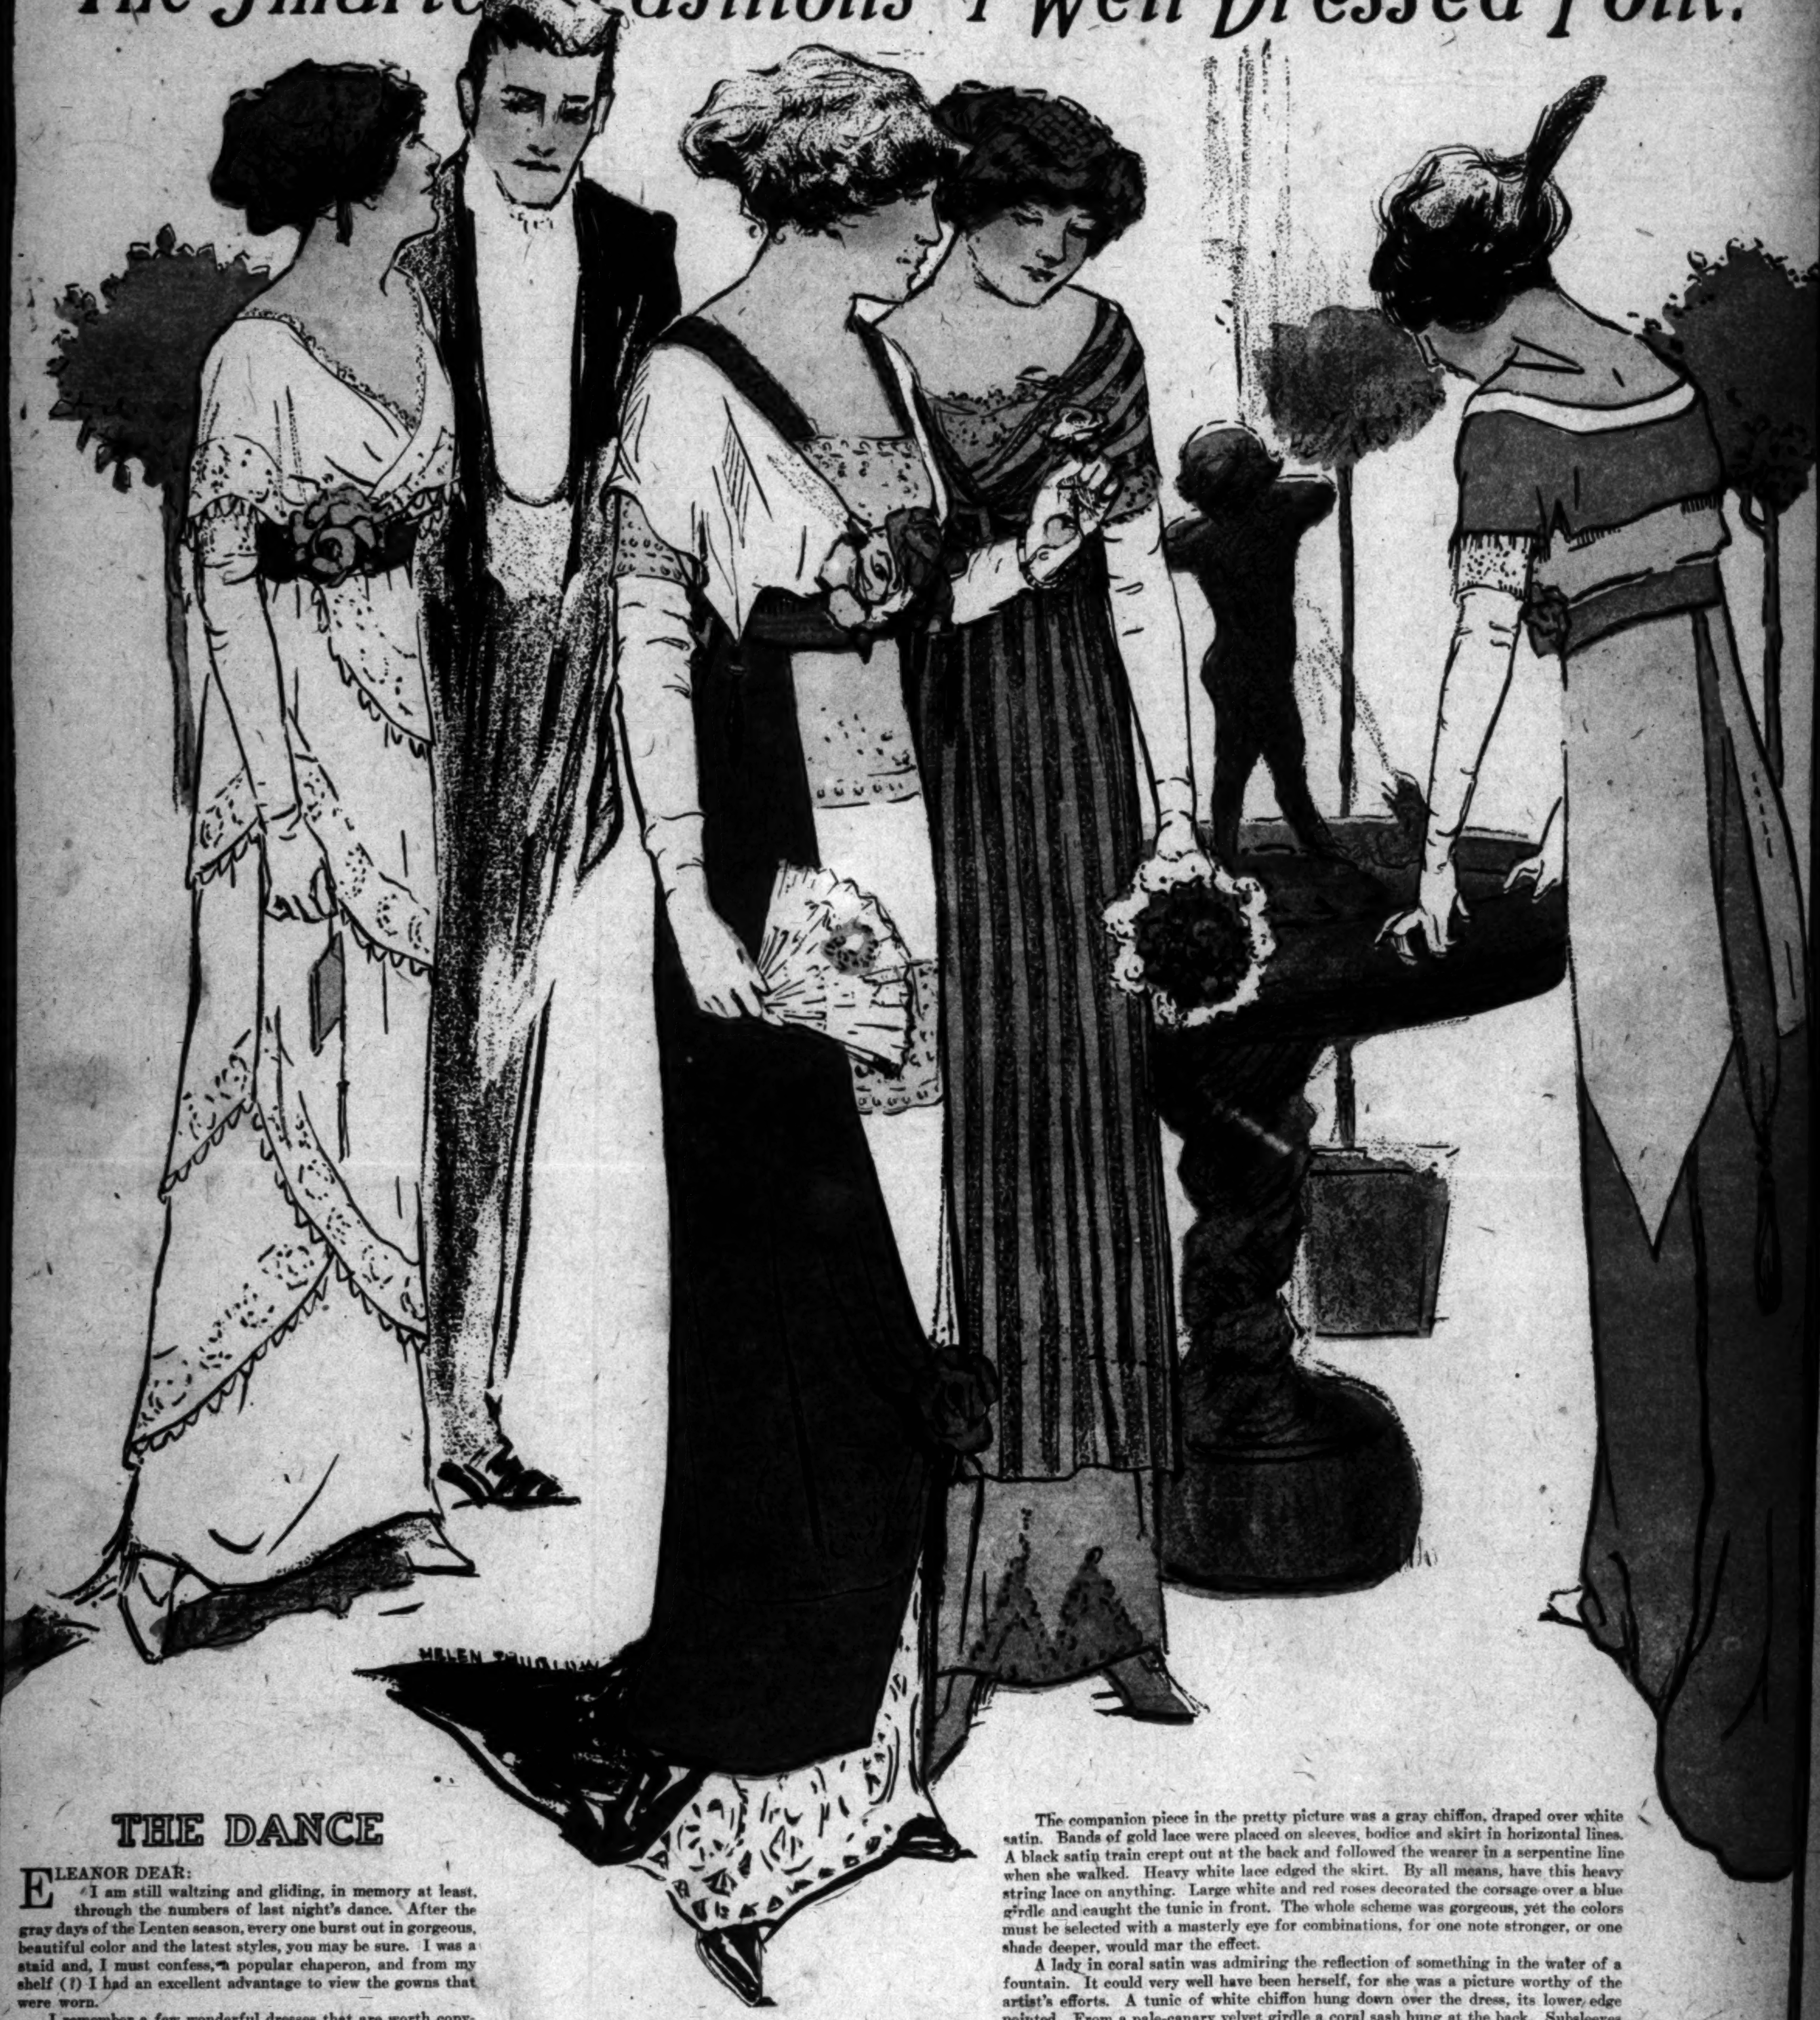
Turn in the edges of the cut edges once and face them on the wrong side with plain white cotton or linen tape, using fine cotton and tiny stitches. Now you have a perfect protection for any gown, that can be thrown over the shoulders while the coiffure is being arranged.

The cover may be decorated with feather stitching done in any color embroidery cotton you wish—around the neck, down each side of the front and across the bottom ends.

This may be as elaborate as you desire, or you can outline the figure in the towel's border with embroidery cotton. The latter is an exceedingly attractive form of decoration.

Make one of these covers and take it with you when you go away from home; you will appreciate its usefulness.

The Smartest Fashions of Well-Dressed Folk.



THE DANCE

ELEANOR DEAR:

I am still waltzing and gliding, in memory at least, through the numbers of last night's dance. After the gray days of the Lenten season, every one burst out in gorgeous, beautiful color and the latest styles, you may be sure. I was a staid and, I must confess, a popular chaperon, and from my shelf (?) I had an excellent advantage to view the gowns that were worn.

I remember a few wonderful dresses that are worth copying. One young girl gloried in a white lace dress that will be just as lovely on a summer's afternoon (with a lace guimpe) as it was at the dance. It had the new flounced skirt model of deep lace in spiral lines. Beads in scallops edged each flounce and the simple fichu.

A light delft-blue velvet girdle encircled the waist, with a cluster of pink silk roses in front. It was a picture of Dresden daintiness.

Stripes are still in, my dear. One gray-and-white chiffon gown was lovely over green messaline. The crossed fichu of the bodice was caught under a flat, dull gold buckle at the girdle. Two pointed tabs of gold lace were placed on the hem of satin. A gold lace chemisette peeped through the top of the bodice.

The companion piece in the pretty picture was a gray chiffon, draped over white satin. Bands of gold lace were placed on sleeves, bodice and skirt in horizontal lines. A black satin train crept out at the back and followed the wearer in a serpentine line when she walked. Heavy white lace edged the skirt. By all means, have this heavy string lace on anything. Large white and red roses decorated the corsage over a blue girdle and caught the tunic in front. The whole scheme was gorgeous, yet the colors must be selected with a masterly eye for combinations, for one note stronger, or one shade deeper, would mar the effect.

A lady in coral satin was admiring the reflection of something in the water of a fountain. It could very well have been herself, for she was a picture worthy of the artist's efforts. A tunic of white chiffon hung down over the dress, its lower edge pointed. From a pale-canary velvet girdle a coral sash hung at the back. Subsleeves of lace fell under the coral tops. Fringe edged them and the bodice.

Verily, those pretty maids should have danced for joy in the possession of such lovely frocks.
